

Rev. Brame cites discriminatory practice in school hiring practices

by Harry G. Farrow, Jr.

HARRINGTON — Rev. Joseph Brame called a news conference on Saturday at 11 a.m. to protest the school board's decision not to hire one of the two candidates, which the screening committee had submitted to the school board for their decision on March 23rd.

Mr. William Daisey, an assistant principal at the W.T. Chipman School in Harrington, was passed over by the board's decision to not hire anyone, but re-advertise for the position of Director of Administrative Services, which is, for the most part, the business manager's position in the Lake Forest School District.

Mr. Daisey claims to have been passed over eight times for positions of advancement during the ten years he has worked in the Lake Forest School District.

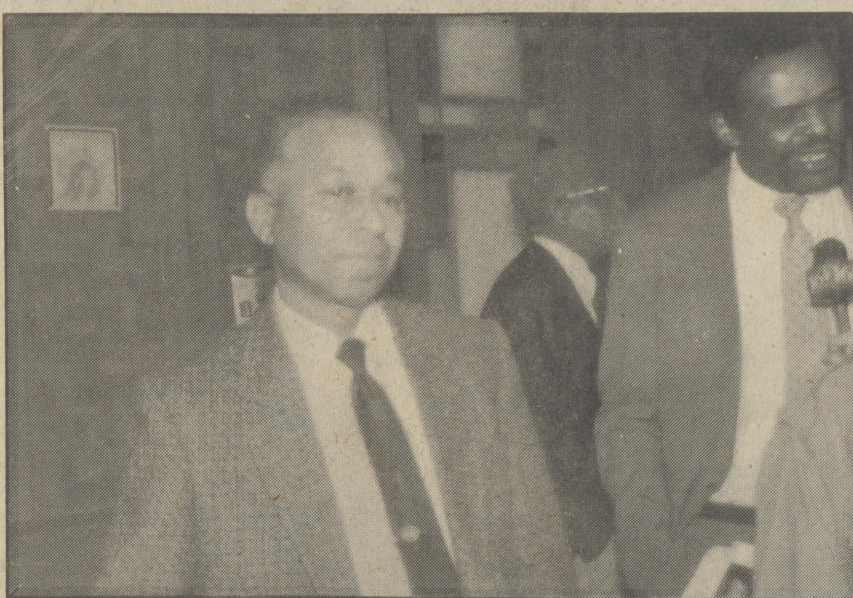

"Mr. Daisey received all yes votes as far as his hiring was concerned. He met all the requirements as far as the screening committee was concerned," said Rev. Brame.

"It appears now that the (school) board wants to disregard what the screening committee has recommended...and now go with the possibility of lowering the standards in order to hire someone else," added Rev. Brame.

Mr. Daisey answered questions during the news conference and indicated that other teachers and workers in the district had circulated a petition throughout the district and to the school board requesting that he (Mr. Daisey) be hired to fill the vacancy of the job which Richard Moretti held prior to his resignation.

"They keep saying they are looking for the best qualified person for the job...but the actions of the board seem otherwise, for it appears they are trying to lower the standards for the job," said Mr. Daisey.

"The business office has a broad range of responsibilities from the food service area to the transportation area. I feel that I am well acquainted with those responsibilities. When I taught and acted as an administrator in the district that I served in New Jersey, prior to coming to Lake Forest, I was working as the number two man in that district...so I know I can do the job, and that I am qualified," Daisey said.

"I know it can't be my sex or religion or my qualifications for the job, because they had all of that, so it must be something else. I have always exceeded the qualifications of other candidates for various positions in the district, which I have not gotten...or at least my qualifications were equal. What gives me some concern is that there are no minorities in the central administration in the Lake Forest School District," he added.

Among those positions which he was passed over for included principal of the high school, supervisor for federal programs, supervisor of curriculum, and twice for the superintendent's position.

Mr. Daisey holds a masters degree plus 45 credits, which means that he lacks approximately between five and ten credits and a thesis for his doctorate.

The job description required, among other things, a masters degree, teaching and administrative experience, all of which he has in his portfolio.

"I don't think that I should have to walk on water to get promoted in this district," added Mr. Daisey.

Rev. Brame added that he had spent many hours screening the original 22 candidates for the position "in order to get it down to the final candidates. I spent too long to not see something resolved in this matter. It is not right, and it must be made right," he said.

"I know one thing the people of this school district have had their hearts cut out with this added tax following the referendum vote and now this against Mr. Daisey doesn't set too well," added Rev. Brame.

"I believe that unless we get some answers to this issue, it will be hard to get this school district back together again after all that has happened," concluded Rev. Brame.

This plane crashed in the parking lot of the Travelers Inn in Milford on Sunday, when it overshot the runway of the Milford Air Park. The plane skipped across U.S. 113, clipped off a lantern at the entrance of the parking lot, touched the rear end of a truck parked in the lot, and came to rest upside down. The plane was being piloted by Rene Daigle, 48, and his son, Mark Daigle, 14, both of Lebanon, PA. They were coming to the area to meet friends for a fishing trip on Memorial Day in the Delaware Bay. Apparently the pilot gunned the engine to try to get airborne again when it began hitting things on the ground. Mr. Daigle was treated at Milford Memorial Hospital for lacerations, concussion and a slight fractured skull above the eye. His son, Mark, was treated for minor injuries and released. Photo by HGF.

Rep. Ewing and CWO Welch give Memorial Day addresses

by Harry G. Farrow, Jr.

CWO 4 Harold Welch, Jr. gave a brief, but to the point, Memorial Day address in Milford's Memorial Plaza at 9:30 a.m. to start the Memorial Day festivities in the area. The Milford memorial services were sponsored by the Veterans of Foreign Wars Blue Hen Post 6483, Delaware, the American Legion Milford Post No. 3, Delaware and the Disabled American Veterans Chapter 6, Delaware.

Mr. Welch's speech took less than ten minutes to deliver, but it was a stirring note for patriotism. He harked back to his early school days in the Cedar Neck School where he first attended when his family moved to the Milford area from Philadelphia.

"I thought that I was the toughest kid in the school, but I soon learned differently. That was in 1933. I took something that a fellow student believed he had better claim on than I had, and he told me the next time that happened I would be in the water barrel head first. I did not believe him until it happened," he said.

"It was a learning experience for me, and I was to discover that the school district had very good teachers. Still I did not put much importance on education until I later discovered in the Army how vital an education will be to all of you young people out there," he added.

"If my teachers in the Milford schools had not put the pressure on me, I might have grown up a juvenile delinquent and never had the chance to get the education I was later to receive in the Army of this country," he continued.

Again his remarks harked back to other Memorial Days and the spirit of patriotism when he said "...I can remember when flags of our country rested at 45 degree angles along our streets in Milford...but we see none today. I feel there are groups out there in the Milford community who can put pressure on the Mayor (Rogers) to purchase flags for this community. Patriotism is alive today in this country but it is not well. There are Vietnam and Korean War veterans who are still being treated as second class citizens and they have not entered the mainstream in this country."

"There is a definite need for the young people in this country to step forward to take over for those of us who have rendered our service. There are still veterans who have paid the price deeper than others...but each one of us must do what we can to revive patriotism in this country," he continued.

"The young people of this country today face far greater pressures than we faced. There are over three million alcoholics in this country and millions more who are hooked on drugs. What if I had my brain burned out with drugs when I was attending the Milford schools. I can only know what I would have missed in education," he added.

He urged the young to do their part for their country "and return to Milford, build your community and be proud to be an American," he concluded.

In Harrington, flags did wave in the nearly stillness of mid-day in the downtown business district...as well as throughout the community. Patriotism was alive and well in Harrington.

Unlike Memorial Days in the past, this one in Harrington was relatively quiet as spectators gathered at Hollywood Cemetery for flag raising and hearing the principal speaker, State Representative Ben Ewing of the 35th Representative District (Sussex County) deliver the Memorial Day address.

Mr. Ewing's address centered on the flag of the United States. He said he visited a grave of a very dear friend early that morning. "He had a great influence on me. We must have had thousands of exchanges on a philosophical level over the years. He told me many times I believe in the church, the American flag and the American family. An excellent philosophy."

He referred to the opening prayer by Chaplain of the Callaway, Kemp, Raughley, Tee Post #7 American Legion in Harrington relating to the Taxpayers Association answers school superintendent

by Harry G. Farrow, Jr.

HARRINGTON — Fleet Hughlett, president of the Kent and Sussex Taxpayers Association, in a press conference on Friday, answered a series of questions which had been posed earlier by Lake Forest School District Superintendent, Dr. James VanSciver.

