

Harrington Council split on referendum vote

by Harry G. Farrow, Jr.
HARRINGTON. The Harrington council voted 4-2 on Monday night at the regular monthly meeting against holding a referendum vote for the new city hall. By the vote, it means the council will decide on the matter.

Council members Dennis, Wyatt, Boyd and Coleman voted against holding a referendum on whether to build a new city hall and proceed to make plans to build a new hall.

Council members Dennis and Coleman reasoned "that for as long as I have been on the council the matter of a new city hall has been discussed but nothing done about it", said Daniel Coleman. "It is time now for us to act and get something done, or we will miss the funds (those offered through the bi-centennial commission)", added Mr.

Coleman.

Council members Temple and Jarrell argued that the decision should be left up to the voters of the community. Mr. Jarrell said he could not see how taxes would remain the same. "With the increases in the police budget and salaries for the employees...probably across the board...there is no way we could avoid a tax increase", said Mr. Jarrell.

The City is eligible for bi-centennial funds amounting to $58,000, which the City has to match with their own funds. It is possible that the City could get another $58,000 which would mean that the City would have to match the $116,000. This would mean the City would have $232,000 to work with if the City could match those funds for a new city hall.

Mayor Mann said this was a golden opportunity for the City to cash in on a program where by the City could have a city hall, police department and a library under the same roof. "In all of the years that I have been associated with municipal governments there has never been an opportunity to obtain funds such as this for a city hall. It was always for water and sewer programs or street maintenance...but never for a city hall," said Mayor Mann.

Council person Sue Ellen Dennis proposed a workshop on December 15th (this coming Monday) where the details for a new city hall will be discussed. In order for the bi-centennial funds to be preserved, it is necessary to begin construction by March 20, 1987. If this is not complied with the funds will be returned to the state.

Currently the site for the new city hall favors the St. Bernadette's location. Council Temple said he favors a location downtown. "I think the most practical location would be the John Satterfield property, on Dorman St., which we can purchase for $75,000 and go from there", said Mr. Temple.

At next Monday's meeting, councilperson Dennis said she would offer a study of the specifications for the building, what it would cost and any other information related to the transaction.

In other matters, the City election will be held on January 13th (the second Tuesday in January), and the election will be held in City Hall. Councilman Temple proposed the use of voting machines "even though there might be some uncontested offices, because we want the referendum question on the ballot and it would be better to have the voting machines", added Mr. Temple.

Councilman Temple called for the yearly assessment and the scrap assessment to follow the county's figures.

City declares legal holiday Extends time for filing

HARRINGTON. The Harrington Council on Monday night granted a legal holiday for city employees on December 26th.

According to Mr. George Volenik, City Manager, the deadline for filing for council seats and the office of mayor will be extended "...to the next working day under the provisions of the city charter. The new deadline is therefore moved up to 4:00 p.m. on December 29", added Mr. Volenik.

Those positions up for election are the office of mayor, which is a two year term and a council seat for 5th and 6th Wards. The incumbents for those respective Wards are Mr. James Temple and Mr. Donald Jarrell.

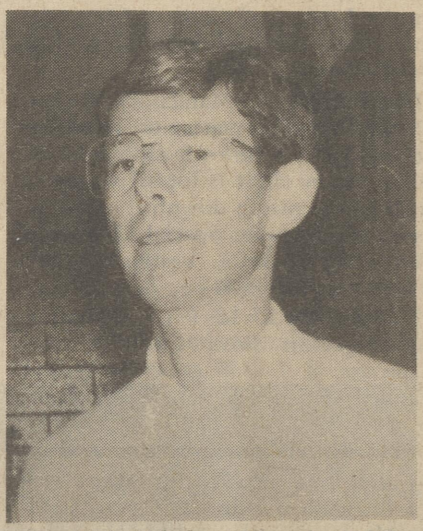

Each candidate must by charter present a petition signed by citizens of the City numbering "...at least 10 or no more than 25". The election will be held on January 13th from 12 Noon to 7:00 p.m. in City Hall.

Blades nominated for National Honor

Officials at Lake Forest School District report that Lake Forest High School Cross Country Coach Jim Blades has been nominated for the National High School Athletic Coaches Association's National High School Coach of the Year for 1987.

Blades, who coached for three years at W.T. Chipman Junior High School, has since 1972 guided the Spartan runners from the high school. His career record of 107-20 is as impressive as his six state championships. His charges have also garnered five conference titles and have emerged as state runners-up once.

His colleagues have recognized his powers honoring him with Henlopen Conference "Coach of the Year" awards five times. He was named Lower Delaware Gridiron "Coach of the Year" in 1981.

Blades has piloted the girls' cross country team since 1981 garnering 21 wins and just one loss with three conference championships and five conference "Coach of the Year" honors. A former President of the Henlopen Conference Cross Country and Track and Field Association, he has served in various positions in the cross country and track and field associations and committees.

Lake Forest High School Principal Ron Burrows and District Superintendent Dr. James H. VanSiver joined in making the nomination.

"Jim Blades has an impressive list of credentials," said VanSiver, "which on their own, should merit full consideration of his application. What the application does not reveal is the patient and positive manner in which he interacts with his runners.

"He consistently promotes their best interests through cross country. He projects a philosophy that the sport is not an end in itself but rather a means to an end. In short, he cares about his kids."

The NHSACA National Awards Banquet will culminate the many activities at the 22nd annual National Convention scheduled for June 20-26 in New Orleans. Award winners will be recognized at that time.

California Farm Bureau president addresses DE Farm Bureau

by Harry G. Farrow, Jr.
FELTON. Mr. Henry Voss, the President of the California Farm Bureau, addressed Delaware Farm Bureau members and guests at the annual dinner at Felton Fire Hall.

Mr. Voss, who operates a fruit and vegetable farm in California, addressed his remarks to the agricultural community. He praised the farm bureau for providing the collective aspects of the farm bureau "which allows us to do together which we could not do alone".

With this concept Mr. Voss said that it has created a market place across the country. "This we can recognize as a nation of farm bureaus", he added.

He suggested that there would be far fewer farmers in generations to come, but those few would be producing more than the number today. "Diet patterns are changing and new concepts in farm products is changing also", he said.

Mr. Voss said he felt this country has a great opportunity to expand the world trade. "We need a farm policy for future farming generations. Many are addressing the problems here and now which is necessary, but we need to be planning and addressing the problems of the future", he continued.

He suggested that states which produce a multitude of crops need to find the market place. "They should be zeroing in and concentrating on a market which will be most profitable for them. This is the way of the future", he added. "What we have done in the past is simply produce and this is what we want to get away from", he continued.

He stressed the need for sound trading "which again is the way of the future", he said.

Mr. Voss also called for a government without subsidies. "I would like to see a freer market and this means one without government subsidies", he said firmly. "This again is stressing the need for farmers to find the market. I believe we have a great opportunity to expand the world trade. We need to lift the lid on the market and let the farmer produce what he can to make a profit", he added.

He further stated that we need programs to reward those who have succeeded in farming. Those who have made it should be singled out and praised for their profitable efforts in this free enterprise", he concluded.

