

Council approves zoning on Harrington Dry Cleaners

HARRINGTON. At the public hearing on the rezoning of the Harrington Dry Cleaners building second floor, the meeting was extended due to the discussion of the parking for the upstairs apartment dwellers by Council members Jarrell and Temple, Mr. and Mrs. Gene Currey, who own Stone's Hotel, have entered into an agreement with Miss Ruth and Mr. Albert Simpson for the purchase of the building. The Curreys propose to design 6 apartments for the second floor of the former home of the Harrington Dry Cleaners and operate the first floor as a game room.

The issue which concerned the Harrington Planning & Zoning Commission and the council was adequate parking for the six apartments. The zoning ordinances require one parking space for each apartment. Mr. Currey indicated that he would provide three parking spaces inside the building and three more behind Stone's Hotel. The council felt that the spaces behind the Hotel would be for the use of the hotel dwellers.

As a condition to providing a certificate of occupancy, the council made a point to declare that the issue of parking must be adequately resolved prior to occupancy of the building. Mr. Currey has applied for a community block grant to complete the transaction. He indicated that reconstruction costs would total approximately $120,000, plus the cost of the property.

During the workshop, items of importance included the preparation of the upcoming budget, a report by the building committee on the new city hall, extending water to the new Hi-Grade processing plant on U.S. 13, a report by the city manager that 48 lawsuits had been started to collect delinquent taxes, water, sewer and garbage bills.

The budget for fiscal year 1988-89 is due to be completed by June 1st. City Manager Smith has indicated that he would prefer to make changes to the present way the budget is brought about, and that he would have a "...guide to go by" by that date.

City Solicitor John Williams indicated that the suit against Port Lumber Co. is scheduled for 2 p.m. at JP Court #6 on May 23rd. The city counts the company is in violation of the motion by city council on the report by the Planning & Zoning Commission that a final site plan approval was not forthcoming until the matter of the ingress and egress to their property was resolved.

In the other court matter involving Burris Foods, Mr. Williams indicated that no answer had been filed by Burris Foods to the complaint regarding the tax situation, and that the Delaware Development Office which holds the mortgage on the Burris complex has come up with the discovery that the Burris building is partly outside the city limits. Therefore it would not be subject to a city tax for that part of the building outside the city limits. Mr. Williams indicated that the county surveyor has been engaged by the Development Office to define the southern boundary line of the Burris property. "Depending on what the surveyor finds will determine what other steps are needed", said John Williams.

The matter regarding the new city hall was discussed. City Manager Smith reported that he and Mayor Farrow had visited the Secretary of State's office last week in response to a letter from the Secretary of State's request for a report on whether the City proposed to make use of the Bicentennial money in the amount of $116,000 for a new city hall. The City is required to provide matching funds of the same amount.

The Building Committee, comprised of Councilman Jarrell as chairman, and Councilman Temple, reported that several properties were under consideration. The present location is owned by Mr. and Mrs. William (Grace) Musser, who also occupy the west side of the former funeral home and the upstairs. The city rents that location from Mr. and Mrs. Musser at $350 per month, plus utilities, taxes and insurance.

The council heard from Mr. Ronald Darling, deputy director of the Kent County Department of Elections regarding the proposed voter registration for the City of Harrington. It was resolved that a charter change was necessary to allow for the voter registration and another provision for absentee balloting.

In other matters, the council will approve at the May 2nd special meeting a water line to be extended to the new Hi-Grade processing plant. The estimated cost of extending the line under the dual highway is $40,000.

Councilman William Porter reported that there have been numerous complaints about the trash removal in the city. "I think we should send them a letter informing them of the complaints, and ask for better service. Some of the trash has been reported to me to be falling out of the trucks on US 13 and this is against the law", he said.

The next council meeting will be a special meeting on May 2nd at 7 p.m. The regular council meeting will be May 9th at 7:30 p.m.

Count down to school board election and referendum

by Harry G. Farrow, Jr.
 HARRINGTON. It is getting close to the school board election (May 10th) and the school district referendum (May 17), and the count down begins.

There have been four to file for election to the school board...two incumbents Mrs. Roberta O'Neal and Mr. Dale Hammond are opposed by Mrs. Doris Draper and Mr. Horace Knowles respectively.

Mrs. O'Neal and Mrs. Draper seek a five year term on the board and Mr. Hammond and Mr. Knowles seek a two year term, which will be the balance of the unexpired term of Mr. David Welch, who died while a member of the school board.

The school board referendum calls for district wide improvements to the district buildings, a new administrative building, and salary equalization which will also be district wide.

The building which needs the most repairs is North Elementary while East Elementary's building also needs repairs, but has seriously needed additional classrooms for several years.

Mr. Hammond who has held office since October 1987 feels that the board presently has a definite positive attitude. His position on the referendum is that it is necessary to pass it, "...because sooner or later it must be done. Now is the cheapest time to do the job. As for the new administrative building, it is the difference in less than a cent tax increase, and I personally cannot see coming back each year just to hold a referendum on this or that. It is entirely too costly that way", he said recently.

Mrs. Draper is seeking her second try at winning a school board seat. She claims to have a very good working knowledge of the school process. "I have attended just about every board meeting and most workshops the school board has scheduled in the past 3 years", she added.

Mr. Horace Knowles, retired DuPont employee who also operated a jobbing business while employed at the DuPont Company, feels basically that spending should be held down. "I was in construction for 27 years, and I feel I have some good ideas for coping with the repairs to our district buildings," he said.

Mrs. Roberta O'Neal has been involved in the field of education either as a teacher or school board member for the past 35 years. She is a retired teacher from Lake Forest School district. A dedicated educator, she said recently "...I believe that every child attending the schools in this district should have the best education the district can afford...in whatever subject matter they choose whether it be academic, educational, business, agricultural...or what-have-you. I have a very positive and optimistic attitude which you must have to be in education...or associated with it".

The District Superintendent, Dr. James VanSciver, is working overtime in an effort to pull out all the questions, issues and answers surrounding what he feels the most important matter for May...and that is the referendum.

"It is almost imperative that this referendum pass. We need it to keep the federal programs in tact, the $250,000 already budgeted for salaries which we will keep with the passage of the equalization issue. We need the repairs for the buildings...we need the extra classrooms. These are musts if we are to go forward with a positive step", he said.

The total money asked for with the referendum is $4.2 million which will mean a 23.7 cent increase to the 40.6 tax already on the books. The referendum tax increase will also call for a $5 capitation tax increase to the already $15 "head tax".

Steve Thompson hurls no-hit, no-run game

by Harry G. Farrow, Jr.
 DELMAR. Steve Thompson, a senior at Lake Forest High School, tossed a no-hit, no-run game last Thursday against Delmar.

According to him and his Coach Bill Falasco, he got two outstanding defensive plays to help him join ranks with former varsity baseball pitchers at Lake Forest, Russ Dill, Ricky Brown and John Kirby.

Steve faced 23 batters, walking one, striking out 10, in moving his record to 2-1 for the season. "Two plays in the game really helped him", said Coach Bill Falasco. "Tony Noble made a backhand stab of a shot down the third base line...had it gone through, would have been a sure double. Tony made a nice throw to get the runner for the out", added Coach Falasco.

"That was in the early going. Then in the fifth inning Freddy Murray made a diving stab of a line drive for a big out.

It was a very good play to keep the no-hitter in tact," said Coach Falasco.

For Coach Falasco the entire young season is out of sink. "We never got in enough pre-season play due to the weather. So as a result we are coming up against foes who have already played 8 games to our 4," said Coach Falasco.

The first game the Spartans played against Seaford which was called due to darkness, with the Spartans one run behind "was a good example that we were just not season ready", added Coach Falasco.

"With almost a month gone in the season we get back on track this Thursday with regular Tuesday-Thursday games. This will help us if we can get some consistency", he said.

