

School Board recognizes citizens and students Addresses referendum issues

HIGH SCHOOL LIBRARY. Amid the discussions on questions and issues for the voters in the Lake Forest School District for the May 17th referendum, the school board took time out to recognize a large group of people comprised of students and citizens.

The board recognized the high school student government officers for achieving a state standard of excellence. They are as follows: Richard McGinnis, president; April Knight, vice president; Laura Burrows, treasurer; Kim Gibbs, corresponding secretary; Chris Trzepak, recording secretary; Amy Bickling, historian; Michelle Green, sergeant-at-arms; Michael Boyd, faculty advisor.

Recognized for All State Band was Charles Zimmerman, W.T. Chipman Junior High School. The board recognized the East

Elementary School PTAG officers for their support of the school. They are as follows: Mrs. Cheryl Moore, president; Mrs. Dee Thompson, vice president; Mrs. Terry Baker, secretary; and Mrs. Shirley Glanden, treasurer.

Other citizens recognized were as follows: Mr. Donald Bullock, Conference on Rural Education; Mrs. Madalyn Helsel, volunteer; Mr. Ronald Draper, volunteer; Mrs. Sylvia Kemp, volunteer; Mrs. Evelyn Lare, volunteer; Mrs. Winona Deputy, Tutorial Program; Mr. Fred Duffy, Tutorial Program; and Mr. Jim Blades, 1988 Cross Country Coach of the Year-Region 2.

The board granted tenure to the following: Lake Forest East Elementary School-Lynne Herman (Dec. 29, 1988); Donna Smith (also North Elementary); Gavin Standish.

Lake Forest North Elementary School-Ladetrich Macklin (Dec. 2, 1988); Carolyn Passwaters, Patricia Rhodes, Doris Ridenour (Nov. 11, 1988); Deborah Winebrenner, Hilary Bonnell, Cindy Christiansen, Wendy Schachte, Charles Johnson, and Ilene Jones.

Lake Forest South Elementary School-Carol Abbott.

Lake Forest High School-Dennis Davis, William Eisenbrey, Steve Murabito, Elizabeth Reid.

The two part referendum will ask the voters to approve the referendum for a building rehabilitation program throughout the district and the salary equalization which will raise the taxes 23.7 cents per $100 of assessed value, and increase the capitation tax by $5.

The current tax rate for the district is 40.6 cents per $100 of assessed value and $15 capitation tax. The increase will mean 64.3 cents and $20 on the capitation.

The wording on the referendum ballot May 17 will read as follows: vote for the bond issue or against the bond issue. This relates to the major capital improvement program. The second question will read: vote for additional tax or against additional tax, and this relates to the matter of salary equalization. The salary increases will be throughout the district and for everyone employed by the district.

The total package asked for is $4.2 million with $1.7 million coming from local funds and the balance from the state.

The formula applies throughout the referendum request with varying percentages. The equalization money will help prevent a $250,000 loss caused by Kent County reassessment in 1987. The loss will also be felt with federal grants which amount to $1 million if the referendum does not pass.

Lake Forest officials available for referendum questions

Officials at Lake Forest School District report that Board of Education members and the Superintendent will be available to answer the public's questions regarding the district's upcoming referendum.

They will be available in the superintendent's office from 6 to 9 p.m. on April 26 & 28, and May 3, 5, 10 and 12.

The superintendent's office is located on the Dorman Street side of the W.T. Chipman Junior High School-South Elementary School complex in Harrington.

Rotarians given presentation on Turkish items

Mrs. Mary Trice, wife of Harrington Rotary President Roger Trice, gave a formal presentation to the Harrington Rotary Club on Thursday night on her recent 20-day "TDY" trip with the U.S. Air Force where she serves in that capacity.

Mrs. Trice gave a talk on the items which she brought back with her from Spain and Turkey. She was stationed principally at Torrejon Air Base in Spain where she also visited Madrid.

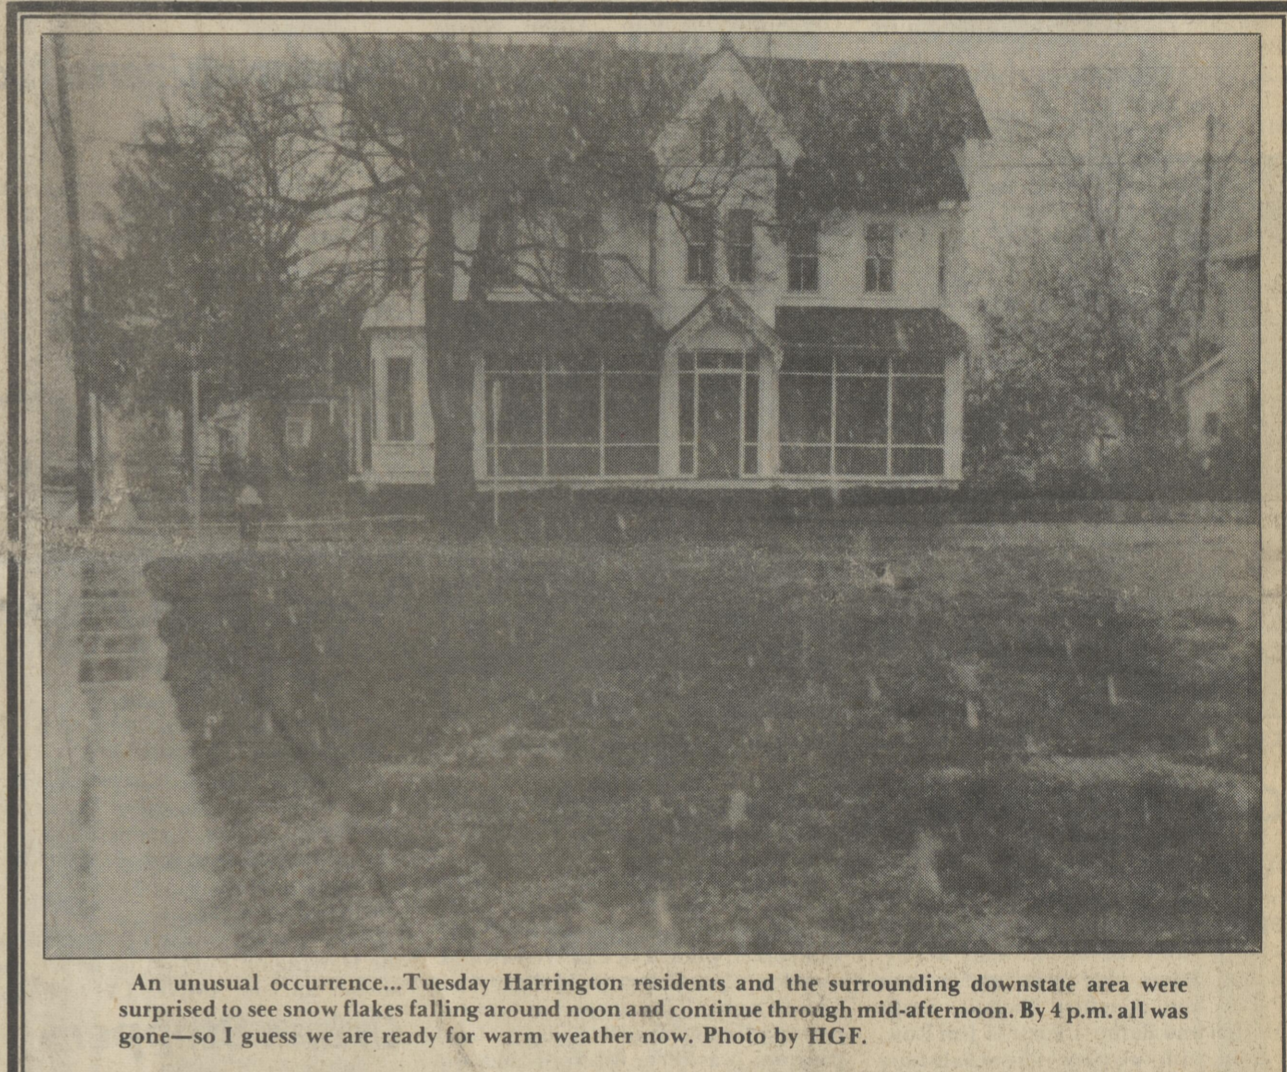

"I found the country to be very poor, but the people treated us very well", she said. While Mrs. Trice and her group visited shops in Turkey, she said the shopkeepers treated them with tea while they shopped. "They just kept bringing the tea while you looked at other items. After looking at over 200 hand made rugs, I decided the ones to buy were the first ones they had brought out", she said.

The rugs were made by Nomads and were made of 100% wool. Asked how long it took to make one of these rugs and she said she was told it took several months "...but the stories varied, what was clearly spelled out to me was that the rugs would last over 200 years, and the cost would be $160 in American money".

Each rug had a design which told a story. One rug had what looked like houses around the border, and Mrs. Trice explained that these were villages of Nomadic tribes.

In her display were ornate knives and swords as well as many pieces of brass, gold and silver.

The Rotary Club was also treated to a movie presentation of Rotary news. The club will subscribe to the service which will give a news roundup of Rotary news around the country and the world.

An unusual occurrence...Tuesday Harrington residents and the surrounding downstate area were surprised to see snow flakes falling around noon and continue through mid-afternoon. By 4 p.m. all was gone—so I guess we are ready for warm weather now. Photo by HGF.

Gypsy Moth spraying gets underway at the end of the month

The Department of Agriculture's 1988 Gypsy Moth Suppression Project will begin on or about April 25, according to program manager Linda T. Bradley.

"The exact date will depend on weather conditions, leaf development and caterpillar hatch," Bradley explained.

Aerial applicators will begin spraying woodlots in Sussex County and southern Kent County and work their way north. The entire project is expected to last seven to 10 days.

Small airplanes and helicopters will apply Dimilin (diflubenzuron) is an insect growth regulator that prevents the formation of new skin during the caterpillar's molting process. Planes and helicopters then will apply B.t. (Bacillus thuringiensis) to wetland areas and residential developments targeted for spraying in New Castle County around May 1. B.t. is a biological insecticide which controls caterpillars by interfering with their feeding process.

Both insecticides are registered with the EPA and are not harmful to people or animals. However, it is advised that residents remain indoors while spraying is under way.

Spraying will begin at dawn and continue as long as weather conditions are favorable, Bradley explained. Some spraying may take place in the afternoon if necessary.

Daily progress reports and an update of what areas will be treated the following day will be available after 3 p.m. each day on the Department of Agriculture's News line at 697-2315.

This year's gypsy moth project is expected to cost in the neighborhood of $320,000. Funding is shared on a 50-50 basis by the state and federal governments.

Senior citizens fix bus, continue vacation

From time to time, one reads of the many skills, retained by senior citizens, some of whom remain in the work force.

Local bus driver, Sam Layton, was driving a full bus of senior citizens to Myrtle Beach, S.C. The trip was sponsored by Harrington Senior Center.

Sunday afternoon the bus suddenly lost power and Sam pulled it to the side of the road. Mr. Layton stated that, in the several years he had worked for the Mills Bus Company, it was the first time that a bus had broken down. The law of averages had finally caught up with the personable Harringtonian.

Fortunately, Anthony Gallo, an electrician from Harrington and a Houston-area auto mechanic, Harry Sapp, were on the trip. Though dressed to the nines, this pair immediately volunteered their assistance.

Layton was under the bus, while Gallo and Sapp were getting down and dirty, also. In less than 30 minutes the bus was ready to roll again. However, the bus weighed an estimated 15 tons (reminiscent of the Tennessee Ernie Ford song) and required a push to start it. No one had stopped to help, during this period, so it was up to the passengers to furnish the impetus.

This age group is often associated with varicose veins, phlebitis and other leg problems. But there they were, men and women, pushing for all they were worth. Two tries and 15 seconds later, the engine coughed, then roared into life. Sam informed the passengers that Myrtle Beach, some 150 miles away, was our next stop. The breakdown didn't seem to faze anyone and turned out to be a most enjoyable conversation piece.