Days Of Our Years by Bonnie Algier-Mitchell

30 YEARS AGO DECEMBER 7, 1956

The new traffic lane to make US Route 13 a dual, or divided highway from north of Harrington to south of Greenwood, is expected to be opened for traffic within a week or 10 days, according to officials of the State Highway Department.

Adios Harry, mercury-footed pacing stallion owned by J. Howard Lyons of Greenwood, was harness racing's leading money winner in 1956 with earnings of $129,912, the U.S. Trotting Association announced this week.

The total is the highest ever credited to a pacer for a single season and has been exceeded only by Scott Frost's $186,101 bankroll of 1955.

The big win for Adios Harry, who was driven in most of his starts by Luther Lyons, the owner's son, was the $75,000 Eastern Championship at Yonkers Raceway. He registered 18 wins, 5 seconds and 1 third in 30 seasonal starts.

I REMEMBER WHEN—

Mr. Billings had a dairy farm north of the high school on Dorman Street. They delivered milk in a large can and filled your containers on your front porch of 8 1/2 quart. Fresh from the cows, with cream on the top and no pasteurizing. It was REAL MILK, straight from the source.

How about...on a cold morning when milk froze and pushed the cap, cream, 2 inches out of the bottle.

Gab Fest by Pat Hatfield

Another Thanksgiving Day has passed into history, but we will continue to be thankful and count our blessings. It was an especially lovely time for us. Ellen found that Teddy could come home and she kept it a surprise. Granddad never had a birthday present he enjoyed more. And now Christmas is no longer just around the corner...it is just down the street. I have heard that there are more shoppers than ever before.

The thing that made Christmas more real to me was the lighting of the first Advent candle in church. I felt that we had really started on our pilgrimage once again to Bethlehem.

This is a short Gab Fest this week. My "Pet Rock" the gallstone gave me a rough time and I barely escaped the hospital. But I think I am on the road back. Good shopping to you!

Harrington Historical Society's Annual Christmas Dinner

by Dorothea Coverdale, Hostess

It was a cool, crisp Thursday eve, December 4-as friends, visitors and members of the Historical Society visited W.T. Chipman school cafeteria for their annual Christmas Get Together with Ken McKnatt, for delicious food and good entertainment.

Tables were very prettily decorated with white table cloths and Christmas decorations. The food tables had pretty decorations added to the already Christmas greens.

Rev. Miller of Calvary Wesleyan Church gave the blessing for the food and blessed the friends and wished Merry and Happy Christmas holidays. Then two lines were formed on both sides of the tables laden with all kinds of goodies - Fried Chicken drumetts, boiled ham, rolls and butter and as we moved along there was turkeys, macaroni & cheese, cauliflower, broccoli in cheese sauce, deviled eggs, cole slaw, pickled beets, Mustard pickle, Bread-N-Butter pickles, pasta salad, baked pineapple, fruit cocktail and corn pudding. A table with five kinds of salads, two cheese trays, cake and cookies and delicious grape punch and coffee.

Tables were cleared of dishes and our entertainment started. Beautiful music and songs rendered by Mrs. Thelma Miller on the piano with Mr. Carlton Goodhand rendering several songs and bringing back memories that tied in with the songs that he sang was beautiful.

Tables were cleared with a lot of good help and good conversation.

Garnet Messick was very busy tending to the handmade cover, taking money for more donations. At the drawing, Alton Breeding drew the lucky name from a beautifully decorated box. The lucky winner was Ruth Jones, a Harrington native.

A lovely evening has just ended. Good night.

Close knit Spartans shooting for .500 mark

by Mike Dill
 "Right now we have good height and quickness. The only problem is how we'll jell together", said Spartan basketball coach Pat Borowski.
 "All of our starters have varsity experience; but we have a young team. The one thing we are looking for is a team leader."
 One player Borowski is going to look to for leadership is Cassandra Gibbs. Last season the 5'5" senior was the sixth person coming off the bench. This season she will play point guard.

 The other starters are 5'10" junior Melanie Pelton, 5'10" sophomore forward Tara Dixon, 5'10" sophomore forward Evette Hicks, and 5'5" sophomore guard Arlene May.
 Two other players who are expected to contribute are 6'0" junior Africa Bell and 5'9" senior Jenean Smith. Borowski expects both players to add extra scoring and rebounding.

As for this year's team, Borowski likes the Spartans' chances.
 "Last year we had a lot of inexperienced players. There were a lot of let downs."
 "This season we don't have a lot of bench. Our starting five will be playing about 90% of the time."
 "I'd just like to finish above .500 on the season. Laurel and Woodbridge look like the teams to beat. If we finish in the top three I will be happy."

Improved Spartans look to rebound from losing season

by Mike Dill

The Lake Forest basketball team, coming off a disappointing 5-15 season, is looking to work towards a .500 record and to finish in the top three in the Southern Division.
 "This year's team is improved over what we have been the past two years", said eighth year Spartan coach Bill Falasco.
 "This team is really working together. They like each other and pull for one another. Having a team that gets along will just make the season more enjoyable," added Falasco.
 Another difference in this year's team will be the Spartans' style of play. Falasco is going to try to employ a fast break offense.
 "We're going to try to play like UNLV (the run and gun team from the University of Nevada at Las Vegas). We're not very big, but we are a lot quicker than we have been in recent

 "With our quickness, it will help us out defensively. There will be less people standing around and that will help us play a pressing defense.
 Leading the pressing, running Spartans will be Junior guard Ray Smith and Sophomore guard Tony Bray.
 "Both Bray and Smith are very quick. They will run the fast break and should give us some added scoring", said Falasco.
 Joining Bray and Smith in the starting lineup are Senior forwards James Hicks and Chuck Bell, and Senior center James Hicks. These three frontcourt players are expected to pick up the bulk of the scoring.
 Other players on the team are Seniors Steve Sipple, who is expected to add some extra scoring, Steve Carter and Bobby Bassett. Juniors on the team are Terraine Giddens, Danny Demora, Mike Bleen, Floyd Holmes, Jason Tiggs and Troy Roland.

 As for the upcoming season, Falasco and the team have kept everything in perspective.
 "We know that it is out of reach to win the conference title, but we're very conscious of our ability. Realistically we're shooting for a .500 mark", said Falasco.
 "It would be a successful season if we could finish in the top three in our division. Right now it looks as though Smyrna, Woodbridge and Indian River are the teams to beat."
 "The only problem we have is that we don't have a deep bench. Hoepfully we can get some of our backup players some experience in the Holiday Tournament. With some experience, some of these kids can give us some quality time each game."

Grapplers look to improve in '87

by Mike Dill

"This year we're shooting for individual improvement all the way through", said Lake Forest wrestling coach Tom Shaffer. Shaffer, now entering his eighth season as head coach, is coming off a 7-4 season that included an upset of Caesar Rodney and one and three point losses.
 "Trying to improve on last year's record will be difficult, considering the loss of Ken Outten, Mike Gygyryuk and Scott Fleming.
 "Most of our matches we have, we split 6-6. The loss of Ken, Mike and Scott will make a big difference because we could almost always count on them for 18 points", added Shaffer.
 "This year our plan is to get ahead early and try to hang on. We have one good advantage that we have a stopper at heavyweight."

