Harrington Council agrees to sell lot back to church and gears up for court action

by Bonnie Algier-Mitchell

HARRINGTON. The Harrington Council unanimously voted to sell the lot on Liberty Street back to St. Bernadette's Church at Monday night's regular monthly meeting.

The lot had been purchased last year by the City for the new proposed city hall. After purchasing the lot in late fall came time to obtain a mortgage for the new city hall. It was decided that a referendum was necessary to decide the fate of the matter. The vote on the referendum was against the new city hall on Liberty Street.

At the time of that announcement requiring a referendum, Mayor Farrow had urged both the city solicitor, Gary Dodge, and the council to "...back everything back through square one", which meant going back through the purchase of the lot. "It seemed to me that the building and the site are inseparable and the defeat of one is really the defeat of the whole thing", the Mayor said at the time.

Mayor Farrow recently appointed a building committee composed of Councilmen Jarrell and Temple to find suitable sites for a city hall so that the bicentennial monies could still be used for that purpose. The city has until September to complete a transaction for a city hall. "It is my feeling that suitable sites should be put on a referendum and last year, the City hit a snag when it let the people decide where they want a violations and asked that they cease city hall. After all they are the ones who will be paying for it", the Mayor said at the time of forming a new building committee.

The lot on Liberty St. was purchased for $14,000 with the City paying all of the costs of closing. The church on Monday night agreed to buy it back for $14,000 and pay all the costs of closing.

The council agreed to bring an action storing salt treated lumber on their site before final approval was given them by either the Planning & Zoning Commission or the council.

In a written opinion, rendered on December 29, 1987, the Planning & contingent on finalizing the issue of ingress and egress on their property. The report indicated that until that matter was complete final site approval would not be granted.

A registered letter was sent the middle of March informing Port of the bringing more salt treated lumber to the site. It was reported to the council on Monday night that storing lumber on the site has not ceased. The fine that can be imposed for the violations is $25 per day from the date of notice. The council asked city solicitor, John Williams to institute an action in the local magistrate's court.

According to Mr. Williams, the against Port Lumber Company for company has a permit to construct an that is conditional on satisfying the requirement of ingress and egress.

In the other matter facing the city regarding W.M. Barr & Co., it was > Mr. Williams has been in contact with the Development office and suggested that the council indicate to the Development office whether an open mind would be maintained about the company. The council indicated that a written report was needed before any opinions could be made, "...and a written report was not futile. We need to know what we are talking about here", said Councilman William Porter.

> The council voted to hire Harrington native and retired Delaware State permanent Chief of Police for Harrington. His starting salary will be April 18, 1988. The council agreed to decided that an independent consultant allow Mr. Melvin to travel between his application of a zoning request to be 'The reason for this is that he will be on call 24 hours a day, seven days a week. He is subject to call at all times", said Councilman William Porter who is a member of the Personnel Commission which hired Mr. Melvin. The vote on Mr. Melvin's hiring was three in favor (Porter, Temple and Willey) and one against (Councilman Wyatt).

The council, on Mr. Temple's motion, agreed to authorize the Kent County Board of Elections to begin a voters registration for the City.

The council also approved three amendments to the City of Harrington Zoning Ordinances. They were increasing the fee for petition for zoning change to be raised from $25.00 to $100.00, and the fee is nonoffice building, but anything beyond. Trooper, Frank Melvin, as the refundable; another relating to "final approval of site development plans" with the purpose in mind here of $19,240, and he will begin his duties on having the council having the final word; and limiting the time for re-not before the expiration of one year from the date of withdrawal or denial. All amendments were unanimously approved by the Council and referred to the Planning & Zoning Commission to put them on notice of the changes.

A beautification program has been proposed for parts of the City. A meeting held last month called by Mr. William Thompson of Gallis-Thompson introduced the will and desire by Mr. Thompson to get this program off the ground. The initial plan is to plant flower beds in the median between the lanes of US 13. The council has agreed to go along with this plan as an initial project, but Mayor Farrow is calling for beautification for other parts of the city, especially in the downtown district. Those who wish to serve on this committee should contact Mr. William Smith, the city manager, at City Hall (398-3530).

The council approved the payment of bills which came to $45,000 for the

School referendum poses complicated issues

by Harry G. Farrow, Jr. HARRINGTON, "It is a complicated set of facts which the referendum poses", Dr. James VanSciver said this week regarding the upcoming school building improvement proposal and salary equalization plan.

'We plan to lose $250,000 which is already in the budget. It is money that is here right now", he added.

The referendum, if it fails, would cost the district an additional $1 million in federal grants. "There is certain language in the grant process that indicates that you have to be spending a certain amount of money in order to get or retain the grant money", said Dr. VanSciver.

The estimated $1 million in grant money which the district now enjoys related to money covering Chapter I impacting on drug and alcohol, it school and every program in the school should be kept very simple.

district. "The potential defeat of the referendum would therefore mean a loss of the $250,000 and the $1 million", Dr. VanSciver said:

"On the other hand if the referendum passes we will retain the $250,000 and the $1 million and we will get an additional $350,000 in salary equalization money. We will also pick up an additional $327,000 in local supplements which would give us $1,925,000 from all of the sources", he

"So you can see the importance of the passage of the referendum...from the standpoint of dollars to the school district.

The agenda or format for the referendum has not been set as yet. #### DPI opposes two federal government actions

The Delmarva Poultry Industry, Inc. (DPI), the non-profit trade association representing Delmarva's poultry industry, is opposing a federal Transportation Department proposed re-classification of anhydrous ammonia from a non-flammable gas to poisonous gas and has called for a change in the federal tax collection procedures so farmers do not have to pay a tax on diesel fuel purchases.

