

Harrington Council gets request to rezone land for mobile home park

HARRINGTON — Former city engineer and long-time property owner in Harrington, Dudley Willis, has offered a 23 acre tract which he owns along Peck Avenue, for a mobile home park. The council has requested that the City Planning and Zoning Commission act on it immediately, and at the same time, scheduled a public hearing on the matter for June 27th at 7:00 p.m., which will be directly ahead of a regular monthly workshop meeting.

currently being offered for sale in national publications. "I just want to sell and clear out. I have held this property for over 20 years, purchasing it from the Trane Corporation with the idea of developing it for industrial usages. I think now the time is right for this kind of development (mobile home park). The idea is that the park would be solely owned by an individual or a group and they would be totally responsible for its maintenance and care. The city would just sit back and take in the revenues," he said.

adjacent to his property on the north side, which would give the needed number of lots and bring it up to 100 to 180 units. He indicated that the City could request a developer to properly buffer the parcel from view of area residents. Mr. Willis has provided for a park area in the development. In other matters, the council voted to pay a bill from George Volenik, former city manager. The council had requested Mr. Volenik's presence at the council meeting to discuss his bill. Mr. Volenik had refused to turn over the papers relating to the grant for making needed repairs and upgrading of certain areas of the Waste Water Treatment Plant. The total grant is $200,000 with the City's portion being $30,000. Mr. Volenik had indicated he would not turn over the paper work until he was paid by the council for the work he contended he had done and was entitled. Some of the $200,000 includes the purchase of a tractor and trailer to haul sludge as required by state law. It will also include laboratory equipment for the trailer. The 1988-1989 budget was presented for action and the council elected to set up a couple of workshops for the discussion on the budget beginning on June 20th at 7:30 p.m. Another workshop was set for 7:30 p.m., August 15th on ordinances. The council has asked the city manager to seek bids to have the streets swept. Mr. Smith indicated that he is seeking CETA workers in about another two weeks to handle this matter.

Carper gives his 10 commandments at Lake Forest Baccalaureate by Harry G. Farrow, Jr. LAKE FOREST HIGH SCHOOL — Congressman Tom Carper (D-Del) told a huge crowd attending baccalaureate ceremonies for the 1988 Lake Forest graduating class on Sunday of "...their roots and their wings", but his address was centered more on self-esteem, pride and a sense of responsibility.

there are the 10 Commandments, which I practice...but I also have my own 10 commandments...and I want you to take note of mine", he added. "They are: One...believe in ourselves but believe in something that is bigger than us. Two...stand up for the principles in what you believe in and fight for what you believe in. Three...always keep your sense of humor and don't take yourself too seriously. Four...don't just do enough to get by, but continue to

"We are all born with certain limitations, but we all have certain talents which we are born with too," he said. "But usually the people who make it in the world are ones who make much of their simple holdings...just like you and me. So learn to make the best of what you have as others who have succeeded before you have done," he added.

He led into the main thrust of his speech by making testimonials of some who have made a success of their life while facing adversities. He mentioned the names of people like Wilma Rudolph, who, despite her early bout with polio, became a gold olympic winner in 1960 with her 100 and 200 meter individual runs and the 400 meter relay. "She became a world class runner by overcoming her physical obstacles," he said.

He harked back to the early 1940's and late 30's when Pete Gray was a major league pitcher for the St. Louis Browns. Gray had lost one arm in an accident in his early youth. So determined to be an athlete, that his determination carried him to baseball's major leagues. He became the first person to reach the big leagues with just one arm.

Joe Shell, a Delawarean, graduated from Wilmington High School four years ago, despite the fact that his father had committed suicide before his 13th birthday and his mother was in prison. He overcame all of these sad events to attend the University of Delaware and graduate first in his class with a 3.90 out of a possible 4.00 average this past spring. He returned to Wilmington High this year to be their commencement speaker.

Carolyn Volnecheck (sic) is blind as a result of diabetes, but is also the present comptroller of Hercules in Wilmington. She is the first blind comptroller for that company. She is also a holder of a karate belt and an avid skier.

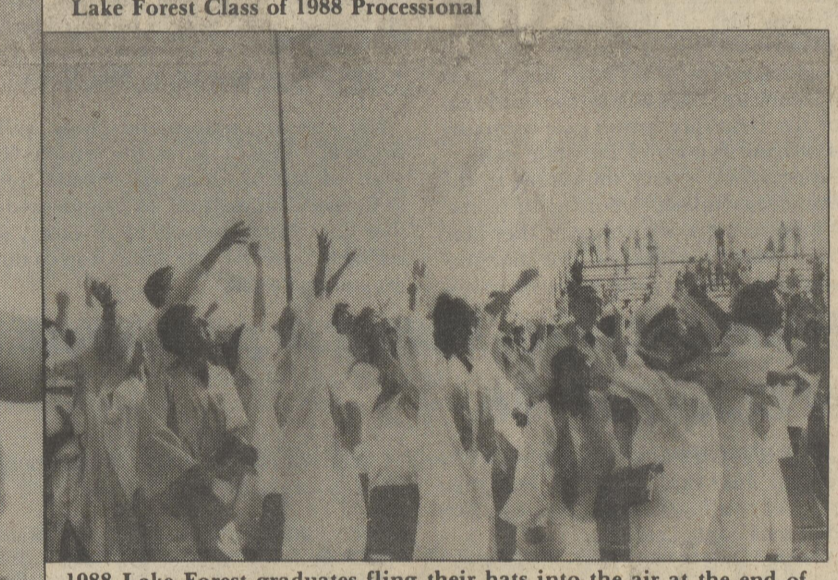

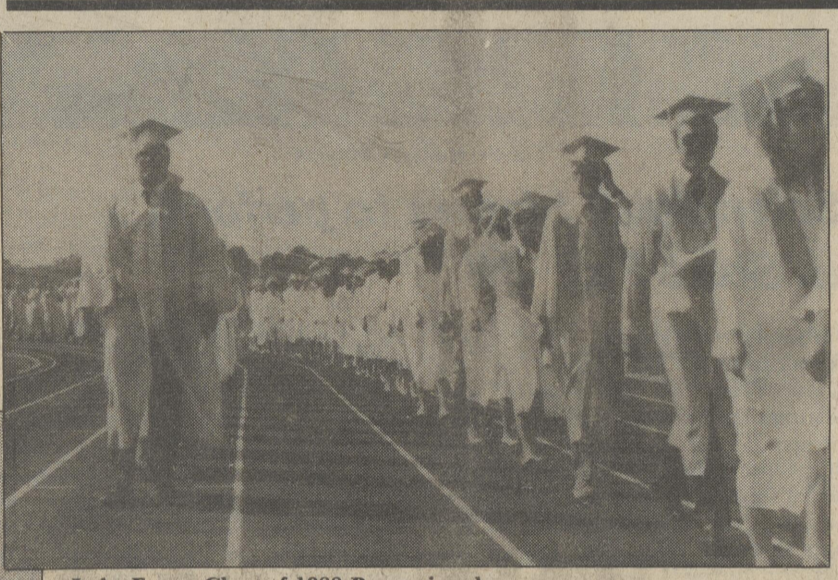

"Each of these four people had these things in common: One...they live in a country blessed with immense freedoms; Two...they believe in themselves; Three...they shunned self-pity and worked hard to overcome their problems; And four...they realize that opportunity is what you make it", said Congressman Carper.

He then suggested that hard work is necessary and admirable...but not always the complete answer. "I know develop plus set high goals and attain them. Five...don't be afraid to take an occasional risk. Take a chance now and then. Six...don't quit and don't ever give up. Seven...don't just criticize things you don't like, but get involved and help change them for the better. Eight...take care of your body. It is the only one you will ever have.