 The stopper Shaffer refers to is junior Marvin Hicks. Hicks, an all-conference offensive tackle, placed second in the conference in the heavyweight division. Returning with Hicks are seniors Derek Dill 126 lbs., Darryl Cherry 132 lbs., Pat Sullivan 138 lbs., Joe Brown 145 lbs., and Wendell Watson 155 lbs.
 Also returning this year are sophomores Mike Popavchick 98 lbs. and Steve Porter 112 lbs. Two other underclassmen Shaffer is high on are Freddie Johnson 98 lbs. and Brian Wyatt 105 lbs.
 "Both Freddie and Brian are good experienced ninth graders. They both had good junior high records. They're tough kids and they should help out because we forfeited at 105 all last season", said Shaffer.

 Even though the team has eight returnees from last year, Shaffer is trying to keep the team's goals into perspective.
 "The kids are not ready right now. It's going to take four or five matches before we're really ready. The pre-season tournaments we have entered will help us prepare for our conference opponents."
 "I really don't think we have enough to challenge for the division title. Right now it looks like Smyrna is the team to beat."
 "I don't know if we can beat Smyrna but I think we can beat anyone else in our division."

to 10 people employed at the new location. The factory building is one of the historic landmarks of the town from the standpoint of the commercial neighborhood. The building, built in the early 1920's according to Mr. Clarence Collins of Collins Clothier, was originally built for a shirt factory. "It was built for Sherwin & Joller (sic), and they had set the grand opening right around Halloween. I can't remember the exact year, but it was sometime in the early '20's," said Mr. Collins. "Some of us had gone to the owners and asked they not put the machinery in right away because we wanted to hold this Halloween dance, and this seemed to be the best place", added Mr. Collins. "Well they agreed, and we had the dance. There was a gang there. We put the bandstand right in the center of the building", said Mr. Collins. "They offered a prize for the best dancers, and Mary Korbel, who passed away about a year ago and her father won it. Everyone was surprised when they took their Halloween masks off", he said. "Long about midnight another band stopped in...they had just finished playing somewhere else, and they said we want to play a few tunes for you too.

So they got up there and played...and never charged us anything. I guess the dance broke up around three AM", said Mr. Collins. "Mr. Korbel was a baker for the Sibitsky Bakery", added Mr. Collins. "The blocks used to build the shirt factory were supposed to be of a certain quality. "They were a very thin block, but they had tiny metal braces inside the hole in each block which gave great support. They used the same block for the Sibitsky Bakery and when they had the great fire in the Bakery, the wall, which was made of these blocks, remained in tack. They stood that intense heat", said Mr. Collins.

The Band Boosters Association will hold a silent auction at the concert whereby written bids on items donated from local businesses and individuals will be on display for bids. The proceeds from the silent auction will benefit the new uniforms for the marching band. The drawing sponsored by the Band Boosters for the $300. cash give-away will also be held during a brief intermission. Proceeds from this will also benefit the uniform fund.

Chipman students in art contest

Five students at Lake Forest School District's W.T. Chipman Junior High School are participating in the 1987 Scholastic Art Awards show at John M. Clayton Hall at the University of Delaware. Dennis Edge, Suzanne Schafer, Andrew Killen, Judy Shirey and Tommy Ellis will enter two graphic art works, two pencil drawings and one pen and ink drawing. The show is on exhibition from December 5 through January 2. "Our students have created five works of art," said Chipman art teacher Michelle Melvin. "It is a great honor just to be chosen to show work in this type of exhibition. Only five entries from a school are permitted to enter. "On December 14 there will be a reception and awards ceremony at the Hall. We welcome anyone who is interested in this project to join us for this ceremony." Melvin plans to take the Chipman exhibition, the students, their families and friends to this event.

Have a safe holiday season

by Catherine Macek

Duke University Medical Center

Each year, Santa gets more and more requests for ultra-thin calculators, digital and quartz watches, cameras and small, hand-held electronic games. Unfortunately, all these gifts have one thing in common—they are powered by small disc batteries that are easily swallowed by small children.

Battery ingestion is one of many accidents that occur more frequently around the holidays, according to Dr. Shirley Osterhout, director of the Duke Regional Poison Control Center, Durham, N.C. "Parents are preoccupied with holiday plans, and visits to and from relatives can expose children to non-childproof homes and poorly packaged medications," Osterhout said.

Once swallowed, disc batteries can cause a variety of problems, Osterhout points out. If it's large enough, the battery can become lodged in the throat, making breathing difficult and swallowing painful.

Moreover, alkaline fluid and mercuric oxide may leak from the battery and cause ulceration (and possible perforation) of the gastrointestinal tract.

Angel hair, which is actually spun glass, can irritate the eyes and skin when handled and the intestines if swallowed. And tinsel caused intestinal obstruction or choking if ingested.

The fluid contained in most bubbling Christmas tree lights is methylene chloride, which is potentially fatal when ingested in large amounts. If the child drinks the contents of several bulbs, call the nearest poison control center.

Although a nibble on the evergreen Christmas tree usually results only in a stomach ache, other seasonal plants are considerably more hazardous. Mistletoe can be the kiss of death. It is the most poisonous of all Christmas plants. Poinsettias have a milky sap that can severely irritate the mucous membranes of the mouth, eyes and intestinal tract. Skin irritations should be washed with a mild soap.

The bright orange to scarlet berries of the Jerusalem cherry as well as the rest of the house plant are toxic. Ingestion of the leaves can cause the heartbeat to slow down, and the berries cause a scratchy throat followed by nausea, vomiting, abdominal pain and diarrhea. "Fortunately, the flowers of the Christmas cactus, which are often eaten by curious children, are not toxic," Osterhout notes.

If you're decking the halls with boughs of holly, remember that the berries are potentially fatal if swallowed in large quantities. There are safe substitutes—pyracantha and nandina are non-toxic plants.

Many toy-related injuries and deaths are due to choking and suffocation. When selecting toys for toddlers and children, be sure they are too large to put in the child's mouth and don't have small parts that can be swallowed. Toys with long strings or cords can cause strangulation. And ones that shoot or propel objects can injure eyes or become lodged in the throat.

If you have any questions about the safety of a toy, call the U.S. Consumer Product Safety Commission toll-free at 1-800-638-2772.

Children love to sneak eggnog, champagne and hot toddies when no one is looking, but as little as one teaspoon of 100-proof alcohol can be harmful to young children. "Young children enjoy tasting these beverages, whether they are left in partially filled cups or in an unattended punch bowl," Osterhout notes. "Be sure to put away all bottles, glasses and cups containing alcoholic beverages before you go to bed."

For many adults, drinking alcohol is as much a part of the holiday season as Santa Claus. Beware of the punch bowl—the punch may be more potent than you think. Do not drink after taking medicine that can cause central nervous system depression, such as antihistamines, tranquilizers, sleeping pills and cold and cough preparations.