The team as a whole is hitting with Thompson, John Swain, Fred Murray and Tony Noble hitting over .300. In

Clyde Beatty-Cole Brothers Circus returns to Dover

Dover, Del.—The World's Largest Circus Under the Big Top will return to Dover for the benefit of the Dover Jaycees. Performances are scheduled for May 18 and 19 at the Blue Hen Mall located on U.S. Route 113. Cole Brothers, will perform two shows each day.

Covering over an acre of ground, the massive blue and white-striped Big Top will be filled with all the sights and sounds that made Clyde Beatty-Cole Bros. Circus thrilling-entertainment for generations. Lions and tigers, jugglers, stiltwalkers, aerialists, horses, clowns, acrobats, the Beatty-Cole herd of performing elephants and a host of other exciting performers will present their accomplishments in a two hour show.

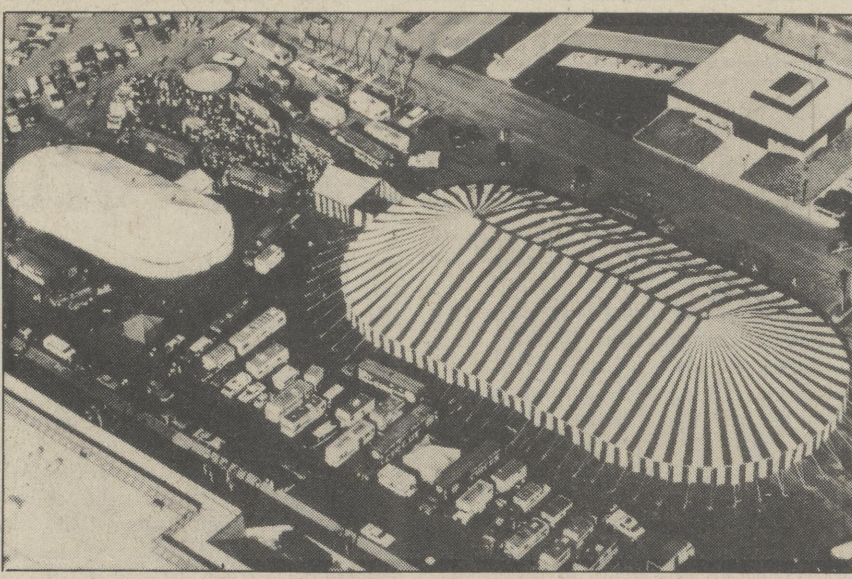

Since 1884, three generations of Americans have been entertained by the Cole Brothers Circus. The Cole trademark has enjoyed longevity because it represents value and integrity to the American public. The Cole story was begun by William Ashington Cole (1847-1915). His "W.W. Cole's New Colossal Shows" (1884) were, as he stated, "Presented in a reputable manner by reputable people." With the most modern of 19th century equipment, and performances of the highest caliber, Cole achieved enormous success.

As times changed in America, Cole Brothers Circus had to adapt. In 1939, Cole Brothers became the last circus to stage daily horse-drawn parades. "Louie", the Cole Brothers steam calliope was part of Harry Truman's inaugural parade in Washington, D.C. When the death knell had been sounded for the American Big Top circuses in 1956, and Ringling Brothers-Barnum and Bailey folded it's tents for the last time, Cole Brothers Circus combined with Clyde Beatty Circus, thus preserving the three-ring circus, under the Big Top. The year 1955 saw the circus give it's last American tour as a "railroad show". For the 1957 season, Clyde Beatty-Cole Brothers Circus was outfitted as a "truck show". The show train once commonplace in America is preserved by only two operating in North America today, Ringling Brothers-Barnum and Bailey Circus of Washington, D.C. and the James E. Strates Shows of Orlando, Florida.

Clyde Beatty Cole Brothers Circus is the last of the great American three-ring, circuses. The circus is still capable of moving it's tented city and over sixty vehicles every day. Really a "mobile city", the circus has it's own dining department to feed it's employees, carries generating plants for electric power, water trucks haul over 3,000 gallons of water daily.

Tickets for the circuses performance in Dover will go on sale shortly. Ticket outlets will be announced by the Dover Jaycees in a week.

On opening day, elephants and a team of laborers work side-by-side to hoist a sea of blue and white striped canvas, larger than a football field, to its full towering height of nearly five stories high.

Lake Forest May board meeting date changed

Members of the Lake Forest Board voted to change the date of the May Board meeting from May 16 to May 23. "This is due to the referendum on May 17 and related issues," explained Board President Earl Roberts. "We want to be as available as possible for people who may have questions. This referendum is very important. We need everyone's support.

On May 23, the work session will begin at 5 p.m. and the regular meeting will meet at 7:30 p.m. It is scheduled for the Lake Forest High School Library.

The public is invited.

Frederica couple hospitalized in stabbing

An elderly couple from Frederica remains hospitalized from a stabbing incident at their residence late last Saturday night. The incident occurred at 10:15 p.m. on April 23 at the residence of John D. Trapp, 74, and his wife, Mabel L. Trapp, 78, of 301 Lakeshore Drive, Highpoint Trailer Park, Frederica. The trailer park is just north of the Little Heaven area, off of U.S. Route 113A, approximately 6 miles south of Dover.

The investigation by Troop 3 detectives revealed that the couple was apparently having a domestic argument when John Trapp produced a small steak knife and stabbed his wife in the abdomen and cut her hand and forearm. He then apparently turned the knife on himself and cut his left wrist. The couple were transported to Milford Memorial Hospital and both have been admitted - Mabel Trapp in stable condition with an abdominal stab wound and John Trapp in good condition.

The investigation is continuing and no charges have been filed at this time.

An estimated 8,000 FFA members from 20 states entered the contest, which invites young people to describe their feelings about the future of American agriculture. All entrants receive an "Up With Agriculture" wallet. Garst Seed President David Garst, who helped judge the entries and personally notified the winners, said, "Every year my enthusiasm for American agriculture is rejuvenated because of the optimism young people have for their future. Their insights are refreshing, and their enthusiasm is contagious." Cash and prizes totalling nearly $20,000 will be awarded in the contest. From the entries, Doug Drudik of Grand Island, Nebraska, was chosen as the overall winner. He received $1,000 for his winning entry. In addition, one state winner and two honorable mentions were selected from each state. All winners will be recognized at their FFA chapter's spring awards banquet. Although each entrant presented his or her unique perspective on agriculture, Garst observed a common theme in the entries. "We received poems, short stories and musical lyrics," he said, "but in one way or another everyone expressed a love of farming and a determination to keep the family farming tradition alive. "Most of the young people were realistic about the condition of agriculture," Garst added. "They wrote of the struggles that farmers have faced in recent years, and what lessons they've learned from these experiences." According to Garst, many of the entries--even those not selected as winners--will be included in a series of "Up With Agriculture" radio and newspaper features, which are distributed throughout the Corn Belt. Now in its fourth year, the "Up With Agriculture" program is designed to highlight the importance of agriculture to the community through positive messages about American agriculture and the country life.

May programs cited at East Elementary

Sixth grade students attending Lake Forest East Elementary School in Frederica will be participating in two activities in May under the sponsorship of Lynne Herman, sixth grade language teacher. The Great Mail Race: All sixth grade students entered this competition. Children chose two towns or cities in two different states and wrote letters to the local elementary schools. Over 100 letters went out March 23, 1988. To this date 31 students have received replies. Prizes will be awarded to the first person in each class to get a letter and to the class receiving the most letters by May 23. In Mrs. Messick's room, Darryl Cherry has received a letter from New Hampshire; in Mrs. Herman's room, Donna Dolan received one from Rhode Island; and in Mrs. Laverty's room, Karshmesa Gadsden received one from New York. This exercise polishes students' letter writing skills.