Florence Casper, a poetess from Felton, was inspired to create a poem, by Sunday's events.

To Sam:
If you ever want to travel
Many miles from home
And you want your trip worry free
Wherever you may roam,
Just take a trip on Mill's Bus Lines
With Sam doing the driving
And you can rest assured
You will have a safe arriving.

Cub Scout Pack 141 enjoys camp out by Lola M. O'Day

The weekend outdoor camp-out of Pack #141 was held at the Norman Wilder C&R Center, Petersburg, this weekend with invited scouts of Scout Master Tom McFarland Troop #263, Goldsboro, Md. A full schedule of events made the camp-out quite enjoyable and very successful. Friday night the American Red Cross presented instructions on First Aid.

Saturday morning got off to a good start. Mr. John Schwan of the Delaware State Forestry Dept. presented a beautiful program, followed by Cpl Gaines and Wonder Lady Bug from the Dept of Highway Safety presented a very informative program. After lunch the competition was tough on the pinewood derby track. Finalists in the Derby were 1st place, Glen Cross; 2nd place Paul Redemour and 3rd place Rusty Melvin. Congratulations to all for a hard won race.

Saturday afternoon competition again with a sincerely fought soft ball game between Cub Pack #141, and the Sports

Dept. of Delaware State News, led by Randy Berkeley and Ralph Friso. The game went 24 innings to a final 12-12

tie. What a game and thrills! Barbie and Her Southern Gentlemen

Caulk set for 3rd term

Saying the people of his district deserve a strong voice in Dover, Rep. G. Wallace Caulk, Jr. (R-Frederica) has announced his candidacy for a third term in the Delaware House of Representatives.

Caulk, who chairs the House Agriculture Committee, was instrumental in passing several pieces of farming legislation, including a $260,000 state funded allotment for crop insurance and the creation of the Farm Assistance Task Force.

A just introduced Caulk bill would require girls under 18 to obtain written permission from her parents or guardians before obtaining an abortion. The bill is designed to bring parents and children together in times of crisis, fostering a stronger family unit.

"The residents of the 33rd district need a strong spokesperson who will stand up for family values of hard working men and women. I will continue to be an advocate for Kent County," said Caulk.

Caulk, who has been in office since 1984, lives in Frederica with his wife Barbara and son Terry.

16 compete in 1988 Miss Delaware

Teen USA Pageant

Sixteen young women throughout Delaware will vie for the 1988 Miss Delaware Teen USA crown on Saturday, April 23, 1988 in Milford, Delaware. The Southern Delaware Chamber of Commerce announced recently that the prize package for the pageant has increased to over $15,000. The total package includes scholarships from Wesley College, Goldie Beacom's Pike Creek Valley, Wilmington or Milford campus, Delaware Technical & Community College, the Barbizon School and John Casablancas Modeling & Career Center. The pageant will be held at the Milford High School Cafeteria.

Tickets are available at the Chamber, 204 N.E. Front Street, Milford, and will be sold the night of the pageant at the door.

The Miss Delaware USA Pageants are Delaware's largest scholarship pageants and are not funded by Delaware tax dollars.

For more information, call the Chamber at 422-3301 or in state toll free 1-800-345-4200.

Local contestants are: Shawnettee' Graham of Felton; Alison Nicole Wilson of Milford; Tracy DeOnne DuCap of Houston; Pamela Marie Onusko of Milford; Susan Passwaters of Milford; and Edith Senter of Felton.

Two cars collided Saturday afternoon as they both tried to leave the Colony Inn Restaurant's parking lot at the same time. Ed Cole of New Castle in the Lincoln was hit by Mable Jean of Greenwood. Mr. Cole was on his way to Salisbury for a Moose convention. Photo by HGF.

Delaware Chapter of Arthritis Foundation kicks off fund raiser

DOVER -- On Friday the 29th of April, the Arthritis Foundation, Delaware Chapter will kick off a giant fund raiser principally to help those who suffer the dreaded disease in Kent County.

This is the first of its kind for Kent County, and through the Foundation and this fund raiser, Kent Countians will become familiar with what is available to them and is going to be available to them through the Foundation's efforts.

The Dover YMCA pool is equipped with a lift to allow those who suffer from the disease to engage in the so called aquatics therapy program. The fund raiser will help fund the construction of a ramp which will allow certain patients who wish to use the pool to be able to do so through the use of the ramp.

The fund raiser will also introduce Kent Countians to places to go for treatment of arthritis. "It is making them aware...an awareness program too", said Ms. Gail Buckler.

Ms. Buckler is chairman of the pig roast which is set for the end of the afternoon in the Boscov's parking lot. There will be live entertainment set for this time also by the Wesley Jazz ensemble.

The golf tournament which will be in the early part of the day has already been sold out.

And we had to sit for awhile,
Or that the foot stool got under the wheel
And ended in a little pile.
We know that day was rough on him
But everything worked out fine
Everyone arrived there safe

And no one was left behind.
I do not know of anyone
Who would not travel on Sam's bus,
He can do all the steering
And leave the pushing all to us.

Experimental septic tank system installed

An experimental on-site wastewater disposal system funded by the Delaware Department of Natural Resources and Environmental Control is being installed east of Greenwood.

The system, called an Evapotranspiration-Holding Tank (ET-HT) system, relies largely on natural plant systems to transpire much of the wastewater in the drainfield. Although wastewater disposal systems involving evapotranspiration have been effectively demonstrated in extremely arid terrains and climates, typically in the southwest United States, it remains to be determined whether or not this type of system will be suitable for Delaware's low-lying areas otherwise denied an on-site septic system. The ET-HT system is one option that offers some promise in the Inland Bays region.

The ET-HT is being installed by Fox and Breeding, Inc. at the Paul F. Drummond residence on Sussex County Road 611, about 1 1/2 miles south of Route 16, east of Greenwood. The 3,600 square foot system will serve Drummond's three-bedroom mobile home. DNREC is constructing the facility at a cost of $16,211. Drummond agrees to pay all operational and maintenance costs and, if the experimental system should fail (a holding tank is attached as a protective back-up measure), the construction cost of an elevated sand mound system. DNREC's On-Site Wastewater Branch will monitor the ET-HT system for three years. The final report is due in August 1990.

May 11 is Delmarva Power & Light Co. appeal hearing

The State Coastal Zone Industrial Control Board will hold a hearing May 11 on an appeal by the Delaware Audubon Society on a Coastal Zone Act Status Decision by DNREC Secretary John E. Wilson III regarding a request from Delmarva Power and Light Co. The hearing begins at 7 p.m. in the large conference room of the DNREC office at 715 Grantham Lane, New Castle.

On March 9, Wilson made a status decision which ruled that the construction and use of a buried natural gas pipeline by Delmarva Power and Light Co. in the Coastal Zone was not regulated by the Coastal Zone Act (Title 7, Chapter 70, Delaware Code). On March 28, the Delaware Audubon Society appealed the decision to the State Coastal Zone Industrial Control Board.

The Board will make its appeal decision based on evidence received at the appeal hearing from the public or other witnesses.

Persons having questions about this appeal hearing should call Dennis Brown at DNREC, at 736-5409.

Frederica Lions Club to hold "journey for sight"

On Saturday, April 23, 1988 at 10 a.m. the Murderkill Lions and Lioness Clubs of Frederica will hold a Walk-A-Thon/Bike-A-Thon to gather funds for aiding those having sight problems. Large sums of money have been assigned to the seeing eye dog program, research for eye transplants and local eye exams and providing glasses.

The events will start at the Frederica Volunteer Fire Station and cover a one mile marked route through town, approximately following that set by last spring's route. Several of the 1987 participants pedaled over twenty miles. If the weather permits, all past "T" shirt winners are requested to wear them during the competition. If it rains on April 23, the events will be postponed and held on the following Saturday, April 30 at the same time and place.

Second Street

Players schedule to perform

The Second Street Players of Milford are following the success of the musical review, "Hooray for Hollywood," with a trio of one act comedies, according to board president, Curt Stickel.

The group will perform the plays for dinner theatre with the first booking at the Colony Inn Restaurant in Milford. The evening of comedy, "Something Slightly Silly" is scheduled April 22 & 23, and May 13 & 14 with buffet starting at 6:30 p.m.

All three plays are directed by Dick Pack. In describing the one act comedies, he says they vary in degrees of good natured silliness.

The first, "A Social Event," looks at a shallow, affected pair of would-be movie stars who are not included in what is shaping up to be a premiere occasion of the season. Rosanne Pack, Marty Uffner, and Bill Warren are in the cast.

"What If Men Played Cards As Women Do" is the second comedy. The cast of Ed Changa, Dick Pack, Uffner and Warren settle in for an afternoon of cards in the midst of gossip, recipe comparison and catty remarks.

Closing the evening is what Pack rates as off-the-wall comedy. "Good Honest Food" takes the audience to a diner waiting to be discovered by Gourmet magazine. Each character in the diner proves to be wackier than the next as they carry on what they see as normal life. The cast combines all five actors from the first two plays.

Opening night, April 22, the Players are sharing their profit with the Milford Friends of the Library. Tickets for all performances can be reserved by calling 422-4210.

Free breast cancer screenings at Milford Hospital

A free breast cancer screening and educational program will be sponsored by Milford Memorial Hospital on Saturday, April 30 from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. in the Hospital's Occupational Health Department. Appointments must be made for the screening checks by calling 422-3311 or 856-9444 from 8:30 a.m. to 4 p.m., Monday through Friday, April 25-29.

To schedule an appointment or for more information, call the Hospital at 422-3311 or 856-9444.

Old Dover Days celebration date set

Dover, De...The 55th annual Old Dover Days celebration will be held in Dover on Saturday, May 7. The annual festival and showcase of the area's outstanding homes, public buildings and gardens is sponsored by the Friends of Old Dover.

The day will begin with a walk of horse-drawn carriages and fife and drum corps from the Governors House to the Green via Lockerman, Federal and Court Streets. Construction on State St. because of the Constitution Place project will not limit any of the activities planned. Opening ceremonies will be held in front of the Golden Fleece Tavern site with Mayor Crawford Carroll and Governor Michael N. Castle.

The highlight of the day is the house and garden tour, which runs from 10 a.m. to 4:30. Sites on this year's tour include Spruce Acres, Leason, O'Haron, The Hamilton Residence, Jim Kilvington Residence; the Foote Residence, the Frank Hall Davis House and the Golden Fleece Tavern site on The Green. Also open: The Governors House, the Sykes Building, the Todd House, The State House, the Allee House, the State Museum complex, Rose Cottage, Hall of Records, Legislative Hall, Supreme Court Building, Kent County Courthouse, The John Dickinson Plantation, Barratt's Chapel, Wesley United Methodist Church and Christ Episcopal Church.

The traditional maypole dancing; children's dancing; concerts--Dover Youth Chamber Ensemble, the Dover Early Music Consort; the Dover Country Dancers; the Governors tea; exhibits and demonstrations of old crafts; and the Arts and Crafts Market have been scheduled. The Dinner Bell Inn will serve luncheon. Tickets are available NOW at the following locations: Forney's, The Kitchen Cupboard and Dover Newstand in downtown Dover; The Visitor Center, Delaware Agricultural Museum, The Blue Coat Inn; Boaman's, Boscov's and Leggett of Dover Mall. Tickets will also be available the week of May 1 in the booth on The Plaza in downtown Dover.

Additional requests can be forwarded to: Old Dover Days, The Friends of Old Dover, P.O. Box 44, Dover, Delaware 19903.

Kent General offers breast screenings

Kent General Hospital will join ten other Delaware health care facilities during "Cancer Month" for a statewide breast screening effort.

On Saturday, April 23, and Tuesday, April 26, women of Central Delaware will be able to have a clinical breast exam by a physician and learn how to perform Breast Self-Examination (BSE). Both services will be performed free of charge. If desired or recommended, a mammogram (breast x-ray) will be available at a reduced charge from Dover Radiology.

The April 23 screening will be held at the Hospital. The April 26 screening will be conducted at the Smyrna Clayton Medical Services building on North Street in Smyrna.