Before you down the last one "for the road," remember these stagger statistics from the National Safety Council:

- * On an average weekend night, one out of 10 drivers is legally drunk.

- * Young adults under the age of 24 account for 44 percent of all nighttime drunk-driving fatalities.

- * Every day, 70 Americans die in alcohol-related accidents.

- * Each year, 26,000 people die and 1.5 million are injured in alcohol-related traffic accidents.

- * Drunk drivers cost society an estimated $24 billion annually in lost earnings, court costs and medical expenses.

ACCIDENT COST EQUIVALENTS
If all accidents could be eliminated and the money saved ($101.5 billion) used for other purposes, we could:

- * refund 30¢ of every dollar paid in federal personal income taxes, or
- * provide 39¢ of every dollar spent on national defense.

- * If motor-vehicle accidents could be eliminated and the money ($50 billion) used for other purposes, we could:

- * return 55¢ of every dollar spent by consumers on gasoline and oil, or
- * give a $4,600 rebate on each new car sold in 1985.

- * If home accidents could be eliminated the money ($11.2 billion) used for other purposes, we could:

- * give a rebate of $10,400 on each new single-family home built in 1985, or
- * reduce everyone's property tax bill by 11¢ on the dollar.

- * If public accidents could be eliminated and the money ($7.6 billion) used elsewhere, we could:

- * provide an $850,000 grant to each public library in the U.S., or

- * give each police officer and firefighter a $10,300 bonus.

- * If work accidents could be eliminated and the savings ($34.6 billion) redistributed, we could:

- * increase corporate dividends to stockholders by 41¢ on the dollar, or
- * refund 41¢ of every dollar of corporate profits tax liability.

Earnhardt leaves mark on '86 season

RIVERSIDE, Calif.—On race track walls, on the sides of fellow competitor's cars and in the record book, Dale Earnhardt left his mark on the 1986 Winston Cup season.

The charger is bred into Earnhardt. It's what he has been, is and will be. It comes from his quest to be best; ingrained by his late father Ralph, the 1956 NASCAR Late Model Sportsman titlist Dale wishes were here to share this Winston Cup.

Sometimes he charges too hard. He admits it cost him some races. But the fury of battle in the Winston Cup wars makes him ask the rhetorical question, "if we're not here to win, what are we here for in the first place? Anything but a win is a loss," the Kannapolis, N.C., native will say.

Richard Childress, a Winston Cup driver since 1969, stepped out of his car and installed Earnhardt as the driver in mid-1981. At the end of the season, Dale moved to Bud Moore's team for two years while Childress built his team into a Winston Cup contender.

With two years experience and knowledge learned from Moore, who he considers one of the guiding forces in his career, Earnhardt returned to Childress in 1984 and the Winston-Salem based team began its quest for the Winston Cup.

Childress says Earnhardt has mellowed since Dale first drove for him in '81.

"Now, don't get me wrong, I'm not saying Dale has stopped charging," Childress said. "What has happened is that he's matured with the years. He's learned you don't win the race on the first lap or in the first corner. I guess what I'm saying is that he's learned WHEN to charge, not HOW to charge."

Earnhardt takes this Winston Cup title more seriously than the 1980 crown he won after his 1979 Rookie of the Year title.

"I was really inexperienced then," the 34-year-old driver says. "Not inexperienced on the track so much as not knowing what the responsibilities of the Winston Cup title were and how to be a good champion. I didn't realize the magnitude of what I had won."

"I realize it now. I was wild and crazy; young and dumb. I think I'm smarter and more contented now. I can handle those responsibilities a lot better."

The maturity Earnhardt and Childress talk about showed itself in the stretch run to the Winston Cup. The pressure of the points race is enough to fold some teams. Having to beat the masters of the title chase, Junior Johnson and Darrell Waltrip, at their own game added even more stress.

"We really had two challenges we had to hold off," Childress said.

"First, Tim Richmond and Harry Hyde got red-hot in the middle of the season, climbing through the standings with six wins and four seconds to make a run at us. We weren't as worried about Junior and Darrell at that time as we were with Richmond and Hyde because hot streaks are so unpredictable."

"Once that pair cooled off, here came

Darrell and Junior to make the title run boil over again. Dale and I knew our crew had character and we felt they could handle the pressure, but you can get taken out by a wreck, a mechanical failure or a mistake that's not your fault on the track. That's what we felt we had to avoid.

"The fact that our crew could stand toe-to-toe with Junior's, handle the pressure both off and on the track and not be affected by Darrell's famous 'mind-games' shows us we have built a team that is championship caliber. It is only fitting the crew members were a big part of this Winston Cup title."

Earnhardt had mixed feelings about winning the title in Atlanta.

"It would have been good for the battle to have gone down to the wire. It is always sweet to beat someone for a championship by having to RACE," Earnhardt said.

"I wanted to win this championship for a lot of reasons. One of the biggest is this team," Earnhardt concluded. "Richard had never won a Winston Cup race or the title when he was a driver. Yet he has assembled one of the most efficient and competitive teams anywhere in racing."

"Some people may say this title is my reward. But it is, even more, a tribute to the guys who worked behind the scenes and who were the real heroes, and to Richard, who put this whole thing together. Their work allowed me to RACE all season instead of just drive."

"That's what won the Winston Cup for all of us."

Stock car racing to return to Volusia County for '87

DAYTONA BEACH, FL.—Once again the NASCAR sanctioned Florida half-mile will host the annual Governor's Cup Championships in January of 1987. The championships will be held on two separate weekends in the new year, featuring late models, street stocks, cyclones and mini-stocks.

The first event will kick off on January 2nd and 3rd with the championships for late models and mini-stocks. The Friday/Saturday affair will feature a 100 lap main event for the late models with $4,000.00 to win being posted. The second event that weekend is new to the championships and will feature the mini-stocks. Their race will be 30 laps with $500.00 to win being posted. The program will feature time trials and heat races plus the tracks cyclone division on Friday evening, while the main events plus street stocks will be on the card for Saturday.

The action will continue on Saturday and Sunday, January 17 & 18 during the championships for the street stocks and cyclones. The two divisions will be the only classes on the card with time trials and heat races slated for Saturday evening and the feature events on tap for Sunday.

The street stock championship race will be 100 laps paying $4,000.00 to win while the cyclone division will go 50 laps with $1,000.00 being posted.

More information and rules for the events may be obtained by contacting the track at (904) 255-2243 or (904) 985-4402. Volusia County Speedway is the only NASCAR sanctioned dirt track in Florida and is located 15 miles West of Daytona Beach on highway 40.

NASHVILLE, TN—America's Best racers were honored at the 5th annual NASCAR Winston Racing Series National Awards Banquet on Saturday night, November 22, 1986. The 1986 regional champions (L-R) George Kent, Northeast; Robert Powell, Southeast; Bubba Adams, Mid-Atlantic; Doug McCoun, Pacific Coast; and Joe Kosiski, Central; were joined by Miss Winston, Denise Lowrey, and honored on stage at the Opryland Hotel during the awards ceremonies. In addition to winning the Central region title, Joe Kosiski claimed the NASCAR Winston Racing Series National Championship title. Winston Racing Series photo by David Allio.