On May 25th, students will hold a Career Day. Parents have been encouraged to share their profession with the students in both the fifth and sixth grades. Each talk is to be planned for 15 minutes. Groups of 8 students will meet with the adult during this time. Materials will be shared and time will be allowed for students to ask questions concerning the adult's occupation. This is all part of a career awareness sponsored by the sixth grade teachers. Spring Concert: May 17th is the East Spring Concert presented by grades one through six. The play entitled Give Thanks America, depicts George Washington falling asleep and dreaming about the hi-tech future and the future of democracy. The play is a musical and comedy but has a lot of historical significance. The singing in grades one through five will feature songs of the Early American Folk origin. Admission is free to the public.

Harrington Rotary Club

by Melvin L. Brobst

Two very interesting programs were presented recently when Leon Porter had a VCR video tape shown from the Rotary Network News showing several aspects of what Rotary International is all about with its programs throughout the world as well as at home, with special emphasis placed on its Polio-plus program that is helping to stamp out polio everywhere but especially in the third-world countries. Its goal is for elimination of this disease within the next five years.

The other program was when Mary Trice, wife of President Roger Trice, back from an Air Force assignment to Spain and Turkey, displayed various objects brought back with her. This was an illuminating display of articles of Turkish culture.

May 5 is the day when six students from the Rotary International Group Study Exchange Program visit the area when they arrive at the Lake Forest High School for a tour of its facilities. The members from Sweden will be greeted by Mr. Melvin Luff who was Deputy Superintendent of the school district at the time of the high school expansion, the Rev. Susan Mills, Mr. H. C. Farrow, Jr. of The Harrington Journal, with Mr. James Boyd of the staff from the W.T. Chipman Junior School and former French instructor at the Lake Forest High School acting as guide with a tour that will include the swimming pool area, gymnasium, auditorium, cafeteria, library, agricultural department, stadium complex and visits to classrooms that may be available to the members who may wish to visit them. At the conclusion of the visit, members will be transported by members of the Harrington Rotary Club to the Caroline Country Club where they will be guests of the Denton Rotary Club at a luncheon being arranged for them by attorney Chris Jensen of the Denton club. Local arrangements are being made by Rotarian Mel Brobst, who will present each member of the visiting team with a miniature Rotary banner bearing the name of Harrington Rotary as a memento of their visit.

Other events being planned by the local club include a buffet dinner followed by a concert by a group of Sweet Adelines scheduled for Saturday evening, May 14 - dinner at 6:30 p.m. and the program at 8:00 P.M. This event is open to the general public but reservations must be made in advance through any member of the club, and scheduled to take place at the Colony Inn Restaurant (in Harrington) where it is limited to a capacity of 80 persons.

Thursday, May 19, a tour of the Nanticoke Homes facilities at Greenwood is being planned by Leon Porter with Carlton Goodhand of that organization serving as guide. The visit

Unbeaten Spartans trip Caesar Rodney 78-68

by Keith S. Burgess

In a sub-par performance, Jim Blades' Lake Forest Spartans, remained unbeaten, by beating Caesar Rodney, 78-68, at Lake Forest. The Spartans have beaten the top Henlopen boys' teams and should have easier tests, until the multi-team meets start up.

In what may be the top 1-2 finish, at 200 meters, in Lake Forest history, occurred when Terraine Giddens and Jason Tiggs, scorched the Tartan track, in 22.6 and 22.7, respectively. Giddens also was second, in the 100 meters and combined with Tiggs, Petye Davis and Rod Parker, in a fleet 1.33.3, 800 meter relay win, on another cold, windy April day.

Improving Alex Winchester, Carl Young and Ron Hill swept the 110 meter high hurdles, with Lake Forest picking up 9 big points.

Lake Forest picked up a win, in the 300 Intermediate hurdles in 45.3. According to this writer's notes, the winning athlete was Rod Young. But "there ain't no such animal," so it had to be Carl Young or Rod Parker. This way they both get a plug!

Another Spartan sweep was recorded in the shot put. Marvin Hicks (43 feet), Paul Adkins and Dave Chambers did the honors here.

Adkins 119 and Hicks 112-9, went 1-2, in the discus. Bob Reed and Darren Lawson were 1-3, in the pole vault. Reed and Ray Smith went 2-3, in the high jump.

C.R. took the long jump and triple jump, but gained little ground prevailing only 12-10, in jump points, as freshman Mac Holmes (20-64) and sophomore Petye Davis (19-6) got second and third in the long jump. Holmes (41 feet) and Tiggs got the rest of the triple jump points.

Dennis Caswell, Caesar Rodney's tough distance runner, ran winter track and is in fine fettle, already. Mark Tozer usually beats the Rider, but Mark is still not in top form, due to illness and other adverse factors. Tozer's 4.44, 1600 and 2.06, 800 were very good efforts that netted second place finishes. In the 800, a stirring stretch drive brought Mark into second, resulting in a six-point swing, for the Spartans.

Spartan girls lose 74-63 to Caesar Rodney

by Keith S. Burgess

Tara Dixon had another super afternoon against visiting Caesar Rodney, figuring in three first places and a second. Dixon tallied 17 1/2 points, but the Spartans lost 74-63.

Dixon was first in the 100 hurdles with Mary McGuire, in third. Dixon, a two-time hurdles state champion, also took the 300 low hurdles, in 53.5. Tara was second, in the 200 meters and anchored the winning 800 meter relay team, running with Tonya Norris, Shani Palmer and Renee Coverdale.

Probably, the key reason for the loss was the sidelining of Lake Forest's other distaff superstar, Arlene May, due to academic difficulties. May was second, in the recent 16-team Invitational, to a Wilmington girl, at 100 meters and has long jumped close to 17 feet. The Spartans managed to win May's two other events, anyway, but the meet really hinged, on the 100 and long jump event.

Newcomer Toya Williams, a transfer from Woodbridge, which has no girls' team, was third, at 100 meters and united with Tonya Norris, Renee Coverdale and Africa Bell, to annex the 100 meter relay. Bell (4-10) and Ilka Bewerunge went 1-2, in the high jump. Deanna Scott (31-10) and Renee Coverdale were first and second, in the triple jump with Scott runner-up, in the long jump, with a good leap of 15 feet, 2 inches.

Mary McGuire (89 feet) and Christine Swafford 80-5, were second and third in the discus, with Swafford getting second, in the shot.

Julie Betts recorded a 13.19 victory, at 3200 meters. Melanie Pelton had seconds, in the 800 and 1600, with her 800 effort being an especially good one.

LF swim team banquet recognizes season's achievements

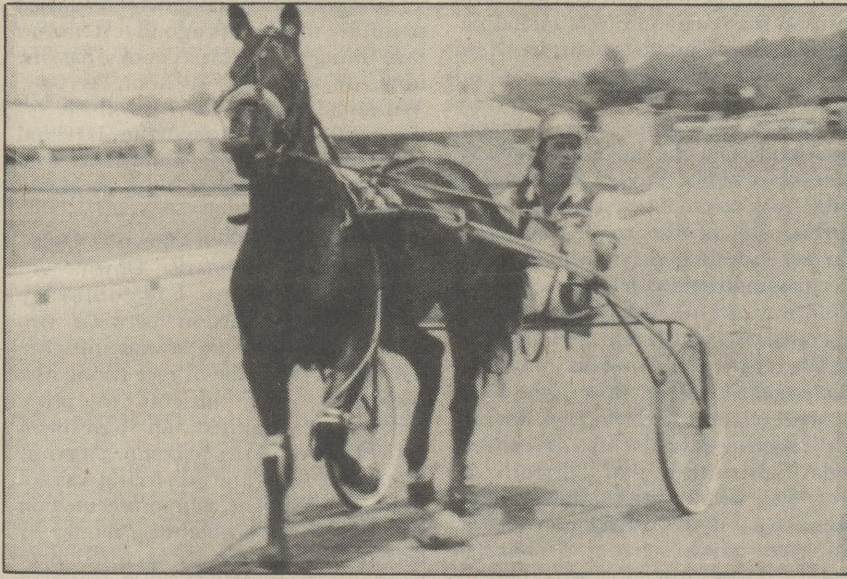

The Lake Forest Community Swim Team enjoyed a dinner banquet at the Felton Fire Hall on April 15. The banquet provided the opportunity to honor the swimmers for their fine efforts during the 1987/1988 winter season. The team, in only its' second season in the Pioneer League, captured first place and the league championship.