Any woman interested in participating in the program at either site should pre-register by calling 674-7238 between 8:30 a.m. and 3:30 p.m. Additional information is available from the American Cancer Society at 734-7431.

Area volunteers recognized

For National Volunteer Week READ-ALOUD Delaware wishes to recognize the efforts of its volunteers who read to the children at the Harrington Day Care Center. The volunteers are Marie Buck, James VanSciver, Kim Vincent, and Anna Calvert. In 1987 the children were read to one-on-one a total of 21 hours.

Carrie Brown, the center's director, is also a working volunteer on the READ-ALOUD Delaware Kent County Steering Committee.

People interested in volunteering should call Carol Perrington at 674-4423.

Super summer safety kit program for school children

Students attending elementary schools in Lake Forest School District are being provided with an extra measure of safety this summer. Each child will be given a special SUMMERTIME SAFETY EDUCATION PROGRAM which has been provided through Sampling Corporation of America in cooperation with the National Safety Council and sponsored by Del Monte Pudding Cup (r), Fruit Cup (r), Fruit-in-Gel (tm) Cup and Applesauce Cup (r); and Medi-Quik (r) First Aid Sprays and Ointments, these brands are concerned about safety for children. The program is designed to educate children on the important areas surrounding summertime safety such as: Bicycles safety, water safety, fire safety and general safety including first aid. The program includes a special PARENT CHILD SAFETY ACTIVITY Booklet for children and their parents, a collection of fun safety message stickers including an important phone safety sticker and a supply of classroom safety posters for participating schools. These serve as a reminder of the need to be extra cautious during these summer months.

This program is especially important during the summer months when children are less supervised. The program is being distributed to create a broad needed awareness among children, parents and the community. Children will benefit from an effort to make their summertime experiences safer!

Kelly-Snow Jones receives national award

The National Secondary Education Council announced recently that Kelly-Snow Jones has been named a Scholastic All-American. The NSEC has established the Scholastic All-American Scholar Award Program in order to offer deserved recognition to superior students who excel in the Academic disciplines. The Scholastic All-American Scholars must earn a 3.3 or better grade point average. Only Scholars selected by a secondary school instructor, counselor, or other qualified sponsor are accepted. These scholars are also eligible for other awards given by the NSEC. These are awards few students can ever hope to attain.

Kelly-Snow Jones who attends Lake Forest High School was nominated for this National Award by Coach Pat Borowski. Kelly-Snow Jones will appear in the Scholastic All-American Scholar Directory, which is published nationally.

"Recognizing and supporting our youth is more important than ever before in American history. Certainly, winners of the Scholastic All-American Awards should be congratulated and appreciated for their dedication to excellence and achievement," said Dr. George Stevens, Executive Director of the National Secondary Education Council.

The Council selects Scholastic All-American Scholars upon the exclusive recommendations of teachers, coaches, counselors, and other qualified sponsors. Once awarded, the students may be recognized by the NSEC for other honors.

Kelly-Snow Jones is the daughter of Brandy and Lois Jones. Her grandparents are Dr. & Mrs. Ralph Jones of Dewey Beach, Delaware and Rev. & Mrs. Charles Priebe of St. Petersburg, Fla.

Lake Forest students busy with science olympiad

Lake Forest High School students are active this spring preparing for and competing in the Delaware Junior and Senior Science Olympiads at Delaware State College.

The Science Olympiads take place every spring at Delaware State College. Over fifty schools from all over the state send teams to compete in science-oriented contests that test the students' knowledge, imagination and process skills. Some events require students to build something before they go, such as a bridge or a container to catch an egg safely from three stories up. Other events require students to study facts from a variety of subjects. Still other events have the students show how good their skills are with a variety of scientific equipment and processes. The competition begins early on a Saturday and runs all day.

The Senior Science Olympiad has already taken place on March 26. Sixteen tenth- and eleventh-graders competed in events ranging from Science Bowl, where teams of four competed on general knowledge science questions, to Mousetrap Vehicles, where students designed and built beforehand, a vehicle powered solely by a mousetrap.

Competitors from Lake Forest were David Bennett, Bonita Benson, Grace Bradford, Tara Crowe, Travis Duffin, Suzanne Englehart, Bill Hill, Chris Masten, Elizabeth Phillips, Scott Pierce, Eric Redden, Paul Schafer, Paula Smith, Laura Towers and Christine Trzecz. The coaches of the two teams were Mrs. Gail Hill and Mrs. Vicky Boyd. The students competed in over 20 different events in the course of the day. Results for the teams were:

Paula Smith and Chris Trzecz-9th in "Water, Water Everywhere."

Paul Schafer and Suzanne Englehart-8th in "Write It, Do It."

Scott Pierce and Paul Schafer-6th in "Mousetrap Vehicles."

David Bennett, Grace Bradford, Tara Crowe and Chris Masten-3rd in "Pentathlon."

Eric Redden-2nd in "Puzzlers." Individuals and teams who placed in 1st, 2nd or 3rd place received Olympic-style medals.

"The teams' style was cramped a little bit by bad weather," Mrs. Boyd said. "A number of events were cancelled, such as the Egg Drop and Orienteering contests, which our students had planned to compete in. Some of the students had spent a lot of time preparing for these events!"

Mrs. Boyd went on to emphasize the spirit of the competition: "The success or failure of the team doesn't depend at all on the number of medals won. The biggest positive aspect of the day is how much fun the kids have and how enthusiastic they get about their projects before they go. Getting a team selected and going is always a lot of work but it always pays off in the enthusiasm that is exhibited that day."

The Junior Science Olympiad will take place on April 23, with a team of 5 Lake Forest ninth-graders competing: Stephanie Mannering, Frank Hinspeter, Brandi Sheeler, Tim Shih and Mike Waples. These students have been working since before Easter on bridges, mousetrap vehicles and other projects.

In the meantime, their coach, Mrs. Vicky Boyd, has been helping to organize the National Science Olympiad, which will take place in Delaware for the first time on May 21. The National Olympiad Steering Committee, of which Mrs. Boyd is a member, has been working for a year to arrange the logistics of having over 1500 students come to Delaware from all over the country. They will stay for two to three days in the Dover area and compete on Saturday. "The details involved in orchestrating an event this size are incredible", stated Mrs. Boyd. "Every time we meet, another world of details opens up, which need to be solved. Things are falling into place nicely, though, and we're looking forward to a successful weekend in May."

LF South Elementary students view planets

Dr. Patrick Gleeson, Physics Professor at Delaware State College, recently visited the third grade classes at Lake Forest South Elementary in Harrington.

He led students through a discussion of the galaxy and the planets Venus and Jupiter.

Many students returned in the evening to the school parking lot to view Venus, Jupiter and the moon through a telescope set up by Dr. Gleeson.

The Delmarva District Wesleyan Men's Appreciation Banquet is set for Saturday evening, April 23 in the Felton Fire Hall starting at 6:00 p.m. Mr. and Mrs. Harold Mervine will be the honored guests from Calvary Wesleyan.

The Sunday services at Calvary Wesleyan are as follows: Sunday School at 9:30; Morning Worship service at 10:40 and the Evening Gospel Hour at 6:00. Special songs this week by Heidi Conran, Jack and Lois Carpenter, and Bill Mervine. A warm welcome awaits you at all services.

Birthday greetings this week to April Sherwood, and Mrs. Regina Brown.

Asbury United Methodist Church

William Dore, Pastor
"Delight thyself also in the Lord; and He shall give thee the desires of thine heart." Psalm 37:4

The members of the confirmation class were received into membership at Sunday's service. They are Derek Brode, Cindy McCarter, Jenny McCarter, Heather Beauchamp and David Steller. May you yield to the Holy Spirit's leading as you grow in the love and knowledge of our Lord Jesus Christ.

Next Sunday will be a treat as the Ebenezer Bell Choir will be a part of the service. A luncheon will follow and all are welcome to attend. The Methodist Women need to know how many to expect for the luncheon, and ask that you notify a member of the UMW if you will be there.

WBOC Channel 16 carries the United Methodist program "Catch the Spirit" on Sundays at 8:30 a.m. Tune in for a look at Faith in action nearby and around the world.

Asbury's Prayer Chain uplifts persons and situations in prayer. If you have a concern for which you would like prayer, contact Kathy Monroe at 398-8482. Or you may wish to place your concern in the Prayer Box in the Chapel. Prayers are made without the box being opened.

Vacation Bible School is in the planning stage and volunteers are needed to help in many areas. If you are willing to participate in any way, please contact Sue Ellen Dennis or Jerry Layne.

Wednesday at 8 p.m. the Revelation II Study with Pastor Dore continues.

Serving next Sunday: Acolyte: John Layne; Bell Ringer: David Steller; Greeters: Mrs. Calvin Wells and Mrs. Hayward Quillen; Nursery: Kenna and Kelly Adams.

Prospect United Methodist Church

Psalm 71:5a For thou art my hope, O Lord God.

A darling little girl, Ashley Rae Gannon, daughter of Raymond and Christine Gannon, was baptised Sunday, April 17, 1988 in Prospect Church. Many members and friends of the Gannon family were present to witness the baptism.

Rev. Holliday's sermon was "From Gloom to Glory". In John's Gospel the 21st chapter is like an epilogue. It tells of the restoration and rehabilitation of Peter after Christ's resurrection. Peter was trying to pick up the pieces as we so often have to do after the death of a loved one. He was remembering the upper room and the last supper, and the apostasy when he denied the Lord. If we know Christ has risen it will turn gloom into glory -- it gives us new hope -- new life -- new opportunity.

Donna Hinzman gave the children's sermon to an overflowing row of children. She spoke of paying our debts as we go thru life, but Christ paid the debt for our sins.

The choir gave great glory to the song "Victory In Jesus". Hyland Webb led the Psalter; Vivian Dill read Scripture; ushers were Hyland Webb and Mark Wagner.

Our prayer list this week: Sonny Shultie, Jerry Hayman, Frank Tharp, Elizabeth Donovan, Nellie Walls, Marshall Anthony, Lyman Wroten. We praise God for Jean Miller's safe return and for George Bissell being able to return to work.

Coming events: April 20, Family Nite, 6:30 p.m., Prospect; April 21, U.M.W., 1:00 p.m., Prospect; April 23, Covered Dish and Hymn Sing, 6:00 p.m., Trinity Church.

Services at Prospect every Sunday morning, 8:45 Sunday School. Worship Service. All are welcome.

That being justified by his grace, we should be made heirs according to the hope to eternal life. Titus 3:7.

Harrington Baptist Church

We welcome into the fellowship of the church, Mr. Harold Workman, upon his profession of faith in Jesus Christ and his baptism at Sunday's Morning Service.

Last Sunday, we had as a Gideon Speaker, Mr. Carlton Goodhand. We learned about the work of Gideons International here in the community and around the world, placing God's Word into the hands of the unsaved. Thank you for sharing this important work.

Wednesday evening (tonight), Mr. Lem Collins, who works with migrant workers in the northern part of Delaware. This will begin at 7 p.m. Come out and hear about the ministry to migrants in Delaware and Maryland and perhaps become involved.

The Baptist Women's prayer group will meet Tuesday, April 26 at 10 a.m.

There will be a clothes give-away at the church, April 28, beginning at 9:30 a.m. til 12 noon. Those in need are welcome.

Nursery workers for Sunday will be Henry and Treva Yoho.

The Brotherhood Breakfast will be Sunday at 8 a.m. here at the church. All men and boys are invited. Abe Ellison will be the speaker.

Happy Birthday wishes go out this week to Fred Bailey.

"But we believe that through the grace of the Lord Jesus Christ we shall be saved even as they." Acts 15:11 Even Christians can disagree without destroying fellowship. That's because fellowship means "community," not conformity. Frequently, though, we have difficulty giving up long-held ideas or customs--even when they have little to do with the heart of the gospel. Has a knotty question arisen within your church, Bible Study group, or circle of friends? First, recognize that differences are normal. Second, if your group is small enough, follow the proper channels to call your group together for its own "council". Let everyone be heard, but agree ahead of time to search the scriptures together, pray and seek the Lord's will in the answer. Be sure to end with a time of fellowship!