NASHVILLE, TN—NASCAR President Bill France, Jr., offered congratulations to 1986 Winston Racing Series National Champion Joe Kosiski during the NASCAR Winston Racing Series National Awards Banquet on Saturday night, November 22, 1986, at the Opryland Hotel. Kosiski was honored as America's Best after he became the fifth different NASCAR Winston Racing Series National Champion in the five year history of the weekly racing program sponsored by the Winston brand of the R.J. Reynolds Tobacco Company. Winston Racing Series photo by David Allio.

Childress, Earnhardt championship team got start at Talladega

TALLADEGA, AL.—The 1986 Winston Cup Championship of the Dale Earnhardt/R. Childress/Wrangler racing team can be traced back to an off-hand remark in the garage area during practice sessions for the 1981 Talladega 500 at Alabama International Speedway.

The remark, made by Childress to one of the Winston personnel at the track, triggered a chain of events that placed Earnhardt in the driver's seat and Wrangler on the quarter-panel of Childress' Pontiac.

"The guy from Winston was talking to me and said that he had heard that Earnhardt was unhappy with his situation and wanted out. I told this guy that Earnhardt could get in my car anytime, that I'd climb out. It was an off-hand remark, and I didn't really think much about it until Earnhardt came over later to talk to me," recalled Childress. "We talked again on Thursday, then I met with Junior Johnson for about two hours on Thursday evening after practice in his hotel room. Dale had said the Wrangler folks, Bob Odcar and Jack Watson, were coming in that night, and we'd talk then. I wanted to get Junior's advice before that meeting, and he was really a big help.

"We met that night at the Downtowner Motor Inn in Anniston, and worked out an agreement to run the remaining ten races of the season. Even though we split up for two years (1982 & 1983), that was the place it all started.

Even though Earnhardt was coming off his championship year of 1980, and was taking a big step into the unknown, the gutsiest roll-of-the-dice belonged to Childress.

He made a total commitment to go from Driver to car owner that weekend, and put all of his resources into the pot. "Wrangler and Earnhardt worked hard to make things go well for us. Give them a lot of credit because they deserve it. All of us took a heck of a chance."

For Childress, the Talladega 500 of 1981 was to have been his last as a driver, but he did take one more turn behind the wheel.

"I qualified Junior Johnson's backup car at the last race at Riverside that year because they were running for the championship and wanted to cover all their bases. I don't even get in the car at all now, however, because I'm afraid of what might happen. I'm just like an alcoholic that knows what will happen if I ever take that first drink. The fire is still there to drive: If I got started back, I'm not sure I could put it out again, so I just stay away."

Childress and Earnhardt finished the 1981 season with a couple of fourth-place finishes to their credit, but parted company for the next two years, Earnhardt driving for Bud Moore, while Childress put Ricky Rudd behind the wheel of his car.

"Dale & Bud won three or four times during 1982 and '83, but Ricky and I struggled," remembers Childress. "We won some poles, and had some high finishes, but we were both beginning to wonder if either of us would ever win."

"Then, at the end of 1982, we went to a USAC stock car race at Texas World Speedway, and Ricky beat a field that included Bobby Allison and Terry Labonte. That was a turning point for both of us. We started 1983 with a great deal of confidence and won four straight poles, then won races at Riverside & Martinsville."

After the 1983 season, Childress, Earnhardt and Wrangler reunited, and the rest is history. From a casual remark at Talladega in 1981, the Winston Cup championship team of 1986 came into being.

AIMS announces '87 schedule

TALLADEGA, AL.—For fans at the World's Fastest Speedway, "Excitement '87" takes the green flag on Wednesday, April 29th, with the final checkered flag due to fall on Sunday, July 26th.

Winston 500 race week begins at Alabama International Motor Speedway with practice sessions on April 29th, with activities building to the Winston 500, on Sunday, May 3rd.

A dozen weeks later, they'll do it again, as NASCAR's popular Winston Cup Series returns to AIMS for Talladega 500 race week. The track will open for practice on Wednesday, July 22nd, winding up with the unpredictable Talladega 500 on Sunday, July 26th.

The 1987 schedule for AIMS, released by General Manager Don Naman, also includes Busch Pole Qualifying on Thursday of both race weeks, as well as the Talladega ARCA 500K on Saturday, May 2nd, and the Permatex 500K on Saturday, July 25th. Both Saturday races feature the ARCA Permatex Supercar Series.

"This is basically the same schedule we have had for the past several years," said Naman. "By buying tickets in record numbers, our fans have proved they like it, so we'll stick with it."

And to further assist ticket buyers, Naman declared that tickets for all races are now on sale at the AIMS Ticket Office.

"In the past, we haven't had Talladega 500 tickets available until the Winston 500 was over, but right now you can purchase tickets to any of our four races for 1987," said Naman.

He noted that ticket sales for the new Anniston Tower are going well, and that lots of fans are taking advantage of AIMS' new policy of accepting VISA and Mastercard. Naman also stated that a World Karting Association enduro event may be added to the schedule in the fall of 1987.

The complete stock car schedule for 1987 is as follows:

DE Energy Assistance Program launched to help needy DE families

Help is available for people who have trouble paying their energy bills. The Delaware Energy Assistance Program (DEAP) began accepting fuel assistance applications from low-income families on November 3, 1986.

About $4,500,000 will be given to needy families in Delaware this year. This figure is more than $600,000 less than the amount the State of Delaware received last year. The reduction in funding is a result of an overall reduced amount allocated for fuel assistance by the U.S. Congress.

The monies will be used for fuel assistance supplements, weatherization, oil furnace tune-ups, emergency housing and energy education and counseling. The projected funds are expected to help more than 12,650 households this winter with an average fuel assistance benefit of $340.00.

Authorized fuel deliveries are expected to begin the second week in December.

Eligibility requirements for the DEAP are based on the number of persons in a household. The maximum income for a family of four is $13,750. For each additional family member, add $2,350.

Applicants should contact the following offices in their counties to make an appointment.

Fatality near Bridgeville

A 57-year-old Easton, Maryland man was killed in a two vehicle accident at 10:10 p.m. at the intersection of Delaware route 18 and route 13 northbound, just south of Bridgeville.

Harrison W. Walker, 57, of 411 South Street, Easton, Maryland, was pronounced dead on arrival at Nanticoke Memorial Hospital. Mr. Walker, who was not wearing a seatbelt, was driving his 1976 Buick west on Delaware route 18 & route 13 northbound. The Walker vehicle was struck in the driver's side by a northbound 1985 Mack tractor-trailer being driven by Robert Hines, 52, of 7410 Fayette Street, Philadelphia, Pennsylvania. Mr. Hines was treated at Nanticoke Memorial for multiple contusions and abrasions and was released. Mr. Hines was wearing a seatbelt. Alcohol was not a factor in the accident and no charges are expected.

This brings to total 134 fatalities this year as compared to 97 at this same time last year.