Nine...don't just say no, but never get involved with drugs and booze. I am reminded of Len Bias, John Belushi, Janis Joplin, and Jim Morrison. They all had the same thing in common...wonderfully gifted people but drugs and alcohol did them in.

Don't let that happen to you. Ten...be sure to always look out for yourself. Take care of number one first...but always look to help others when you can," he told the class.

School Board reverses stand on tax increase by Harry G. Farrow, Jr. LAKE FOREST HIGH SCHOOL — The referendum, which passed the school district on May 17th, had a postmortem script which carried with it, unknown to the voters in the May 17th referendum, a 5.7 cent tax increase to cover the tuition fees charged to the Lake Forest School District for students who are enrolled in special schools.

their actions, that a $21,000-plus deficit was recorded in the last fiscal year and it appeared to them that the coming year would hold an estimated $42,000-plus deficit. Therefore, the justification for the tax increase. Following the referendum vote, taxpayers throughout the district protested to board members and the district office over the tax increase, which in fact caught the ear of the board members and district officials. In spite of the protests, the district released a statement to the effect that the County assessor's office had notified the district office of potential increased tax

The increase, according to the school board when they acted upon it, was due mainly to the past deficit in this area and what the board termed looked to be a repeat deficit for this coming fiscal year.

The board announced, following the referendum and in a measure to justify by Harry G. Farrow, Jr. At the special school board meeting last Thursday night at the high school, a letter was presented to the board in support of the hiring of W.T. Chipman assistant principal, William H. Daisey, for the office of business manager for the district.

The board, in disregarding the screening committee's recommendation, voted to readvertise the position. The newly advertised position calls for "...certification requirements for a Limited Standard Certificate from the Delaware Department of Public Instruction for School Business Manager of Assistant Superintendent for Business. Documentation of certification must be submitted with the application."

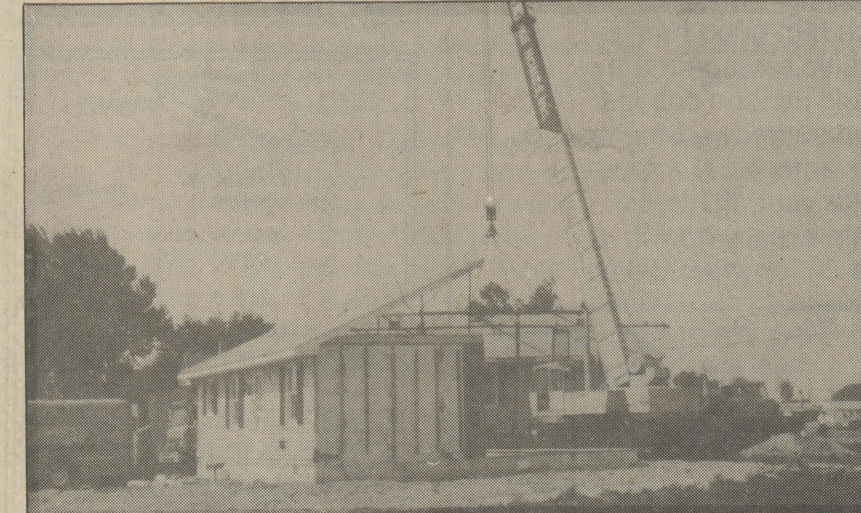

The screening committee in April had screened 22 applicants for the position, honing it down to three candidates. One of the applicants, Mr. William H. Daisey, had received a unanimous vote by the screening committee for the position. The board elected to disregard the screening committee's recommendation, ruling that none of the three candidates were qualified for the position.

At the special board meeting on Thursday night, the letter by Rev. Joseph E. Brame, pastor of St. Paul AME Church in Harrington, and a member of the screening committee,

Heritage Day 1988 is quickly approaching

Heritage Day 1988 is coming up fast. The date is September 17, 1988. This will be the 10th Anniversary of this important event. Heritage Day in Harrington, Delaware was begun as a first birthday celebration for the Harrington Public Library and the Greater Harrington Historical Society. That first celebration had approximately 15 crafters, some of which still participate, and drew a crowd of approximately 1,000 people. Last year, we had nearly 75 crafters, and drew a crowd estimated at 8,000 to 10,000 altogether. This year promises to be bigger. We are accepting applications for crafters and hobbyists and many other activities. All inquiries should be sent to P.O. Box 171, Harrington, Delaware 19952. We hope to have Conrail again; we have a parade forming; we have a car show in the works. We will have the Historical Tour of Old Houses, Messick's Museum, the Train Tower and the Harrington Historical Society Museum, at 110 Fleming St., will all be open. Trolleys will provide transportation from one area to another. There will be a flea market, food vendors, games for children, and many more things to see and do. Something new this year is the issuance of a Cachet (or cover) as a means to help us control the rising costs of putting on an affair such as this one. Private donations, city support and revenues through higher tax assessments for '88-'89.

The board indicated in the special meeting on last Thursday night that if the increased tax assessments did not come through as indicated by the County assessor, the board would proceed to institute cuts in the budget, which they said could amount to approximately 5% of the current expense budget. This figure would approximate $50,000 somewhat higher than the estimated deficit.

Catastrophic health bill equals wrong medicine for a serious problem

by U.S. Senator Bill Roth

An unexpected, catastrophic illness can be financially devastating to an individual or family. It can be especially difficult for someone on a fixed income or strict budget like many of our country's senior citizens. I believe that it is very important that action be taken to provide protection from such a traumatic occurrence. However, the so-called "Catastrophic Loss Prevention Act" legislation just passed by Congress is the wrong medicine for a serious ill.

When this legislation was first proposed, the basic concept sounded like a good idea. As I said, we should in some way protect individuals from the financial cruelty of a catastrophic illness. However, as the concept of this legislation became a reality, the final product was very disappointing and in my opinion somewhat misleading in its claim for helping senior citizens and others.

I opposed this legislation because I believe that in the long run it will actually hurt those it claims it will help. For many it will duplicate coverage they already have under a private retirement plan. In fact, according to a survey taken by my office, it would duplicate coverage for around 60 percent of Delaware seniors.

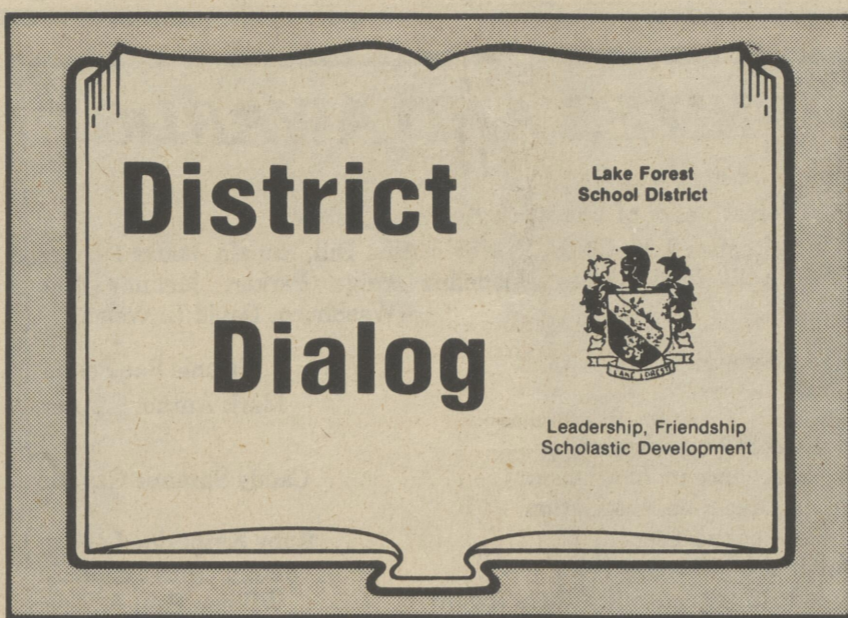

This legislation will place an unfair financial burden on the Medicare beneficiaries. Under this legislation, Medicare beneficiaries will be required to pay not one but five premiums -- the basic monthly premium, the catastrophic monthly premium, the catastrophic annual supplemental premium, the prescription drug premium and the prescription drug annual supplemental premium.