One question posed by Dr. VanSciver was a request for names of members of the Taxpayers Association. Mr. Hughlett indicated he would not release these names because of the right of privacy. "I indeed would not provide this information to a non-member — and Dr. VanSciver is not a member. Even if he were, this is still a private matter," he said.

On the matter of requesting a budget, Mr. Hughlett said the association had no budget. "And we did not pay for any ads for recent candidates for school board seats," he continued.

Mr. Hughlett said he would ask for an accounting on Dr. VanSciver's use of district envelopes and letterheads for what he termed personal care. "I term personal use when he (Dr. VanSciver) uses district envelopes and letterheads to write me a letter with these questions. I see no connection with these questions and what we have been doing," he concluded.

Other questions asked by Dr. VanSciver related to qualifications of the officers of the Taxpayers Association, which Mr. Hughlett answered this way, "...you have to be stupid, have unlimited credit with the phone company and have a gas credit card."

On the candidates, he said, "...Mrs. Draper never asked for any help on her ads and Mr. Knowles is not a member of our association."

"The statement that gives me some concern is one where he says he fears that people were tricked into paying dues to our Association and the money was being used to promote the interests of a few people. Now, either he retracts that or comes up with evidence to support it, or there is going to be a legal problem," Hughlett said.

Trio of Spartan coaches honored by Franklin Select Circle

Three Lake Forest School District coaches have been named winners of the Franklin Select Circle Coaching Awards. This program, the largest of its type honoring high school coaches nationwide, is sponsored by the Franklin Life Insurance Company of Springfield, Illinois. Delaware claimed 30 honorees among 3,463 coaches from throughout the United States who earned this award in the second year of the program.

Several of this year's winners were honored a year ago but earned a higher level of recognition, which is based on their number of career victories, this year. The standards are weighted so that a basketball coach, whose teams normally play twice as many games per season as a football coach, would have to win twice as many games to qualify. The standards were prepared by a panel of experts assembled by Scholastic Coach magazine, the national magazine for high school and college coaches and athletic directors, which administered the program.

Winners were selected at three levels -- gold, silver, and bronze -- again as determined through the number of career victories. Each qualifying coach will receive a special award from The Franklin and the names of all 3,463 national winners have been published in the May/June issue of Scholastic Coach.

Honored from Lake Forest were Jim Blades (bronze award for cross country and bronze award for track and field), Pat Borowski (gold award for girls basketball) and Jim Fleming (bronze award for football).

"We are pleased to continue our sponsorship of this program because of its unique fairness," said Jack Watson, Executive Vice-President of The Franklin, in announcing this year's honorees. "It puts all coaches on an equal footing, and there is absolutely no political influence in it. Requests from athletic directors have led us to honor winners in 23 sports. This year

Rep. G. Robert Quillen ready for re-election

Citing his knowledge of the legislative process and the time to devote to the General Assembly, Rep. G. Robert Quillen (R-Harrington) has announced his bid for a seventh term to the Delaware General Assembly.

A full time legislator, Quillen is an expert in the field of State Administration and sits on the powerful budget writing Joint Finance Committee, which reviews money allocations to state agencies and Grant-In-Aids. His experience in the legislature began in the 1960's and has continued into the 1980's, making Quillen one of the senior members of the General Assembly. Quillen has been active in road improvements in the 30th district, economic development, increased pensions, increased tax exclusion for pensioners and worked toward keeping health care costs affordable.

"Serving in the legislature for 12 years has allowed me the opportunity to cut through the bureaucracy and get things done for my constituents in the 30th district and I'd like to continue that work after November," Quillen said.

A native of Harrington, Quillen is also a member of the House State Administration and Housing and Community Affairs Committee.

Friends of Rep. G. Robert (Bobby) Quillen (second from right), gathered at a fund raiser for him on Saturday night to hear the "Hubcaps". Over 400 attended. Here posing with Mr. Quillen are his working supporters as well as Dale Wolf, Republican candidate for Lt. Governor. Photo by HGF.

great flag. "The golden stripe around it refers to refined gold. A colonial mother was supposed to have once referred to a golden piece of thread which she placed on her son, who was going off to war. Her only son...and she said to him this symbolizes refined gold...which is supposed to be the very best and purest of gold."

The flag, he recalled, was something our soldiers have always rallied around, and the importance of raising it in timely situations has been an inspiration to our soldiers. He closed by describing the field of the flag. "...the 13 stripes for the original 13 colonies, the red stripe for the blood shed in the field of battle, the white for the sweat and tears shed during times of crisis, and the stars in the blue field for what we associate with heaven."

The Milford Middle School played "God Bless America", "The Battle Hymn of the Republic", both sung by Dorothy Smith, who also introduced the Gold Star Mothers, then "Taps and Echo" and "To The Colors".

The ceremony moved to the Odd Fellows Cemetery, where "The Thunderer" was played with another solo by Dorothy Smith, "Take My Hand Precious Lord" and finally "Taps".

SEAT BELT ISSUE NOT DEAD
Dear Editor:
I understand that it is likely that Senator Holloway will revive the defeated Seat Belt Bill (SB 365) to record changes in the roll call vote that defeated the bill May 19. He has the next three Legislative sessions (May 31, June 1, June 2) in which to do this or the bill is dead.
The sponsors of the bill will try to hold the 11 recorded yes votes and get three other Senators to switch over to a yes vote. One of the switch over votes will be that of Senator Holloway. The other votes needed for passage of SB 365 may come from two of the following Senators: Adams, Marshall and Sharp.

Please take note that Senator Connor, Martin, Sharp and Slatcher all voted against a Seat Belt Bill last year. Senator Connor, Martin and Slatcher switched to voting for the bill this year. Senator Sharp opposed the bill last year but abstained from voting this year.
I question if there has been sufficient change in the wishes of the constituents of the above Senators to justify their support of the state law approach.
Tell your state senator again and NOW that you do not want a mandatory seat belt use law.

Looking beyond the INF Treaty

by U.S. Senator Bill Roth
In the past it seemed that nuclear arms reduction might forever be a topic of conversation, never a reality. Today, we have a treaty with the Soviet Union recently ratified by the Senate which will eliminate a whole class of nuclear weapons. We have succeeded in achieving a good INF treaty because the United States dealt from a position of determination and strength. When President Reagan first took office and announced his decision to implement President Carter's plan to deploy intermediate range weapons in Europe, he met with considerable criticism. Many argued for a "nuclear freeze". NATO's willingness to deploy a new generation of nuclear weaponry was in doubt and the Soviet Union walked out of negotiations.
When deployments began and the alliance held firm, the Soviets returned to the negotiating table. When threats and bullying failed to shake NATO resolve, the possibility of reaching an equitable treaty suddenly became near and finally, a reality. After several years of on-again, off-again negotiations, the Soviet Union has essentially agreed to the original U.S. position on intermediate range weaponry in Europe. This treaty will oblige the Soviet Union to destroy many more nuclear weapons than will be destroyed by the United States. It is also the first treaty to actually destroy weapons.
Prior to this treaty, arms control negotiations have been based on the assumption that the two superpowers hold comparable positions. The Soviet Union's defense budget has for many years run at an unprecedentedly high level and this heavy spending has yielded results -- both in large nuclear arsenals and huge conventional force. Many arms control agreements, particularly in the conventional field, will have to be asymmetrical if they are to be equitable and stabilizing.

The removal of so many U.S. nuclear missiles exposes the weakness of NATO's conventional forces compared to those of the Warsaw Pact. If NATO's conventional weakness is exposed then we should view this as a call to improve NATO's conventional defenses.
I chair a special committee of the North Atlantic Assembly, the parliamentary body of NATO, which recently released a comprehensive report on the future of NATO. As I said upon releasing the report, NATO must seek an imbalanced conventional arms control agreement which reduces the forces of both sides to rough parity. In the absence of such an agreement, NATO's conventional posture must be improved and the responsibility for such improvements must rest primarily on European shoulders.
We certainly have reason to be optimistic about progress in the nuclear arms reduction arena. At the same time, we must not let this optimism cloud our judgement -- we must proceed cautiously.

Senatorial Report

by Senator Ruth Ann Minner
18th Senatorial District
Often members of the General Assembly are called upon to make crucial decisions involving matters which would seem to have no relationship to their districts but, in fact, indirectly have a great deal to do with issues of importance to the people of the districts.
Such a case is the pending legislation (HB 444) which would give Phoenix Steel Co. in Claymont some extra time to permit prospective new owners a chance to get the steel mill operating again.
Because Phoenix Steel is located in the Coastal Zone and was grandfathered in the Coastal Zone Act of 1971, it can continue to operate in said Coastal Zone as long as it does not cease to operate for more than a year. The year has expired, and the new owners don't want to make the investment unless HB 444 to extend the period to two years is approved.
Because this column is written well in advance of publication, I can't predict what will happen in the Senate when HB 444 is scheduled to be considered on May 31.
A Hong Kong businessman and an investment firm backed by Communist China have offered a complicated deal, negotiated by the Castle Administration, under which the joint venture would pay $15 million for the bankrupt Phoenix Steel property, guarantee to operate it for at least five years as a steel manufacturer, assume full responsibility for the $21 million in outstanding bonds of previous owners, pay the State of Delaware $750,000 it stands to lose on guaranteed leases signed for previous owners, and give the State a partial lien on the property for five years.