In a letter to Delmarva's federal legislators, DPI said the reclassification of anhydrous ammonia would have an adverse impact on its members and on all companies and persons involved with the transportation, handling and use of ammonia refrigerants. DPI pointed out that anhydrous ammonia is a major commodity chemical used widely by farmers as a fertilizer. Because of the local poultry industry's dependence upon corn and soybean farmers, DPI wants to help protect their interests. It is also a product used in refrigeration in poultry processing plants. DPI believes there is no data to demonstrate that anhydrous ammonia should be re-classified. Because of its pungent odor, there is a warning to persons exposed to ammonia and no conscious person will willingly remain in air contaminated with it. It is one of the most soluble of all gases and can easily be dissipated. Should anhydrous ammonia be re-classified to a poisonous gas, poultry processing plants would probably have to use less effective and more expensive freon as a refrigerant gas. This would raise the cost of production and cause higher chicken prices for consumers. DPI said labeling ammonia as a poison gas might confuse and unnecessarily alarm workers as to the actual hazard of the product. Finally, DPI said the proposed reclassification could lead to a misinterpretation of the health hazards presented by this material. A decision

Still announces for State Senate race in the 17th Senatorial District

by Harry G. Farrow, Jr. DOVER. On Tuesday, John Still of Dover announced his candidacy for the State Senate from the 17th Senatorial District. Mr. Still is a Republican. State

Senator Jacob Zimmerman (D-17th District) is the present office holder. Mr. Still who is 35 has lived in Kent County for the past 30 years. Prior to entering the insurance business he taught math and science in the Newark School District. He presently operates Still Insurance Agency in Dover. The 17th District shows a registered voters list of slightly over 11,000 with Democrats leading in the registration 4,760 to 3,887 for the Republicans.

In his opening remarks, Mr. Still indicated "that the 17th District needs more effective, energetic and concerned representation in the State government. Our district needs a more active. dedicated and informed individual representing us in the Senate.'

He pointed out a most recent problem which arose concerning reassessment ... where our local problems our school districts are encountering due primarily to the county's reassessment program. Not enough foresight and communication between elected officials and communities has put you and I in a very unfavorable position. We are being forced to choose between substantial property tax increases, and our children's future.'

Mr. Still this type of situation calls for someone with experience and knowledge of land use which he felt he can contribute from his experiences on the City of Dover's Planning Commission.

He took the opportunity also to address the problem of child care which he feels is emerging as a critical economic problem with social issues another concern.

He said he finds the statistics to indicate that 2/3 of the families in the (Continued on page 3)

Hardee's introduces light and tender chicken stix

ROCKY MOUNT, NC -- Bill Prather, inside. President and Chief Operating Officer of Hardee's Food Systems, Inc. has announced that the nation's third largest fast-food hamburger restaurant chain has developed the most tender and best tasting chicken nugget-type product in the industry. The product, made solely of whole breast white meat and cooked in all-vegetable oil, will be introduced in nearly all of Hardee's 3,000 restaurants this month.

"We firmly believe our Chicken Stix are far more superior than any chickennugget product in the industry," noted Prather. "Although we're not the first chain among the 'burger giants' to roll out this type of product, we're definitely going to be number one in attributes such as nutritional appeal, price/value and overall product quality.

Prather elaborated that the superiority of Hardee's Chicken Stix is based on five key factors:

1. Only natural, whole breast white meat is used in making Chicken Stix. 2. Each piece of chicken is dipped in whole milk and egg batter and lightly coated with a breading of just the right amount of special spices to enhance the taste of the chicken.

3. Each piece of chicken is then cooked crunchy outside and tender and juicy foreign countries.

4. The taste of Hardee's Chicken Stix is further enhanced with the choice of four delicious dipping sauces: Sweet 'N' Sour, Honey, Barbeque and Sweet Mustard.

5. Nearly all of the Chicken Stix product will come from Hardee's own manufacturing division, Fast Food Merchandisers.

The introduction of Chicken Stix culminates three years of extensive research and product development by Hardee's and approximately four months of a successful market test in the Greensboro, NC, market.

Chicken Stix are especially appealing to the growing number nutritionminded consumers who have long wanted Hardee's to offer a finger-food chicken item in its restaurants. Hardee's will continue to sell its Chicken Fillet Sandwich, a very popular menu item that was introduced in 1980.

The introduction of Chicken Stix is expected to bring even more good news to Hardee's skyrocketing success story. For the calendar year ending December 31, 1987, the chain recorded its best year in its 26-year history.

Headquartered in Rocky Mount, in pure, cholesterol-tree, 100 percent North Carolina, Hardee's operates vegetable oil until light, crisp and 3,000 restaurants in 40 states and 12

In order to cope with the child care issue he is urging a funding program to deal with this situation where low interest loan programs would be available for potential day care providers. He also urged consideration for increased funding to neighborhood and community centers to create and

Youth teams gear up for Delaware finals in "Odyssey of the Mind" competition

Will the paper aircraft they've designed really fly and hit its target? Will their rendition of a cartoon character "come-to-life" impress the judges? Will their creation of a 'submersible" vessel protect them from a "sea monster?" 66 teams of an estimated 460 students from across Delaware are gearing up in final practice before they journey to Dover's Central Middle School to vie in the Delaware Finals of the ODYSSEY OF THE MIND competition on April

Delaware champions in the annual creative problem-solving tournament will go on to compete with winners from other states, Candadian provinces, Mexico and the People's Republic of China at the World Finals to be held at the University of Maryland from June

Student teams and their coaches have been working since last fall to create original solutions to the 1988 problems. Odyssey of the Mind is an extracurricular activity, but this year for the first time the special problemsolving technique developed by Professor Samuel Mickus has moved into the classroom. At the request of teachers, curriculum materials were developed based on OM problems for science, mathematics, social studies, language arts and technology education in primary, elementary and secondary classes. Odyssey of the Mind corporate sponsor, IBM, funded development of the materials.

At the Delaware Finals, teams in three divisions compete: Division I includes grades K-5; Division II Grades 6 through 8, and Division III Grades 9 through 12.

Teams consist of seven students. Their OM problem solutions are judged in three areas: effectiveness of the solution to the long-term problem; style (which includes enhancement of the solution), and the ability to solve a spontaneous problem given a team at the Finals.

Teams will be competing in five different areas from 8:30 a.m. until 1:20 p.m. with the Awards Ceremony to begin at 2:30.