The guest speaker for the evening was Mr. Paige Remillard, head swimming coach from Washington and Lee University in Lexington, Virginia. Coach Remillard led his team to national collegiate ranking in recent years. In introducing the guest speaker, Lake Forest Coach Dennie Davis explained his philosophy of competitive swimming. "The Lake Forest program is about the development of individuals. We strive to make our swimmers better as athletes and as people." Coach Remillard echoed these sentiments. At the college level he looks for well-rounded students that give their best at all times. Good swimmers seldom miss practice, always follow workout instructions, work hard to improve their strokes, compete in workouts and are always ready to volunteer for events wherever the coach needs them. They are always ready to do their best for themselves and the team.

Expressing their appreciation to the Lake Forest team and their families were Lake Forest School District Superintendent Dr. James VanSciver and School Board President Mr. Earl Roberts. Other school board members sharing the evening with the team were Mrs. Roberta O'Neal, Mr. S. Michael Thompson and Mr. Dale Hammond.

The team and officers also thanked the Lake Forest community for its record setting fundraising effort. The winter season Swim-A-Thon raised $5393.44. Fifteen percent of the money raised was sent to support the US Olympic Swim Team. This level of fund raising will earn a special award for the team from United States Swimming.

Whip It Wood (Robert Shahan)

Whip it Wood, I'm A Scooter make 1988 debuts

Whip It Wood, the trotter who rose from his humble beginnings on the training tracks in Harrington, returned to his former stomping grounds in his 1988 debut but the homecoming was dampened by the fleet footed Gatepost Colleen.

Bet down to the 3-5 favorite's role, Whip It Wood was caught wide on the outside after a quarter mile as Harrington native (and former regular pilot) Robert Shahan looked for an opening on the rail. Up front, Gatepost Colleen and James Murray were content to set the early :29.3 and :59.4 fractions followed closely by Donavan Hanover and Tony Rich on the outside.

Whip It Wood moved three wide entering the final turn to reach the top flight of leaders while Gatepost Colleen continued to lead the field. In the final eighth, Gatepost Colleen maintained her advantage to stop the timer in 2:00.2 while Whip It Wood showed the signs of a six month vacation as he could not close the gap and finished a well-beaten third. Donavan Hanover was second.

The top purse event of the week, the $12,000 final of the Starburst Series, was taken by Henry Escort, driven to a 1:59 win by Bob Sampson. An early speed duel took its toll on tiger B and Cleo Escort and Henry Escort was around to pick up the pieces of the sizzling :57.1 half mile clocking.

An $8,000 Invitational on the Sunday card went to Savage Breeze. Jim Marshall, III guided a winner of a Battle of the Brandywine elimination last year to a decisive 1:56.4 score over The Porter Gray and Ironstone Hello.

Saturday (April 23) another local favorite made her return to the races after a winter vacation. I'm A Scooter, a five-year-old Direct Scooter mare with lifetime winnings of over $207,000 lifetime, roared to the lead at the head of the stretch and drew away from her seven opponents in the $6,200 Fillies and Mares Open Pace.

Gary Cameron II was content to let I'm A Scooter settle in stride from her rail post position as Edith's Girl and Jameela battled on the front end through :28.2 and :58 francions. I'm A Scooter moved to the fore at the three-quarters to collar Jameela, then easily drew away to win her first of 1988 in 1:57.4.

Harrington Little League opens season on April 30th

by Pat Blake
Little League President

Here we are starting our 1988 ball season. I just want everyone to know what is going on for the next few weeks.

April 30th is opening day and we will kick it off with a parade. All of the boys and girls that are going to play ball this year will meet on Reese Avenue at around 9 A.M. and the parade will start at 10 A.M. The Little League and the Senior League should have their uniforms on. After the parade the kids will be taken to the ball fields. We will have our opening ceremony and introduce the teams.

All parents are urged to attend the ceremony. There will be pictures taken at this time also. If you wish to purchase pictures it will have to be done at the time they are taken.

On May 14th we will have our yearly fund raiser. This year we have decided to have a tag day. The kids, in uniform, will go from door to door and get donations. We will need parents to accompany the kids, if you can help please let your team mother know. This will start at 9 A.M. at the ball park. The kids will be taken back to the park at lunch time and given lunch. The team mothers will tell you that morning what time it will be over.

On opening day the Senior League game between Peoples Bank and I.G. Burton will start at 12:00 Noon, and the Little League game between Taylor's Hardware and the American Legion will start at 1:00 P.M.

We are looking forward to having a great year. The whole idea behind Little League is to teach the kids how to play ball, good sportsmanship, and to all have fun doing it. Let's all get out and show the kids how much we care and have a great year.

Sports fishing champions named

Thirty-three champion anglers, winners of the state's 1986 Sport Fishing Tournament, were honored at an awards ceremony April 20 in the Department of Natural Resources and Environmental Control auditorium, 89 Kings Hwy., Dover.

The Honorable Governor Michael N. Castle, DNREC Secretary John E. Wilson III and tournament director Roy W. Miller presented trophies to the fishermen who entered the largest representative of each of the annual contest's 34 eligible species. Outstanding angler Edward Robbins of New Castle received the Master Fisherman silver trophy for the fourth time.

The Division of Fish and Wildlife's Sport Fishing Tournament is one of the longest running promotional activities sponsored by the state. This year 3,206 fishermen entered catches that included new state records for dolphin (49 lb.), tautog (18 lb.), seabass (6 lb.), True albacore (80 lb.), and a 17 lb., 13 oz. In The Pocket

The New Jersey Sports and Exposition Authority and the Standardbred Breeders and Owners Association of New Jersey have reached an agreement for racing at the Meadowlands for the 1988 harness season.

The pact was announced jointly by Robert E. Mulcahy, III, Chief Executive Officer of the Sports Authority, and Anthony Abbatiello, President of the horsemen's group.

The agreement covers purses, benefits and backstretch improvements.

"This agreement brings us together to work on many new projects including keeping the Hambletonian in New Jersey," said Abbatiello.

In New York, there was a major development in the Yonkers Raceway trifecta race of last Nov. 14 that resulted in the suspension of seven drivers. Rene Poulin, one of the seven, has been allowed to resume driving by Yonkers after passing two lie detector tests.

Poulin's attorney, Irwin Cohen, had suggested to Poulin that he take a lie test as a means of proving his innocence on charges of lack of effort in the Nov. 14 race leveled by the New York Racing and Wagering Board, which gave him a 30-day suspension that currently is under stay. Poulin originally agreed to take such a test for Cohen, but balked at taking one administered by a Yonkers-appointed operator. Recently he did both, with polygraph experts hired by his counsel and by Bob Galterio, Yonkers' general manager, and he passed both with flying colors. Galterio said "We asked him questions dealing with his own driving efforts, the beginning of the race and the end of it and whether he had anything to do with betting. He passed the test on all counts."

Counsel Gohen, who recently purchased the crack young pacer Burnham-now trained by Poulin-in partnership with two friends for a reported $100,000, said Poulin was asked, in connection with the Nov. race, "Did you race your horse to win? Did you have broken equipment during the race? Did you or anybody you know cash winning bets?" Cohen said Poulin, who finished 3rd in the questionable race, answered yes to the first two questions and no to the third and the polygraph showed him to be telling the truth on all three.

Galterio, after announcing the lifting of the exclusion ban on Poulin, said he encouraged other drivers involved in the race to follow Poulin's example and take lie tests administered by Edward Lambert, the polygraph expert hired by Yonkers. Michel Lachance, the sport's leading race winning driver for the last four years, and Joe Marsh Jr., former world driving champion, both have declined to do so and are appealing suspensions in effect since November.