In return, the joint venture wants HB 444 to pass the Senate unamended. And that's where my problem arises.
Pending in the Senate are amendments which would severely limit the uses which the new owners could make of dock facilities on the Delaware River in order to protect the 1,600 jobs at the Wilmington Marine terminal, and give former Phoenix workers from Delaware first crack at the 350 or more jobs which reopening the mill would create.
So there you have it. If we adopt amendments, which I think we should, we could jeopardize the whole purchase arrangement due to be signed in bankruptcy court June 1. If we don't amend the bill, we could leave a huge loophole in the Coastal Zone through which a whole new heavy industry port could slip.
Frankly, it's a tough choice to make.

"Boring"

by Dr. James H. VanSciver, Superintendent
There are those who would say that educators lack enthusiasm; that classes aren't entertaining enough; that schools are boring.

That sounds like a good topic for discussion. Let's analyze it.
Teachers must compete with all the diversions in our youth's lives... their friends, their music, their movies ... their thrills. Teachers really are at a disadvantage.

They don't have millions of dollars of equipment, the producers and directors, the chance to remake it if it doesn't go right the first time. They are live every day ... they're human ... and they are just one.

They know they must be part provider of information, part motivator, part entertainer, part counselor, part ... whatever that special need happens to be that day.

- Are they boring?
To be truthful, they are probably not as entertaining as MTV.
- Are they exciting?
To be truthful, they are probably not on a par with Robocop.
- Do they care?
Certainly.
- And they need your support.

You see ... we all have a responsibility to be a teacher. We each take part in the class each day by what we say or don't say ... by what we do or don't do ... by what we let happen or don't let happen.

Caveat Emptor

by Walter Block
In Peterborough, Ontario, 21-year-old Christopher Green died after being crushed by an 800-pound Coca Cola dispenser. The young man was trying to steal a Coke by tipping the machine toward him, and had asked his friends to push from behind.
However, in a travesty of justice as bizarre as the actual event, instead of Coca Cola suing Mr. Green's estate for damage to its property, his family has sued Coca Cola for negligence. In it they complain that the soft drink manufacturer "ought to have known that it was common and reasonably foreseeable practice among young people to obtain free drinks from the defendant's dispensing machines by tilting the machines forward."
Nor is this merely a nuisance case. James Drum, technical vice-president for Coca Cola, Ltd., thinks enough of it to have replied that the industry is studying ways to bolt down the dispensing machines. "We're working on it as diligently as we can," he said.
Unfortunately, such perversion of the law is by no means confined to central Canada. The British Columbia Court of Appeal has recently upheld a lower court ruling against a helicopter skiing company for delivering two men to the slopes of a lodge in the Purcell Mountains. Soon after, the two skiers died in an avalanche.
The heli-skiing company was found guilty of negligence, even though the two men were expert skiers and had signed detailed waivers relieving the company of all responsibility.
What is going on here? Has the notion of personal responsibility been banished entirely from the legal scene? What happened to the natural law doctrine of "caveat emptor," under which goods and services were sold on an "as is" basis, and the vendor took no responsibility for accidents, let alone theft on the part of the buyer?
If things continue along the present legal path, there will scarcely remain anyone in business to produce a football helmet, hockey skate, soccer ball, teeter-totter, motorcycle, swing set, sailboat, lawn mower, meat grinder, or any other equipment which might be involved in a mishap.
It is difficult to explain this movement away from "caveat emptor." But one possibility might be the influence of a new movement in law and economics which is concerned with measurement and information. In this perspective, it is of the utmost importance to reduce information costs of all kinds, but particularly those associated with risk.

Great emphasis is placed on the fact that Coca Cola may be presumed to know more about the accident possibilities of its dispensers than would the general public, and that the helicopter company has greater information about possible avalanches than would even tourists who are expert skiers. In like manner, the manufacturers of sporting equipment and consumer machinery are assumed to be far more knowledgeable about their products than are the ultimate users.
If this is the case then, according to economists who should know better, information costs may be reduced by holding the producer responsible for any mishaps, not the consumer.
The problem with this view is that costs are subjective. Costs are the alternatives foregone through any act of choice. As such, only the individual economic actor is in a position to know what opportunities are given up when an option is selected.
Consider the helicopter case. It is wrong to assume that despite an explicit agreement between the two parties absolving the helicopter company of responsibility, that the skier is ignorant of the true costs of the risk. All we have to go on is a voluntary contract between the company and the vacationer. From this we can deduce that in the minds of both parties, the agreement was worthwhile. As it turned out, of course, tragedy struck. But it does not follow that, in future, information costs can be reduced, and the public good promoted, by setting aside contracts which incorporate the knowledge of both consenting parties.
What is needed in law circles is a healthy dose of common sense, with a pinch of respect for commercial contracts between consenting adults.

Capitol Comments

Preserving America's heritage

by Congressman Tom Carper
In the 1960's, concerns about the impact of population growth and the pressures for accelerated development led leading conservationists and Congress to create what have since become two of the most successful environmental programs in the world.
The Land and Water Conservation Fund (LWCF) was designed to provide a steady source of funds for the acquisition of land to be preserved in parks and wildlife refuges, as well as recreational areas, both at the national and state levels. The Historic Preservation Fund was created to help states and localities identify and preserve historic resources.
For years, there was broad bipartisan support for both of these programs. With money coming from receipts from Outer Continental Shelf oil leasing and sales from surplus federal property, funding levels reached $800 million annually in the 1970's.
States like Delaware have made drastic gains in their land conservation efforts. Since the LWCF was created, Delaware has received over $28 million for hundreds of projects in all three counties. In addition to land acquisitions to protect open space and densely populated areas, state parks including Killens Pond and Lums Pond have been major beneficiaries. Funds have also been used for such things as playgrounds, basketball and tennis courts, and other recreational facilities throughout the state.
In recent years, however, the federal funding for these two important programs has been greatly reduced because of fiscal belt-tightening. Last year, for example, only about $200 million was appropriated for the LWCF. While Delaware created its own conservation fund in 1985 to compensate for the loss, the ripple effect of these cuts has resulted in many states making sharp reductions in their land and historic conservation efforts.

In an effort to turn this trend around, last week I joined Congressman Morris Udall as a cosponsor of legislation to establish an "American Heritage Trust." This landmark conservation legislation will create a true trust fund to ensure the future of LWCF and the Historic Preservation Fund. When the American Heritage Trust reaches its full $10 billion potential in 1993, interest from the principal in the fund will create up to $1 billion annually for recreation and conservation purposes.
A large portion of that money would go to states. Delaware could receive over $3 million a year from the trust fund, twenty times what we will receive from the depleted LWCF this year.
The urban and rural development boom of the 1980's is consuming almost 500,000 acres of wetlands and 750,000 acres of farm and forest lands annually. Despite the success of the Land and Water Conservation Fund and the Historic Preservation Fund, the needs for recreation, conservation, and historic preservation are greater than ever. If we delay in making the investment to meet those needs, the irreplaceable resources that are America's heritage will be lost forever.