St. Bernadette's Catholic Church

A Special Award is to be given to Monsignor Thomas Reese, pastor of St. Bernadette's on Friday, April 29th at Hotel duPont in Wilmington. The Delaware Bar Association has selected Msgr. Reese as its Liberty Bell Award winner for 1988. This honor recognized community service which strengthens the effectiveness of the American system of freedom under law. It highlights those who promote a better understanding of our form of government, especially the Bill of Rights; those who encourage greater respect for law and the courts; who stimulate a deeper sense of individual responsibility to the end that citizens recognize their duties as well as their rights; who contribute to the effective functioning of our institutions of government and who inculcate a better understanding and appreciation of the rule of law. Congratulations and best wishes, Father Reese! We are so proud of you!

Youth Ministry-High school students from St. Bernadette's are invited to the monthly CYO meetings at the home of Mary Pinkney. Call Mary for more information (398-1821).

First Eucharist-Parents who are preparing their children for this sacrament should call Elaine Hanus (422-5123) to make an appointment for an interview with candidate sometime before celebration of First Eucharist.

Religious Education-programs will meet through and including May 1st. On May 1st we will close with a special May crowning celebration.

Congratulations to those who recently celebrated the sacrament of Confirmation with Bishop Robert Mitzer: Dawn Schaffner, Lea Fitzgerald, Wayne Crisco, Dan McLaughlin and Kathy Drabbant.

First Reconciliation-(Confession) will be celebrated on Saturday morning, April 30th at St. John's. All children whose parents have been preparing for this should attend (with their parents) the final meeting on Monday evening, April 25th at St. John's from 7:15-8:30 p.m.

St. Stephen's Episcopal Church

Raughley Hill Road, Harrington. The Rev'd. Susan Mills, Vicar. Sundays: Church School-9:30 a.m.; Holy Eucharist-11:00 a.m.

On April 17, the third Sunday of Easter, our guest was Nancy Cassell. Ms. Cassell is the newly appointed Christian Education consultant for the Episcopal Diocese of Delaware. She presented a workshop for members of St. Stephen's following the Sunday liturgy. Ms. Cassell also introduced St. Stephen's members to some of the new Christian Education materials available.

On Sunday, April 24, the church celebrates the fourth Sunday of Easter. The Holy Eucharist will be celebrated at 8 a.m. Church School for adults and children begins at 9:30. Morning Prayer will be offered at 11. The Vicar will preach on "Jesus, the Good Shepherd" (John 10:11-16).

The women of St. Stephen's are happy to invite our neighbors and friends to hear Rabbi Sue Levy, of Congregation Beth Shalom in Dover. Rabbi Levy will share her perspective on the current political situation in the Middle East. Please come to St. Stephen's parish hall on Thursday, May 5 at 7:30 p.m.

St. Stephen's Church will host a Choir Festival on May 15th. Choirs from all over the Episcopal Diocese of Delaware will participate in Evensong with special music. The service will begin at 5 p.m. Jack Burnam, of Immanuel Church, Highlands, will direct. The Rt. Rev'd. Cabell Tennis, Bishop of Delaware, will officiate. The Bishop of our companion diocese of Pretoria, South Africa, will preach. A reception will follow the service. We cordially invite our friends and neighbors to be present at St. Stephen's for this very special event.

On April 19th, members of the parish met with consultant Ted Wilson to continue exploring our mission and ministry in our community. Mr. Wilson will meet again with parishioners on April 26th at 7 p.m. All members of the parish are encouraged to participate in this process.

Bible Study is held each Wednesday morning at 9 a.m. The Holy Eucharist, with special prayers for the healing of the sick is offered on Wednesday evenings at 7 p.m. Names of the sick may be submitted for inclusion in the prayers. Please call the parish office (398-3710) Wednesday morning between 9 a.m. and noon. Anyone is welcome to attend the healing services.

Lake Forest Spartans are 2nd in Burgess Invitational

by Keith S. Burgess
 Jim Blades' Spartan boys' track team finished second, in the Ninth Annual Keith S. Burgess Track and Field Invitational, held in blustery, cold conditions, at Lake Forest High School, Saturday afternoon.
 The Spartans trailed Salesianum and Caesar Rodney, two of Delaware's most populous schools, in the battle for second place. Late wins in the 400 and 800 relays and the pole vault, gave the locals the runner-up spot, in the 16-team meet. Wilmington's Howard High, the 1987 Group I state champ scored 100 points to 79 for Lake Forest's 1987 Group II state champs.
 Mark Tozer and Jason Tiggs, two top Spartan point-makers were ill, possibly costing the locals enough points to win the meet, since they were sidelined, during their strong events, the 1600 and 400 meter runs respectively.
 Tozer still managed a third, at 3200 meters, in 10 minutes and 1 second. We would rate that as a better performance than the 9.53 plus, he ran last May, when terrible weather conditions prevailed.
 Tiggs performed admirably in shorter races, taking the 200 meters, in a swift 22.7, with teammate, Terrain Giddens, getting second in 23.1. The pair scored 18 late points and surprised a Howard sprinter, who had blithely announced to his coach, that he was going to "smoke" his rivals, at 200 meters.

 Giddens, Tiggs, Rod Parker, and sophomore Petey Davis relayed 800 meters, in a winning 1:33.8. Parker, Davis, Giddens and Herman Mosley took the 400 meters, in 45.38.
 Davis, a first year sprinter surprised by soaring 20 feet, 11 inches to get third in the long jump. Marvin Hicks was third, in the shot put, with Paul Adkins getting second, in the discus.
 Wade Salsibury was fifth in the high jump with freshman, Mac Holmes, finishing fourth, in the triple jump.
 State champion, Bob Reed, clear 12-6, in the pole vault, to assure his team second place.
 Africia Bell cleared 5 feet for second, in the high jump, with Arlene May getting second at 100 meters in the girls' meet. Mary McGuire placed, in both the high jump and the discus. Deanna Scott placed in the long jump.
 Tonya Morris, Arlene May, Shani Palmer, Renee Coverdale were second, in the 400 relay (54.4). May, Norris, Palmer, Tara Dixon were 4th, in the 800 relay. Lake was 8th with 34 points.

Jim Blades records 100th track victory

by Keith S. Burgess
 Lake Forest High Schools boys' track team, crushed Sussex Central 96-50 and gave Coach Jim Blades, his 100th victory. The Spartans are undefeated, in dual meets and have not been extended, this season.
 Terrain Giddens figured, in four victories for Lake Forest. Giddens swept the 100 (11.5) and 200 meter (23.5) runs, ran on the 400 relay (45.3) with Rod Parker, Petey Davis & Herman Mosley and the 800 relay (1:36.9) with Parker, Davis and Jason Tiggs.
 Tiggs blazed the 400 meters, in 51.6, with freshman, Mac Holmes and junior Mike Eck completing the sweep. Holmes (40-7) Tiggs and Ray Smith swept the triple jump.
 Eck, Darren Lawson, Scott Pierce and Mark Tozer annexed the opening 3200 relay. Pierce and Mike Sanders were 2-3, at 3200 meters. Tozer (1:40.8) was first at 1600 meters, with Paul Schafer third and first at 800 meters.

Bob Reed won the pole vault (11 feet) with Darren Lawson second. Reed was third in the high jump. Holmes, Tozer, Lawson and Top Robinson captured the 1600 relay.
 Alex Winchester and Ron Hill went 1-2, in the 110 high hurdles.
 Doug Reed, Sussex Central's all-around athlete, took the long jump (20 feet, 5 1/4). Petey Davis, the Spartan super sophomore, was right behind with 20 feet, 2 1/4. Mac Holmes was third.
 Marvin Hicks (42 feet) won the shot put, with Paul Adkins second, at 41-1, his best of the year.
 Caesar Rodney, coached by Harrington area resident Charles Bell will be at Lake Forest tomorrow afternoon (Thurs.). The Riders should be the best team left on the Lake Forest dual meet schedule.
 Bell's daughter, Africia, is on the Lake Forest girls' team and this year tied an 11-year-old school record, in the high jump.

Harness Horse News

Former newspaperman winner of horse at Brandywine

Wilmington. A 71-year-old former Philadelphia newspaper writer, Joe Lowry of West Chester, PA was the winner of the "Win A Horse" contest in a drawing held at Brandywine Raceway on Friday, April 15.
 Lowry, who was a political writer for the now defunct Philadelphia Bulletin for almost 48 years, will be the owner of a 9-year-old ultra-consistent pacer, K.M.B. for a one month period. He will enjoy all the advantages of owning a harness horse but will have none of the expenses. K.M.B. has won three of his last six races and has been second three times in the span.
 The former newspaperman lives alone and has enjoyed going to the races at Brandywine regularly. Lowry, who has not missed a night at the track in two years, said, "I had a feeling that I might be lucky tonight (Friday). Maybe it's ESP or something, but I brought my identification with me to the track."

Usually I leave it in my car when I go to the track."
 Lowry already has applied for an owners license from the United States Trotting Association and after he receives a Delaware Harness Racing Commission owners license, he will be listed as owner of the mare pacer. He plans to go out to the track and see his horse the first chance he gets. As an owner, he will be able to go to the Brandywine barn area to see his horse, watch him in the Chris Mirch Stable. When the horse is entered to race, he will have the privilege of going into the paddock and should K.M.B. win a race, Lowry and his friends will be on hand for the customary photograph in the winner's circle.
 The contest winner smiled, "I'm really looking forward to being a horse owner." Lowry continued, "it's going to be fun."

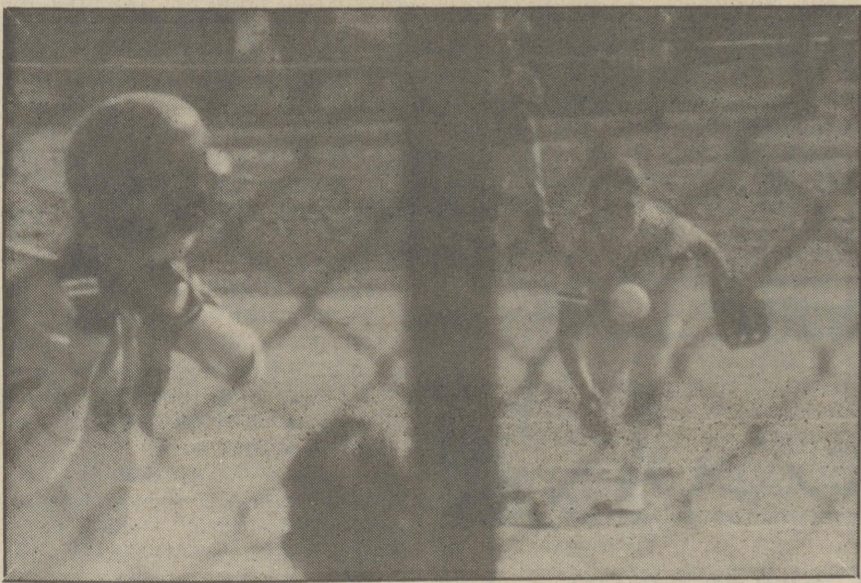

USTA rejects ban on driver whose testimony broke New York case

In a move that combines moral and ethical considerations, a message for horsemen and the practical effect of maintaining prestige of the United States Trotting Association, USTA president Corwin Nixon and executive vice president Francis X. Ready have rejected the recommendation of the association's Drivers Committee and full Board of Directors to revoke the license of Leo Bauer, the driver whose testimony played a key role in investigation of a highly questionable trifecta race at Yonkers Raceway last Nov. 11.
 Bauer testified, several weeks after the Yonkers race, that he was approached by driver Henri Filion before that race and asked about his strategy in driving his horse. Filion denied the conversation, & Bauer's credibility was challenged because of past offenses on his own record. His testimony was corroborated, however, by Anahid Avakian, the trainer of Falcon's Mann, the horse that Bauer drove, who said she overheard portions of the conversation in the Yonkers paddock. Henri Filion subsequently was barred from racing in New York state.
 When the USTA board met in Columbus April 13-16, its Drivers Committee recommended revocation of Henri Filion's license and also Bauer's, the latter for failure to report immediately to the presiding judge

"any improper, corrupt or fraudulent act in relation to racing", as required by USTA rules. The board of directors then approved that recommendation

A Special Winners Circle Presentation At Brandywine...Paul Beegle, son of driver Sam Beegle, is presented a hockey stick autographed by the Philadelphia Flyers. Mr. Rodeo Drive stalked highly rated sophomore Eddie The Quick until mid-stretch when driver Steve Elliott pulled the 5-year-old Strike Out horse on the outside and zipped past for a 1:57.3 victory in the $8,000 Invitational Handicap Sunday feature. Eddie The Quick, who finished second for driver Ross Hayter, absorbed his first loss of the season after winning his seasonal debut the week before. Armbro Fleming was third.