The state of Maryland, which learned painfully three years ago that it had no race-fixing statute on its books, has one now, or will have as soon as Gov. William Donald Schaefer signs a bill that passed both houses of the Maryland legislature earlier this month.

The legislation grew from a case in August, 1985, following a questionable race at what was then known as Ocean Downs, now Delmarva Downs. An undercover agent had obtained evidence of collusion between two drivers, but prosecution was difficult. There was no crime of race fixing and conspiracy was difficult to prove because it required an agreement between two parties to commit a crime on unlawful act, and race fixing was not so designated. The state prosecuted on grounds of theft, obtaining money by deception from the track as custodian of funds for the public. The jury was not convinced, and returned a not guilty verdict.

Maryland, of course, had an earlier successful prosecution of thoroughbred race fixing, the notorious "Valentine's Day massacre" at Bowie, but in that case a federal and state statute involving sports bribery was the turning point. In the Ocean Downs case there was no bribery, since there was no indication that anything of value-no money, no tickets--was offered or exchanged.

Following the August, 1986 Ocean Downs trial two subsequent attempts to obtain a race-fixing law failed. This year, perhaps fueled by a series of highly publicized incidents elsewhere, the bill passed the legislature. It provided that "A person may not willingly, knowingly and unlawfully cause or attempt to cause the pre-arrangement or pre-determination of the results of a horse race," and mandated a penalty of three years imprisonment or a fine not to exceed $5,000, or both, for conviction of the misdemeanor.

Older Delawareans Abuse Prevention Week is May 1 - 7

Nationally, each year, over two million older people are the victims of physical and emotional abuse or neglect. In Delaware, approximately one thousand older people are victims of abuse.

Most neglect and abuse stems from lack of information on intervention and prevention. Because of this, Governor Castle has designated May 1 through May 7 as "Older Delawareans Abuse Prevention Week".

If you know of someone who is neglected or abused, call the Division of Aging, (800) 223-9074.

ADVERTISE IN THE JOURNAL 398-3206

IN 1888 TWO MAJOR HISTORIC EVENTS OCCURRED. ONE OF THEM IN HARRINGTON, DELAWARE.

Benjamin Harrison was elected 23rd U.S. president, November 1888.

The election of 1888 was a landmark in U.S. history. Although he lost the popular vote, Benjamin Harrison was elected our 23rd president by vote of the electoral college. Harrison was the great-grandson of Benjamin Harrison, signator of the Declaration of Independence, and grandson of our 9th president, William Henry Harrison.

Harrison was a brigadier general in the Civil War and was elected U.S. senator from Indiana in 1881. His presidency was served without triumph or tragedy. During the Harrison administration six western states entered the union, he expanded the government pension list and he signed the Sherman Silver Purchase Act.

In 1892 Harrison was succeeded in office by Grover Cleveland - the man he defeated in 1888.

The tradition is born

The townspeople of Harrington founded The First National Bank of Harrington, later to become the JCPenney National Bank, in the election year of 1888. Our roots are firmly planted in local soil. Service to the community was the objective of our founders and we believe that's still a principle worth building upon.

The tradition continues

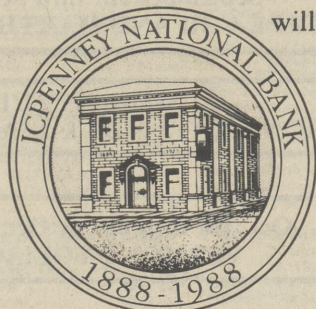

Throughout the past century, and a number of presidents, we've grown because of our dedication to simple basics: service, friendship and community support. Our customers give us high marks in each of these areas. As a consumer bank, we can assure anyone who walks through the door that we focus on individual needs. Our full line of personal banking services fulfills the financial needs of our friends and neighbors in Delaware.

The JCPenney tradition

James Cash Penney once said: "The greatest advertisement that a store can have is its service reputation." Our affiliation with a major national retail organization serves to strengthen our own service commitment. You can rely on this: election year 1988, and in the years to come, JCPenney National Bank will be serving Delaware's banking needs.

JCPenney National Bank was founded on March 19, 1888.

Dear Editor:
As a candidate for the one-year term on the Woodbridge School District Board of Education, I think it is important for the voters of the District to know where I stand on the various issues:
(1) Referendums for new school construction or renovation must be developed with the support of and ample input from the taxpayers of the District. To do otherwise is to invite defeat. It is my understanding that the present Board has already developed plans for another referendum next spring. The Board has reached this position without benefit of any input from the taxpayers who will be expected to pay the bill.
(2) The administrative staff must live in the Woodbridge School District. To do otherwise is to indicate to district residents that the administration doesn't support the educational system of which they are a major part.
(3) Tax dollars should be spent for educational purposes. We don't have unlimited funds and those we have should not be used for non-educational purposes.

(4) All teachers' salaries need to be reviewed and we must find a way to reward those quality teachers who stay with the District over the years.
(5) Discipline throughout the District must be firm, fair and consistent. Teachers must be safe in their classrooms.
(6) We have all watched with great concern the plight of the Smyrna School District. That happened because that Board failed to control the purse strings. As a Board member, I will know how and where our money is being spent.
With your support and vote on May 14, the voice of the people who pay the bills will be heard.
Thank you.

Yours truly,
Joseph T. Conaway

Dear Editor:
As you are aware, in 1987, Delaware had one of the worst years ever in highway deaths, and this year so far is running at TWICE last year's total. Governor Castle has introduced a major highway safety package aimed at making Delaware roads safer, and many of these concern measures dealing with drunk driving, including the Open Container bill which MADD has pushed for over several years.
We have a chance to make some major improvements in Delaware's drunk driving program this year, but we need the public to speak out to make it happen. In Delaware, it is still true that more people are killed by drunk drivers, than in all other homicides. For teenagers the number ONE cause of death is still a drunk driving crash. If we are to make a significant reduction in the number of people killed and injured by drunk driving, we must continue to strongly focus on the problem, and improve the DUI Program when necessary to make it more effective.
Some of Governor Castle's proposals include areas other than drunk driving that contribute to the large numbers of deaths and injuries on the roads. While you may not support all of the Governor's proposals, please voice your support for those you do favor to your friends and to your legislators. IT IS VITALLY IMPORTANT FOR THE LEGISLATORS TO HEAR FROM

LARGE MAJORITY OF THE PUBLIC THAT SUPPORTS MADD AND OUR EFFORTS TO MAKE THE HIGHWAYS SAFER--UNFORTUNATELY, THE LEGISLATORS SOMETIMES ONLY HEAR FROM A SMALL VOCAL MINORITY WHO OPPOSE ALMOST ALL HIGHWAY SAFETY EFFORTS.
The Governor's package deals with 5 problems in highway safety and proposes legislative and policy changes in order to promote highway safety and to reduce the deaths and injuries on Delaware's roads. The 5 areas that Governor Castle is addressing are:
Drunk Driving; Speeding/Dangerous Driving; Seatbelts/Helmets on M/Cycles; Teenager Drivers; and Truckers.
The major legislative items include: Banning open containers of alcohol in vehicles; increasing penalties for selling to minors and minors who buy alcohol; increase penalties for making/possessing fake ID's; Minor's loss of license for driving after consuming any alcohol; Seat Belt Law; Motorcycle Helmet Law; and ban radar detectors; bill requiring all children under 4 to be in child seats.
Please call or write to your legislator right away, and get your friends and neighbors to do the same. Together, we can make a difference!