To add insult to injury, the chances are that these premiums will continue to rise in cost with time. For example, by the year 1993, it has been estimated that some Medicare beneficiaries could be paying as much as $1,560 annually in total premiums. The cost of this program to the government is also expected to rise. In this time of concern about our federal deficit, it seems illogical to me for Congress to be passing unsound legislation that could turn out to be the largest government entitlement program created in decades.

Another concern of mine is that many people are under the impression that this legislation provides benefits it does not. For example, this bill will not, as many may think, address the problem of long term nursing home care.

This legislation will have an impact on 30 million Americans. Following passage of this bill by the Senate, word spread about the provisions. Over the past months, I have heard from more than a thousand Delawareans overwhelmingly in opposition to this bill and several Delaware local chapters of the American Association of Retired Persons (AARP), as well as from members of the National Committee to Preserve Social Security and Medicare, who strongly oppose this legislation. Simply put, the more people learn about the ramifications of the "Catastrophic Loss Prevention Act", the less they like it.

"Recognition"

by Dr. James H. VanSciver, Superintendent

Included in the May 16, 1988 edition of USA TODAY was a report on the second annual All-USA Academic Team co-sponsored by the National Association of Secondary School Principals and the National Education Association.

Reading of the accounts of the 16 students selected revealed a refreshing side of efforts in our schools today as well as perspectives of our youth.

Also good food for thought were the comments of Scott Thompson, Executive Director of NASSP, who, under the headline "students today need to be recognized," gave as a good dose of why positive reinforcement is important.

He said, "Americans tend to downplay recognition, excepting for our worship of athletes. For sports stars, we offer fame and fortune. Others who excel get less.

"Perhaps a misguided sense of Jeffersonian egalitarianism restrains our enthusiasm for recognizing scholars, statesmen and artists. We seem to fear elevating the best for fear of debasing the rest. No royalty of merit for America!

"Other nations, the British for example, have raised recognition to a fine art. Citizens from all walks of life are awarded honors by the crown at an impressive level. This is good for retaining a sense of worth. More importantly, it's a great motivator.

"America needs to rediscover the value of recognition. Celebrating achievement does not compromise the notion of equality. People excel in different ways because they possess different talents. Celebrating accomplishment does not demean others; we cannot all excel at the same thing.

"Recognition and motivation are two sides of the same coin. If we diminish recognition, motivation will be diminished. America cannot afford this handicap if we truly are committed to developing fully the talent of all citizens.

"More importantly, recognition of the best creates heroes for others to emulate. Our celebration of John Glenn, the first American to orbit the Earth, created thousands of aspiring astronauts. Recognizing the achievements of Martin Luther King Jr. generated a decade of civil rights leaders. Yes, recognition counts. It defines role models for others to emulate.

"High school students need recognition more today than ever before. Recognition makes clear, in a society of conflicting values, the most significant values. It is the method by which the institutions of society speak to young people in a coherent and public voice. Yes, good scholarship is important. Yes, being a responsible school leader is important. Yes, possessing creativity and initiative is important. These are valued talents.

"The All-USA Academic Team establishes a new high in student recognition programs. This program celebrates the central purpose of schooling, creative scholarship. It brings attention to the social value of this work. It sets examples for younger students to follow. And it energizes the best to continue to excel.

"This, after all, was the kind of democracy another high achiever, Thomas Jefferson had in mind."

Letters to the Editor

Dear Editor:

My wife and I became residents of the Methodist Manor House in 1984 and truly appreciate the atmosphere, care and its availability at Seaford, Delaware, in this Delmarva Peninsula.

Through the outstanding leadership of Reverend Piguero, the support of the Peninsula Conference of the United Methodist Church, their leadership, fund raising and financial support, the Peninsula United Methodist Homes, got its start and now provides three retirement homes with excellent health care facilities. For this we are most thankful participants.

During this past year, there have been several things that have brought questions that have been too widely discussed without knowledge of the facts, that is damaging the public's opinion of the corporation and the Methodist Manor House. As a resident this disturbs me and I would like your readers to have my opinion, and some facts. They are:

- * The United Methodist Churches and members are not responsible for any indebtedness for these retirement homes.
- * The Peninsula Conference of the United Methodist Church does have an interest in the residents and the continued success of these retirement homes and contributes a significant amount to assist the elderly who need some financial assistance.

* The Peninsula United Methodist Homes, Inc. did agree to step in and assist in trying to get the Layton Home in Wilmington for the less fortunate people to obtain Federal and State licenses as a health care facility and solve its financial problems. It was, indeed, a Christian opportunity at no damage to the future obligations to the present and future residents of the three retirement homes.

* The constant inflation, cost increase in everything we must purchase has increased the cost to all residents of retirement homes, but also to those who can and do live in their own homes. This is a problem to all citizens, but the costs at the Manor House compare favorably with other retirement homes. For the elderly, the Manor House provides assurance for retirement and future care.

Senatorial Report

by Senator Ruth Ann Minner
18th Senatorial District

For many months now I've been following with interest and concern, efforts in Washington and some states to regulate door-to-door sales organizations who exploit young people recruited to sell their products.

This week I expect Senate consideration and passage of a bill (SB 208) I introduced on behalf of these exploited young people. The bill (SB 208) would prohibit in Delaware many of the practices which have been reported by disillusioned young people.

Investigations by the U.S. Senate Permanent Subcommittee on Investigations, begun last year, and in other states such as New York, have disclosed that organizations recruit young people to sell magazines and other products, pay many of them virtually nothing, often physically or mentally abuse them, and even leave some of them stranded in unfamiliar states.

Often the products being sold by the innocent salespeople are never delivered, or if they are, are virtually worthless. Those involved with the most fraudulent operations have been drawn into prostitution, drug trafficking, and transportation of stolen firearms and cars, according to testimony received.

The purpose of my legislation is to provide some minimal safeguards for that type of young person who is most likely to be a victim of these practices: teenagers unhappy at home, seeking summer employment, or searching for a job the first or second time.

The bill prohibits any contract or agreement with the employer which makes the employee an "independent contractor", the gimmick used by many of the outfits to keep their recruits always in debt. The bill also requires that door-to-door salesmen under 18 be paid every week and that accurate records of their earnings be kept.

Also prohibited is the frequent practice of locking up or imprisoning the young people in a hotel room while they aren't working and preventing them from quitting when they want to.

I don't pretend that the new legislation will put a stop to all the abuse, but it certainly will help. I hope the House of Representatives will take swift action.

Before I close, my family and I would like to offer our congratulations to all the young men and women in the graduation classes of 1988 and extend our best wishes as they pursue their education or career goals.

Bigger is not always better

by John Semmens

The desire of the American people to "get government off of their backs" is purportedly waning. As evidence of this, media outlets have been citing recent poll data showing voters' willingness to accept bigger government. This willingness is supposedly demonstrated by voter responses to the following question: "Would you prefer small government and fewer services or bigger government and more services?" The fact that a majority select the second option is taken as proof that the people want more government.

If the reality were a simple choice wherein the size of government bore a strong correlation to the quantity and quality of services it rendered, the polls might have some value. The reality, though, is that there is no such correlation. Through the growth of government over the years has been marked by a proliferation of new programs, the quantity and quality of services has clearly deteriorated.