He pulled up to a small shack by the road. A man came out, checked the water, took a rod and opened a petcock on the transmission to check the oil, washed the windshield, then after everyone was out of the car (Model T Ford) he got a five gallon can of gas from the shed and a large funnel to pour the gas into the tank, which was under the driver's seat Service stations were few and far apart in those days. ### Chit-Chat with Bonnie

Well, the children are back in school after a nice vacation. Some time now to do what's left of the spring cleaning. The flower seeds that "little one" and I planted several weeks ago are just beginning to push through the ground. She has been so excited as this is her first experience with gardening. Many good wishes to Mr. "Smokey" White. So glad to know you are home recuperating. Take care. Saturday afternoon guest of Roberta Ronald and Theresa Lloyd, Wyoming, a Mitchell was her favorite cousin, Jenny Smith. The girls had a good time "hulahooping." Gee-that brought back memories! Saturday afternoon visitors of Don and Bonnie Mitchell were Robert and Paula daughter, Jenny, of Harrington. It was so nice to be with my brother again as we haven't had a chance to visit lately, and "Sunshine" (as her Aunt Paula calls her) was happy to see them both. Congratulations to friend, Dave Weaver of Joy Beach on his recent engagement to Dianna of Laurel. An October wedding is being planned. Smypathy is extended to the family of

Harry Webb of Greenwood during their time of sorrow. Thinking of you Connie Mears as you are down with back problems. Hope you are feeling fine again real soon. Miss Shelly Winkler has recently returned home after her Easter vacation in Florida. Heard vou were real busy while you where gone. Glad you had a the book. A very interesting study.

"Herein is my Father glorified, that ye bear much fruit; so shall ye be my disciples." John 15:8. A tree that lacks nourishment can hardly be expected to bear mature fruit. The lesson for our lives as Christians may be obvious, but that doesn't cancel its importance. The modern-day Christian has an enourmous array of helpful resources at his disposal--books, records, audio and video cassettes, seminars, home-study courses, and even the Bible on computer. These tools, however, can never substitute for the regular study of and meditation on God's Word.

Harrington United Methodist Church

Jesus proved he was resurrected.

The adult sermon was titled "Presence and Peace". Rev. Holliday explained how the presence of Christ can bring us peace and prayer can deliver us from

Horse of the Month honors

J. Perretti's Nadia Lobell, a winner in three of her four trips postward during March, has been named Horse of the Month by the United States Trotting Association.

The 4-year-old daughter of No Nukes, leading moneywinning filly in North America this season, began the month by covering a sloppy Meadowlands mile in 1:54-3/5 to beat some of the best distaffers at the New Jersey track. Her next three starts came in the Overbid Series, over the same oval, although the first leg of that event ended up being a night to forget. Starting from post position twelve, pacing far back through most of the race before finishing third - only 3/lengths behind Follow My Star.

In the next two legs of the series she posted come-from-behind victories in 1:56-2/5 and 1:56.

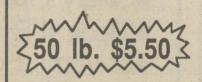

A runner-up in balloting for 2-yearold pacing filly of the year back in 1986, Nadia Lobell began April with a similar, late-charging victory in the $66,000 Overbid Final, where she was timed in 1:55.

$21.000 Twin triple hit second straight week at Brandywine

by Marv Bachrad

For the second time in two weeks, the Twin Trifecta was hit at Brandywine. On Sunday, it was shared by two ticket holders who liked the driving abilities of area horsemen.

Joe Dugan, Jr. of Smyrna piloted 5-1 shot Shilo to victory in the 8th race. Inertia, handled by Larry Manges of Harrington finished second while another Smyrna resident, Presley Moore, Jr. and Part Two finished third to set up a 5-7-2 first half.

One race later, Marylander Ed Gannon, Jr. and 6-1 Mannart Swift were too tough to catch enroute to a 1:59.2 win holding off Harrington's Bob Shahan and Suitcase at the wire by half a length. They were the key ingredients in the 1-7-8 second half winning combination. Each of the unidentified ticket holders received $10,576.90 for their handicapping abilities. Only the week before, one person won the entire $21,578.40 jackpot for picking correctly the first three horses to finish in each of the two Eddie Davis returned to one of his favorite spots twice Sunday night at Brandywine. The talented Smyrna driver scored a driving double including an impressive finishing touch in the $8,000 Invitational Pace when he used his gifted touch to enable Armbro Fleming to hold off a bold stretch bid from fast closing Marland Mandy for a 1:57.2 nose victory. Davis cut out all the fractions with the 4-yearold son of Direct Scooter. They fought off The Porter Gray down the backstretch and when Preston Burris, Jr. found room at the head of the lane, Marland Mandy came on quickly but the photo finish camera detected daylight at the wire. The Porter Gray (Sam Landy) held on for third.

Highly regarded Eddie The Quick lived up to his pre-season clippings to post a 1:59.1 decision in a $6,000 Open Pace. Ross Hayter directed the sophomore colt to a length win in his seasonal debut. Sonrise Sonset (Davis) was next with Delmarva Boy (Larry Manges) third.

In the popular Starburst Series, Witsend's Rumba (Richard March) and Tiger B. (Presley Moore, Jr.) turned in identical 1:59.1 clockings in $5,000 divisions. Witsend's Rumba was never headed in his win Cleo Escort (Tate Lewis, Jr.) and Assuming (Russ Thomas, Jr.) while Tiger B. took command at the half and withstood Glad To Meet You (Whitey Moore) and Young General (Jeff Cameron) down

Presley Moore, Jr. had a way with females on Saturday. The veteran driver won two of the night's top events. He drove the winner of one of the co-feature Fillies and Mares Open Paces, the Seahawk Hanover 4-year-old Rolling Seas to an impressive 1:59 victory in the $6,000 division. They romped in neverlook-back fashion besting Sunny Dispostion (Howard Taylor) by one length with Premier Chevelle (Bob Shahan) third. Moore returned in similar fashion notching one of the twin divisions of the $4,000 Starlet Series. He moved Siarra, a 4-year-old Broadway Skipper mare, three-wide at the quarter and they were never headed enroute to a 2:02.1 triumph. G E's Filly (Linda MacDonald) was second in front of