Escapee hotline

The Delaware State Police have established an escapee hotline to accept telephone calls from the public who may have information as to the whereabouts of the three remaining escapees. We will accept any long distance collect calls and will act on all information directly. The numbers are 378-2536 or 378-2553.

basis. The plan would have meant larger refunds for residential customers and smaller refunds for commercial and industrial customers.

That decision, too, was consistent with established policy. When earlier Summit proceeds were used to reduce electric rates in the early 1980's, customers benefited in proportion to the amount of electricity they used.

Customers of municipal utilities which buy power from DP&L will not receive refunds. They have been benefiting from the Summit settlement through lower electric rates.

Senator Minner's column

by Senator Ruth Ann Minner

The frustration with our prison system has been very evident among elected officials, especially in light of the recent escape of four inmates from our correctional facility in Smyrna.

At the time this column went to print, only one of the fugitives had been apprehended and the other three remain free, avoiding the efforts of law enforcement agencies throughout the state.

It has been very obvious that our prison system has been less than adequate and has surely not measured up to our expectations during the past few years. Efforts have been made to modify and improve procedures and programs, but the results have been minimal at best.

During last week's special session of the state Senate, Senate Corrections Committee Chairman James Vaughn announced that he will schedule special meetings for the purpose of investigating this recent escape, and Representative B. Brad Barnes also announced that the House of Representatives will investigate this matter in the weeks ahead.

Hopefully, through the efforts of both houses, some meaningful recommendations will be found to address some of the pending problems and instill some confidence in our state correctional system.

As a long-time advocate of improving Route 113, through the City of Milford, I am very pleased that the preliminary plans for this important project have finally been completed by the Department of Transportation.

Anyone who is at all familiar with this portion of 113 and the surrounding area, knows how hazardous traveling in this vicinity has become and the critical need for many changes and improvements on that highway.

The project was initiated under a funding plan that would total approximately $5 million ($1.2 million in state funds and the remaining 78% in federal funds), and would include improvements beginning at the ramp at Route 1 and extend down to Seabury Avenue.

The funding available is expected to finance the total rehabilitation of the road, the completion of various safety and drainage modifications and hopefully, the installation of lighting in problem areas if funds are remaining.

Because of the funding arrangement, there are various federal restrictions and regulations that must be followed during the planning and construction of this project. For example, these regulations require a 500 foot minimum for deceleration lanes, which means that some existing crossover points will be changed or lost as a result of the construction.

As with any community improvement project, we will encounter inconveniences and disruptions in our daily lives. These unfortunate occurrences are inherent in completing such projects.

I am, however, very hopeful that the residents in our community make an effort to remain informed about this project and express their views and concerns during the planning stages. These efforts will insure the proper improvement for a hazardous roadway (the site of over 170 reported traffic accidents during the past 5 years) in our community.

Why America is not a "Christian nation"

by William J. Bennett

William Bennett is the United States Secretary of Education.

EDITOR'S NOTE: Some argue that America is a "Christian nation." Not so, declares U.S. Secretary of Education William Bennett. Nonetheless, religion in general does play an important role in public life. It undergirds our system of moral values. So if we really want to take the Constitution seriously, says Bennett, we cannot be indifferent to the vitality of religious belief in America. Religious values require public acknowledgment, common defense, and mutual respect. This article is adapted from a recent speech.

There are those in America who believe, like Samuel Adams, that America should be a "Christian Sparta." They properly deserve the name "sectarian" rather than "religious." For though they sometimes speak in the name of religion in general, they would promote their own particular brand of religion into a favored position in public life. Not content to bring religious values into the public square, they would deny the government's constitutional obligation to be neutral among particular religious communities.

Like their secular antagonists, these zealots suffer from a misreading of history. If the secularists assert, wrongly, that the Founders meant to exclude all public support of religion, then the sectarians assert, wrongly, that the Constitution was designed, first and foremost "to perpetuate a Christian order." One scholar argues that Christianity was the primary cause of the American revolution. He calls for a "Christian historiography and a Christian revisionism" to foster a "return to the Protestant restoration of feudalism." A newspaper columnist insists that the Founders intended that all schoolchildren should be taught to acknowledge the divinity of Christ.

This is bad scholarship as well as dangerous politics.

On the one hand, religion should never be excluded from public debate. But on the other, it should never be used as a kind of divine trump card to foreclose further debate. Those who claim that their religious faith gives them a monopoly on political truth make democratic discourse difficult. Disagree with me and you're damned, they seem to suggest. In doing so, they insult the common sense and the tolerant spirit of the American people.

In America, the roots of religious liberty and political equality are long and deep. On August 17, 1790, in the first years of our constitutional government, the Hebrew Congregation of Newport, Rhode Island, wrote to President George Washington, expressing thanks that the government of the United States gives "to bigotry no sanction, to persecution no assistance."

This was President Washington's reply: "The Citizens of the United States of America have a right to applaud themselves for having given to mankind examples of an enlarged and liberal policy, a policy worthy of imitation."

"All possess alike liberty of conscience and immunities of citizenship. It is now no more that toleration is spoken of, as if it was by the inherent natural rights."

And President Washington added, in beautiful words: "May the children of the Stock of Abraham, who dwell in this land, continue to merit and enjoy the good will of the other inhabitants, while every one shall sit in safety under his own vine and fig tree, and there shall be none to make him afraid."

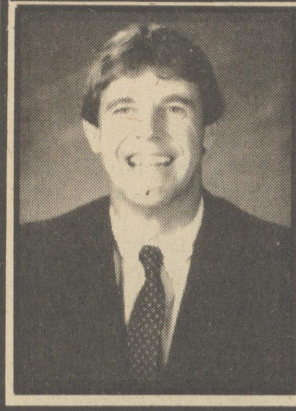

So to those today who make others afraid by calling America a "Christian nation," this is my reply: You are wrong. Sam Adams was wrong. We are not a "Christian Sparta." But Supreme Court Justice William Douglas was right when he said, "We are a religious people." We are indeed—the most religious free people on earth. A recent survey showed that while 76 percent of the British, 62 percent of the French, and 79 percent of the Japanese said they believed in God, fully 95% of Americans said they did. It is noteworthy that in each case, a similar percentage said they were willing to die for their countries. For the virtues that inspire patriotism—hard work, self-discipline, perseverance, industry, respect for family, for learning, and for country—are intimately linked with and strengthened by religious values.

In short, the democratic ethic and the work ethic flourish in the context of the Judeo-Christian ethic from which they take their original shape and their continued vitality.

Of course, the virtues of self-discipline, love of learning, and respect for family are by no means limited to the Judeo-Christian tradition alone, or to any religious tradition. My point is that in America, our civic virtues are inseparable from our common values. And values such as courage, kindness, honesty, and discipline are, to a large degree, common to almost all religious traditions. But it is the Judeo-Christian tradition that has given birth to our free political institutions; and it is the Judeo-Christian tradition that has shaped our national ideals. Although we should never forget the contributions of a host of people from other religions and cultures who have come to our shores in search of freedom and opportunity, we should also acknowledge that freedom and opportunity have flourished here in a political and social context shaped by the Judeo-Christian tradition.