Ironstone Hello circled the field in the sub-feature $6,000 Open Pace as Jim Porter put the 3-year-old Most Happy Fella son into high gear from far back in front of the grandstand. They eventually took the lead approaching the three-quarters and pulled away for a decisive 1:58.4 win. Savage Breeze (Steve Elliott) closed between horses to finish second in front of J C's Bunny (Russ Thomas Jr.).

In the popular Starburst Series, the 5-year-old General Star horse Young General was rushed to the front from the eight post and driver Jeff Cameron guided an easy 1:59.4 victory in the 4th leg of the series. Cleo Escort (Tate Lewis Jr.) finished second ahead of Glad To Meet You (Whitey Moore).

Inerrie may be the most improved horse at the track. The 5-year-old daughter of Momentum was a lowly claimer over the winter at Dover Downs and raced for as low as a $1,800 claiming tag. Owned by Arlean and Karen Jerread of Harrington, she has won four of her last six starts with two seconds including a career best 1:59.3 clocking for regular driver Larry Manges on the Sunday card. Mrs. Jerread trains the mare who now has won 3 times this year in 14 starts with 3 seconds and a third. Howard Taylor got behind stakes winning Sunny Disposition in the Saturday Fillies and Mares Open Pace and the full time attorney and occasional driver, Howard Taylor pointed the No Nukes 4-year-old to the front and they were never headed in a 2:00 victory. It wasn't an easy journey. Jody Stafford also tried to take the lead with Jameela from the outside six post but never was able to clear and was outside through the fastest fractions of the mile, 28.3 to the quarter and a 58 half. After shaking off that challenge, Sunny Disposition built a two-length lead at the three-quarters and held it until the final strides of a head victory. Easier-Said received a near perfect trip sitting in the garden spot behind the front action, but the urging of driver Don Milby was not enough to grasp the margin at the wire. Jameela, despite the rough voyage, held on for third.

In the sub-feature, Courtesy Of Time found room between horses in deep stretch and driver Ed Gannon, Jr. squeezed the 4-year-old Trenton Tina mare through for a 2:02 triumph in a $5,000 division.

Andy Stafford finally got to the winner's circle in one of two $4,000 4th leg sections of the Starlet Series for female pacers. He ushered Victoria's Darling into the lead after the opening quarter and extended the advantage to two and three-quarter lengths at the end of a 2:00.3 score. T J Sizzling (Jerry Nock) was second in front of Reelux (Ross Hayter).

The fastest win on the program belonged to Cass Ole', whom Whitey Moore, of Wyoming guided to a remarkable eleven length 1:57.4 triumph, the first of a driving double for the evening.

Friday night racing was marked by a downpour just before post time.

Longshot Gatepost Colleen, the only mare in the field for the $8,000 Open Trot, overtook Donovan Hanover in the stretch enroute to a 2:04.3. Jim Murray was at the controls for the length and a half win. Veteran Farrah Sam (Jeff Cameron) closed for second with Donovan Hanover (Ken McNutt) third. The $5,000 division was taken by Naylin Pride N with Ross Hayter in 2:05.3. Earthquaker D (Mark Beckwith) and Whitehall (Harry Harvey) were second and third respectively.

Acelynn took an overland route for Wilmington native Bob Winkelman to win a 2:01.2 section of the Sidewheeler Series. Young Hawk (Hayter) and Tommy Lee Lobell (Joe Sersone) chased him across the finish line. Barbara Delaney and Please Please were never headed for the second straight week in a 2:01.3 win in the other $1,000 division. Sea Swirl (Bob Larente) and Braggadocio (Tom Valine) were right behind.

The Princess Series for fillies and mares got underway on Tuesday. Highly raced Our Little Lulu picked up the fastest victory of 5 divisions. Mike Simons steered the Slapstick 4-year-old to a 2:01.3 win. Other divisions went to Armbro Owen (Gary Del Cameron II) and Classy Nancy (Darlene Heber), each in 2:02. Bret's High Flight (Linda Macdonald) was a 2:02.1 winner. Fusanellie (Don Weist) won 2:03 and Bret's Ace (Archie Peel) in 2:03.3.

Harrington's Bob Shahan continues to lead the driver column. The defending champ scored his fifth double of the meet on the Sunday program.

Area drivers Eddie Dennis, Whitey Moore and Joe Dugan, Jr. also had a big winning week while Newark veteran Archie Peel enjoyed an excellent run winning three straight starts. He directed Bret's Ace to victory on Tuesday. Muddy Run on Wednesday and Nasus Fran the next night.

Young Dennis won both halves of the Thursday Twin Trifecta. The talented Harrington horseman piloted 10-1 Waverly's Image in the 8th and followed with 21-1 Bully to victory in the 9th.

USTA rejects ban on driver

and passed it on to the president, who under USTA by-laws has the power of license revocation or refusal. President Nixon, in considering the recommendations, agreed on license denial for four drivers, including Henri Filion, but not Bauer.

The moral and ethical issues centered around the fact that Bauer did come forward, albeit late, to testify on being approached. Numerous racing officials have indicated that without such cooperation successful prosecution in the sport is extremely difficult. Some of those favoring Bauer's suspension for technical violation of USTA rules in not reporting the approach promptly felt he may have ultimately reported it only after plea bargaining with New York racing officials on other violations on his own record. Be that as it may, the corroboration by Ms. Avakian, whose record is completely clean and whose character appears unassailable, appears to verify Bauer's testimony. If Bauer told the truth, the delay in telling it hardly seems to outweigh the fact that he ultimately did so, and some contrived the proposed license denial as punishment for coming forward. The message to horsemen in Nixon's action is clear: the door remains open, without fear of official retaliation, to tell what one knows about improper acts, even belatedly.

The practical considerations of the Nixon-Ready action in relation to USTA prestige were compelling. The New York Racing and Wagering Board, the New Jersey Racing Commission, and Yonkers and Roosevelt Raceways, and The Meadowlands all had indicated they would not heed the proposed USRA action on Bauer and would let him drive with or without a USTA license. State racing commissions, including the two named, have good relations with USTA and to invite non-compliance with its rulings served no useful purpose and would clearly indicate lack of USTA power in enforcing its rulings when states did not agree with them.

Letter to the Editor

Dear Editor:
Today I filed for a seat on the Woodbridge Board of Education. I took this step only after being urged to do so by the people of the Woodbridge District. I am humbled and overwhelmed by the tremendous number of individuals and organizations that have asked me to take this step.
It has always been my position that all of us have a civic responsibility to serve when called upon to do so. I cannot ask others to do what I myself would not do. With that in mind, I have decided to seek this position.
The first fourteen years of my professional career were spent in Education as a teacher and an administrator. When I resigned the school principalship at Woodbridge High School in 1973 to become Sussex County Administrator, I left a school district that was progressive and a credit to the people of the Bridgeville-Greenwood-Farmington area. That is not the case today. Staff moral is low, taxpayers' disillusionment is high - our kids are suffering - and that is exactly why I have decided to run. Our kids must come first. The Woodbridge District was once an outstanding district - together we can be outstanding again. "We can dare to be great."

Please join with me as we reach for educational achievement, community support, and teacher satisfaction. Let us dare to be great together once more.

S.2278 + IRA equals BA, MBA or PHD

by U.S. Senator Bill Roth
S. 2278 + IRA equals BA, MBA or PHD. Is this a strange new algebraic equation? No, this is my formula for helping families and individuals deal with the escalating cost of a college or other postsecondary education. I recently introduced a bill (S.2278), the Education Savings Fund Act which would allow for the early withdrawal from Individual Retirement Accounts (IRAs) without penalty when the funds are used for college or other postsecondary education. My bill promotes savings and education - both good investments in our future.
Meeting the cost of a college or other postsecondary education has always been difficult for many families and individuals. Federal student financial assistance, which I have strongly supported, has certainly made it possible for many students to achieve their educational goals over the last thirty years. In fact, half the students pursuing college or other postsecondary educations today rely on some form of federal financial assistance.
With current escalating college costs, I think it is also important to promote private savings as an important addition to this effort. As I have said before, there is no issue of more critical importance to the American people and this nation than the issue of savings. We need to meet the challenge of becoming competitive in the emerging world economy by encouraging savings. For this reason, I have always been a strong supporter of IRAs.

Part of our future and equally important to our success in meeting the competitive challenges of the years ahead involves the ability of our people to realize their potential through education. Therefore, it seems to me that allowing individuals to make penalty free early withdrawals from the IRAs for postsecondary education is a logical match.
There are many advantages to my proposed arrangement. First, my plan uses the already existing IRA framework so there would be no need to set up a separate account. Not only are IRAs a known quantity with a range of investment choices, they also enjoy a very broad participation with a large capital pool. Current figures indicate that 28 million households participate in IRAs with approximately $250 billion saved. Finally, there is the advantage that these funds could help meet people's needs immediately.
My bill would help the nation and many Americans live up to the challenges ahead and aspire to reach full potential. That's as good or better than money in the bank.

The job abacus: no guide to public policy

by James C. McClure and T. Norman Van Cott
Media economic "experts" typically gauge economic events by counting jobs. Regardless of the issue, they measure the desirability of policies and outcomes in terms of the jobs that are allegedly created or destroyed. To the "experts," a neverending shortage of job opportunities is the economic problem against which public policies must be arrayed.
Over the last few years, this mind-set has been especially visible in media discussions of government policy toward international trade and plant closings/relocations. With respect to international trade, it is common to observe comparisons of jobs embodied in exports and jobs "lost" because imports are not produced domestically. International trade is judged good or bad depending on whether export-related jobs exceed or fall short of import-related jobs. The reasoning with respect to plant closings/relocations is similar - the change is beneficial only if employment is greater at the new production facilities than at the old facilities.
Regardless of what the experts' abacuses tell us, however, we contend that their answers are irrelevant for measuring economic success. They contradict the fundamental proposition upon which all economic analysis is based - resource scarcity.
Mankind has an unquenchable thirst for goods and services. People cannot command sufficient labor, capital, and raw materials to produce all the goods and services they want. Thus, people have to choose the goods and services they value most.
Humans are thus cursed with unlimited desires in a world of limited resources. The term that economists use to describe this circumstance is scarcity, and it is this scarcity that undermines the efforts of the job counters.
Man's inability to satisfy all his desires implies, by definition, that there are employment opportunities which continually go begging. Although this precludes a scarcity of jobs in general, one can correctly argue that there is a shortage of "good" jobs. Overcoming a scarcity of "good" jobs, however, is not susceptible to the quick-fix nostrums of the alleged media experts. Quite the contrary, sustained success in dealing with this latter scarcity is possible only with increases in an economy's productive capabilities.
How can one reconcile the idea of job overabundance with the observation that unemployment is an economic fact of life? Economists have long noted that dynamic, growing economies always have unemployed resources. This dynamism inevitably means that the locations of some job opportunities are always changing.