Reeflux (Shahan). Jeff Cameron was responsible for the $5,000 division of the Fillies and Mare Open. Playing a waiting game until the field turned for home, he found racing room, moved Margaretta to the far outside. The Most Happy Fella 4-yearold then outbrushed four opponents in the stretch to get up by a head in 2:02. Courtsey Of Time (Ed Gannon, Jt.) finished second in front of High Hope Tallu (Ty Case)

Benny T is the hot trotter on the grounds. The Ayres gelding was in command from the outset fashioning a 29.3 final quarter during a 2:00.3 victory by 2-1/4 lengths on Friday. Jimmy Takter drove the winner with Donovan Hanover (Ken McNutt) and Gatepost Colleen (Jim Murray) next in line.

The Sidewheeler Series also got underway on the card. Silent Respect looped the leaders on a fifth to first move just past the half-mile and powered away to a convincing nine length win. Robert Blum steered the 3year-old Silent Majority gelding over Seas Swirl (Bob Larente) and Direct News (Charles Ihlenfeld). The other division was all Please Please. Barbara Delaney rushed the colt away to a quick lead and kept extending for a 2:01.3 victory. Heartstar Hanover and Steve Warrington raced second for the mile with Colonial Warrior (John Wildrick)

Rangeling, a Bone Fish 4-year-old, made it four wins in five starts turning back eight rivals in the Thursday feature trot with a 2:05.1 win for driver Mike Rossi.

Bob Shahan took right up from where he left off last season. The defending champion driver recorded his fourth double of the meet on the 7th night Wednesday winning the feature with Albalight (2:03.4) after guiding Driven With Pride (2:06) earlier. Young Joe Dugan, Jr. has gotten away to a fast start. The 20-year-old Dugan trails Shahan 13 wins to 7 after the first 11 nights of racing.

EXPANDING DAY-CARE

Child day-care is an issue which has reached the critical point in Delaware, prompting legislative action in the form of a tax credit for employers who provide or contract out day-care while the parents work.

House Bill 467 would give businesses a 50 percent tax credit not exceeding $50,000, which would be used to establish day-care services for the employees' children. Currently, there are 13,000 licensed day-care slots in Delaware but an estimated 75,000 are needed. The reason for the large number of day-care slots is that more women are working today than did in past years, causing frustrated parents searching for day-care for their children. The reality is there are not enough child care facilities for our children.

Dear Editor:

At the end of the day, on April 4, 48 lives had ended on Delaware highways during 1988. 147 died on our highways last year marking a six year high. If the current trend continues we will see even more die this year.

The average citizen looks at these statistics and sees just that-statistics. What we don't see in the numbers that make up these statistics, unless we have personally felt the physical or emotional pain, is that they represent people. Each number represents a mother, a father, a child, a friend, a fellow worker, a human life. And most certainly, the averge citizen does not see him or herself as a potential number. It is the I.C.B.M. attitude of, "It can't be me". If anything, it is a question of "Why doesn't somebody do something? Governor Castle has introduced a highway safety plan designed to do something, a plan that includes legislation requiring the use of safety belts and prohibits consumption of an alcoholic beverage while operating a motor vehicle. For months now, we have been seeing "Letters to the Editor" rallying against a safety belt bill with cries of infringement on personal rights and a substantial amount of misinformation designed to defeat a safety belt bill. Has anyone else noticed how often these letters are sent by the same people? Surveys conducted by the University of Delaware show that 85% of Delaware citizens feel our state should have a safety belt law. Simple subtraction indicated that no more than 15% of the population is guiding our legislators because they speak the

As I recall or reminisce history of our country and the few decades ago that I do remember. I wonder what has happened to "America The Beautiful" and the "Land of the Free and the Home of the Brave." Like a lot of descriptions today, "she ain't what she used to be." As citizens of this great country, today many of us are made to ponder just what or who could be responsible for such catastrophic conditions that we are now plagued with.

Everybody seems to be in a rat race with some thing or some one. Is there a peaceful country in the whole world? If there is, I think I want to go there. Every existing organization or institution that I hear of is in some kind of jeopardy. We are confronted with, nation against nation, street fights in our Congress and all high places of leadership. Government, Wall Street facing possible financial bankruptcy and could be moral bankruptcy, caused by greed and crooked handling of money matters.

Other businesses are falling apart, strikes in many places of needed employment, welfare exploited, school systems out of control, teenage pregnancies, with lawlessness prevailing in all areas of life.

We are plagued with sickness and disease of all kind, even incurable diseases. Much of this, like a lot of other conditions, is self-inflicted because of certain life styles. No one is safe at home or on the street, divorce rampaged, children on the mercy of the court, incest common, children abused and molested by their own friends and family, rape cases reported every day;... Street people, homeless and hungry. Instititions are filled to overflow by the incarcerated, dangerous escapees and crimes of all kinds. Alot of this is done by the teens.

Much of the performance on T.V. and the movies, consists of pornography, obsenity, violence affecting all ages. Some blame the President, some the Congress, some the politicians, other the Clergy. I'm confident that we may need some repair in all of these areas, but politically, many of our leaders portray the blind leading the blind, and all fall together. Rome fell and how great was the fall. We also come under the auspices of the penalty for. "All nations that forget God." Then we ask God to bless our nation. Why? Aren't we teaching humanistic religion?

I sponsored this legislation because our state needs to take an active role in finding solutions to this growing crisis in day-care. Under my bill, employers would be encouraged to provide daycare services at the site of their businesses, or contract out for day-care. Credit would also be given for the amount spent in dedicating lease or rental space for child day-care. This program would be voluntary, so each employer decides if the tax credit child care connection is right for his or her moving. Passengers collide with things like the steering wheel, the dash, or a fellow passenger. A passenger thrown out of the car will invariably collide, at high speed, with the road, a car, a tree or some other hard, solid object. Safety belts are designed to prevent the body from crashing into other things that break bones, rupture organs, and kill. A safety belt can prevent months in the hospital, medical bills, lost wages, or the loss of life. If nothing else, think about it the next time you write out a check for car insurance or when you look at the dent that health insurance premiums extract from your take home paycheck.