CONGRESS ADHERES TO PRIVILEGES

By Richard H. Fink

Internal troubles at the White House have pretty much erased the term "Teflon president" from critics' vocabularies. Now the real question is whether our legislative system has yielded a "Teflon Congress," growing stronger and less accountable to the American citizenry.
For example, Congress exempts itself from a broad range of laws it has imposed upon other branches of government and the private sector. Lance Gay of Scripps-Howard News Service chronicled many of these in his recent series of articles in The Washington Times. For example, Congress exempted itself from the Civil Rights Act, the National Labor Relations Act, the Fair Labor Standards Act, the Equal Pay Act, the Occupational Safety and Health Act, the Age Discrimination in Employment Act, the Freedom of Information Act and the Privacy Act.
If, as claimed, Congress intended these laws to protect workers against a variety of abuses, then why did Congress specifically exempt its own? There are no guarantees against racial and sexual discrimination in congressional hiring, unlike the policies of all other branches of government and most of the private sector.
Exemption from ethics laws is another story. While most government officials are prohibited by law from accepting speaking fees, members of Congress regularly take the stump for special-interest groups at $2,000-plus per event. These are often the very same groups who have an interest in bills being considered by Congress. Executive-branch officials caught playing this game would probably be shown the door—to a courtroom.
Eventually, one would think, the voters would respond to this hypocrisy by turning incumbents out of office. Yet re-election rates for House incumbents have not dropped below 90 percent since 1974. Senate officeholders have held their own at rates of 93, 90 and 75 percent in the three elections since 1980.
Part of the reason for longevity is election financing, especially in the area of political action committee money. On average, incumbent congressmen receive about ten times as much PAC funding as their challengers. In 1987, PACs gave more than $11 million more to incumbent senators than to their challengers. And PACs contributed more than $24 million to House incumbents, but less than $300,000 to their opponents.
Incumbent congressmen also enjoy free year-round postal services. In 1986, Congress issued more than 12,000 pieces of mail for every incoming letter. That year, Congress appropriated $97 million in postage to cover 759 million posted items, a 17-fold increase in volume since 1954. Meanwhile, challengers have to pay out of campaign funds for everything they send to potential voters.
Another distinct incumbent's advantage is a growing, full-time staff. Congressional staffs tripled from 1957 to 1987. More revealing is that 34 percent of Senate aides and 44 percent of House staff work in home offices. With up to a dozen full-time people in each home office providing liaison and services, congressmen enjoy a kind of taxpayer-financed public relations team. Part of this is the congressman's job, but as Sen. William Proxmire told reporter Gay: "They're a permanent campaign staff, to a great extent." Worthy opponents can hardly compete with this structure, leaving the taxpayers, in effect, to subsidize incumbency.
The trends in congressional activity do not justify increases in staff. Between the sessions of 1975-76 and 1985-86, House in-session days went down 10 percent; committee meetings fell 39 percent; bills introduced plunged 59 percent; and recorded votes dropped 30 percent. Senate figures also show considerable decreases in these categories, while the total number of bills passed by both chambers is about the same.
There is one sure conclusion to be drawn from these facts: Abuses and unfair advantages are not likely to cease as long as Congress keeps nine-tenths of its membership intact at election time.
This is not meant to indict all of Congress. Many level-headed members are working right now to correct the exemptions and privileges granted congressmen, including themselves.
But it is up to you, the electorate, to let Congress know you won't stand by and watch as your tax dollars go to fund incumbency and perks for a corps of elected officials, who exempt themselves from rules the rest of us must follow. Teflon is very tough, but it cannot stand the heat of the voting booth.

Last Minute Budweiser 500 Notes

Geoff Bodine sees mental, physical toughness keys to Budweiser 500

DOVER — Are you tough enough? That refrain from a popular song of a few years ago describes the essence of the June 5 Budweiser 500, according to Geoff Bodine.

Bodine speaks with authority, as he won the NASCAR Winston Cup classic at Dover Downs International Speedway in 1986 and holds the Busch Pole Qualifying record at the one-mile superspeedway.

"It's a tough track, and I like tough tracks," he says. "I seem to do well in the demanding races, so I guess you could say Dover fits my style."

But he adds a note of caution: "You look down through the garage area and you can name fifteen or twenty guys who have that style of driving, that mental toughness and physical toughness that fits what we have to do at Dover. Nothing comes easy at Dover, and I'm sure the competition won't be easy, either."

Geoff Bodine will put his Levi Garrett Chevrolet on the track in search of another Busch Pole at 3:00 p.m. on Friday, June 3. Pole qualifying for the Grand National cars and the Friday Night Live driver interview program in the air-conditioned grandstand complete the opening day activities.

Final qualifying is set for both divisions on Saturday morning, with the Grand National cars leading off at 10:30. The Budweiser 200 Grand National race takes the green flag at 1:30 p.m., followed by final Winston Cup practice and the Bud Bash.

Sunday's 20th annual Budweiser 500 starts at 12:10 p.m. Infield gates open at 6 a.m. with the grandstand gates following at 8 o'clock.

The Dover Downs ticket office is open every day of race week from 8 a.m. to 8 p.m. For ticket orders and information, call 1-800-441-RACE (inside Delaware, 734-RACE).

Custom Home Fashions receives Wood-Mode Silver Award

Custom Home Fashions, owned by Connie and Boyd Mitchell received national honors for its 1987 custom cabinetry sales.

SEAFORD, DE — Custom Home Fashions, a 12-year-old, Seaford-based custom cabinetry and remodeling business, has received national honors for its 1987 custom cabinetry sales.

The Wood-Mode (R) Silver Star Sales Club Award was presented to owners Connie and Boyd Mitchell in April. To qualify for the award, CHF's custom designed cabinetry sales were in the top 30 percent nationwide.

Wood-Mode is the largest custom cabinetry manufacturer in the nation. Wood-Mode cabinets are designed locally to customer specifications by qualified designers, custom built by cabinetry specialists at Wood-Mode's 1-million sq. ft. headquarters in Kreamer, Pa., then installed by specially trained dealer installation crews.

CHF has five full time cabinetry designers on staff who are qualified to design and sell Wood-Mode custom cabinetry; owners Connie and Boyd Mitchell of Seaford, Todd W. Stringer of Salisbury, Wm. Roy Furches of the Millsboro area, and Michael Griffith of Seaford. Griffith is also the lower shore's only certified kitchen designer.

This is the second year in a row Custom Home Fashions has earned the Silver Star award. Last year, the Mitchells received a week's trip to Phoenix, Arizona. This year, the couple received a vacation in Cancun, Mexico.

CHF, based at State and Arch streets, Seaford, designs and remodels kitchens, baths and other areas of the home for customers from the Chesapeake Bay to the Atlantic Ocean and from the Virginia shore to Dover. A separate division, CHF Building Systems, specializes in building commercial structures, such as mini-warehouses, plants and other steel buildings.

"We'd really like to commend our staff for their award-winning work this year and last," said Connie Mitchell when announcing the award. "They're knowledgeable, caring and totally for the customer, 100 percent serving the customer's needs. That's where they shine, and that's why we've been able to achieve what we have in the 12 years since Custom Home Fashions opened its doors."

Busch Pole Qualifying for the Winston Cup cars will begin at 3:00 p.m. on Friday, one-half earlier than originally scheduled. Busch Pole Qualifying for the Budweiser 200 Grand National race will follow at approximately 4:00 p.m.

On Saturday, second-round qualifying for the Grand National cars is now set for 10:30 a.m., with the Winston Cup field to be filled at 11:30 a.m.

Both race times remain as originally scheduled, with the Budweiser 200 taking the green flag at 1:30 p.m. on Saturday and the Budweiser 500 at 12:10 on Sunday.

Anita V. Hart receives national Outstanding First-Year Teaching award

Washington, D.C.—The Student Loan Marketing Association (Sallie Mae) recently announced that Anita V. Hart, a Frederica, Delaware, teacher, is one of 100 teachers nationwide to receive a 1988 Sallie Mae Teacher Award for outstanding first-year teaching performance. The honor includes a $1,000 cash award.

"We commend Anita V. Hart for the superior teaching skills she has demonstrated in the classroom," said Sallie Mae Chairman Edward A. McCabe. "As the nation's largest single source of funds for education loans, Sallie Mae has a special interest in the education community—and in the people who strive daily for quality in education. We hope that by recognizing these wonderful, new teachers we can help renew the enthusiasm and commitment of all those dedicated to excellence in education."

Hart, who teaches at Lake Forest East Elementary School, was nominated for the Sallie Mae Teacher Award by the Lake Forest School District.

Award nominees are judged on Sallie Mae's behalf by a panel of education experts established by the American Association of School Administrators (AASA). Judging is based on candidates' performance as first-year teachers, using their own school districts' criteria, as well as on their collegiate academic performance and leadership capabilities demonstrated in volunteer activities on campus or in their communities.

The awards program, now in its fourth year, is administered, as well as judged, for Sallie Mae by AASA, which represents 18,000 public and private school administrators and professors of educational administration.

In addition to teacher who work in the United States, teachers in Overseas Dependent Schools, American Samoa, the Commonwealth of the Northern Mariana Islands, Guam, Puerto Rico Trust Territory and the Virgin Island are eligible to receive awards.

Sallie Mae, a federally chartered, stockholder-owned (NYSE) corporation, is the major financial intermediary serving the education credit market. By buying insured student loans and providing other financial services to financial and educational institutions, Sallie Mae replenishes local supplies of student credit. Thus, the corporation has funded about one in four of all guaranteed student loans outstanding today.

New student dress code at Lake Forest

Officials at Lake Forest School District report that the new student dress code, adopted by the Board of Education during the January 1988 meeting, will take effect September 1, 1988.