Those losing jobs as a consequence of these changes aren't fully aware of where new opportunities are emerging, nor are employers with the newly-available jobs fully aware of potential employees. It is beneficial for all concerned to devote time to "job search" - a euphemism for what is popularly known as unemployment. Search enables employees to find better jobs while simultaneously enabling employers to find better employees. Although stop-start government monetary and fiscal policies disrupt the ease with which this matching occurs, better employer-employee matches lead to higher living standards.
While unemployment due to job searching, properly seen, increases wealth, other forms of unemployment destroy wealth. The latter emanate from the coercive power of the state. For example, government-sanctioned monopolies in labor and product markets prevent some people from producing what are actually higher valued goods and services. The excluded resources are forced into either unemployment or lower-valued alternatives. Likewise, minimum wage laws prevent the unskilled from selling their services at a price that is attractive to consumers.
Having an actual, honest-to-goodness number upon which to judge economic phenomena is a security blanket for media experts and laymen alike. It not only eliminates the need for rigorous thinking, it also enables one to exude a sense of precision about the matters at issue.
Unfortunately, the job abacus diverts attention from the first principles of economics. Instead, attention becomes riveted on a number that, though it is meaningless in an economic sense, is potentially dangerous to our economic health. Changes in technology, managerial techniques, and consumer desires come to be seen as enemies. However, history is replete with examples showing that the economic race is always won by those societies most open to these changes. If we wish to promote economic success, it is better to remember the lessons of economic history and forget the job abacus.

Professors McClure and Van Cott teach in the Department of Economics at Ball State University, Muncie, Indiana. This article is adapted from the April 1988 issue of The Freeman.

"Stamped Signatures"

by James H. VanSciver
Superintendent
If there is an enigma in the life of one who has substantial responsibility for a number of people and programs in a school district, it is the signature stamp.
As superintendent of schools, I find that there are many forms, reports and certificates that are incomplete without my signature.
I assume that the signature verifies completeness of the form, accuracy of the report and interest in and appreciation for those to receive the certificates.
To sign means one thing; to read each and every page, to understand to ensure accuracy is something else. The paperwork in the "in box" each day may best be described as voluminous.
As a means of curtailing, to an extent, the amount of time required to review all this material and affix the signature, the signature stamp was created. To be sure, its inventors had nothing but good intentions in their minds.

However, I now see that the stamp itself has served as a means to circumvent the reason for requiring a signature at all. It has become easier to stamp than sign; it has become easier to stamp than verify; it has become easier to stamp than appreciate.
At times the one doing the stamping may not even be the one for whom the stamp was issued!
It is not an easy situation to resolve. There may simply be too many pieces of paper to sign, to verify, to appreciate. One could do nothing else but sit behind the desk and verify, appreciate and sign each day, each week, each month.
This is not an issue unique to education. It is present in each and every management process in this country.
The challenges of management.
I abhor the signature stamp, much the same as I do the form letters that look personal simply as a result of new and better technology.
I like my real signature. It's not the best. I've been told it's nearly unreadable.
But it's me.
I'd also like to think I'm getting a little better at verifying and appreciating.
Who knows, my signature may get better. I get plenty of practice.

Position statement of Medical Society of Delaware Blue Ribbon AIDS Commission

Presented by:
The Honorable Robert C. O'Hara
Today, (April 15, 1988) Delaware must sadly report that it is approaching its 100th case of AIDS. We stand at the threshold of an exponential epidemic. If current projections hold, by 1991, Delaware will have between 1,000 and 1,500 deadly cases with perhaps 7,500 individuals infected with HIV (the virus that causes AIDS). In Delaware, 77 individuals have already died. Rates for children born with the virus are increasing. There is still no cure. This sobering news must be met with a call for action to design a full range of prevention and intervention strategies.
Members of the Blue Ribbon AIDS Commission of the Medical Society of Delaware therefore recommend the following actions:
1. Our elected and appointed officials must provide bold leadership for Delaware to begin aggressive, preventive action. State, County and Federal officials must not rely solely on federal funding to deal with this epidemic.
2. The Executive Branch of State Government must join the General Assembly in providing adequate funding for education and intervention programs, specifically, to the Department of Corrections, the Department of Public Instruction, the Department of Services for Children, Youth and Their Families and the Division on Public Health.
3. The General Assembly must appropriate funds for testing centers, prevention and education programs, treatment and long term care of persons with AIDS.
4. Delaware must spend dollars on educating the public commensurate with other states. We lag far behind other states in providing such funds.
5. Community organizations and businesses must join the battle to increase awareness, dispel prejudice and provide education!
6. Churches must make this issue a high priority and provide education and awareness programs.
7. Although, the Department of Public Instruction has designed an excellent program for AIDS education, it must receive support of school boards and superintendents to make programs effective in reaching students and changing their behaviors.
8. The media must serve a vital function in educating the public about the dangers and what can and must be done, and in dispelling the myths about AIDS.
9. Health care professionals must increase their efforts to provide information, deliver a wider variety of support services and continue research efforts for a cure.
10. All individuals must take personal responsibility to determine if they are carrying the AIDS virus and to change high risk behaviors. AIDS will touch one in five families. No single group can resolve this without a partnership among individuals, private, federal, state, county and local government agencies.

Senatorial Report 18th District

by Rep. Ruth Ann Minner
18th Senatorial District
With the number of highway fatalities climbing to all-time record levels this year, you can imagine that highway safety is a major concern of all of us in the General Assembly. The awful fact is that so far in 1988 the rate of highway fatalities is more than twice that of the next worst year in Delaware history!
So it's a good idea for all of us to be more careful than ever when we're behind the wheel during the tourist season this spring and summer. Not only are there many more cars on Delaware highways, but many of them are driven by people who are unfamiliar with the local area.
Another thing you may want to look out for this year is areas where construction is in progress and "Construction Ahead" signs are posted. Just behind the "Construction Ahead" signs are another set of temporary signs reducing the speed limit in that area to 35 m.p.h.
I know quite a few people who've gotten speeding tickets for driving at an excessive speed in one of these construction zones when they were just driving along at the same speed they usually drive through that area.
But when those signs are in place, they're the official speed limit, so be careful.

If you drive a truck there's another new development on our highways you need to look out for - load limits on bridges. The Division of Highways has started posting signs on many, if not all, bridges in the state setting weight limits for that bridge.

This can create a problem for heavy trucks, especially when the bridge in question is on a major highway. If the state sets up its portable scales and weighs your truck and it's over the limit, you get cited with a violation.
One problem is that the Division of Highways seems to find it a whole lot easier to tell truckers their rigs are too heavy for a particular bridge, than to get around to fixing the bridge. When the bridge is on a secondary road, that's not too much of a problem.
But some of the bridges we're talking about here are at well-travelled places on major highways like the Waples Pond Bridge on Delaware Route One and the U.S. 13 Bridge just north of Smyrna. This means the trucks that are too heavy have to take an alternate route which can often add both extra mileage and extra time.
Ironically, a lot of the trucks that are too heavy are those hauling asphalt to repair other highways. I talked recently to one highway contractor about his problems with bridges.
He started out having to haul asphalt 20 miles from the plant to the job site and now because of load limits on a bridge along the way, he's having to do an extra 10 miles on top of that to take another route.
The load limit signs are necessary, but it would be nice if the bridges could be repaired a little faster along our major highways.

SMALL BUSINESS ANGLE®

HOW TO HUMANIZE THE IRS

Death and taxes. For some citizens and business owners, they are the same. More than a few small firms have been forced out of business by what later turned out to be IRS errors. Often, injured taxpayers have no recourse. Even if a citizen succeeds in fighting a tax assessment, he or she can be bankrupted by legal costs - which courts cannot force the IRS to reimburse.
Some members of Congress think it's time the IRS had to play by the same rules as the rest of us. They have introduced the Taxpayer's Bill of Rights, legislation designed to protect taxpayers under such basic legal tenets as "innocent until proven guilty." Under current tax law, it's just the reverse.
The National Federation of Independent Business has long urged action on this legislation. This year, support for the concept is growing on Capitol Hill, fueled by voter frustration with new tax forms, rules and regulations.
Even the IRS is frustrated by tax complexity. According to the agency's annual report for 1986, more than 50 percent of all penalties assessed were rebated to taxpayers. More than 50 percent! That means a lot of Americans needlessly spent days sweating over meetings, worrying about audits and digging out receipts. Many citizens also pay hundreds and even thousands of dollars to accountants and lawyers for help.
The proposed bill, S. 1774, as introduced by Sens. Pryor, Reid and Grassley, is sound. It would require the IRS to:
• disclose to a taxpayer rights and obligations in a clear and forthright manner;
• disclose clearly the basis for any assessments of deficiencies or penalties, and clearly explain the reason for the penalty and the method used to calculate it;
• be responsible for advice or opinions given by its personnel and then used in the proper manner by a taxpayer;
• reform the procedures under which the agency can order a levy and seizure to allow taxpayers reasonable time to meet an IRS debt;
• set a standard under which a taxpayer is allowed to pay past due taxes by installments;
• bear the burden of proof that an initial IRS claim against a taxpayer was substantially justified, as required by the Equal Access to Justice Act;
• require the Treasury Secretary to certify that a rule proposed by IRS is the simplest possible, in accordance with the Regulatory Flexibility Act.
The Taxpayer's Bill of Rights is not just a business issue. This legislation has gained support from a broad spectrum of groups, including the American Civil Liberties Union.
Small-business owners know that taxes are necessary but they think that paying taxes should be as painless as possible.
John Sloan is President of the National Federation of Independent Business, representing more than half a million small-business men and women.

Person-to-Person

Wool Works

by Rebecca Moore

I like things that are natural. Fresh produce, cotton, wool, home-grown beef—they all hold far greater appeal for me than acrylics, polyester and polysorbate 80. Add to my love of natural things an equally strong love for woolly sheep, and you'll find me headed north on Route 13, to Cheswold, and the home of Phillip and Sally Bowman. Their home is unique in this part of the country, for it is not just a home, but a farm and a fascinating shop. So come with me and return to natural things—they can be found at Wool Works Farm.

Please bear in mind that when it comes to hand work, I'm a complete klutz. I can struggle through counted cross stitch and needlepoint, but that's where I stop. Should I attempt to knit or crochet, I would probably end up hopelessly tied to a chair, caught in an unyielding web of wool. My admiration for those who can knit and crochet is boundless. But Sally Bowman goes way beyond the knitting and crocheting. She starts with the animal—Sally Bowman raises sheep.

When Phillip and Sally got married, Sally gave Phillip a rather unusual gift. This one had four legs and a pink tongue and a fluffy white coat, and was a Samoyed puppy. Samoyed dogs are known for their fur—it is thick, soft and as white as snow. But after the Bowmans acquired their puppy, they learned another fascinating fact about their little treasure—the Samoyed's fur is "spinnable". When the hot weather arrives, and the dog is clipped, his fur can be spun on a spinning wheel and turned into yarn. This little bit of trivia got the Bowmans involved in something that would turn into far more than just a hobby.

Sometime later, thanks to Phillip, Sally got her first spinning wheel. She found that the motion of the mechanism and the whirling sound it made were quite pleasing to her. She made a few contacts, and she was well on her way into a fascinating hobby, or so she thought. But the fleeces she was able to acquire from other people were not at all what she desired—their quality was less than perfect, and her enjoyment in spinning temporarily had a wet blanket thrown on it. That's when Phillip and Sally decided to raise their own sheep. That way, they had total control of what the sheep ate, their living conditions, and who they "got acquainted" with. Starting out with two sheep, it wasn't too long before it became necessary to relocate—if they were serious about this sheep business, they needed more space. So they bought the farm on Road 152, just north of Cheswold.