A brief review of what it is that bigger government has provided for the increased consumption of tax dollars might help to illustrate the fallacy of the simplistic notion that size means service. Some of the outcomes resulting from bigger government have been as follows:

*Burgeoning agricultural subsidies have had as their primary purpose the reduction of farm output. Government has paid out ever increasing amounts for farmers to not grow certain crops. Less food at higher cost is the "service" bigger government has wrought.

*As money has poured into highway construction, the result has been fewer miles built per dollar spent. The ratio of overhead to actual construction has more than doubled since the federal government began the massive Interstate program in the 1950s. Cost overruns and red tape have been the "services" bigger government has provided.

*The billions of dollars spent on mass transit subsidies over the past two decades have not yielded more passenger miles of travel. In fact, the proportion of people using transit is lower than when the program started. Moving a declining share of urban traffic at increasing per capita is the "service" big government has rendered.

*Public school expenditures per pupil have more than quadrupled over the past 20 years. Yet, basic skills of the students are worse than they were when less was spent. Funding declining academic achievement has been the traditional "service" bigger government has delivered.

*As postage rates have skyrocketed, the quality and quantity of deliveries have gone down. Offering less at higher prices has been the "service" made possible by a government monopoly.

The record seems clear. There is no positive relationship between bigger government and more service. The more we have had to pay, the less we have gotten for our money. Any correlation that can be said to exist would appear to be the opposite of that postulated by the poll question. As the disbursements of taxpayers' money became ever more generous, the actual service provided has most frequently deteriorated.

We aren't going to get any more services from bigger government. All we're going to get are bigger bills.

Government is not well constituted for the job of delivering services. Meeting consumers' needs is the task for private enterprise. The marketplace is ideally suited to bringing buyers and sellers together for mutually beneficial exchange. The voluntary nature of the transactions ensures that those vendors providing more services will grow. The involuntary nature of government taxation and expenditure provides no reliable mechanism for rewarding the efficient delivery of services. So, it should not be surprising that government rarely delivers cost-effective services.

Government was established as a means of imposing force. The only legitimate purpose of this force is to protect citizens from foreign aggression and domestic crime. In these basic tasks, government's recent performance has been dismal. We have no defense against the nuclear annihilation that puts more lives at risk from foreign aggression than ever before. And domestic crime has been a "growth industry" for decades.

It is difficult to imagine what government services the media pollsters have in mind. The expansion of government over the years has done little other than lighten our wallets and relieve us of the "burden" of spending our own money. Aside from this, the phrase "government services" has attained a well-deserved status as the leading contemporary oxymoron.

STORMING THE LIBERAL CITADEL

By Edwin Feulner

It's easy to refute the tax-and-spend crowd intellectually, but next to impossible to get rid of them. Like all master seducers, they know how to sweetly veil their true designs.

Every candidate for the House and Senate claims to be an "issues candidate"—which means, as Gene McCarthy noted, that they say the word "issues" a lot. All deplore the size of the federal deficit, and many would have you believe it's the fault of Reagan's tax cuts and "spending binge."

Well, not exactly. Scores of billions more in revenue have poured into the federal Treasury since the 1981 cuts in the capital-gains and income-tax rates. As for the spending binge, most high-school civics texts tell you that the House of Representatives has the power of the purse. (To be sure, the president hasn't used his veto power as often as he should have, but that's another matter.)

What of the oft-repeated claim that defense spending went through the roof under Reagan? Again, piffle. In many years the Pentagon has ended up with even less money than Jimmy Carter projected it would need. Under President Kennedy, about half the federal budget went to the Pentagon; under Reagan, about a fourth.

Yet, the rhetoric to the contrary only gets louder. It gets you elected, and that, after all, appears to be the point. The only point, perhaps.

Yes, things have improved vastly over the last decade. If you doubt it, ask yourself how many liberals, 10 years ago, were talking about the importance of deficit reduction and economic growth. But even now, too few conservatives fully grasp what it takes to implement their policy prescriptions.

Liberals, on the other hand, have spent the last 50 years building deeply entrenched constituencies consisting of the direct recipients of federal largesse plus all the folks in the middle—not only government bureaucrats, but the huge portion of the private sector feeding off federal programs.

While these constituencies never stop pushing to keep their gravy trains running, conservatives have too often stayed in ivory towers. They've produced brilliant books and position papers, but then what? Unfortunately there is much truth in what the brilliant economist Milton Friedman says: "We are farther from our ideal of a free society than we were 30-40 years ago in almost every dimension."

This must change, but how? One way may be through "privatization," which seeks to transfer federal functions to the private sector. It is based not only on sound economic theory, but also on political reality.

British Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher has proven that. When public-housing residents, for example, are allowed to buy their residences, they realize how much better it feels to be a homeowner than a "beneficiary" of poorly administered public programs. And now Thatcher has proposed the most sweeping tax cuts in British history, copying Reagan's 1981 supply-side success story.

American conservatives have spent the better part of the '70s and '80s laying the foundation for what, in the 90's, must become an even greater political as well as intellectual revolution. But liberal demagogues trumpet the benefits of big government while adroitly concealing the price tags. Conservatives must do a better job of shining light on the truths their intellectual labors have established.

Damon Mosley is National Award winner

The United States Achievement Academy announced recently that Damon (Tony) Mosley has been named a United States National Award winner in Industrial Arts.

This award is a prestigious honor very few students can ever hope to attain. In fact, the Academy recognizes less than 10% of all American high school students.

Damon (Tony) Mosley, who attends Kent Vo-Tech North was nominated for this National Award by Mr. Stanley Parker, a Counselor at the school. Damon will appear in the United States Achievement Academy Official Yearbook, published nationally.

"Recognizing and supporting our youth is more important than ever before in America's history. Certainly United States Achievement Academy award winners should be congratulated and appreciated for their dedication to excellence and achievement," said Dr. George Stevens, Executive Director of the United States Achievement Academy.

The Academy selects USAA winners upon the exclusive recommendation of teachers, coaches, counselors or other school sponsors and upon the Standards of Selection set forth by the Academy. The criteria for selection are a student's academic performance, interest and aptitude, leadership qualities, responsibility, enthusiasm, motivation to learn and improve, citizenship, attitude and cooperative spirit, dependability, and recommendation from a teacher or director.

Damon is the son of Preston and Rhonda Mosley. The grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Edward A. Fountain, Sr. of Smyrna.

Harrington New Century Club

A meeting was held June 6 at Mrs. Newlin's home. Many committees were formed and jobs were assigned. Trips to Winterthur and Smith Island were discussed also.

The club decided to sell chicken salad platters along with the sandwiches, homemade soups and pies on Heritage Day. The Club will also raffie a Blue Quilt on Heritage Day. The tickets were handed out and are now on sale.

A tentative date has been set for a Card party on October 27 as well as a date for the Fashion Show, either March 8 or 15. It all depends on when spring fashions arrive.

Mrs. McSweeney and Mrs. Chasanov, Co-Chairman of the Conservation for the Harrington New Century Club reported that on June 2, 1988, they attended a workshop sponsored by the Delaware Nature Society and the Delaware Department of Natural and Environmental Control (DNREC). They met the Workshop at Smyrna Middle School. After viewing a film about streams, and shown some of the problems to look for, they were then driven to Lake Como. Everyone participated in a beautiful canoeing trip up and around the stream. This program was developed to involve citizens to help protect and restore Delaware streams. It's called "Stream Watch". Stream Watch is a volunteer program. It helps DNREC become aware of any problems that may be occurring to our Delaware streams by having the volunteers report to them any misuses they find.