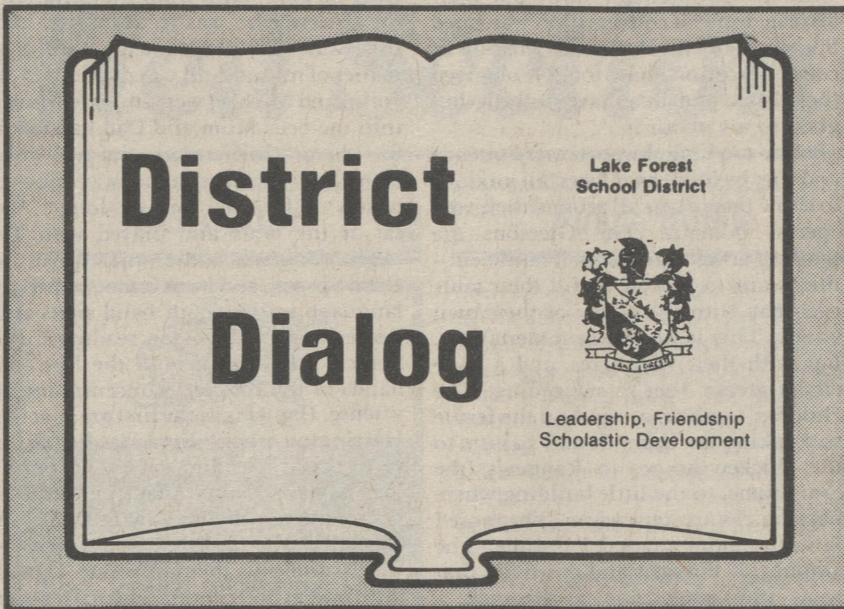

Sincerely,
Dale N. Swain

On October 19, 1987, the Dow Jones Industrial average fell 508 points. In the wake of that fall, several major government reports have been released, and President Reagan has created an interagency committee to evaluate proposed regulatory alternatives. Congress is currently focussing on the January 8 Report of the President's Task Force on Market Mechanisms. Although this report proposed ways to "fix" the financial markets, its suggestions are misdirected and would increase the likelihood of another market plunge.
The Task Force, headed by Nicholas F. Brady, has proposed that "circuit breakers" be installed to stop any future market collapse. The report defines circuit breakers as market trading halts, such as price limits or order-imbalance related halts. This proposal would allow "time-outs" to restore investor confidence and counter order imbalances. However, the decision of the Hong Kong market to close for one week last October proved that time-outs merely intensify panic, not mitigate against it. The Commission should have concentrated more on the role of market makers in eliminating order imbalances and restoring investor confidence.
Market makers are responsible for maintaining orderly markets. On the New York Stock Exchange (NYSE), "specialists" serve as market makers for particular stocks. As a risk management mechanism designed to break a precipitous fall, the specialist system attempts to counterbalance market trends. During a period of intense selling pressure, specialists should buy to alleviate sell-order imbalances. On October 19, the specialist system failed dramatically.
The Brady Report explains that only about 58 percent of the specialists counterbalanced market trends on Black Monday. Indeed, the report states, "Fully 30 percent of the specialists in a sample of 50 large capitalization stocks were net sellers of those stocks on October 19." Furthermore, approximately one-third of the examined specialists misjudged opening prices the next day, and intensified already significant uncertainty. On October 20, only 39 percent of the studied specialists effectively counterbalanced market trends.
Clearly, the specialists were not functioning as risk managers. They did not maintain an orderly market, and did not alleviate order imbalances. In fact, the imbalances that specialists were unable to counter resulted in 195 trading halts and delays on Black Monday and 280 suspensions the following Tuesday.

The failure of the specialist system transmitted problems to the Chicago futures exchanges. The halting of trading in an NYSE stock creates price uncertainty in stock index futures (contracts traded on the Chicago Mercantile Exchange which anticipate price changes in baskets of NYSE stocks). The Government Accounting Office report on the October market plunge explains that the most popular index future, the Standard & Poor's 500 contract, experienced an average price change of 13.67 percent and average delays of 51 minutes in NYSE stocks.
Unlike the NYSE specialists, market makers on the Chicago Mercantile Exchange (CME), known as "local" traders, functioned well on October 19. Local speculation on the CME provided buying to compensate for selling pressure, and selling on October 20 to compensate for buying pressure. The CME maintained an orderly market and functioned as a risk management mechanism for the NYSE on Black Monday. The CME estimates that if the futures market had not absorbed about 27,000 contracts on Black Monday, the Dow might have fallen an additional 14 percent.
The Brady Report mentions most of the above points in its analysis, but its conclusions are errant. The report recommends imposing circuit breakers to create trading halts in periods of price volatility, and yet those same trading halts led to the failure of the specialist system on Black Monday. Furthermore, imposing inter-market trading halts would merely create a market dysfunction, precipitating a fall potentially worse than the crash of October 19.
The Brady Report also advocates higher futures margins. This would discourage traders from engaging in local speculation on the CME and severely handicap its market-making mechanism.
The Brady Commission's proposals would increase the risk of another even greater market plunge. Hopefully, when the Brady Commission talks, no one will listen.

"Teaching using local resources"

by Michael Boyd
English Department
Lake Forest High School

I recently came upon a tremendous community-involved educational experience, an experience I want the public at large to know about. It all began with a flyer distributed through the Harrington Library to the English department at Lake Forest High School. The flyer told of a series of lectures being given at the Harrington Library, lectures sponsored by an organization known as "the Delaware Humanities Forum." The series, titled "Reading Some American Classics," featured college professors lecturing on classic works of American literature.

As an instructor in 11th grade American literature, I decided that the lectures might be a good idea for my students - although the Lake Forest High School library is an excellent library, there is nothing like giving students the opportunity to go into the community to learn. I admit I was hesitant - it is a bit disarming for a 16-year old to listen to a professor from the University of Delaware lecture on Nathaniel Hawthorne's The Scarlet Letter or a professor from the University of Maryland discuss Edith Wharton's Ethan Frome. I was, however, pleasantly surprised. The professors made every effort to make the literature accessible to young people, and the kids came out in great numbers.

There is nothing quite so exhilarating as watching the community and the school work hand-in-hand to educate students. There is nothing quite so wonderful as watching people, older people, come out in full force to learn. The experience taught the students more than American literature - it showed them that they live in a community that cares about learning, a community that sees the future embroiled in education.

I remember as a student at Penn State University reading the base of a sculpture outside of the University's library in State College, Pa. The plaque on the base read, "the true University is a collection of books." I agree! We need to have more community-involved experiences for students. One of my ninth graders writes, "I hate school - they keep us penned up like animals!" Well, if the community can become involved, we can solve this child's problem. There is no need to go to Philadelphia or Washington, D.C., or even Dover to get quality educational experiences when there is a wealth of resources available here in the Lake Forest School District. I would like to thank the Delaware Humanities Forum and the Harrington Library for presenting a tremendous program. Combining school resources with community resources can help move Lower Delaware far into the 1980's ahead of any educational competition. The community needs the library and programs like these to show respect for knowledge. Thank you again, Harrington Library!!

"What party is that?"
"The Democratic Party."

An early out for the deficit bind

by U.S. Senator Bill Roth
One of the biggest challenges that Congress faces in the immediate future is finding responsible, innovative ways to reduce the federal deficit. We must look for solutions to this bind which make the necessary budget cuts without severely cutting government services.
I believe legislation I have introduced to create an early retirement plan for federal employees is one such solution. My proposal is good for the American taxpayer and federal employees of all ages. According to the Congressional Budget Office this legislation could produce $3 billion in federal budget savings over the next five years.
My proposal has received an overwhelming response from federal employees. Since I introduced this bill, I have received letters representing over 8,000 employees from every state in the country. These letters are from both male and female federal workers of all ages. On the whole they agree that this legislation offering early retirement to the federal work force is a rational, humane method for reducing cost without harming the morale and efficiency of the government.
In addition to saving billions of taxpayer dollars, my bill would also open up valuable career opportunities for younger federal workers, especially women and members of minority groups who may be concerned about the shortage of career opportunities in the federal government. By providing

Senatorial Report

by Sen. Ruth Ann Minner
18th Senatorial District
Last week in the General Assembly, members were wearing pins with a Red V symbol signifying the General Assembly's support of Delaware's volunteers during National Volunteer Week April 17-23.
I was proud to sponsor a resolution (SR 88) expressing appreciation for the sacrifice of time and effort put forth by Delaware's volunteer "army" which, either through organized programs or the simple outstretched hand to one in need, are making such a significant contribution to literally hundreds of volunteer programs.
In Delaware, statistics show an upward trend in volunteerism, according to Nancy F. Olsen, director of the Division of Volunteer Services in the Department of Community Affairs.
Few people, I'm sure, realize the extent to which volunteerism eases the strain on the State's budget and makes it possible for community activities to contribute to those in trouble or need.