Day-care is an ever-increasing reality which must be addressed now. With this bill, employers get tax deductions, parents get needed day-care, and jobs would be created by the addition of new day-care facilities.

And yes, it is legal to drink an alcoholic beverage while driving in Delaware. A ridiculous contradiction in a State recognized for the passage of a comprehensive DUI law. The words against this bill will again be infringement of personal rights from those who can't wait to have that cold beer on the way home from work or on the way to the beach. If this bill is defeated it will be another example of a small, and I suggest irresponsible, segment of the population having the greatest impact on legislation designed to protect the safety and well-being of responsible citizens.

Both pieces of legislation are part of efforts to provide a safer, healthier environment for Delaware citizens. Both require legislative support. Legislators listen to their constituents who speak the loudest. The minority against this legislation has been speaking and will continue to speak. Now is the time for the majority of citizens in Delaware to exercise their right and their responsibility, to speak in support of this legislation. A few minutes to make a phone call or drop a line to your legislators in support of this legislation will be time well spent.

Sincerely. Marcene A. Gory

I call your attention to a road sign along our highways that reads, "In case of nuclear war. Ban on prayer in school will be lifted.

In naming all the plagues, I did not name the drug problem, which we are still at war with, I hope. But why hasn't someone noticed that there is another drug just as destructive - ALCOHOL -A demon in every bottle. As I study Webster, I find alcohol to be a narcotic, producing numbness of brain, abnormal drowsiness, total indifference, apathy, containing metallie chemicals (meaning mixed chemicals). Our kids are warned, not to drink it...while the adults are warned how much to drink, but it is made very convenient for them by having such a place on every corner, permitted and encouraged by the public and the communities...(licensed by State and Government).

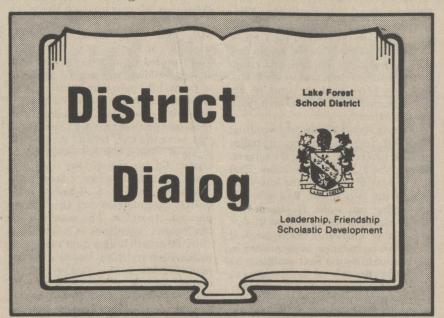

Statistics are boldly put out to the public, such as drunken drivers, accidents costing lives, disability for life, ruined health, broken homes; many times the home is a battle ground in which our children supposedly grow up, or just exist. Now many of these victims really don't want this life style which causes so much harm to their families, (but they are hooked and helpless-many times left financially and physically broken).

But cheer up, the state has a nice hospital, dryout, or halfway house, and it's free, and when you are finished there, you can come home (if you have one to come to) and start all over again, with the same life-style, because these places only patch you up temporarily... and there's still room on the welfare

"Presence"

by Dr. James H. VanSciver Superintendent

It was a blistery December night in Korea. Members of the MASH unit were complaining about being away, once again, from their homes ... from their families for the holidays.

It began to snow.

Out of the blizzard stepped Colonel Potter, the crusty commander of this military medical unit. Admonishing his troops, he said in a gruff voice, "If you ain't where you are, you're nowhere.'

Seldom am I as struck by what is said on the television as I was by this statement. Rarely do such philosophical utterances find their way into one-half hour sitcoms, especially on reruns that are celebrating birthdays the like of first and second

But here stood Colonel Potter, looking out at me from "the tube," saying something that made an impact!

How often we want what we have not ... what we cannot have. How often we dream of places we will not ... we cannot be.

We look for escape. We peer through the neck of a bottle as though it were a telescope. We hope to be transported to another place, another time through the tiny orifice of a needle.

But ... we're still here; we're still now. Nothing has changed.

Dealing with reality can be one of the most perplexing aspects of the human condition. Does life present to man the illusions which he shapes into his own reality? Or, does man take reality, distort it with his perceptions which then transform it into his own illusions?

Dealing with reality first and foremost requires an awareness of presence, an acknowledgement of circumstances and a realization that one is either the manipulator of his environment or the victim of it.

This has direct application to the art of dealing with young people as they attempt decision-making. Refusing to skirt the issue, dealing with the facts and understanding that even in error there is hope ... if through the analysis of the steps that resulted in the mistake, a lesson is learned, are all important aspects of the

This is not solely a school matter. Neither is it an issue to be dealt with only in the home. Linkages must draw together both of these critical influences in order that our children receive a consistent message.

Perhaps one of the most significant messages they must hear is simply, "If you ain't where you are, you're nowhere.'

It's a matter of presence.

A laff a day...

by William T. Ficka

In World War II an Air Force unit was assigned to fly over Berlin and drop propaganda leaflets. All the planes came back except one. After four or five days the pilot was listed as a casualty. On the tenth day he finally returned. 'Well, we're certainly glad to see you, but the other boys dropped their leaflets 10 days ago," said the company commander.

"Dropped them? I've been sliding them under the doors."

A timid little man applied for a job as a security guard. The employment manager looked at this 98-pound Caspar Milquetoast and said, "The person we want needs muscles of steel, someone who can lick his weight in wildcats, someone who when angry is like a raging bull, a monster in human form.' "In that case," said the meek little man, I'll send the wife.

Tough decisions for better safety

by Governor Michael N. Castle As of April 6, 45 people had died on Delaware roadways this year -- more than double the number at the same point in 1980, the worst year on record. In part because of this unacceptable death toll, my administration has made a commitment to making our highways safer. We submitted a highway safety package to the General Assembly, including some tough but necessary measures to stop the carnage.