"It is very important," said District Superintendent Dr. James H. VanSclver, "that all of our students, as well as our parents, are made aware of this. Clothes for the school year are usually purchased during the summer. By letting people know now what the regulations are, hopefully we can eliminate any conflicts between what school regulations are and clothes that are purchased."

VanSclver added that District principals will be contacting students and parents in the near future and at the end of the school year to inform them of the regulations. Information will also be included in information packets which are distributed to students.

The three general statements dealing with the dress of elementary students are: 1. No hats may be worn in the building; 2. Feet must be protectively covered; and 3. No clothing with obscene/profane or objectional phrases or designs may be worn.

There are six general statements dealing with the dress of students attending Lake Forest High School and W.T. Chipman Junior High School. 1. No hats may be worn in the buildings; 2. Feet must be protectively covered; 3. Coverage must be from shoulder to top of knee (with the exception of school-related uniforms); i.e. no bare midriff, mesh or fishnet materials, tank tops or like items; 4. Clothing must not be torn or cut off; 5. Clothing worn during physical education classes, except sneakers, may not be worn subsequently to other classes; and 6. No clothing with obscene/profane or objectional phrases or designs may be worn.

Final decision regarding appropriateness of student dress throughout the District will be made by the building administrators.

As Time Goes By...

Do You Remember?

by Dorothy Graham

To Smile. Do you remember picking those luscious strawberries — first for eating, canning, preserving and yes, even for 1½ cents a quart for spending money. My father, Edward Harriett would not let me pick for him. I believe I've told you that story. Anyway, he said I ate two for every one I put in the quart cup. Berry growers are not happy with their crop this 1988. Hope somebody makes a shortcake around here!!

Listen honey, just arrived home after going to the Homecoming at the Harrington Senior Center. My, it was nice and if you were not there you missed a happy, friendly get-together! It was good seeing old friends. Now listen, I'm not saying anyone is OLD, I mean those GREAT folks of long friendship. There was Mamie Adams, Mildred Welch, Louise Burgess, Hazel Smith, Janet Harrington, Phyllis Clink, Thelma Legates, Virginia Smith, Virginia Wix, Ola Tildon, Elizabeth Zeitler, Clara West, Joan and Kenny McKnatt, Loris and Dick Henry (my neighbors, yet never see them — only at HSC). Now there were others of course, but these were either at the table or came over to ask for a letter (a game that was played) and stayed to chat a while. That's one thing that pleases me!!

It warms my heart when I see Joan McKnatt for I have known her since she was a "kid". She bought our first and only son, George Jr. a pair of booties when he was born in 1934. She could have spent that money for something else — but it sure pleased me then and still does. Seeing her at the entrance on Bazaar Day taking names and seeing that everyone registered. I like her a lot (her husband Kenney ain't half bad either). In fact, everyone that stopped by were pleasant folk that I and many others know and count them as friends. Let me say one thing more — that lady that works diligently on ceramics, Velma Whiteley is her name — Listen Honey, she has some very beautiful articles for sale and every one a bargain. Every piece is hand painted and nicely done too. She was working on double duty pieces — fancy chicken spoon rests or they may be hung up. Plan to get a couple for the space over the sink. They are nice!! Stop by and see for yourself. When you give a gift handcrafted, you give a gift that most people will remember who gave it to them and with so much merchandise thrown together and made in some other country, isn't it nice to be able to say it came from the willing hands of volunteers at the Harrington Senior Center.

There are lots of useful items as well as beautiful ceramics and all kinds of crafts. A couple of things I like especially are the towels that hang on the cabinet handles or frig door, covered clothes hangers, pot holders, oh me, any number of things. Slip by, you will be doing two good deeds — helping the Clara West and Jo Burke are two that help at the ceramics. Maybe more, but those two anyway! Lovely!

We talked of things we did and they still do. Hope you will stop by and be counted! The Jolly Timers Band of HSC played at the Chipman School on Thursday, May 24, 1988. I know that those young people got a bang out of them — Gladys Hill, Ola Tildon, Mamie Adams, Cecil Meredith, Mabel Lake, Jo Burke and Andy Anderson performed with Sylvia Meredith leading and playing the piano. As they told me some of the songs they played, I remembered so many nice things. Do you remember when they played "Grandfathers Clock" how we ticked and tocked all over the place. "Let Me Call You Sweetheart" (my favorite) brought a smile to many, for I always got a bit sentimental and more times than not, Annabel Morrow and Tony Perrone would take a turn around the floor in a beautiful dance step.

Remember? Miles Draper spun Bertha Dean and Annabel to a catchy tune — different times of course. But do you remember when Sylvia or Ina hit that chord that told us "When The Saints Come Marching Home" how many, in the Center started lining up and parading or marching around the Center singing, laughing, just having a grand time. "America" was always a little sobering, for we all realized America is truly the land most idolized in the world. Let's try to make it a better one — the songs above the Jolly Timers played for the Chipman school and others too, but these I remember they spoke of and with every song that I remember, there is also a story to go with it.

For instance "When You Wore a Tulip and I Wore a Big Red Rose", Marvin Brown and Mamie Adams had a skit with that song. Do you remember? Say, couldn't Larry Kromes play a mean tune on the organ and when Dick Henry, Marvin Brown, Webb Porter, and others sang to his music, listen honey, that was GOOD!!

There is something for everyone at Harrington Senior Center. Get acquainted with new people. Play shuffleboard. Ceramics, reading, good food, pleasant surroundings, warm in winter, cool in summer, and every other Friday — BRIDGE! Listen honey, we play for fun, but also try our best. Also a laugh or two. Last week was a ball — my score wasn't much, but the company was fantastic! Phyllis Greenhaugh is in charge and she's a sweetie!

I was so glad I went to Homecoming Day. My plan to make my visits more often. See you at the Harrington Senior Center — it's a nice place to be seen!

Eddie's team up to capture Battle of the Brandywine

by Chris McElean
Eddie Davis has captured seven driving titles and has driven more winners than any other driver in the history of Brandywine Raceway. He has won over 4,400 races and has led the nation twice in number of wins and is now one of the leading catch drivers at the sport's leading racetrack.

One might ask, "Is there anything that Eddie Davis has not accomplished?" Well, before Sunday night's 29th renewal of the $100,000 Battle of the Brandywine, Davis had never won Brandywine's most prestigious race in four attempts. That is until Saturday night.

The Smyrna native broke his drought in the Battle by leading every step of the way with another "Eddie," Eddie The Quick that is, to win by one half length over the late closing Kimbell Almahurst in 1:56.4.

Davis used Eddie The Quick's natural speed to outpace nine opponents through the first quarter mile. As the field straightened away in the stretch for the first time, things got hairy for a second as Champagne Enforcer (Robert Nixon) almost ran into the wheel of Eddie The Quick, causing the former to break stride. Davis, unfazed by the events occurring behind him, seized the opportunity and gave Eddie The Quick a breather passing the half-mile marker.

Eddie The Quick maintained his advantage down the backstretch, repelling challenges from owner Arlene Traub's favored entry of Even Odds (Ben Webster) and Store Wars (Bill O'Donnell) until Davis let the reins out one more notch turning in the stretch.

Throughout the final 608 feet Davis urged his mount, using a left handed whip whose crack could be heard in Dover, not letting up for a second. Store Wars, who had been sitting right behind Eddie The Quick most of the way, swung out entering the lane but couldn't catch the leader. Kimbell Almahurst drove up on the rail to challenge late but fell a head short of the leader. Ironically, last year it was Davis, aboard Automatically, who found himself on the losing side of a nose in last year's Battle.

For Eddie The Quick, it was his biggest payday to date. The three-year-old colt by Tyler B. has now earned 190,000, lifetime for his owners, John and Linda Rock (who race under the Rocklin Stable name) of Paradise, Pennsylvania.

For trainer Eric McEwan, Eddie The Quick's victory was quite satisfying. "Since I've trained my horses right here at Brandywine for some time, winning the Battle is quite a thrill."

Asked where Eddie's next stop would be, McEwan said the $1,000,000 North American Cup in three weeks was his destination. "Is it time to tackle the big boys now," one person asked McEwan. "He is one of the big boys now," he quipped.

A former Battle of the Brandywine performer, Dragon's Lair, who was second to Guts in the 1985 Battle, blazed a .55.1 final half mile to win the $7,000 Invitational Handicap on Battle night. Confidently driven by Donald Dancer through a leisurely :29.1 and 1:00.2 fractions, Dragon's Lair put on the afterburners and extended himself to a measure neck victory over Threefold in 1:55.3.