In a book called The Vietnamese Gulag, a recent immigrant named Doan Van Toai describes his escape to America after years spent in a communist prison. Mr. Toai marvels at the liberty of our society and at our license to take it for granted. "Perhaps," he tells us, "it is the immigrants' function from generation to generation to remind (Americans) of what a treasure it is they own."

One of the treasures of America is the treasure that Tocqueville called the "civil religion" and that Jefferson called the "general religion." This is the national creed that distills values common to all sects, in all religions, from all cultures. Neither Tocqueville nor Jefferson could have anticipated the variety of faiths that would eventually find a home in America—more than three hundred denominations at last

"An Old Issue: A New Perspective"

The importance of the topic was underscored by the headline on the cover of Time which hit the streets on November 24, 1986.

"Sex Education: What Should Children Know? When should they know it?" was written in bold white letters across the front of one of America's most read magazines. The first paragraph of the cover story, which began on page 54, quoted Surgeon General C. Everett Koop. "There is no doubt," said he, "that we need sex education in schools and that it must include information on heterosexual and homosexual relationships." In his grim report on AIDS last month, Koop added that this instruction must begin "at the lowest grade possible," later identified as grade three.

The article revealed that surveys have consistently shown that about 80 percent of Americans have favored sex education in schools. That percent has now climbed to 86 percent.

Harvey Fineberg, Dean of the Harvard School of Public Health added, "It will lead to more open, explicit discussions about condoms and other strategies for safe sex. We are at a point where sex education is no longer a matter of morals - it's a matter of life and death."

Certainly, there are individuals and groups who have much difficulty with this.

Both proponents and opponents will converge on administrators at the schoolhouse door, arguing their case eloquently and, perhaps, threatening legal action if this perspective is not the one embraced by the local educators. Recently, there have been opposing views enthusiastically presented on this topic in one local daily paper.

Whether or not sex education include (or can exclude) values education is highly debatable, touching off another round of dialog between liberals and conservatives. Adding "fuel to the fire" is the failure of studies to generate results that may be called conclusive either in support of or against the teaching of sex in our schools. Another point of importance is that Koop's remarks are in direct contrast to his and President Regan's strong opposition to sex education in the past.

One factor which drew consistent support in the studies was the fact that programs which appeared to be most successful in the eyes of the researchers were those which had considerable backing and involvement from parents and the community.

It is apparent that the schools have an important responsibility in this issue. Until the emotions and data are sorted out, educators have an obligation to "have their fingers on the pulse" of the community, to promote communication with the home and to extend to parents who desire, the right to exclude their children from the classes. This process should afford all concerned with the opportunity to guide both the content and the instruction in the direction of moderation and provide an option for those who have extreme reservations regarding this matter.

The issue is important. The emotions are running high. It is a matter of perspective.

Celebrating the Constitution

by Congressman Tom Carper

One year from this December 7th, we will be celebrating the bicentennial of Delaware Day, the day we led the nation to become the first state to ratify the Constitution. As Americans across the country begin observing this, the Bicentennial of the United States Constitution, we Delawareans hold a unique place in history as we focus on the democratic way of life and remember our founding fathers who set up the framework for our Constitution to be the living document it is today.

At the historic Constitutional Convention of 1787, Delaware was well represented by five delegates, all champions of the small state. In fact, although it is not widely recognized, it was from an idea of Delaware's John Dickinson that the Connecticut Compromise was based. It called for equal representation of the states in the Senate and proportional representation in the House of Representatives. By this action, the Delawareans held firm in ensuring strong voice for the Small Wonder and other small states.

On December 6, 1787, the delegation returned to Delaware, and the following day, by unanimous vote, Delaware became the first state to ratify the new Constitution.

There are several principles that underlie our Constitution. Some are stated, such as the first 10 amendments, the Bill of Rights, while others such as the natural rights of individuals are not expressly written into the Constitution. Our founding fathers created a government that is adaptable to a changing world while never relinquishing its grip on democracy and the principle of popular sovereignty.

One device engineered to protect against the consolidation of power into the hands of one or a few, is the separation of powers: the Legislative branch empowered to enact laws; the Executive branch, to carry out the laws; and the Judicial branch, to interpret the laws. These three branches of government all have separate functions yet the same goal, to preserve the well being of the United States. When one branch is seen as not effectively achieving this goal, the other branches are equipped with "checks" to correct its failures.

A clear demonstration of how our government was intended to function and what can happen if checks and balances are not respected can be seen in the current investigation by the Congress into the Executive branch's National Security Council, as well as the appointment of an independent counsel by the Judicial branch to determine if laws were broken. At issue are weapons sales to Iran and the dispensing of the profits to contras fighting the Sandinista government in Nicaragua. The Legislative branch will investigate, and the Judicial branch will judge whether the Executive branch undercut the balance of power by conducting foreign policy counter to existing law, law that was passed by the Congress and signed by the President.

This year, when we are rejoicing in the freedoms that democracy affords us, the underpinnings of our Constitution are being put to yet another test. Our future is up to no one but ourselves. As responsible citizens, we must live up to the mandates of our Constitution and fight to keep them from being abused or compromised.

As Winston Churchill once said, "Democracy is the worst system devised by the wit of man, except for all the others."

Letters to the Editor

To the Editor:

Like you, dogs and cats cannot withstand winter's bitter cold and numbing wetness. Help pets remain happy and healthy during winter:

—Do not leave dogs or cats outdoors when the temperature sharply drops. Short-haired, very young, or old dogs (and cats) should never be left outdoors. Most dogs and cats are safer indoors except when taken out for exercise. Short-coated dogs may feel more comfortable wearing a sweater during walks.

—No matter what the temperature, wind chill can threaten a pet's life. An outdoor dog must be protected by a dry, draft-free doghouse that is large enough to allow the animal to sit and lie down, comfortably but small enough to hold in its body heat, with a floor raised a few inches off the ground and covered with cedar shavings. The house also should face away from the wind and have a doorway covered with burlap or a rug. Outdoor dogs need more food in the winter because keeping warm depletes energy. Routinely check water dishes to make certain the water is fresh and unfrozen.

—Warm engines in parked cars attract cats. To avoid their injury, bang on car hoods to scare them away before starting engines.

Make this a safe winter for your pets and please follow these simple suggestions.

Sincerely,
Nina Austenberg

In January 1986, I was elected to my second term as councilman for the City of Harrington. Thanks to everyone who had faith in me and my ability to perform. I have mostly enjoyed every minute of the experience.

Because of this cherished position, I accepted the invitation to participate in the Annual Christmas Parade. To my knowledge this invitation came from the Harrington Jaycees and Norman C. Short, the contact person.

However, I am very unhappy about my treatment in the parade. Other participants in the parade had their identifications on their cars. I did not! Need I remind you!

In the parade I was referred to as "Who's That!" and "That's No Name!" In retrospect, I should not have participated.

Since taxpayer's money is contributed to sponsor this activity, why not equal treatment for all.