The package includes measures to stop speeders, reduce the high rate of accidents among teen drivers, crack down on truckers who ignore the rules of the road, and to continue our assault on driving under the influence. Many of these proposals met with immediate support. Even a few -- such as mandatory use of seatbelts and motorcycle helmets -- that touched emotional chords are gaining public

As expected, there is some very vocal opposition to mandatory use of seatbelts. The most frequently argued position is that government is infringing on the rights of the place to prevent injury and death. Mandatory seatbelt use is just another extension of those conditions. Some people argue that not wearing a seatbelt only hurts the victim. But, in reality, our actions affect a lot of people. Families who must deal with the loss of a precious life. The patient in the emergency room who must wait for treatment because an accident victim whose injuries were aggravated by the lack of a seatbelt must be treated first. And the increased insurance premiums we all pay.

But, driving is not a right -- it is a privilege. There are conditions that go along with that privilege -- such as limits on how fast we drive and certain rules of the road that have been put in to act in the best interests of our citizens.

But presented with this important, and timely issue, some members of the State Senate want to defer decision until a non-binding referendum can be held in November. But every member of the General Assembly is elected to represent their constituents, and they are constantly reminding me how much they are in touch with their constituents. Given that responsibility and their accessibility to the voters, they should not decide to wait for a nonbinding referendum (nothing more than an opinion poll) before making any real decisions.

This administration has taken action to help reduce the death toll on our highways. Many of you have already voiced your support for these measures. Let your senators know now is the time

Senatorial Report 18th District

By Senator Ruth Ann Minner 18th Senatorial District

Ever since 1981 I've been fighting to restore Delaware's tax deduction for child care expenses with only limited success. In 1987 I was successful in getting the state tax laws amended to allow Delawareans to claim a deduction of 25 percent of what the federal government allows for child care expenses, but that's still a long way from fairness to parents with children who must work.

Now House Speaker Terry Spence and a long list of mostly Republican cosponsors have proposed in House Bill 467 that businesses be allowed to take a tax credit of up to $50,000 a year if they provide day care facilities for their tax credits or deductions for child care

It's an interesting proposal, but Republican Administrations have been telling us for seven years that the state could not afford the revenue loss if child care expenses were fully deductible. It's curious that we can afford to grant tax credits to businesses but can't afford to grant deductions to individual facilities in our state is apparent. Some estimates place the need at 62,000 day

The need for additional child care quality day care available.

Anything we can do to encourage the licensing of additional day-care slots is a step in the right direction.

Unless we do something---and fast--the consequences will be costly. More "latchkey" children going unattended between the end of school and the return home of working parents, fewer opportunities for single parent heads of households to get off welfare and into gainful employment, more children being neglected or abused.

If encouraging businesses to provide day care facilities will work, then I'm all for it. But I still believe that providing expenses to individual taxpavers also would encourage additional day care

The availability of quality day care substantially contributes to the independence and stability of the family and to the care and development of children during their formative years. The General Assembly should seize any opportunity to make that

Trade Bill includes Roth plan

by Senator Bill Roth

Legislation which has been called the most comprehensive review of U.S. trade policy in many years has taken a giant step forward to becoming law. Members of the House and Senate conference committee on the trade bill. of which I am a member, recently met to finalize the bill. Our goal is to bring about more access to foreign markets for American made goods and farm products. Trade expansion provides the consumer with a higher standard of living, lower prices and a more diverse choice of available products.

Unfortunately, trade hurts some American workers. I have led the fight to strengthen the Trade Adjustment Assistance program which helps workers who are out of work as a result of imports. Since the program was started in 1974 many workers have been helped including approximately 11,150 Delaware workers.

Last year, I fought to preserve this program, which currently consists mainly of extended unemployment compensation. At the same time, I pushed a provision to provide retraining of these workers. In order to receive the extended unemployment benefits, workers would be required to participate in such retraining, where

I am pleased to report that at the trade conference it was agreed that my Trade Adjustment Assistance provision should be included as part of the trade bill. This bill still must be acted on by the Congress and the Reagan Administration before it can become

Under my plan, the President is required to negotiate within two years a small import fee with U.S. trading partners to pay for the program. Financing the program with a very small import fee would make the program a fiscally responsible response to the difficult problem of trade impacted workers. In fact, once the fee is in place, it will reduce the féderal deficit by $200 million per year. Hong Kong has had a similar import fee for trade promotion since the 1960's.

The adoption of my proposal as part of the final trade bill is an important step forward in helping those who are unemployed because of trade imports.

Subsidies: from Cunard to Chrysler

The big story in the U.S. auto industry during 1987 was the sharp growth in sales for Honda and the decline for Chrysler. While Honda sold cars as fast as it could make them, Chrysler struggled with a huge backlog of 1987 models. These results should not surprise us -- they are part of a historical pattern: Federally aided companies, like Chrysler with its Federally guaranteed loans, rarely outperform those who have to succeed on their own Consider, for example, the steamship industry during the 1800s. Almost from the time of the first transatlantic voyage by steam in the 1830s, the governments of England and the United States subsideized steamship travel. Samuel Cunard convinced the English government to give him $275,000 a year to run a bi-weekly mail and passenger service across the Atlantic. Cunard charged $200 per passenger and 24 cents a letter, but still said that he needed the aid to cover his losses. He contended that subsidized steamships gave England an advantage in world trade and were a readily available merchant marine in case of war. Parliament accepted this argument and increased government aid to the Cunard Line throughout the 1840s.

Soon Edward Collins began using the same arguments for Federal aid to the new U.S. steamship industry. He said that America needed subsidized steamships to compete with England, to create jobs, and to provide a military fleet in case of war. If the government would give him $3 million down and $385,000 a year, he would build five ships, deliver mail and passengers, and out-race the Cunarders.

Congress gave the money to Collins in 1847, but he built four enormous ships (not five smaller ships as he had promised), each with elegant saloons, ladies' drawing rooms, and wedding berths. He often beat the Cunarders across the ocean, but his costs were high and his economic benefits were nil.