It was the fifth win in 15 starts for the six-year-old Dragon's Lair, who returned to the races last year after an abbreviated stud career. He is trained by Joe Holloway out of the David Rovine stable headquartered in Middletown, Delaware.

With all the attention focused on the Battle festivities, the talent of an up and coming Delaware native may have gone a bit unnoticed. Joe Dugan, Jr., a 20-year-old Smyrna resident was red hot at the end of the week, registering seven wins in the span of three days. Thursday, Dugan, Jr. won three of the first four races, including the daily double. On Friday and Saturday he found himself in the winner's circle twice each night. Dugan's red hot week propelled him into second place among the driving standings at Brandywine, behind defending champ and Harrington native Robert Shahan. Dugan has 25 wins as of May 30th, and his 23.1 percent winning average is tops among the top ten drivers.

Milford Bowling League's high scorers

It may not be public knowledge, but the Senior Citizens of the Delmarva area are a potent and serious force, especially when it comes to bowling.

The odds would probably be that there are more, or at least as many, senior citizens bowling in Senior Leagues as there are bowlers of the younger generation. And they are serious about it.

What began as an informal challenge between Senior Teams from North of the Canal (Yankees) and Senior Teams from below the Canal (Rebels) has mushroomed into a yearly tournament.

The third annual, and greatest to date, "SECOND CIVIL WAR NORTH-SOUTH BOWLING SHOOT-OUT" will take place on two dates.

In the "SOUTH" at the new Seaford Lanes in Seaford, Delaware on July 8, 1988 at 1 p.m. and in the "NORTH" at the Prices Lanes, at Prices Corner, Wilmington, Delaware, at 1 p.m.

Second Annual Torch Run set for Thursday, June 9th

On Thursday, June 9th, police officers representing agencies from throughout the state of Delaware will participate in the 2nd Annual Statewide Law Enforcement Torch Run for Delaware Special Olympics. The event serves as a kick-off for the 18th Annual Summer Games, and is sponsored by the Wilmington Savings Fund Society (WSFS).

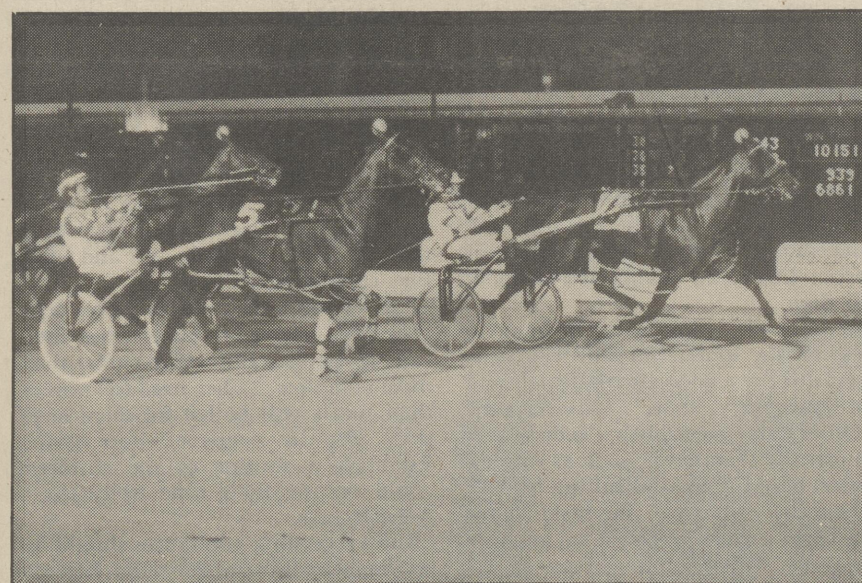

The Northern route will begin at 9:45, with opening ceremonies at Rodney Square, while the southern leg departs from Georgetown Circle at 11:45. The two will then converge on Court Street in Dover for an exciting closing ceremony at Legislative Hall at 5:30.

The upstate runners will head south on King Street to 2nd and continue west on 2nd to Union Street. From Union they pick up 100 (Elsmere) and go until Maryland Avenue (Route 4). They follow Route 4 through Newark to 896 South, 896 to the crossover to Route 13. The Georgetown runners simply follow Route 13 north to Dover.

A unique aspect of the Torch Run is the adopt-a-cop program, through which individuals or groups can sponsor a law enforcement officer. Anyone interested, contact your local police chief or the Delaware Special Olympics Office at 368-6818.

LOS ALAMITOS REPORTED SOLD FOR $100 MILLION, WILL RACE

Los Alamitos Race Course, located in the heart of southern California's populous Orange County and home of harness and quarter horse meetings, has been sold by Hollywood Park Realty Enterprises, Inc. for $100 million in cash.

The buyer is SDC Development Ltd. Partnership, an Orange County development firm based in Newport Beach, and both Hollywood Realty board chairman Hal Brown Jr. & SDC president Gary Hamilton confirmed the transaction "subject to negotiation and execution of definitive agreements approved by the board of directors of Hollywood Park Realty Enterprises, resolution of some development and zoning issues with the city of Cypress, and other unspecified contingencies."

Under the reported agreement Hollywood Park would continue to operate race meetings at Los Alamitos until 2,001 on a lease-back arrangement for an annual base rent of $3.5 million. SDC would take over both the 137-acre track and racing plant and an additional 160 acres in contiguous property, and would follow thru on a standing commitment to invest $11 million in improvements into the aging facility.

Hollywood Park bought Los Alamitos four years ago from former owner Millie Vessels for a reported $57 million, and has been interested in selling the property in recent years to improve its cash position. A number of previously reported negotiations failed to materialize, but the SDC agreement appears to have appeal for both seller and prospective buyer.

Famous Soviet skaters to train at the University of Delaware

Olympic and world figure skating champions Ludmila and Oleg Protopopov will visit the University of Delaware campus in Newark this summer to train with Ron Ludington, director of the University's Ice Skating Science Development Center.

The husband-wife team called him from their home in Switzerland to arrange the month-long training. Mr. Ludington said.

The Protopopovs, legendary figures in the skating world, defected to Switzerland in 1979, while on tour.

The Belousova-Protopopov team, as they were known during competition, reigned as formidable world champions from 1965 through 1968 and captured gold medals at the 1964 Winter Olympics in Innsbruck, Austria, and in 1968 at Grenoble, France.

Three of the four spirals performed by pairs, as well as a number of elements now used in routines, were created by the Belousova-Protopopov team; however, some of their unique elements are not performed by other skaters because of the degree of technical difficulty.

Diabetes seminar set for June 16th

Diabetes, with its complications, is the number three cause of death by disease in the U.S.A. And, sadly enough, one in 20 Americans -- that's 12 million people are afflicted with diabetes. What's more, many diabetic women face troubled pregnancies which can result in infants born with tragic health problems.

On Thursday, June 16, Nanticoke Memorial Hospital will be conducting a seminar discussing how you can fight this dreaded disease. The seminar will be held at 7:00 p.m. in the Stevens Classroom. Dr. Vance Prewitt will be the guest speaker. A discussion and a free blood sugar analysis will be given following the presentation. Information will also be given on how you can do a blood sugar analysis at home. Refreshments will be served.

For more information contact Don Pinner or Susan Gum at Nanticoke Memorial Hospital at 629-6611 ext. 405.

"Wait Until Dark"

Ferdi Perrone of Herring Creek Village will be directing the Possum Point Players summer champagne/dessert production of Frederick Knott's thriller Wait Until Dark, scheduled for June 24, 25 and 26 at the Del Tech Theatre in Georgetown.

Tickets for the champagne/dessert production, now a summer classic in the area, are available from Kenney Workman at 856-3897.

The Drifters, featuring original lead singer Charlie Thomas, will bring back memories of the Sixties during their June 10 appearance in Salisbury, Maryland. Held in conjunction with the 40th Delmarva Chicken Festival, the performance is sponsored by WLVW Radio and Chesapeake Productions. Tickets may be purchased at the Salisbury Area Chamber of Commerce.

Drifters set for Chicken Festival kick-off

"Back to the Beach" is the theme of the kickoff activity for the 40th Delmarva Chicken Festival, to be held in Salisbury, Md. June 10-12, 1988. Friday's opening night celebration, sponsored by WLVW Radio and Chesapeake Productions, Inc. will feature a live dance concert by the Drifters.

Charlie Thomas and the Drifters were recently inducted into the Rock and Roll Hall of Fame along with Bob Dylan, the Beatles, the Supremes, and the Beach Boys. The group is recognized as one of the most influential groups in the history of rock and roll, linking Fifties R & B with the soul music of the Sixties. They introduced new sounds, particularly strings, and Latin-tinged rhythms to rock.