The farm is much like many in Delaware. A green, two-story house sits near the road. Behind it and to the right, is a large barn. When I first arrived at the farm, I didn't see any evidence of sheep anywhere—no woolly creatures galloping through the yard, or relentless baaing. Instead, flowers bloomed in this well-kept space. Sally had told me that I would find her in the barn, so I headed for the open door. And I found her, alright, and my eyes just about fell out of their sockets. So totally involved in this enterprise have Phillip and Sally become, that they have even opened a shop. This shop, located in the barn, it is definitely unique. Walls and shelves hold a veritable rainbow of every color of yarn one could imagine. Sitting in the floor by a window are several spinning wheels—one of which is the original wheel that Phillip gave Sally many years ago. Most eye-catching, though, are the looms—yes, looms—that take up a considerable amount of floor space.

puts it in her washing machine with lots of laundry detergent. Filling the machine with hot water, Sally lets the fleece soak for quite some time before turning the machine to the spin cycle. This is repeated to rinse out the detergent. The agitation cycle is never used. Even in its unprepared condition, the fleece looked so comfortable and inviting, I wanted to climb up on the table and sack out for a quick nap! That would have to wait until 11:00 that night and at home. For now, there was much to see and do.

Moving into the next room, I was again amazed. Lying on the floor, were two more fleeces, but this time, they were turned inside-out. Running my

When I arrived at the shop, I found Sally sitting behind one of her looms. She was in the process of making a shawl. Strands of yarn in blue, green, yellow and red hung loosely, waiting to be made into the tartan plaid shawl. The colors were beautiful. Looking beyond the strands, I was immediately thrown into total confusion. This wooden loom was a mass of working parts which boggled my mind. Sally saw my confusion, and made no attempt at explaining this puzzle to me—she's one smart lady. Instead, we headed out to the shop to where all this work originates.

Then I heard it—the familiar, soothing sounds of sheep. But before we got to the hoofed creatures, I was stopped short. Entering a room just off the shop, I ran smack into a table covered in an incredible "tablecloth". A huge fleece literally covered the massive table. I had never seen anything like it. Sally began walking around the table, pulling off parts of the fleece that were of no use. The fleece had recently been sheared off one of the Bowman's thirty-five sheep and Sally needed to prepare it for its eventual use. Once the unusable parts are removed, Sally takes the fleece and hands over this beautiful, cream-colored mass of wool. I noticed that my hands became extremely oily. Sally smiled. Lanolin, the oil used in your Vaseline Intensive Care Lotion, comes from the skin of sheep. The wool I had just touched had been closest to the sheep's skin and had an extremely high oil content. I had no idea that sheep were such useful little buggers! These two fleeces had just been sheared off a couple of the Bowman's "babies."

Phillip is the shearer. Although he used motorized shearing machines, he prefers the traditional method—shearing by hand.

Just beyond the fleeces were the sheep. One group of them was in a confined area, sleeping or playing games with each other. Sally explained that these sheep were headed to the Agriculture Museum for the weekend. Phillip would be shearing them at the Museum in one of the displays in the special Spring festivities. Another enclosure housed the new lambs and their moms. All of the sheep know Sally, but they didn't know me, so I wasn't able to get too close to any of them, which was a major disappointment. Oh, well, at least I got to look.

It was a cold day, so Sally and I returned to the shop to warm up and talk. I remembered reading in my James Herriot books about the problems he faced every Spring as a country vet during lambing season. Sheep owners would drag him out of his warm bed at the most outrageous hours of the night, insisting that he come and assist in the birth of a lamb. Arriving at the designated farm, eyelids still half closed, he would be informed that the ewe he sought was out in the fields someplace. Off he would trudge in the darkness, to find the wayward sheep. This is no longer the case. During mating season, each of the Bowman's rams dons a colored marking harness. During the mating process, the color from the harness rubs off on the ewe's back end. The Bowmans make note of this and mark the calendar with the ewe's number and the five months gestation period. Two weeks before the end of the five months, the ewe is brought into closer proximity, and she delivers her lambs in the barn. Lambing season starts in January and this is an extremely hectic time for the Bowmans. The ewes must be checked every three hours—day and night—to make sure deliveries do not require assistance, and that newborn lambs are with their moms. Sally works the day shift, and Phillip gets to handle the night shift—in the frigid January weather! Utilizing this system, the Bowman's flock is growing by leaps and bounds.

In spite of the long hours the Bowmans put into sheeping, this is not their livelihood. Phillip was formerly a state bee examiner, and now works for Farmers Home Administration. Sally, although you'd never guess it to look at her, was formerly a draftsman. She "retired" from this occupation several years ago, in order to pursue her real loves—the sheep and their end results. Throw into this lifestyle two children—Jason, nine, and Jennifer, seven—and you've got some real busy people.

The Bowmans are members of the Thistle-down Fiber Guild. This organization consists of people who are interested in textiles and who utilize them either by spinning, weaving, or some other form of hand work. The Guild is in the process of raising funds to complete a permanent textile exhibit at the Agriculture Museum. The exhibit will show all phases in the manufacture of cloth—from its beginnings as well, cotton or flax, to its finished product.

Sitting in Sally's shop, I stared at the puzzle before me—one of Sally's looms. Sally made a genuine effort to explain the loom to me, but it was like pouring water over a rock—it just didn't sink in. Guess I'd better stick with my counted cross stitch. But there are people who do understand what Sally is talking about, and many of these people become Sally's students. Sally takes one student at a time and teaches them spinning and weaving. This is in addition to the children, her husband, the shop, the sheep and so on and so on. By the way, she also finds time to travel to shows and fairs to demonstrate her old-fashioned hobbies. Makes my head spin!

I couldn't tell you about Sally's shop without mentioning one specific type of yarn she carries. Seems that a man named Peter was quite concerned about east-west political relations. He was a textile manufacturer, and through much effort on his part, he began exchanging wool with "another major world power." His yarn and the kits he makes available are called "Peace Fleece". Her display of Peace Fleece is something in which Sally takes a great deal of pride.

A visit to Sally's shop is an education. Situated on shelves on one wall are packages of dozens of different fibers—camel's hair, angora, silk, cotton, flax—you name it, it's there. Close by is a display of Icelandic wools—those wools taken from sheep in Iceland. These wools have a completely different texture from American wools, but they have a natural beauty.

Of course, Sally demonstrated the actual spinning of the wool. I was amazed at how the wool stayed together, even though it was spun so thin. Sally, who has an incredible wealth of knowledge explained that wool actually has microscopic hooks that grab hold and keep it all together. Watching her spin, I could understand why she found it so appealing. The motion of the wheel and that faint hum made for a very relaxing time. And besides, there's just something good about getting back to basics.

My visit to the Wool Works Farm ended all too quickly. Before I knew it, it was time to go and pick up the kids at school. But I left the farm feeling real good. When God created the earth, he looked on it and saw that it was good. The ground beneath our feet, the trees that grow just when it's time to wake up in the spring, the wool of a sheep—he no longer needs it, and man can do so much with it—all these things are good. Getting back to basics and things that are natural and good—Phillip and Sally have the right idea!

By the way, if you're interested in meeting some fascinating people, or if knitting is your hobby, or if you'd like to learn more about the art of spinning and weaving, get in touch with Phillip or Sally. Once you meet them, and see the works of art they manufacture, you'll be impressed, too.

Greenhouse Gardening Tips for Enjoying Nature's Bounty Indoors

Flowering hibiscus in February, fresh lettuce in January, orchids throughout the year -- most homeowners greenhouse dreams include the lushness of green growing plants. Indeed, greenery is reason enough to add a sunny spot to your home. Just be sure that when you do put plants in your growing light. Skylights on the roof will greatly increase light levels deep in the room. If you plan to grow vegetables in your greenhouse, you must have sloped roof glazing to admit as much light as possible. White interior walls will also increase available light.

Maintaining temperatures. In order for green plants to thrive, you must keep the temperature extremes in your greenhouse to a minimum. Air temperatures should range between 45 and 90 degrees Fahrenheit. Invest in a thermostat that records the high and low daily temperatures. Vent the greenhouse when temperatures rise above 75 degrees Fahrenheit. It's also important to keep air circulating in your greenhouse. Stagnant air around plants creates an optimum environment for diseases and pests. Plants need a constant fresh supply of carbon dioxide to flourish. An oscillating fan or blower does the job economically.

Watering. The amount of water needed by a sunspace garden varies with the seasons, but one rule is paramount: Don't overwater! The excessive humidity from overwatering causes condensation in the greenhouse and encourages insects, fungi, and diseases. You can tell when your plants need water by feeling the soil. The soil should feel moist, not overly dry or wet.

When you water is also important. In the summer, water in the evening to prevent evaporation and leaf burn. In the winter, you should water in the morning to allow plant foliage to dry. Use lukewarm water. If you can recover from the cold of the previous night, on cloudy days, you may be able to skip watering altogether. During the summer, plants may need to be watered more than once a day.

Pest control. If you're growing many plants, insects will inevitably show up in your greenhouse. Your best defense is to keep plants healthy and eliminate problems when they're small.

Start by inspecting plants before you bring them into the greenhouse. If you find (Continued on page 3)

The Invitations to Your Wedding

Choosing the right invitation style for your wedding is among the most important tasks a couple must undertake before their wedding.

Order invitations three months before your wedding day to allow time for printing, addressing and mailing. Be sure to request a sample check for mistakes before your order is printed.

Inviting your favorite people to celebrate your wedding is a big part of the day's fun. If you're having a large wedding (100 or more guests) you'll want to send formal wedding invitations.

Word formal invitations the traditional way. And do write out what you want before you order. Or ask your printer to show you personalized versions. If all your guests are being invited to both ceremony and reception, consider the "combination" invitation.

Mr. and Mrs. John Sampson requests the honor of your presence at the Marriage of their Daughter to
Teresa Dawn
Mr. Darrell Charles Tucker on Saturday, the Fourth of Request replies with an R.S.V.P. kindly Respond or Please Respond in the lower left corner, and make it easy for guests to mail them. Printed reply cards do make it easy for guests.

Spell out everything on formal invitations — the wedding date, time and all numerals, and names. No abbreviations, initials or nicknames are used — except Mr., Mrs., and Jr. Traditionally, only the bride's first and middle names are printed. But if you're a doctor or military officer, you can add your title and full name below the phrase: their daughter. You may or may not want to add Mr. before your fiance's name.

Begin your invitations with the name of the persons sponsoring the wedding. The name at the top of an invitation is not supposed to tell your guests who's paying the bills, so whether you live at home or not, your parents names should head the invitation. You might also include the groom's parents names below his on the invitation... John North Fleming, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Fleming... if your parents are deceased, your guardian, a relative or a friend cannot host the wedding. Or you two can be your own sponsors. If your parents are divorced, the parent who raised you usually does the inviting. If that's your mother, and she's remarried, she uses your stepfather's name, inserts the phrase at the marriage of her daughter, then adds your full name. Divorced but friendly parents can issue a joint invitation.

Have your formal invitations printed in black script on the top page of a double sheet of paper in pale ivory or white. It can be paneled or plain. The most popular size: 4 1/4 x 5 3/4 fits into an envelope without folding. A large size: 5 1/4 x 7 1/4 is folded once for mailing. It's for very formal weddings.

Add more "personality" to your invitations by choosing a translucent (parliament or perhaps) or shiny paper in a pretty pastel or an earthy tone. Use colorful ink or even a photograph of the two of you.

Wedding Do's and Dont's

1. The bride should only register with one store of a kind.
2. The bride should quietly inform a relative about some larger expensive items that she and the groom would love to have.
3. No bride-to-be should allow the store at which she is registered to send out notices to her friends and wedding guest list that she is registered there.
4. It is improper to open gifts at the reception.
5. The bride should write a thank-you note as soon as she possibly can, but not on cards that say "Thank You" on the top fold. Husbands should share the task of note writing.
6. Gifts from the immediate family of either the bride or groom should never be returned to a store in exchange of something else, as feelings could be easily hurt by such an action. (The exception to this, of course, is if there are duplicate gifts.)
7. When an engagement is broken or a wedding does not take place, gifts, especially of great value, must be returned to all senders with a brief and tactful note of explanation.
8. Both the bride and groom give their attendants some lasting memento of the occasion. While these gifts are often gold or silver, a gift of crystal is also acceptable.
9. The wedding party gives the bride and groom some lasting memento too, such as a marriage goblet, engraved with the couple's initials and wedding date.
10. The groom usually gives the bride a personal gift just before the wedding. The bride, in turn, gives something to the groom. If one of the pairs is far richer than the other, the one with the more money should "tone down" his or her present. There will be plenty of time for more lavish gifts later.