REMARKS BY MRS. AMELIA MCSWEENEY TO THE NEW CENTURY CLUB
ON VETERANS DAY
VETERANS DAY America!
A Beautiful Country
The Land of The Free
I'm proud of the Place
I live.

*I live so my place and the community will be proud of me.
It's conservation day,
here at the Club House.*

*The color is green—
Bright-Healthy-clean.
The Conservation program project-Littering & Illegal dumping should be an Interest to the Community and State.*

Before it hits the road I had something to say—Last week while reminiscing-I jotted down my thoughts.

In early January 1986, I noticed how littering and dumping was getting out of control along our state highways. On one country road I observed that people were actually using it as a dumping area. People living in the area, as well as those who travel this route to and from work, started complaining about conditions. I remember one lady came to me and told how she was having to pick up debris near her home almost daily. She said a man would have lunch in a certain area, then litter the roadside with paper and break a green glass bottle on the roadway.

People will dump on the roadside, on private property, and in and around the streams and waterways, anything they wish to discard, from a bagful to a truckload, including large household items. A lot of this litter is from fast food restaurants. On one occasion, within a 2 1/2 mile radius, I picked up debris from six different restaurants located in the Harrington, Milford and Dover area.

This not only creates an unsightly atmosphere, but is a harbor for rats and mice who feast and hide under the trash.

It should also be recognized that by polluting our streams and waterways, it affects the plant and wildlife who depend on it for survival. Since we live in a nice quiet neighborhood, I felt it was worth fighting for our rights to have this stopped.

That is how the project "We Challenge Respect for the Roadside and our Delaware" came about. The ladies from our club accepted this as a community and state project for two years. We accepted this project not to judge others, but to make the guilty aware of their illegal actions. When I became involved, I was astonished at the number of people who shared my interest and found this act almost intolerable.

Mr. William Zeidler, Manager of the Harrington Highway Maintenance Yard and his personnel spent quite some time cleaning up a certain rural roadway. It looked so nice afterward. Believe it or not, within a week and a half, a load of trash was dumped beside a State "No Dumping - $500 Fine" sign. Just think of the money such actions cost us as taxpayers.

Mr. Harry G. Farrow and his staff from The Harrington Journal took photographs and published interesting articles making the public aware of the problem we are encountering. With this publicity, along with the cooperation of Mr. Zeidler and other highway employees, the Environmental Control and the State Police, we are, nevertheless, beginning to notice improvement.

Our job is not to pick up someone else's litter, but to alert and educate the public of this wrongdoing. However, we need new ideas and everyone's cooperation.

With dignity, faith and hope, the Ladies of GFWC Chapter Harrington New Century Club will proceed to clean up our community and state. Thank you.

Respectfully yours,
Ms. Daniel McSweeney

The Biden Report

by Joseph R. Biden, Jr.
United States Senator

The one thing that all of us should agree upon about the current crisis concerning secret arms sales to Iran and diversion of some of the proceeds to the Nicaraguan contras is that it offers no legitimate advantage to anyone.

This is a time for all Americans, for all of us in both political parties, to join together in an effort to save the presidency of Ronald Reagan. America can not tolerate another failed presidency.

For my part, that does not mean that I have suddenly resolved all of my many disagreements with President Reagan, especially when it comes to foreign policy, civil rights and the independence of the federal judiciary. My differences with the President in those areas have been principled, and we will very likely continue to differ on them.

Nor does it mean that I intend to turn my back on the President in the areas where we have found substantial agreement, especially on things like tax reform and reform of the federal criminal code to exert stronger control over organized crime and illegal drugs. We have made significant progress in those areas and we need to make more.

On the contrary, it is precisely because of those agreements and disagreements - because of that principled political dialog which is the heart and soul of our system of government -- that we must strive now to maintain the effectiveness of our single most important political office. Our recent history, during the administrations of Lyndon Johnson, Richard Nixon and Jimmy Carter, have reminded us forcefully just how vital a strong, viable presidency is to the success of our system, and how much it costs us when a presidency is crippled and ineffective.

That doesn't have to happen to the presidency of Ronald Reagan, and all of us, especially those of us in government, have a duty to prevent it from happening. Too much is at stake, in our foreign and domestic policies, to allow this crisis to handcuff our President for the next two years or even the next six months.

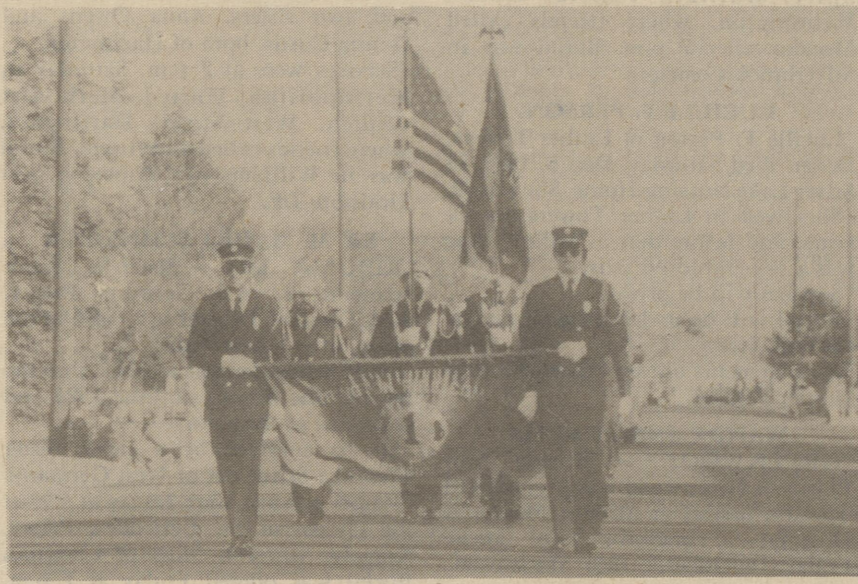

Having said that, it is fair to say, too both that Ronald Reagan himself bears the principal responsibility for stopping the unraveling of his presidency and that it is well within his power to do just that.

As President of the United States, because of his great personal charm, because of his acknowledged mastery of communications and because of the deep affection in which he is still held by the American people, he is fully capable of putting this crisis to rest and doing it quickly. He can, and should, and I believe he will, tell us in his simple, plain, straightforward style what happened, why it happened, and how he intends to prevent what should not have happened from occurring again while he is president.

count. Much divides each of these denominations from the others—small questions of doctrine and large questions of revelation. But what is agreed upon is important. It has content and power. It infuses American life with a sense of transcendence. All profit from it, although none is forced to assent to it. And, as the Founders predicted the constitutional order depends on it.

To protect religious liberty, the Founders sought to outlaw religious establishments and to moderate religious passions. At the same time, they recognized that religious values require public acknowledgment, common defense, and mutual respect. And nothing has happened in the past two hundred years to suggest that Washington and Madison and Adams and Jefferson were wrong. All of them envisioned a government neutral between religions in particular but sympathetic to religion in general. For they knew that to be indifferent to the vitality of religious belief is to be indifferent to the vitality of our constitutional order, and of our Constitution.