Do You Remember?

by Dorothy Graham

To Smile this June 9, 1988 in Harrington, Del. —

There are so many Do You Remember, it is hard to know where to begin!!!

First of all, do you remember the first vacation you ever took with your spouse? With your child or children?

Going through some cards that had been stored away for future looking over, ran into a heap of fine folk and lots and lots of memories. I wish every one that had been received had been saved.

Let's take Sept. 27, 1966. Postmark Woods Hall Sta., Falmouth, Mass. Well, Howard and Pat (Mary) Sipple were on their way to Martha's Vineyard.

Pat wrote the card on Tuesday, mentioned what a grand time they were having and knew we (card club) had enjoyed the evening. Reminded me that we used to play in the afternoon — but by 1966, we were playing in the evening.

Wish I could remember the first afternoon we began to play. Virginia Willey was the one that rounded up the first group, many, many years ago. Maybe someone will be able to tell me. Some of the GREAT folks who have played with us, and some still do, were 15, 1966 — from Kathryn and Franklin Derickson. Postmarked Ellenton, Fla. Sailing on the Bahama Star from Miami, Fla. to Nassau, Bahamas. There again, memories fill my mind. Kathryn and Franklin were having a fine time the card stated. Makes me think of Kathryn as City Clerk Manager of Harrington and a good worker for the Democrat party.

Just glanced at an Evening Journal dated July 23, 1960, Wilmington. But it had a full page about Harrington. Pictures of Mayor Charles Peck Sr. and Sen. Thomas Howard Williams and train, standing in front of depot. You can see Reese Theatre, Star Lite Shop, Hollywood Snack Bar, part of Old Peoples Bank, new Peoples Bank at this writing, June 1988, is where Reese Theatre used to stand. There is a good picture of O.T. Roberts, in his very famous garden filled with wonderful veggies and beautiful flowers. Mr. Roberts was a retired mail supervisor at the time. I believe his son now lives in his home at Weiner Ave. & Center St.

How is the garden?
Harrington, the paper said, was once a railroad junction for Delaware-

REMEMBER HOW THE WOMEN of the M.E. Church used to squeeze lemons by hand in the milk cans for our church picnic at Oak Orchard? We would go there in school buses full of pep and come home sunburned and tired.

— William E. West, Mesa AZ

Virginia Willey, Mildred Wagner, Elma Stauffer, Thelma Hanson, Naomi Tatman, Hazel Langrell, Ethel Rapp, Hazel Davis, Clara Jarrell, Dorothy Graham, Marie Currey, Pat Sipple, Lizzie Rogers, Mary E. Nelson, Kathryn Smith, Phyllis Greenbaugh, Ruth Powell, to name most of them. We began with bidding at 500. Some of our substitutes were Joan McNatt, Hazel Smith, L. Milburne, Bernice Shaw. We play at Bridge now. I play now bidding 500 with Jake and Joan Wilson, Dale and Jackie Sullivan, Pete and Gracie Callaway, Penny and me. Mary sits in sometimes where she is visiting Jackie and Dale. Haven't played in a while, it takes so much to get back in gear. It is fun!

Dick and Hazel Langrell, my dad, Ed Harriett and husband, George played 500 for years and years two and three times a week, until George came home from Graham's Service Station. I filled in. Dick and dad were always partners. George had either Hazel or me, usually Hazel. Seems men play better with their wives.

See what I mean? Just seeing that card from Pat and Sip makes me remember all the parties we had and invited our husbands. What a gala time when Mark, Bill, Dick, George Franklin Sip, Howard, Dick Dewitt — every New Year's we went to Marie and Franklin Curreys. They had a BIG room in the basement and a color TV. We watched the parade, ate, sang, some danced. There were others there too. Some of Maries, Franklins and Hazel and Bills partners from their Square Dancers. The Diamond Twirlers. What fun Hazel and I had watching them learning. But they did, and well too, while we just watched. That is one thing I always wanted to do. The Diamond Twirlers and Lace and Terri used to dance for the Harrington Senior Center.

Another card just popped by from Feb.

Maryland and Va. Railroads. Harrington was named for Samuel M. Tatman - Chancellor in 1862. Harrington, in 1960, had a fairground. It was called Kent & Sussex County Fair. T. Brinton Holloway was Secretary and General Manager of the Fair. In 1960, C.H. Burgess was Editor of the Harrington Journal and also Secretary of the Chamber of Commerce. Albert Price was in 1960 the President of a 50-active member Fire Co. C.D. Mills, Chief also as of July 23, 1960. Liberty Street from Delaware Avenue was being resurfaced to U.S. 13.

We owe a lot to the Harrington Volunteer Fire Co. Thanks so very much! It is like a couple of columns on them. Take a book really!

Well, honey, I'm not looking at any more cards tonight. Time to say thank you very much for your calls and visits. Want to also thank so many of you who were our customers when we had the service station in Harrington. You helped us raise our four children, George Jr., Gracie, Penny and Genie. Take care and be kind to each other. Life is so short. Hi, my little great-grandson, T.G. You are a sweetie as are all children, grandchildren and great-grandchildren. You, who read this, know what I mean. Wish you would give me the name of your grandchildren. Mine are George S. Graham, III (Sid), Tonni Marie Grahaw, Geo. Jr. children - Gracie's children, Debra Faulkner Stevens, Cheryl Faulkner, Penny's children, Richie, Todd, Troy and Penny Sue, Genie's son L. Lester Hobbs, Jr.

Want to ask you, do you remember John Manship? Well, he is back in town. He had a comfortable home built on the Harrington-Milford road. Welcome back, John!

Hi Alice and Emile, Viola, and a special hello and best wishes to all of you out-of-towners and those who are ill. I love you. Faith.

Singing Strings USTA Horse of the Month for May

COLUMBUS, OH — Jean Paul Charron's Singing Strings, winner of four straight starts in May, has been named Horse of the Month by the United States Trotting Association.

The 4-year-old Justin Passing-Gay Violin mare posted all four of her victories in $25,000 Fillies and Mares Opens at The Meadowlands and ran her 1988 earnings over the $100,000 plateau.

The final event on May 27th, Singing Strings came up with her fastest lifetime performance, taking the lead at the half-mile post and finishing a nose better than Tautitaw Bluegrass in a time of 1:53-1/5. She was driven by Bill O'Donnell.

Ironstone Hello wins Open Invitational feature

by Chris McErlean

Pennsylvania horsemen Jim Groff and Russell Hartline swept the Sunday (June 12) features with two game veterans.

Ironstone Hello stamped himself as the top pacer on the grounds Sunday evening by virtue of his two length win in 1:56.2 over Grave (Joe Hunterpfund). Ironstone Hello forged to the lead approaching the half mile marker and maintained a safe one length advantage over his rivals down the backstretch. Turning for home, Groff let Ironstone Hello out a notch and the eight year old horse repulsed the challenges of Grave, Mister Sea (Ross Hayter) and Tyler Grant (Dave Pinkney, Jr.) to win score the decisive victory.

In the $5,200 co-featured Open Pace, Tarmac, a six-year-old out of the Hartline stable, got the lead after a quarter mile and cruised from there, scoring a 1 1/2 length victory over Mysterion (Hal Belote). Forty Niner Limited (Joe MacDonald) was third.

Sunday night was a virtual speed show at Brandywine as well, with all of the 12 races going in 2:00 or under, the first time on a 12 race card that this has been accomplished and only the fourth time in the track's history that all the races on a card had gone in 2:00 and under.