With government aid, Collins had no incentive to reduce his costs. He preferred to compete in the world of. politics for more Federal aid than in the world of business against price-cutting rivals. In 1852 he went to Washington and lavishly entertained President Fillmore, his cabinet, and influential Congressmen. Collins lobbied Congress for an increase to $858,000

It took Cornelius Vanderbilt, a New York shipping genius, to challenge this system. In 1855, Vanderbilt offered to deliver the mail for less than half of what Collins was getting. Congress balked -- it was pledged to Collins -- so Vanderbilt decided to challenge Collins without a subsidy.

Vanderbilt's strategy against Collins was to cut the first-class fare to $80. He also introduced a cheaper third-class fare in the steerage and hired local "runners" who buttonholed all kinds of people to travel on his ships. These second and third class passengers were important because all steamship operators had fixed costs for each voyage. Vanderbilt needed volume business and somethimes carried over 500 passengers per ship.

This was too much for Collins. When he tried to counter with more speed, he crashed two of his four ships, killing almost 500 passengers. In desperation he spent one million dollars of government money building a gigantic replacement, but he built it so poorly that it could make only two trips and had to be sold at more than a $900,000

Finally, Congress was outraged. It revoked Collins' aid and left him to compete with Vanderbilt on an equal basis. The results: Collins quickly went bankrupt, and Vanderbilt became the leading American steamship operator.

And there was yet another twist. When Vanderbilt competed against the English, his major competition did not come from the Cunarders. The new unsubsidized William Inman Line was doing to Cunard in England what Vanderbilt had done to Collins in America. The subsidized Cunard had stuck with traditional technology, while William Inman had gone on to use screw propellors and iron hulls instead of paddle wheels and wood. Inman's strategy worked; and from 1858 to the Civil War, Vanderbilt and Inman led American and England in cheap mail and passenger service. The mail subsidies, then, ended up retarding progress: Cunard and Collins both used their monopolies to stifle innovation and delay technological changes in steamship construction.

From Cunard to Iacocca, those who seek state aid may believe they are protecting jobs, helping local industries, and preserving the industrial future of their nation. It is sad to see the opposite so often happen. Chrysler did pay back its loans -- but it appears to be following the pattern set long ago in the steamship

Person-to-Person

Even after all these years

by Rebecca Moore

On one of the side streets in Wyoming, you'll find a little white house with the letter L on the door. The lawn is green and neatly trimmed; shade trees and bushes fill the yard. Living in the little white house is a rather unique lady by the name of Laura Bell. She has never built a bridge or held public office. You won't find her name listed under 'Who's Who". No, Laura Bell is not famous, at least by human standards, but if you could only meet this diminutive lady, you would understand that fame is not measured by how many times your name appears in the headlines. Come with me and meet a very special lady--Mrs. Laura Bell.

Mrs. Bell was born in Pennsylvania in 1906. At the age of one and one half years, her mother died. Mrs. Bell's father had a rather unusual occupation--he built golf courses. His job took him and his family all over the country, and it was because of this, that Mrs. Bell did not graduate from high school when she should have. Being of college age, however, Mrs. Bell set out to support herself. Through some friends, she learned about nursing school. Back in the 1920's, nursing schools did not require a high school diploma prior to entrance, so Mrs. Bell was able to begin nurse's training. Her years of training were spent at Philadelphia Children's Hospital (the third of such facilities in this Country) and at Philadelphia General Hospital. PGH was a rather infamous facility, and it was there that Mrs. Bell saw and did just about everything it was possible for one person to do. Between these two facilities, Mrs. Bell received the best training available. Shortly after completing her training, Mrs. Bell returned to school and earned her high school diploma.

Obviously, education was quite important to Mrs. Bell, but with her education completed, she began to feel somewhat stagnant, since she was not studying and learning anything. She decided to fill the gap in her life with religious education. She entered a training program at the Lutheran church near Children's Hospital, and several nights a week (back then, the streets were safe) she walked to the church for classes. It was during this time, that she began to see a need for training of children and young people. Mrs. Bell began something which would be part of her life for sixty years--Bible clubs for boys and girls.

Having been through nursing school, myself, and having spent a considerable amount of time in hospitals, both as a patient and as a student nurse, it was interesting to compare notes with Mrs. Bell concerning nurses back in the twenties and thirties and nurses in the eighties. When Mrs. Bell completed her training at Children's Hospital in 1927, she remained there on staff. She, along with all the other nurses, worked twelve-hour shifts. To make their lives a little less complicated, the hospital provided housing for them. A large part never left the building unless they wanted to-everything they needed was right there. Today, hospitals may require certain staff members to work twelve-hour shifts, but providing housing is certainly a thing of the past. Mrs. Bell's job was not exactly what comes under a nurse's job description in the eighties. Her job included anything the patient needed. If a child needed formula, Mrs. Bell prepared it; it didn't come out of a nice little bottle or can. If a patient needed laundry washed, Mrs. Bell did it. If the floor needed to be mopped, Mrs. Bell mopped it. Somehow, I don't think you'll find too many nurses at area hospitals down on all fours scrubbing floors--that's no longer considered part of nursing care. So, much of Mrs. Bell's twelve hours was spent performing tasks which have since been taken over by other people. Nursing has certainly changed radically over the last sixty years! Now, instead of finding a nurse with a mop in her hands or a load of laundry in her arms, you'll possibly find her sitting in front of the eerie glow of a computer, or disguised behind a surgical mask. But perhaps the nursing schools back then had the right idea. For by the time Mrs. Bell had graduated from nursing school, she was prepared to do just about anything--from the uncomplicated task to assisting with difficult

Mrs. Bell thoroughly enjoyed working with children, but after several years, she felt that she had been at Children's Hospital for long enough. It was time to move on. The position as a school nurse definitely appealed to Mrs. Bell, because she could continue to work with children, but the hours were much better. That's when her work at the prestigious Girl's High School in Philadelphia began. She thoroughly enjoyed her work at the school, but her real interest lay in audiometrics-hearing tests. After two years as a school nurse, Mrs. Bell was able to reach her goal. She was given a position in audiometric testing and follow-up. With this particular position, she was on the road quite a bit, she had the opportunity to work with fascinating people, she could still work primarily with children, and her hours were not quite so grueling. This is where she staved until her retirement in 1968. Through all these years, she continued having Bible clubs for the local neighborhood children. Mrs. Bell definitely had a gift, and she used it, and children everywhere just loved her.