Following the 25-year history of the Drifters is like reading a history of contemporary popular music. From their first release on Atlantic Records, "There Goes My Baby", they were bound for stardom -- with a 2 million seller under their belts the first try. Over the next ten years they had 29 records on the Billboard charts, accounting for nearly 20 million sales of singles and over 8 million albums in the United States alone.

According to event sponsors Ron Gillanardo of WLVW Radio and Lee Whaley of Chesapeake Productions, "Back to the Beach" participants can look forward to dancing to many of the Drifters smash hits that are "sure to bring back memories of the Sixties and the beach" -- "Under the Boardwalk", "Up On the Roof", "Save the Last Dance for Me", and "Sand In My Shoes."

Today, as right from the beginning, the group includes original lead singer Charlie Thomas, as well as original bass singer Bobby Hobbs, along with Don Thomas, who has been with the Drifters since 1964 and Terry King, who joined the Drifters in 1978 after a stint with the Temptations. Their current act blends a tasteful mixture of their million sellers with contemporary standards -- all presented within the context of the Drifters' famous patented choreography.

Appearing with the Drifters will be Perfect Mixture, an up-and-coming Eastern Shore band, who will perform a combination of lively Top 40 hits and classics from the Sixties and Seventies. Perfect Mixture has appeared as the opening act for a number of popular artists including Cameo and the Pointer Sisters. The group has also been back-up band for a number of rock and roll favorites including James Brown and Junior Walker and the All-Stars. Disc jockey Jay Dennis of WLVW Radio will add to the evening's excitement by playing beach classics between sets.

According to event organizers, Jim Gray, owner of City Florist in Salisbury -- famous for his dramatic decorations for special events -- will transform the Salisbury Moose Lodge into an appropriate beach atmosphere. Participants are encouraged to add to the mood swing by wearing casual attire.

Tickets for "Back to the Beach" may be purchased at the Salisbury Area Chamber of Commerce and other ticket outlets.

For further information, contact the Salisbury Area Chamber of Commerce at (301) 749-0144 or WLVW at (301) 546-1055.

Carper ocean dumping legislation approved by two committees

Proposal would end dumping off Delaware - New Jersey coast

WASHINGTON — The two House subcommittees with jurisdiction over ocean dumping have approved a new proposal by Delaware Congressman Tom Carper and three colleagues that will end sewage sludge dumping into the ocean by the end of 1992.

The Oceanography Subcommittee and the Subcommittee on Fisheries and Wildlife Conservation and the Environment jointly approved the bipartisan legislation coauthored by Carper and Reps. William Hughes (D-N.J.), James Saxton (R-N.J.), and Claudine Schneider (R-RI). The vote was 24-4.

In addition to the prohibiting any ocean dumping after December 31, 1992, the bill also requires dumpers to enter into compliance agreements with the EPA no later than the end of this year. Those agreements will establish plans to phase out ocean dumping and implement environmentally sound land-based alternatives.

If dumpers fail to enter into compliance agreements, they will be assessed an escalating per-ton fee for the sludges they dump. That fee will start at $100 per dry ton on January 1, 1989 and increase to $250 per dry ton after July 31, 1990, or approximately $1.5 million per sludge barge.

Most of the fees collected would be put into a trust fund to be used by the dumpers to identify, develop and implement land-based alternatives for the management of sewage sludge. The Coast Guard would also receive a portion of the fees to pay for increased surveillance costs.

"I think we've come up with a formula that will finally bring an end to ocean dumping in the Atlantic Ocean," Carper said after the mark-up. "The proposal we've crafted is an involuntary self-help program that gives municipalities the time and the economic incentive to stop dumping in the ocean and seek safer land-based alternatives. The bill should find clear sailing in the House. My hope is that the consensus we've developed will allow this bill to avert the rocky shoals that have run similar legislation aground in the Senate."

Ocean dumping of municipal sludges is currently allowed only at the 106-mile site off the Delaware-New Jersey Coast. Nine municipalities in the New York/New Jersey area dump their sludges there because it is the cheapest disposal method available. The largest dumper is the City of New York.

The House has passed ocean dumping bills in the last two Congresses.

Preparing school-age children to stay home alone in summer

This summer literally millions of school-age children will be at home -- alone.

As children of working parents, these youngsters either do not have the opportunity to attend summer programs or have chosen not to do so.

"In many Delaware communities, there are more children than can be served by organized summer activities," says Debbie Amsden, University of Delaware Extension home economist.

"A number of these youngsters are pre-adolescents who want to establish their independence by not attending supervised summer activities. At some point, working parents are faced with the question of when a child can be left on his own," says Amsden.

"Since these school-age children will be responsible for their own safety and activities for most of the day," Amsden says, "their parents should make sure the children know how to handle normal household situations and tasks, as well as emergencies."

Parents should always leave an updated list of phone numbers for the doctor, police, fire department, parents' work places and a nearby relative or neighbor. They should also establish procedures for answering the phone or responding to an unexpected visitor at the door.

"Frequently children are told not to answer the phone at all, which is probably not a good alternative, should an emergency arise," Amsden says. "Other parents establish a code system to identify themselves, such as ringing twice, hanging up and calling back."

"Another solution," she says, "is for the child to take a message saying only that the parent cannot come to the phone right now. If the call is important, the child can pass the message on to the parent at work."

Although some parents prefer that the child not answer the doorbell, others allow their children to answer if they follow certain safety rules, Amsden says. "Children should never allow repairmen or deliverymen into the home unless expected, and the repairmen should present the proper ID under the door. Also, the child should never answer a request from a stranger to use the bathroom or telephone. Prepare the child to respond to these situations by directing the visitor to a public facility, the home economist says.

Children should be trained in first aid, so they can handle small emergencies such as minor cuts, scrapes, nosebleeds and minor burns. "Let the child know that it's OK to call if there is an emergency," Amsden says. "The worst thing a child can do is to hide a problem that he or she has caused for fear of bothering the parent."

Small crises should be planned for. These include being locked out (leave a key with a neighbor or in a special hiding place), power failure (know where flashlights and circuit breaker box are located), plumbing leaks (know where the shut-off valves for each sink or toilet are located), and broken glass (know how to clean it up or cover with cloth and mark it "off limits" until parents get home).

The possibility of larger emergencies, such as fire, should be considered also. Establish safety procedures and practice them. In case of fire, children should understand that the most important thing to do is to get out of the house," Amsden says. "They should not try to put out a small fire or go back into the house to get anything. They should practice how to leave a smoking room and what to do if clothes catch on fire.

Consider preparing a severe-weather kit with portable radio, flashlight and supply of food that needs no cooking or refrigeration, Amsden says.

Parents need to set guidelines for normal situations as well. "It's important to let children know what they can do while their parents are at work," the home economist says. "The children need to know where they can go and how to let someone know where they are, who can come over and what they can do together."

Parents can leave notes or even a tape recording telling children what they can eat that day and which chores they must complete. "They need to know if their meals will be left for them or if they should prepare their own. Establish a routine or the children could occupy their time by eating," Amsden says.

Rules regarding appliances should be set. Some major appliances that parents may want the child to avoid include stoves, food processors, meat slicers or irons.

What chores the child should do and the amount of time spent on the telephone or watching television should be clearly stated. "If brothers and sisters are home together, establish ground rules. They should know whether one is responsible for all or if they can operate independently," the home economist says.

Amsden says expectations on guidelines should be developed because they anticipate problems and arrange for solutions in advance. They also provide structure for children and help them feel secure.

Ideally, the child should participate in creating the guidelines. "Expectations should be stated in a positive manner and reasonable deadlines would be set," Amsden says. "For example, breakfast dishes should be washed and the table set for dinner by 5 p.m."

"Parents must check and be consistent, but they must also be flexible and remember that mistakes will happen. It takes time to teach your children how to be responsible for themselves."

NEWS RELEASE CITY OF HARRINGTON WATER DEPARTMENT LEAD-DRINKING WATER AND YOU

The Division of Public Health has found that the City of Harrington's drinking water meets State drinking water standards and requirements of .05 parts per million (PPM).

"The United States Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) sets drinking water standards and has determined that lead is a health concern at certain levels of exposure. There is currently a standard of 0.050 parts per million (PPM). Based on new health information EPA is likely to lower this standard significantly.

"Part of the purpose of this notice is to inform you of the potential adverse health effects of lead. This is being done even though your water may not be in violation of the current standard.

"EPA and others are concerned about lead in drinking water. Too much lead in the human body can cause serious damage to the brain, kidneys, nervous system, and red blood cells. The greatest risk, even with short-term exposure is to young children and pregnant women.