While one record was established, another one was threatened Sunday evening, Edgewood Motoring (Joe Dugan, Jr.) dead heated with Keystone Fritz (Ross Hayter) in 1:58.3, the fastest dead heat win at Brandywine in 10 years. Ironically, Hayter was involved in Brandywine's fastest dead heat, and a former world record. Hayter drove Richmond who hit the wire together with Committeeman and Eddie Davis in 1:56.3.

Other new lifetime marks set on Sunday included Rambling Warren (Allie Reynolds) in 1:58.4, Bogart Command N (Ed Dunningan) in 1:59, Shilo (Dugan, Jr.) in 1:59.3 and Super Pickle (Robert Kinsey) in 1:58.4.

An unfamiliar name to some Brandywine regulars is beginning to attract a following at the Wilmington oval. Don O'Dwyer, a 36-year-old native of Canada is in his first season of WILMINGTON — Brandywine driver Bob Shahan is approaching a major career milestone. The 33-year-old Harrington, Del. resident should win his 1,000th race shortly. He won his 998th last Thursday at the Wilmington track.

Bob Shahan approaching career milestone

Last season, three Brandywine regulars joined the exclusive club in which only 300 harness drivers are members. Ken McNutt, Presley Moore, Jr., Dick Macomber entered the thousand win club.

Shahan has become the leading driver at Delaware harness tracks. He has won most of the driving titles over the last three years. He is a dominant performer at Harrington Raceway and Dover Downs. Last season, Shahan annexed his first driving championship at Brandywine.

Currently, Shahan again stands at the top of the driver standings with 40 victories, 10 more than his closest pursuer, Joe Dugan, Jr. Shahan also has more seconds and thirds, 27 in each category, and won more money in purses, $83,987, than any other driver at the Wilmington track.

Tonight is a Double Header Attraction Night. Along with the usual 12 races, it will be $1 Night at the track. All wagers, with the exception of the $3 Twin Trifecta, will feature $1 bets. One of the popular rock bands in Delaware, The Snap, will perform on the Terrace, located outside the Dining Room level at Brandywine. The rock concert starts early in the evening and continues even after the races.

Thursday is another popular All Trifecta Night at Brandywine. Fans can bet a Twin Trifecta in any race on Thursday only. Also, it will be Realtors Night. Realtors will be admitted free upon showing their business card.

This weekend will feature the popular Brandywine Handicapping Challenge. Approximately 200 have entered the Opportunity knocks in Spartan cross-country

by Keith S. Burgess

A golden opportunity exists in Lake Forest High School cross-country, which will be starting practice, in a little more than two months.

Normally, the Spartans have a host of experienced runners returning, but such is not the situation this fall. State champion, Mark Tozer, has graduated after ending his illustrious career with a total of four state titles; one in cross country and three on the track. Steve Clute also has graduated. In fact, the locals will be without 1987's top three harriers.

Scott Pierce, Mark Sanders and David Elder are the leading candidates at this writing, for the vacated No. 1 spot. The first two are juniors. Elder is a sophomore.

The first three decades of Harrington High-Lake Forest High cross-country are proud, without a losing season yet. Such a proud tradition deserves to be continued.

The opportunity is there for courageous athletes to help continue that winning streak and to pick up a coveted varsity letter (LV) in the process. It is one thing to be a natural runner (and we have a couple in mind), and another to pick the right sport which will put that natural talent to its best use.

Cross-country does not have a bench. Everyone gets to compete. This writer rode such a bench as a high school junior (baseball) but led the team in hitting as a senior. We just needed a chance to play, after four at bats in the eleventh grade. In running, if you are better than another, it is easy to prove to one and all. In the past thirty years we have seen many athletes (riding the pine) because they ignored ability in one sport, to participate in another, which seemed more glamorous or was the sport more talented friends played.

We would encourage students to start now to implement a mild jogging program in the cool of the day and gradually pick up the pace, until school starts. Just two years ago, Mike Eck and William Deputy tried cross-country for the first time, and were immediately labeled as "comers" and wound up being key members of a state champion team.

Cross-country has another interesting aspect. While teams in other fall sports may not get out of Kent and Sussex Counties, the local harriers run in the Salisbury, Md. State University Invitational, The Salesianum Invitational, north of Wilmington, the Spingarn Invitational in Washington, D.C., in addition to the State Meet, the Henlopen Meet, the Kent County Meet, and finally, the prestigious Lake Forest Invitational. The state meet, the conference meet and possibly the county meet will be held on the locals' home course at Killen's Pond this season.

At least seven of the contests, then, feature multi-teams from as many as five states and the District of Columbia. Can any Henlopen contest, in any other sport, compare to this? We think not! Lake Forest-Indian River, Lake Forest-Woodbridge, Lake Forest-Delmar, Lake Forest-Smyrna, etc. finds the athletes seeing the same faces fall, winter and spring.

The Lake Forest Invitational has hosted Dover, N.J. (many times), Oxford, Pa. (many times), Paterson, N.J. Catholic, Morristown, N.J. and in 1988 will feature the renowned East Side High of Newark, N.J. East Side has been New Jersey's Class A champ many times.

Meade High, near Baltimore and Gonzaga High of Washington, D.C. were here last year and announced they will be back.

A former Oxford, Pa. star ran here in the past. Pat Pollock remembers the meet fondly and will bring Queen Anne High of Centerville. Pollock is the new coach there.

A new record in terms of distance traveled will be set by a Coropolis, Pa. school. Our Lady of Sacred Heart High is located in the Pittsburgh suburb and will be brought here by John Plocinik, who formerly taught social studies at Lake Forest.

With schools entered from Pa., Md.,

Lake Forest award winners

Unintentionally omitted from last week's list of MVP's and award winners at the Lake Forest All Sports Banquet were:

Boys' Basketball: Tony Bray; Girls' Basketball: Africa Bell; and Boys' Swimming: David Welch.

Local students, boys and girls, might

Top pros to play at the McDonald's Championship

WILMINGTON — The $500,000 McDonald's Championship, June 20-26, at the Du Pont Country Club, will again sponsor the world's winningest female golfers.

Every year, the McDonald's Championship has attracted the best players on the Ladies Professional Golf Association tour. This year is no exception. Already, all of the top 25 pros have committed to play in the 1988 tournament.

Scheduled to appear are: Nancy Lopez, currently first on the LPGA money list, Amy Alcott, a local favorite, Sherri Turner, Colleen Walker, and 1987 Rolex Player-of-the-Year, Ayako Okamoto. Additionally, defending champion, Betsy King, calendar girl Jan Stephenson and Women's Open winner Laura Davies, along with more than 100 other pros, will battle for the hefty $75,000 first prize.

The 1988 McDonald's Championship benefits Ronald McDonald Children's Charities, a fund established in memory of McDonald's founder, Ray A. Kroc. RMCC awards grants to organizations directly benefiting children, including the more than 100 Ronald McDonald Houses worldwide.

Last year's tournament raised more than $2 million, making the McDonald's Championship the largest contributor to charity of any single sporting event.

Summer safety tips

Now that summer season is here with its casual and outdoor lifestyle, Rape Crisis-CONTACT offers some tips for your personal safety. First, be aware that anyone may be harassed or attacked. It could be you; it could be someone you love; and the person who assaults may not even be a stranger; but there are some preventive measures you can take to protect yourself and your loved ones.

OUTDOORS: if you run, jog, walk or bicycle to work or for exercise, plan to go with others and change both your time and your route frequently. A rapist, for instance, looks for a person whose habits can be counted upon, or for a person who is available and vulnerable. If you are that person, it matters very little whether you are seventeen or seventy, or whether you are male or female.

The beach, the park, or the lake may be beautiful and cool on a hot summer night, but all are more safely enjoyed with a few friends. If someone should harass you or your children at any of these places during the daytime, report it immediately to the nearest guard or officer, with as complete a description as you can give. These people strive to maintain a safe outdoor environment for everyone to enjoy.