Let me give you a few statistics, which may surprise you. Of the 450 non-profit organizations listed with the Volunteer Link, 87,850 volunteers have been identified. These volunteers contributed 4,757,350 hours of service during 1987. If these volunteers were paid at the rate of $6.50 an hour, their service would be worth $31 million.
In addition, the State of Delaware utilizes nearly 9,000 volunteers to supplement and facilitate many of its services to Delaware citizens. These volunteer services are worth another $3.1 million and represent a savings to the State or additional services to citizens which would not otherwise be provided.
There are also 1,596 volunteers in Foster Grandparent, RSVP-New Castle, and RSVP-Sussex programs administered by Mrs. Olsen's agency.
If you think of it, all of us owe these volunteers who give generously of their time and energy a vote to thanks. They do make a significant difference in Delaware.

A trade bill that's good for America

by Congressman Tom Carper
Recently, the House of Representatives passed far reaching trade legislation designed to break down barriers which prevent free and open competition worldwide.
The U.S. balance of trade, which translates roughly to mean the difference between our imports and exports over the course of a year, has moved from a surplus in the 1970's, to a deficit of $34.6 billion in 1981, to a record deficit of $171.2 billion last year. Short-term trade deficits are not uncommon, but extended deficits of this magnitude are unhealthy for the American economy.
There are a number of causes for our huge trade deficit. But perhaps the most frustrating reason has been the unfair trade practices of some of our trading partners. Unfair trade practices most commonly occur when a foreign country restricts the availability of American imports to their consumers, or when a country "dumps" their products in the United States by selling them to American consumers below cost. In either case, the result is an unfair advantage making it impossible for Americans to compete with their foreign counterparts. That means a weaker economy here at home, and fewer jobs for American workers.
For three years, Congress has been looking for a way to combat unfair trade practices without igniting an international "trade war" with protectionist trade policies resulting in countries retaliating against each other and stifling economic growth.
With the trade bill which passed the House by the overwhelming margin of 312 to 107, I think Congress has achieved its goal. It allows us to get tough on countries which resort to unfair trade, but doesn't paint us into a protectionist corner.

On the other hand, the bill makes clear to countries that are taking advantage of our commitment to free trade, that we will no longer accept the status quo. Countries that continue to dump their goods in the U.S. will be met with tariffs and quotas on those goods. Countries that restrict American imports can expect similar treatment for their exports to our country.
To the Administration, which has been slow to confront the issue of unfair trade, Congress makes clear we want action. That's not to say that we're going to put this or future presidents in a trade policy straitjacket. There's plenty of room for the president and his trade representatives to negotiate and plenty of alternatives for them to choose from, when they confront countries which are blatantly engaging in unfair trade.
The president may veto the trade bill we send to him. He objects to a provision of the bill which deals with notification of workers who face layoffs or job losses due to plant or business closings. Ironically, those notification provisions are considerably less onerous than some which have already passed at the House with my support.
Nevertheless, if the president does veto this trade bill, Congress should send him a second bill minus the notification provisions. Action on unfair trade practices is too important to our economic wellbeing to be put off for another year.

Better serving the needs of our homeless population

By Governor Michael N. Castle
Last week a tornado in Florida left hundreds of people without homes. The picture that ran in our local papers and on the national news reminded us that homelessness can happen to anyone.
In Delaware we've done a good job of providing services to our homeless, but recently it has become clear that we can do better.
With the passage last year of the Federal Stewart B. McKinney Homelessness Assistance Act more money is coming into the state and local governments to help the homeless.
We always welcome additional federal dollars. Unfortunately, the number of programs funded through one federal program or another means we now have almost as many agencies administering money as we have agencies that are providing services.
What is needed to make the most of the additional money, is better coordination of services. Last week, Homelessness Awareness Week, I signed an Executive Order establishing the Delaware Interagency Council on the Homeless to assure improved and more effective services to the homeless in our state.
The Council will include representatives of all agencies administering funds and representatives of service providers. The United Way of Delaware and local governments administering homeless programs have also been asked to participate.

In addition, we will seek the input of agencies that currently provide emergency housing services in Delaware, those on the "front line", such as the Delaware Homeless Coalition, and from the University of Delaware's College of Urban Affairs and Public Policy.
The Council will be a working group with the practical experience necessary to cut through red tape, to look at the way we currently spend our money on services to the homeless, and to recommend changes or expansion of those services. At the same time, we will encourage Congress to change federal laws to give the states flexibility in tailoring programs to meet local needs.
Through the work of this newly created Delaware Interagency Council on the Homeless, our state will be better able to coordinate the current mix of programs and will get sound recommendations for improving our services to the homeless in our state.

Person-to-Person

The best of both worlds

by Rebecca Moore

When you write a newspaper column, you're always on the lookout for interesting people to write about. Sometimes these people are found in the most unexpected places. Several weeks ago, my family and I were having supper in one of our favorite local restaurants—the Bonanza over in Milford. We thoroughly enjoy the food and the service is real good, so we eat there quite often. On this particular day, a family came in and sat down at a table just opposite ours. I was immediately attracted to this family. Three blonde-headed boys and one grinning, equally blonde little girl turned more heads than mine. Dad was tall and dark haired. Mom looked as though she could have easily won any beauty contest. Sounds like a perfectly normal American family, doesn't it? Well, sure they are, but even so, there was something very unusual about this family. To start off with, even with four children, Mom looked serene and unharassed. She is the matriarch of this family and it was obvious that all four children love and respect her. Dad sat next to his only daughter, and kept a close eye on the workings of his family. There was no questioning of authority—no rebellion, no disobedience. The three boys marched up to the salad bar and helped themselves to its bounty without getting into food fights or sticking their fingers into bowls of cheese and lettuce.

I sat and watched in near-amazement, and the more I watched, the more I wanted to get to know this family. But then something else happened that really got my interest going. I noticed that Dad was using sign language. "Hmmm...Dad's hearing impaired," I thought. My curiosity got the best of me and I got up the nerve to go up and start a conversation. I excused myself and sat down in a chair next to Mom. The look she gave me was one of slight hesitation and a bit of wariness. After all, it's not every day some strange woman plops herself down next to you and interrupts your family's meal. She didn't know me from Adam, but I just had to talk to these people.

That's how I met the Gleeson family, and now you get to meet them, too. I think you'll agree with me that the Gleesons are truly very special.

Patrick and Virginia Gleeson are not original Delawareans. He was born in the Bronx, and she grew up in New Jersey. It was not until graduate school, at the University of Delaware, that Patrick and Virginia met. Patrick is a physics professor at Delaware State College. Although he is actually Dr. Gleeson, he prefers to leave that title in the classroom, as professing is only one part of his lifestyle. Virginia, whose background is in early childhood education, taught for several years, until the children began to arrive. They make their home just west of Harrington, in the tiny crossroads town of Vernon. That's the basic facts about the Gleesons—there's lots more to learn.

To begin with, I was way off base when I drew the conclusion that Dad was hearing impaired. He was talking with his middle son, Daniel, using Cued Speech. Daniel is now six and one half years old. When he was two, Daniel contracted a form of spinal meningitis. As the disease raged through his body, it destroyed his hearing. Remembering that time, Virginia's eyes filled with tears. Battling the disease was hard enough, but when she realized that her child was almost completely void of hearing, it was as though her world had caved in. In spite of the tremendous agony of spirit that Patrick and Virginia experienced, they were just so thankful that they still had Daniel—that the disease had not taken his life.