"Lead levels in your drinking water are likely to be highest: if your home or water system has lead pipes, or if your home has copper pipes with lead solder, and if the home is less than five years old, or if you have soft or acidic water, or if water sits in the pipes for several hours."

If you have any questions regarding your drinking water, please call Mr. Dawson Shahan Jr. at 302-398-8933.

If your home has any of the above mentioned criteria that might increase the lead level of your drinking water, the following suggestions would be beneficial:

Use only the cold water faucet for drinking and use in cooking or preparing baby formula, and to run the water until it gets as cold as it is going to get before each use. If there has recently been major water use in the household, such as showering or bathing, flushing toilets, or doing laundry with cold water, flushing the pipes should take 5 to 30 seconds; if not, flushing the pipes could take as long as several minutes.

Chemical analysis of public water samples in Delaware show that lead levels decrease after several years of use. The data indicate that the only sure way to reduce lead levels in water is to eliminate the use of lead containing products in plumbing systems that convey drinking water. The 1984 lead solder ban will eliminate this problem in new or repaired systems.

Even if there is no obvious lead source in your environment, all children under 6 years of age should have a blood lead test at least once a year. Pregnant women with a concern about lead in their environment should also have a blood lead test. Therefore if there is concern about elevated lead in your drinking water, the most important thing you can do is have a blood lead test on young children and pregnant women in your household. This can be arranged through your doctor or local health agency. For assistance in arranging a blood lead test contact:

Division of Public Health
 Lead Poisoning Prevention Unit
 995-8691

If you have, or suspect you have a lead service line or lead plumbing in your home, or have any additional questions on this issue, please call 302-398-8933, Monday through Friday between the hours of 1:30 p.m. to 3:30 p.m. Our water systems operator will be glad to assist you.

 Water Systems Operator

For additional information, please contact the Local Utility, County, or State Health Department, or the U.S. EPA. The U.S. EPA has a toll-free hotline dedicated to this subject - 1-800-426-4791 - and has also prepared a booklet on this issue.

This information meets EPA's lead public notice requirements under Section 1417 of the Safe Drinking Water Act Amendments of 1986.

As required by Federal regulation the following notice is being issued to persons served by water systems that may be affected by lead contamination in their drinking water.

Budweiser 500 Marks 20 Years of Winston Cup Racing at Dover Downs

DOVER — Dover Downs International Speedway begins its 20th year of NASCAR racing with the 1988 Budweiser 500 Winston Cup event, set for the weekend of June 3-5.

The anniversary season continues with the Delaware 500, September 16-18. Both weekends will feature 200 mile races for the NASCAR Busch Grand National division on Saturday, in addition to the Sunday Winston Cup 500-mile.

Two drivers who were in the starting line-up for the 1969 inaugural are expected to make their 37th consecutive Winston Cup appearance at Dover Downs for the Budweiser 500. Richard Petty won the initial race on July 6, 1969.

and went on to add six more Dover victories, including a career win number 139 in the 1984 Budweiser 500. J.D. McDuffie, twelfth on opening day, has recorded two milestones at Dover: his best superspeedway finish, fifth in 1973, and his only career pole position, in 1978.

Busch Pole qualifying at Dover moves to Fridays in 1988, and on June 3 the Budweiser 500 pole contenders will chase Geoff Bodine's track record of 146.205 miles per hour - a far cry from the first Dover qualifying mark of just over 130 mph set by David Pearson, in 1969. That evening, the popular "Friday Night Live" driver interview program begun last season will be repeated in larger facilities and with another stand-out line-up of racing guests.

Busch second round qualifying for both Budweiser 200 Grand National and Budweiser 500 Winston Cup entries will be held Saturday morning, June 4, with the Budweiser 200 set for a 1:30 green flag Saturday evening. The Budweiser 500 starts Sunday at 12:10 p.m.

Earnhardt Wins Narrowest of Victories in First Quarter Vote

PITTSBURGH, May 17, 1988 — Dale Earnhardt, 1987 Driver of the Year and Winston Cup champion, edged drag racing record setter Eddie Hill and Daytona 500 champion Bobby Allison in one of the closest quarterly votes in the 22-year history of the Driver of the Year Award.

Each of the three contenders was named first on three ballots submitted by a blue ribbon panel of motorsports journalists, but Earnhardt edged Hill 48 to 47 because he had one extra third place vote. Allison gained 43 points in the balloting.

By being selected first quarter winner, Earnhardt now becomes eligible for season-end Driver of the Year consideration by the panel. Bill Hill and Allison are well positioned to gain the at-large qualification spot that goes to the highest vote-getter among drivers who fail to win a quarterly vote.

Geoff Brabham, a two-time winner of the MSA Camel GTP circuit, also scored well with 35 points and one first place vote.

The closeness of the balloting is indicative of a highly competitive and unpredictable season on all the major race circuits

Rising Star Rob Moroso Aims for Victory in Dover's Budweiser 200

DOVER — On the first weekend of June, 1987, Rob Moroso stood with his high school graduating class in Connecticut. The first weekend of June, 1988, could find him standing in victory lane at Dover Downs International Speedway.

Moroso will compete in the Budweiser 200 for NASCAR's Busch Grand National series on Saturday, June 4. The Budweiser 200 is the first half of a NASCAR racing double-header which concludes on Sunday, June 5, with the 20th annual Budweiser 500 Winston Cup classic.

So far, Rob Moroso's Busch series log for 1988 shows two top five and five top ten finishes in six starts, placing him second in the current Grand National standings. Giving him even more confidence, Rob says Dover's high-banked, one mile superspeedway suits his style. "You have to drive

Original Artwork to Commemorate 20th Annual Budweiser 500 at Dover Downs

DOVER — Anheuser-Busch, Inc. has commissioned motorsport artist Garry Hill of Raleigh, North Carolina, to create an original painting commemorating the 20th annual Budweiser 500 at Dover Downs International Speedway.

The art work will be used as the cover of the official souvenir program for the June 5 event, which marks 20 years of NASCAR of NASCAR racing for many years. Budweiser's association with Dover Downs has met with tremendous success, as noted by the record crowds each year. I'm pleased to have this opportunity to capture the excitement of Dover Downs through my art.

Labonte Duo in Double-Barrel Assault on Dover's Budweiser 500 Weekend

DOVER — The latest brother act to hit NASCAR racing is gearing up for the Budweiser 500 weekend at Dover Downs International Speedway, June 3-5.

Terry Labonte, 31 years old, will handle Junior Johnson's Budweiser Chevrolet in the 20th annual Budweiser 500 Winston Cup classic on Sunday, June 5. While he's still looking for career win number one at Dover, the 1984 Winston Cup champion has won two Busch Pole awards at the high-

Two younger brothers of Winston Cup champions, Phil Parsons and Michael Waltrip, have made the jump to the senior circuit in recent years. Will Bobby Labonte join them? "You have to be at the right place at the right time," says Terry. "If he can do that, it might not be too far down the road."

Rookie Candidate Ken Bouchard Set to Campaign at Dover's Budweiser 500

Ken Bouchard

DOVER — While the primary elections narrow the field of contenders for President, the early races of the NASCAR Winston Cup season will do likewise for Sears-Champion Rookie-of-the-Year candidates. Ken Bouchard of Rockingham, Massachusetts, hopes the 20th annual Budweiser 500 at Dover Downs International Speedway on June 5 will propel him to an early clinching of the nomination.

Since the Budweiser 500 is the first Winston Cup race of the season in the Northeast, Bouchard sees himself as the favorite son for thousands of New England fans. "We've run our sportsman (Busch Grand National series) car at Dover and had some good finishes," he says. "We get a lot of fans from back home there. At Dover we always get a hand from the crowd and that feels good."

Racing for New Hampshire businessman Bob Whitcomb, Bouchard has taken an early lead in the Sears-Champion standings, highlighted by an eighth-place finish at Rockingham, North Carolina. While the Whitcomb cars have plenty of "space for rent" to prospective sponsors, Ken says they're in Winston Cup racing for the long haul. "We've got a good team and a good car owner," he remarks. "I think there are people out there looking to come on board."

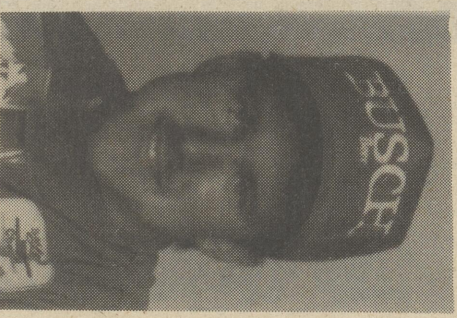

Should Ken Bouchard take the rookie honors, he'll follow in the footsteps of older brother Ron Bouchard, winner of the award in 1981.