AT HOME: keeping all the doors and windows wide open to let in the cool breezes may also serve to invite intruders. Ask at your local hardware store for special window locks that permit windows and patio doors to be opened for air, but not enough to let someone through. Keep the doors locked on the side of the house that you, your children and your guests are not using at the time. If you have repairs coming, look carefully at their ID cards before letting them in.

At night, a well lighted yard with security lights or strategically placed flood lights will often serve to discourage prowlers. Beautiful, full shrubbery close to your house could easily hide someone from your neighbor or a passing patrol car. It's best to keep it clipped low and thinned out for your protection.

Day or night, an agreement with your neighbors to watch for and report suspicious people or events can add to the security of the entire neighborhood.

DRIVING: when driving during the day or night, especially if you are alone, make sure that your car is running well and has an adequate supply of gas for the trip (1/4 tank minimum). Keep all doors locked and windows mostly up, especially if you know you'll be stopped for traffic lights or moving slowly. Keep your valuables, purse and packages in the trunk, on the floor, or out of sight. Do not pick up hitchhikers. If you should have a car problem, stay inside the car with the doors locked and the windows up. If help is offered, ask for the police.

CHILDREN: if your children must be alone for part of the day or night, make sure a relative, neighbor or friend knows exactly when, and where to reach you if it should be necessary. Teach your children personal safety habits for the home: locking the doors, using safety locks for windows, not letting people in the house or apartment, and knowing whom to call in case of an emergency. Children playing outside should be taught how to recognize suspicious persons or situations, and should know that, if they are approached, they must say "no", get away and tell someone immediately.

SENIORS: should follow the same safety ideas for home, car and outdoors. If you live alone, arrange for periodic calls to or from neighbors or friends. You can help others while protecting yourself.

EVERYONE: if, when you come home, things seem different or if you have a feeling that something is not right, do not go inside. Instead, go to a neighbor or to a nearby phone and call the police. They would prefer a false alarm to a homicide call.

If you are single or alone and enjoying an evening out, beware of the effects of alcohol and drugs. An offer of a ride home or an invitation to a party may not be as innocent and friendly as it seems. The bottom line is to stay aware and alert enough to take care of yourself, and to avoid potentially dangerous situations.

As a caring and careful person, you can call your local police department and ask for their recommendations for home and personal safety -- then follow them.

Finally, if at any time you or someone you know or care for is sexually assaulted, you can call 575-1112 in New Castle County or 1-800-262-9800 in Kent and Sussex Counties. Rape Crisis-CONTACT is there 24 hours every day; we care; we can help, and your confidentiality is assured.

Flag Day Celebrated

by Harry G. Farrow, Jr.

Flag Day is celebrated in the United States each year on June 14th. Although it is generally regarded as not being a legal holiday, the state of Pennsylvania celebrates it as such.

The date, June 14th, is symbolic of the date the Continental Congress adopted the Stars and Stripes as the official flag of the United States.

It was first celebrated on June 14th, 1877 on the 100th anniversary of its noting. The Stars and Stripes first flew in a land battle on August 16th, 1777, when troops under John Stark fought in the Battle of Bennington on the New York-Vermont border.

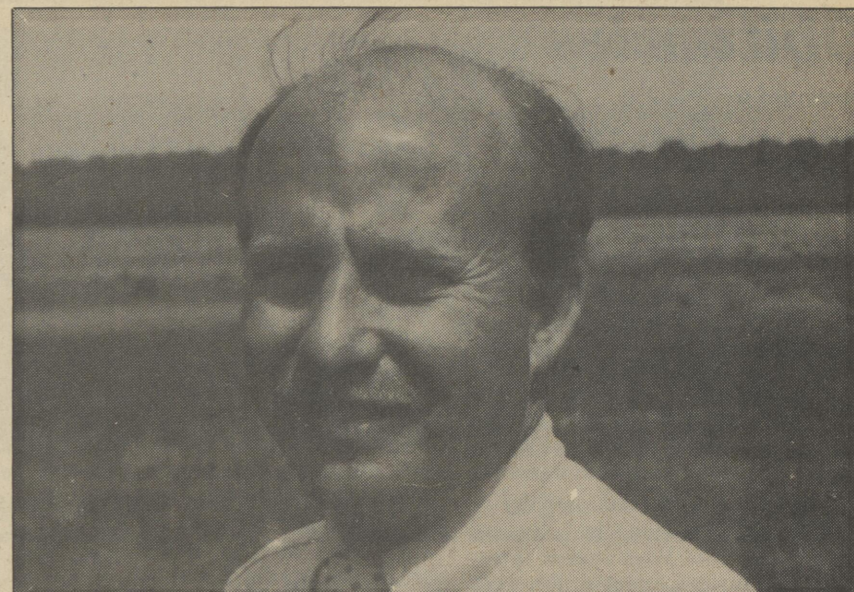

The flag has been remembered from the first naval ship it flew on down through our history to the time when Neil A. Armstrong and Edwin E. Aldrin, Jr. landed on the moon July 20, 1969, and placed the flag there for the United States.

When displaying the flag outdoors, the following should be noted:

- Saluting the flag: at the moment it passes in review, you should salute with a military hand salute or by placing the right hand over the heart.
- Marching with the flag: With the Stars and Stripes and one other flag, the Stars and Stripes should always be carried to its right of any other flag.
- Marching with other flags: The Stars and Stripes should be out front.
- With grouped flags: Place the Stars and Stripes in the center and highest point. With crossed staffs, put Stars and Stripes on its right.
- On a casket: drape the flag with its canton (blue field and stars) over the right shoulder of the body. Do not lower the flag into the grave.
- On an auto: Place at front right...either antenna or right front fender.
- As a color bearer: hold the staff at a slight angle or back firmly against right shoulder.
- From a building: Hang flag on a staff or on a rope over the sidewalk with canton away from building.
- At half-mast: Hoist the flag to top of perch, lower to half mast, and when lowering, raise all the way back to top perch and then down.
- In a window: Hang flag vertically with canton in upper left as one sees it.
- Over the street: Hang flag with its canton to the east on a north-south street or to the north on an east west street.
- Above other flags: Always hang the flag above other flags or pennants on same halyard. Never hang one national flag over another in time of peace.
- Upside down: Only done in time of distress or serious emergency.
- With other flags: Hang flags of several nations of equal status. Hang the flag to its own right hoisting first, and lowering it last.
- Behind a speaker: Hang flat against the wall with canton over speakers right shoulder. Never gather or drape it to rostrum.
- Beside the speaker: The position of honor is at speaker's right.
- In a hallway or corridor: Hang it vertically with canton in upper left of person entering the hallway.
- As a color guard: Keep in straight line with escort on the outside of Stars and Stripes and to the right of the organizational banner.

The Stars and Stripes should be flown at polling places on election days, on legal public holidays, and other special days including the following: New Year's Day, January 1st; Presidential Inauguration Day, January 20th; Lincoln's Birthday, February 12th; Washington's Birthday, the third Monday in February; Easter Sunday; Mother's Day, the 2nd Sunday in May; Armed Forces Day, 3rd Saturday in May; Memorial Day, the last Monday in May; Flag Day, June 14th; Independence Day, July 4th; Labor Day, the first Monday in September; Citizenship Day, September 17th; Columbus Day, 2nd Monday in October; Veterans Day, November 11th; Thanksgiving Day, the 4th Thursday in November; and Christmas Day, December 25th.

Harrington Council

Councilman Donald Jarrell gave a report on the present city hall relating to where certain departments would be located if passed at the referendum. The council also approved the referendum committee of Judge Paul Neeman, Winston Linton, Anna Lee Anderson and Betty Brown.