Legal Requirements

cannot marry unless she is pregnant, in which case, she must produce a doctor's certificate stating so and also have the consent of both parents. The consent form must be notarized by a public notary.

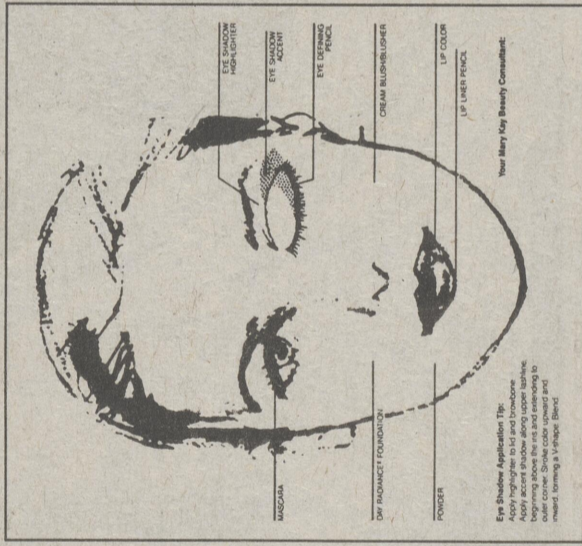

9. In cases where parents are divorced, certified custody papers must be shown by the parent signing that they have custody of the minor. In cases where one parent is deceased, a certified copy of the death certificate must be presented.

The fee for the license is $10.00. No personal checks. Office hours are from 8:30 to 4:00 p.m. for issuing marriage licenses. Landscaping on a Budget

A beautiful landscape doesn't have to come about all at once. With a good professional plan, homeowners can install their landscaping a little at a time to fit the family budget, says the American Association of Nurserymen. The organization advises homeowners to seek professional assistance to help them do two things: complete a comprehensive landscape design over a period of time; and stick to the amounts of effort and money they can spend.

How should you begin? Most professionals suggest that you start with a sketch, and then change your landscape plans as your tastes and needs dictate.

The landscaping for a new home, for example, can be designed to be installed over a period of time by putting in some of the basics in the first months — trees, shrubs, ground covers. Begin by working on the most important location (most choose the front of the house).

Develop more of the landscape as time and budget permit. Eventually you'll implement the entire plan and any changes.

The important thing is to develop a good plan that establishes priorities — the plants to be installed and the areas to be landscaped.

Reviewing the Landscape Renewing Its Design

Whether your home's landscape is new enough, or needs designing or old enough for remodeling, the American Association of Nurserymen has some basic considerations to help you discover the pleasure of plants in your surroundings. Consider these possibilities as you plan your outdoor spaces:

- Decide what you want to keep. You may not choose to remove some existing trees or shrubs, rocks or hillocks because they may contribute interest to the new design.
- On the other hand, some familiar old trees and shrubs in the wrong place and of the wrong size will just have to go.
- Be mindful of the view from inside your home. Remember, you're designing the landscape for your enjoyment, so make sure the design plan includes views you'll enjoy from indoors.
- For instance, the area just outside the kitchen or dining room is an obvious place for outdoor cooking. The patio, an excellent spot for entertaining, can open off a living area. An exterior door off a bedroom might lead to a private, enclosed familiar old trees and shrubs in the wrong place and of the wrong size will just have to go.
- Consider the view from the outside: it's equally important. Living plants — trees, shrubs, hedges — provide efficient and attractive sight screens that benefit both you and your neighbors. They hide unsightly views such as trash cans, air conditioning units, and compost piles. And they make your family life inside the house more private by screening it from your neighbor's observation.
- You can achieve the best at each given stage. Make sure the plan addresses the amount of time and money you can afford at each stage. This way you'll spread the costs out and get an opportunity to think through what you really want from a comprehensive landscape plan.

Homeowners who use this kind of plan also learn more about what they can do with their landscaping, because they continue at a gradual pace.

Professional advice in developing the plan is essential. When you visit have particularly hardy bugs, remove them by hand or wash them off with water. Once you've settled your plants in their new home, inspect foliage frequently for signs of insects or disease. Remove any dead or bug-infested leaves and diseased plants immediately to keep the damage from spreading.

Because in most cases a sunspace shares the air of your house, you should avoid using harsh chemical pesticides. Get rid of insects on plants by washing with water. If you

Find Relaxation and Enjoyment in Home Gardening - Here's How

A busy publications director wraps up her work day at 5:15 and heads home — not for a cocktail, favorite T.V. show, or even a mystery novel — but to tend her vegetable garden. A successful stock broker turns down happy hour invitations and fights rush hour traffic to check his back yard tomato and corn plants before sunset. Today, more and more people are finding relaxation and enjoyment in home gardening.

Growing your own vegetable garden isn't difficult, but, says the American Association of Nurseriesmen, it does require some planning and timely care. Following are some recommendations from AAN on gardening success.

First, choose the garden site. Make sure it has full sun and is near a water supply. The soil should have good texture and be well drained.

Make a sketch of your garden space and plan the location of plantings. Select only those vegetables you know your family likes. Don't over-plant and steer clear of "space hoggers" such as wine crops, unless they are special favorites.

Buy good quality seed and plants, and plant only those varieties recommended for your area. Wondering if your garden soil is fertile? Have it tested. You can talk about this and other questions with your garden center specialist, nurseryman, or county extension agent.

Look for specially-prepared fertilizers for growing vegetables and follow directions for use on the fertilizer bag or container. Your garden center specialist or county agent can give you advice on fertilizer application. To prepare garden soil, add fertilizer and compost. Spade or turn the soil to cover fertilizer and compost, and mix thoroughly to a depth of six inches into the soil.

Plant the garden according to the proper dates for your area. Check your local garden center for information on planting dates, plant spacing, and depth of planting.

Cultivate the garden with a hoe as often as needed to control the weeds and break the crust of the soil. Working as close as possible to the surface so you don't injure the plant roots. To conserve moisture and provide extra weed control, mulch with straw, dried lawn clippings, leaves, sawdust or pine straw. Water the garden only when necessary to maintain a uniform moisture supply. A good soaking once each dry week will do for most soils. Light, sandy soils need more frequent watering.

On the subject of disease and insect control: Start your garden with preventive maintenance in mind, and you'll have a better garden. For example, some tomato varieties are susceptible to a certain virus, others aren't. Make it a point to learn what varieties are strongest and least likely to have problems.

If your garden isn't completely insect resistant, be sure to check it regularly. Problems can arise, literally, overnight. If that happens, check your garden center for the best recommendations on chemical treatment.

When harvesting your garden, select vegetables that are at the correct stage of maturity, don't let them stay on the plant too long. And don't be discouraged if your first garden experience results in some failures. Good gardeners are made, not born.

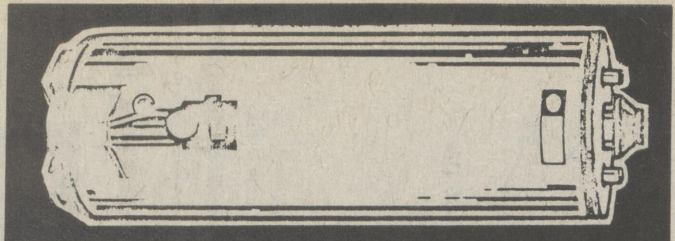

Did you know that your electric water heater is the most expensive appliance you own.

Approximately 1/2 of your monthly electric bill is for hot water. If your water heater is 12-16 years old, it's probably costing you an average of $50-60/month just to operate! MGS propane gas hot water heaters can save you 40-50%, or an average of $20/month. Over a year you'd be saving $240/month for a typical family of 4...and over a 5 year period, you'd save $1200. SWITCH NOW!

Get Your Spring Lawn Going

Attention to your lawn this spring can help make up for the punishment that turf grass received during the severe winter weather. A little extra care now can mean a healthier, more attractive and enjoyable lawn the rest of the year, according to the American Association of Nurseriesmen.

Start with a thorough raking to remove heavy, wet leaves and other debris, but don't rake so vigorously that you destroy young seedlings. Then mow the lawn to remove brown tips of grass leaves, even though no growth signs are evident yet.

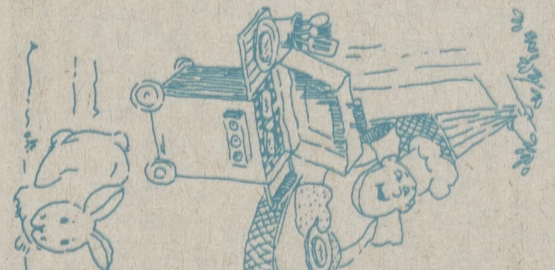

The benefits of lawn rolling are questionable in most heavy-winter areas. The practice may improve the surface evenness of winter-heaved soil, but heavy rolling tends to compact the root zone of dense, clay soils — and this has little effect on sandy soils.

Worried about crabgrass? Pulling or raking it does no good in spring. Crabgrass grows back from seeds, not by last year's growth. So, just let last year's crabgrass deteriorate in place, but spread a recommended crabgrass pre-emergence material. Applied prior to

Gas Grill Cooking Tips

The natural gas grill provides convenient, low cooking with convenient fuel supply. Following are tips when using a gas grill:

- Use only one burner on dual burner grills unless both burners are needed.
- Use the lowest flame setting possible.
- Cook with the grill cover closed for more smoky flavor and shorter cooking times.
- Prepare slow cooking foods on the grill to keep heat out of the kitchen and save on conditioning.
- Cook all condiments, soups or other meals at one time on the grill of meats or burgers.
- Taw frozen foods before grilling unless otherwise directed.
- Use the thermometer or timer to determine when the food is done.
- Keep "burn-off" cleaning time to a minimum.
- Keep grill clean and properly maintained.

Legal Requirements for a Delaware Marriage License

The legal requirements for applying for a marriage license in the state of Delaware are listed below. All requirements which apply to each individual couple must be met before a marriage license will be issued.

1. Both parties must appear together. Both must have positive identification. Either a valid driver's license or birth certificate or military ID. (valid).
2. Active military personnel are not considered residents under the state law unless their domicile was Delaware before they entered the service. NOTE: A witness is only required for the Delaware resident for the 24 hour waiting period. The waiting period for Delaware residents is 24 hours after the license is issued. The waiting period for non-residents is 96 hours (4 days). The ideal time to get your license is anywhere from 10-14 days before ceremony or wedding day.
3. The license is valid for 30 days from the date of issuance and can be used any place in the state of Delaware regardless of which County it was issued in the state.
4. Divorced, widow or widower must present a certified copy of the final decree or certified copy of the death certificate to the issuing officer in the Clerk of the Peace Office in addition to the above.
5. Aliens must produce passports and visas. If either party is on probation or parole, a letter from the prohibition officer giving permission to marry is required. (Both names must be in the letter and the issuing officer of the Clerk of the Peace office keeps the original letter).
6. If either party is a patient of a mental institution, a letter from the superintendent of the institution is required, stating the fitness of the patient to marry.
7. Minors: Under the age of 18, a male, even with the consent of both parents cannot be issued a license under State Law unless the female is pregnant. Parental consent of both parents is required in this case, and the female must produce a doctor's certificate indicating that she is pregnant. The consent form must be notarized by a public notary.
8. Minors: Under the age of 18, a female must also have the consent of both parents whether she is pregnant or not. Under the age of 16, she

RULE OF THUMB for estimating seating capacity per square foot:

For Banquet Style seating—

When using oblong tables, divide the room area (sq. ft.) by 8.

When using round tables, divide the room area (sq. ft.) by 10.

These figures are for maximum seating. If space is available for more comfortable seating, allow an additional 2 sq. ft. per person.

For Classroom Style seating—

Divide "student" seating area (sq. ft.) by 8.

For Theatre Style seating—

Divide "spectator" seating area (sq. ft.) by 6.