In the late fifties, Mrs. Bell became acquainted with a couple at her church by the name of Mr. and Mrs. Homer Jay Bell. Mrs. Jay Bell was quite ill with Parkinson's disease, and, of course, back in the fifties, there was little that could be done about the condition. It eventually took her life. Several years later, Mr. Jay Bell began to take notice of a tiny registered nurse who spent her days performing hearing tests on dormitories for the nurses. The nurses children into her home to hear Bible stories. He became quite smitten with her. Although she resisted for a while, she finally realized that she was in love with him. Homer Jay Bell, and Laura Lane (Bell) were married in 1962. Mrs. Bell was fifty-six at the time of her marriage, and "each day was better than the day before'

About eight months after the wedding, Mr. Bell had to undergo a major surgical procedure. During the surgery, he received a blood transfusion. That was in May of 1963. On the following August the second, Mr. Bell woke up not feeling just right. He asked Mrs. Bell to please stay home from work that day. Within a matter of hours, Mr. Bell was in an ambulance, being rushed to the hospital. By the next morning, he was gone. Because of the transfusion back in May, hepatitis had been slowly destroying his liver. After only fourteen months of marriage, Mr. Bell was gone.

One can only imagine the pain and sorrow Mrs. Bell experienced. Most little girls dream of one day growing up, getting married and becoming a mother, and this usually happens. But this was not the path Mrs. Bell chose to follow. Her career and her Bible clubs thoroughly occupied her mind and her time. But, at the age of fifty-six, she married. She would never become a mother, and her marriage would last only fourteen months. What a tragedy! But life continued.

Mrs. Bell remained in audiometrics until 1968 when she finally retired. Her Bible clubs had also continued all this time, after all these years.

But then a major change took place. Mrs. Bell's father, Mr. Lane lived in the little white house on the side street in Wyoming. He was getting on in years, and Mrs. Bell had spent her summers caring for him. During these visits, she seems to attract all the children on the street, and they would come and sit at her feet while she told them stories from the Bible. Finally, in January of 1969, Mrs. Bell felt it was time to care for her father on a full-time basis, so she moved in to his house, and cared for him until the time of his death. On her arrival, there was a knock at the door. The children wanted her to teach them again. Everywhere she went, just like the Pied Piper, the children were there, eager to hear her teaching.

Life is just a little slower for Mrs. Bell these days--but not much slower. Every Tuesday, you'll find a group of ladies gathered around her dining room table for her weekly Bible study. Her work with the children is an on-going thing. The little white house with the letter L on the door is a busy place. In her eighty-second year, Laura Bell is still going strong.

Someday, Mrs. Bell will no longer occupy the little white house on the side street in Wyoming. She'll be in a much better place. The Bible teaches that those who know Jesus will receive crowns in heaven for the deeds they have done on this earth. Mrs. Bell's crown will probably make the Hope diamond look like a piece of coal.

"Keeping up with the Jones"

by Bonnie Algier-Mitchell

If you didn't grow up with the men in your family being welders by trade, or in the farming business, you may not be familiar with a small business just on the outskirts of Greenwood, Delaware. What they sell may not look like much but to those in need of steel and pipe, M.A. Willey Inc. in Greenwood is where it's at.

As I pulled up in front of this oddshaped building, in need of a good coat of paint, I thought that it really hadn't changed much since I was a child. I remember my Dad or "Pop-Pop" needing a peice of pipe to fix something they were working on and they'd have to go to "Mitch Willey's" to get it ... of course, I'd tag along. One time they made my grandmother a fancy yard ornament out of pipe...it looked kindof-like an umbrella and held flower pots all around it. The materials for that project came from M.A. Willey. But...Mitchell Willey didn't start out in the steel and pipe business. In the year 1927 Mr. & Mrs. Mitchell Willey opened a furniture store next to their big white home outside Greenwood. It wasn't long before they tired of that, but still wanted a business of their ownwhence came the "Black Cat's Kitten"-Luncheonette and Gas Station. The building was pretty then, all white with a bright blue roof. The sign, painted on the front, had two cute, smiling kitten faces on it. They sold cold soft drinks and sandwiches. There were two gas pumps outside, the old type with the handle and the clear cylinder at the top where you could see the gold-colored gasoline. Much business was conducted there between 1927 & 1972...furniture storeluncheonette-gas station-steel

In 1972 Mr. Mitch Willey died, leaving the fate of the business in Greenwood up in the air. A call was made to Salt Lake City, Utah to grandson, Finley

"Butch" Jones, asking him to return to Delaware and run M.A. Willey, Inc. "I really didn't have to think much about it," said Jones. "I was in my 20's then, ready for anything." Jones was then working shift work, married with an infant son. So with wife Brenda, and son they came back to Delaware in 1973 to take over the family business.

Shortly after taking over the business Butch Jones' sister, Debbie Hollis, came to help out. "This was only on a parttime basis," said Brenda Jones. "It's been 12 years now!" she said as she laughed. Debbie is very involved in the business—she runs the fork lift and cuts pipe and steel for customers. "At first men would wait for Butch to wait on them," commented Brenda Jones. I didn't see them wait for him during my visit! Besides working with her brother and sister-in-law, Debbie is the mother of sixteen-year-old Jennifer, a 10th grade student at Woodbridge High

"We're a small operation," stated Butch Jones. "We used to deal mainly with farmers, but things are branching out...alot of contractors and builders from the Maryland and Virginia areas now do business with us," the Jones' commented. Brenda Jones, who handles the bookkeeping and office end of the business claims..."business is better than it has been in years."

Along with the business for Butch and Brenda Jones, goes the job of raising their two children, Finley, 15, and Lisa, 11. Lisa helps out with some office work at times and is very good at it her mother commented. Butch and son Finley are avid hunters and get away to enjoy the peace of the woods every chance they have. Butch is also the President and Deputy Chief of the Greenwood Volunteer Company.