In another matter, a request by Mrs. Ruth Finch for a building permit on a house she proposes to build off Delaware Avenue behind her father's home, was not granted. The parcel of land is directly behind Mr. Richard Failing's home separated by an alley. Mrs. Finch has been seeking a building permit on the parcel since April of this year. She has been actively seeking to build a home on the parcel for over a year and a half. Council received the request for a building permit when the building inspector and the city manager refused to sign it in April, feeling that the nature of the request was too unique and needed council action. It is presumed that a building lot in the city must have frontage and access to a major street or road. Until she obtained an easement over her father's land to Delaware Avenue, her only frontage and access was to a 15 foot alley. The council was concerned initially about having to pay for the cost of running sewer and water lines to Mrs. Finch's property, but either Mr. Failing or Mrs. Finch will bear the cost of this, according to Mrs. Finch.

At the meeting on Monday night, Mrs. Finch addressed the council and informed them that she had performed according to the law "...and you have everything in your possession that you need. So the only thing remaining is to have the permit signed," she said.

Mrs. Finch is also under pressure to move the matter along because her commitment for a mortgage with 9 1/2% interest rate was due to expire on June 15th if the matter has not begun. She also indicated that she had spent quite a bit of money for a mortgage application, survey, title search, blueprints and now she faces the loss of this investment. "I feel that I have done all that is required of me. I have done what the city office asked me. I have done what the council requested that I do regarding the research on the alley...and I feel that I am entitled to a building permit since the City has not presented an argument denying my request," she said. Mrs. Finch was totally disgusted with the council and the red tape in which everyone was caught.

Councilman Temple made a motion to table the matter and set it down for a workshop. Mrs. Finch did not agree with the motion and requested the council to make a decision at this time. No decision was made.

The discussion turned to a section under the sub-division rules and regulations where again the requirement relates to lot frontage on a street. Mrs. Finch, meanwhile, awaits an answer. She contends frontage on the alley meets the requirement of frontage on a street.

In other matters, Mr. William Brode, Sr., withdrew his name from the newly formed Economic Commission, saying "...it would just be a waste of time. It is all cut and dried." He was replaced by Councilman Temple and the Mayor named Mr. Temple chairman of the commission.

Quality pricing hay is difficult

Dairy farmers want high-quality hay for one simple reason: It produces more milk in cows than poor-quality hay. But dairy producers also want to keep feed costs as low as possible.

"Sometimes deciding if hay is high quality and then determining a price for it is difficult to accomplish," says Dr. George F.W. Haenlein, University of Delaware Extension Dairy Specialist. "The grower wants as much money for the hay as possible, and the buyer wants top-quality hay for the lowest possible price. This problem is compounded by the wide variation in hay quality that often occurs. Yield per acre is lower for younger, high-quality hay than for more mature hay, so a premium price is needed to obtain the same gross return."

One way to resolve this conflict, Haenlein says, is to establish a pricing format that will adjust the actual hay price based on nutritive analysis and potential milk production. Such a format was tried recently in a study at the University of Iowa.

Hay growers or sellers (vendors) were asked to offer a bid for what they would charge for hay that contained 17 percent crude protein (CP) and 35 percent acid detergent fiber (ADF). This base price was then adjusted upward $3 for each additional 1 percent CP. In addition, the vendor received $1 for each percent the ADF was lower than 35 percent. A lower ADF indicates higher digestibility and higher quality.

A $6 penalty was given, however, for each 1 percent CP below 17 percent, and a $2 penalty for each percent the ADF was above 35 percent. A similar $1 bonus or $2 penalty was given for dry matter above or below 83 percent.

To determine the final price, each load of hay was core-sampled upon delivery. This sample was then divided into four sub-samples. One was tested immediately to determine if the hay was safe for storage. A second was sent to an independent laboratory for analysis. The remaining two samples were retained.

If vendors were satisfied with the initial laboratory analysis, they were paid on that basis. Vendors who were not satisfied could submit one of the back-up samples to a different lab at their own expense. (Because it was sponsoring the study, the University of Iowa paid for the initial test.)

If the results of the two tests differed, another sample was submitted to a third independent lab and the three analyses were averaged to determine the price.

This pricing format resulted in a variation of $30 per ton above and below the established base price. Thus vendors who provided above-average-quality hay were rewarded, while those providing poorer quality hay were penalized.

"If this sounds complicated," Haenlein says, "remember that more than 8 years ago Penn State University developed a mobile forage testing unit that can go to hay auctions and give instant test results by the near-infrared method. When available, we used this unit at the University of Delaware farm and in Delaware Extension work for three years with excellent results and much participation by not only dairy farmers, but hay growers, beef, sheep and horse farmers."

For more profits to both sellers and buyers, the specialist suggests that it's "high time we had regular testing of sale hay here on Delmarva."

First-ever midnight run at Brandywine on Friday

WILMINGTON — The first ever, fully accredited, midnight run in the state of Delaware, The 350th Anniversary Commemorative Run, is set for Friday night at Brandywine Racetrack and Entertainment Centre. The race, which will cover five kilometers, will honor the Swedish and Finnish settlers who founded a colony in the Delaware Valley, three and a half centuries ago.

Following the nights harness racing program, over 300 runners from the tri-state area, Sweden and Finland will participate in the truly international event. They will be joined by four-time Olympic champion Lasse Viren of Finland.

The course for the 5K Run is entirely over Brandywine property. The race will start at the harness races starting point and continue through a defined measured area of five kilometers ending at the track finish line.

Run director Ed Kimmelman looks forward enthusiastically to Friday's Midnight Run, which he describes as an excellent opportunity for runners to better their previous best times. He said, "The run over the Brandywine course should make it safe, flat and fast". Kimmelman added, "The midnight start and cool weather conditions at that time, should make it a perfect night for a personal record."

All registered runners will be admitted free to the track. The registration fee is due on the night of the race. The public is invited to the run, either as contestants or spectators.

driving at Brandywine after a three year stint as the leading reinsman at Northfield Park in Ohio. Although his drives were few and far between at the beginning of the meet, O'Dwyer has caught on recently with some of the tracks leading stables and is now making his ascent up the leading driver ranks.

On Saturday (June 11), O'Dwyer's abilities were on full display, as he registered three victories for the evening. His first winner on the night was aboard the $2,500 claimer Arbern's Secret for owner Marilee Capano of Middletown and trainer Reginald Walstrum.

O'Dwyer teamed up with the same owner and trainer to score a 21/2 length victory with Little Lou-Rain in the evening's $5,200 featured Open Pace for Fillies and Mares.

Little Lou-Rain left early but was content to settle in behind Meta Escape (Jim Porter) through the early :29.2 and :59.3 fractions. At the final turn, Fella's Gem (John Marsh) made the lead on the outside but once O'Dwyer pulled out entering the stretch the race was over, as he cruised past Fella's Gem in the final sixteenth. Country Hanover N (Ed Dunnigan) finished second and Bernice Paloma (Forest, Gerry III) was third.

O'Dwyer then completed his driving triple with a win on BH Dominator, who is trained by his brother, James. He currently has eight wins, 10 seconds and three thirds in only 34 drives.

The battle for the leading drivers spot is beginning to heat up as Harrington native Robert Shahan continues to lead with 40 wins. However, Shahan has been spending his weekends at Freestone Raceway, thus allowing Joe Dugan, Jr. to close the gap in recent weeks. Dugan is second with 31 victories and John Marsh third with 24 wins. Shahan is also closing in on a career milestone, and may have it by press time. Shahan needs just two winners to reach the 1,000 win plateau, thus becoming one of only 300 drivers in the sport to reach that mark.