A few days ago, I wound my way through the streets of Harrington and headed out Route 14, and found my way to the Gleeson "homestead". You won't find "Dr." Gleeson here—you'll find Patrick—the jack-of-all-trades, builder, farmer, botanist, devoted family man. And you'll find Virginia here—teacher, homemaker, gardener, Patrick's partner—you name it, she does it. Arriving at the Gleeson's home, I knew I was at the right place—four little blonde heads were busy playing in the enormous yard. They all stopped their play and grinned at me just as Virginia emerged from the two story gray house. I was immediately made to feel right at home.

Once inside the house, Virginia opened a quart of apples she had canned last fall, and made an apple crisp. The kitchen and dining-room were light and airy with pine cabinets and paneling. Patrick explained that the house was in rather poor condition when they moved into it. They had to replace all the wiring and plumbing, and the vintage-model boiler was replaced with a wood-burning stove in the dining room. All the work on the house was done one piece at a time, and it was obvious that more than just work went into it—there was lots of love in every inch of this place.

My surroundings were fascinating. Every part of this home displayed warmth and creativity. When you think of a house, you just naturally think of a living room, dining room, kitchen bedrooms and perhaps a family room. In the Gleeson's house, however, not all of these rooms exist. Sure, the bedrooms, kitchen and dining room are there, but the living room and family rooms are more like classrooms. One of these rooms is covered with all sorts of books, charts, and any form of learning implement one can imagine. The other rooms hold a computer, handmade furniture, and more tools of learning. It is obvious that the Gleesons feel that everything in life is an education. Most of the contents of these two rooms were constructed by the Gleesons. I was amazed at their varied abilities and the lengths they went to in order to provide the best for their children. These two rooms were, indeed, a dream come true to any child.

Sitting in the dining room, Patrick, Virginia and I talked. The four children were outside playing. Curiously, I heard no sounds of irritation or fighting. They all seemed to get along quite well with each other. But inside, we spoke of many things—Patrick's position at the college, what in the world physics is in the first place, Virginia's decision to remain at home with her children for now; but their favorite topic of conversation was Cued Speech. This revolutionary method of communication has totally changed their lives, and they have nothing but good to say about it.

Before too long, I was escorted outside and met by four eager faces, all anxious to show their guest all around their very special domain. The Gleesons are making an effort to be self-sufficient—they want to be able to fill their table each day with the works of their own hands. This is no minor undertaking, but with their fifty acres, and a little elbow grease, they're succeeding. The children tumbled around on the fertile soil, taking me from the cow pasture to the chicken house, to Ramsey's (the ram) home, to the little building where baby chicks are kept warm. The more I saw, the more amazed I became. The amount of thought and creativity that went into something as basic as a chicken coop staggered me. Michael was particularly proud of the chicken house, and explained, with five-year-old fascination the workings of this building and what each door was used for. In addition to the farm structures surrounding the yard, there was also a unique play area for the children. The Gleesons have even taken an old corn crib, leaned clothes poles against it for ramps, and converted it into a play house. Here, again, their creativity was so much in evidence.

The sun was headed for bed, so it was time for the Gleeson children to head in that direction, too; but not until dessert. Ah! Dessert! The mere mention of the word, and four little bodies headed for the kitchen door. Stopping on the deck outside the door, I turned for one last look at this picturesque farm as the sun bid the day its farewells—what a beautiful sight! The last golden rays reflecting off the pond in the side yard, the rich soil just waiting to be used, the breeze blowing through the trees—all basic entities in our lives. But my reverie was short lived—I was swept into the dining room, and invited to be part of the Gleeson's evening ritual. I took this as quite an honor! Virginia was busy setting out color-coded bowls of the most aromatic apple crisp I had ever had the pleasure of inhaling. Even thinking about it now causes my poor empty mouth to water! But the children were the real attraction at the dining room table. The three boys had all been upstairs to grab their latest Lego creation, and each wanted to explain his creation to me. Colleen, the youngest, decided it was high time for her to sample life in a grown-up chair and scorned her high chair. Through it all, was the busy stuffing of faces, continual grins, a flurry of Cued Speech, but mostly, a tremendous outpouring of love. This was no presidential inauguration, or royal coronation; to me, it was far more exciting—this was a very close, loving family, the basic unit of life in America, and sharing a part of their busy lives for a few brief moments was truly a pleasure. It was just like being at home.

All too soon, it was time for the children to head for bed. This was done with no complaint from the children—they knew who was in authority, and this was not questioned. Within a matter of minutes, all was quiet. Patrick, John, and Michael were snuggled down into the beds Mom and Dad had made for them; Colleen was in her crib. Daniel, on the other hand, was allowed to stay up for a few minutes longer. We sat at the table and played with his Legos. Virginia and Daniel spoke in Cued Speech, and I was fascinated. This language utilizes both hand signs and lip reading. The person reading Cued Speech must watch both the lips and hands of the speaker. Concentration is intense. Daniel is in the first grade at the Harrington school. Every day he takes a very special friend to school with him. Her name is Kenna Adams, and she is his interpreter. Kenna is with Daniel in class all day, and she takes the teacher's words, and puts them into Cued Speech. Daniel must watch both Kenna, and his teacher at all times, and he cannot allow anything to distract him. By the end of the day, this child, for obvious reasons, is exhausted. But the effort is worth it. Because of Cued Speech, Daniel is able to attend a regular school. The other children are learning from him, for in order to be able to communicate with him, they, too, must learn Cued Speech.

The hands on the clock continued to move. As much as I dreaded it, it was time to leave. What an evening I had had! Those beautiful children smiled so much. Patrick and Virginia are putting all their energies into giving their children the best of two worlds—the world of education, and the world of the basics of life. In a world which so often seems to be going wild, one small corner of Vernon holds a remarkable family. No, they're no more perfect than the rest of us, but their total devotion to each other is apparent in everything they do. The experience of raising four children is a joy, a challenge, and an all-encompassing occupation. Meeting the Gleesons was an experience I shall not soon forget. In fact, I'm really looking forward to a return visit when their turkey babies arrive—yes, the Gleesons also raise turkeys. They even grow their own garden plants inside a building under lights until they're big and strong enough to be planted in the garden. Is there any end to what these people can do? Somehow, I think that twenty years down the road, you'll still find Patrick and Virginia on their fifty acres raising chickens and sheep and cows, and bringing in a bountiful harvest, and waiting for the next generation to arrive for a visit. I wonder if perhaps the front two rooms will still resemble a school room...probably, for grandchildren will be eager to learn. That's pretty speculative, but for now, the Gleeson children will continue to smile from ear to ear. Dad will continue his daily trek to Del State and his creativity in the back yard, and Mom will can the fruits of her garden and teach her children well. In so many ways, the Gleesons, indeed, have the best of both worlds.

the home runs Steve Thompson has 2 with Chris Garton and Greg Reed each with one.

"The kids are making good contact with the ball. They are striking out less this time of the season than in the past, and I have not had too many complaints with the defense (the team has made just two errors)", he added. "The big question is the pitching after Steve. If Greg Reed can get some pitching time in and Chris Garton, it may mean we will be solid. The big thing that faces us right now is the game this Thursday against Dover. If we get by them...which they are good, then it could be a real good season", he said.

With Steve Thompson seemingly in the groove, the Spartans can still make a run at the Southern Division crown, which they are the defending champions.

Steve throws the ball in the 80's (m.p.h.) but he does have good control which he exhibited in the Delmar game. According to Steve he had good stuff in the Laurel game which he also won, but Laurel did get a couple of runs off him in the late innings. From the Laurel game to date he has been getting stronger and season ready.

Steve has 29 strike outs so far. He had a record of 6-0 last year, very low earned average with several shut outs and one run games, and first team all-conference. He also hit over .400 at the plate.

The hopes of the Spartan varsity baseball season rests this season on the back of Steve Thompson.
