Charles B. Driscoll, the New York columnist, has been advised by his physician to cease reading until his eyes improve. Driscoll believes his eyes were injured by picking up particles of dust on a motor trip on Long Island. Sounds fishy to us. Imagine Driscoll and his Packard taking anybody's dust!

WE ARE VINDICATED

In 1922 we were in North Carolina and the editor of the Goldsboro Daily News told us to stop at Raleigh and meet a friend of his. He gave us a letter of introduction to that friend and we called on him in his newspaper office. He was a person of considerable fame, having been a member of President Wilson's cabinet. He was dressed like a political cartoon of the days of Henry Clay; stiff-brimmed black Quaker-type hat, frock coat, small black tie, etc. He walked the floor, clasping his hands behind his back, his face assuming a look of sanctimonious benevolence. We believed that man to be vain, shallow—and lacking in ability—and we haven't changed our mind since about it.

We spent probably an hour with his son—and found him to be as brilliant as the father was dull. Recently that son has written a book about the South—and critics call it a masterpiece.

Sunday night, over the Columbia Broadcasting System, the brilliant H. V. Kaltenborn, speaking of the oil upon the troubled waters of Mexico, said: "I suggest to President Roosevelt that he appoint a capable man, a diplomat, to go down there and take the place of the UNFIT Mr. Daniels."

So our judgment of Josephus Daniels, wearer of the Quaker hat, is vindicated; likewise our judgment of his very able son.

LIGHT IN THE SCHOOLHOUSE

"Teacher's working late tonight," they used to say if they saw a light in the schoolhouse after, say 5 o'clock. But not now. More and more the ever-lighted schoolhouse is becoming a fact, as new communities brighten to the realization that, as an after-hours center for adult cultural and social activities, it offers the finest opportunities.

Folk schools of countries like Denmark, where grown-ups often continue their classroom education all through life, have won wide attention. And an inspiring example of community education and neighborliness is found in the little town of Solomon, Kansas. Solomon has only about 1,000 people. It has no picture shows, no clubs, yet approximately 5,000 folks live within eight miles, and for most of them the high-school building is a natural focusing point for recreation, entertainment, self-improvement.

The building is open five nights a week, except during summer. There is no attempt to formalize the school's open house. Half a dozen farm organizations hold their meetings in the schoolhouse. For the rest, people come, as to a reunion, to meet friends, to play games, to take part in plays and concerts, or to listen to them, to hear lectures, to play bridge, table tennis, basketball. Townsmen eagerly give credit for the idea to a certain public-spirited educator who, during his superintendency of the school, won for his plan the support of a progressive school board—and a place in the budget for lights, heat, and shower baths. No one, truth to tell, needed to be "sold" the ever-lighted schoolhouse idea.

All told, Solomon is a striking example of how a community may be vivified by having a common focusing point for neighborly activities and interests. The school itself takes on new life. There has been only one truancy in seven years. The school band of 100 pieces (the school's total enrollment if 150) has been heard in Kansas City, Missouri, and Chicago. Every boy physically able plays in intramural sports.

The world spends billions on education. In the United States parents support a 10-billion dollar educational plant. The huge investment in every community can and should be made to yield a richer life for old and young alike. The light in the schoolhouse may point the way.

SAFETY COUNCIL NOTES

According to the Delaware Safety Council, the alarming toll of fatalities taken by automobile traffic each year will shrink to comparatively small proportions if anyone ever discovers some device which will make human beings act in their automobiles just as they act when they are walking. Anyone who doubts that statement is invited to consider the strange change that comes over the average American as soon as he gets behind the wheel of his car. On foot, the American is usually a genial good-natured more or less leisurely sort of chap. He would like to walk on a sidewalk that isn't crowded, but that isn't always possible and he makes the best of it. When he has to walk through a crowd he takes his time at it and makes due allowance for the feelings of others. Unless he has some special reason for being in a great hurry, he doesn't jostle and push and strain every nerve to get ahead of everybody else.

Set him to driving an automobile, however, and a great transformation seizes him. Instead of taking his time he gets in a life-and-death hurry. He will cheerfully risk his neck to gain a ten-second advantage, and when another car passes him he sees red. His consideration for others vanishes and he wants with all of his soul to be at the head of the procession and to stay there.

In consequence, the traffic stream on an American highway often resembles a procession of irritated lunatics. The driver who cheerfully gives way to another is the rare exception and the driver who goes along leisurely gets cursed from every side. All of this not only takes a lot of fun out of driving but it also makes traffic the dangerous thing that it is.

Some way must be found to induce ourselves to act with ordinary human courtesy and common sense while we are driving our automobiles. Safety in driving after all, is largely a matter of courtesy and common sense. In most fields Americans exhibit these two qualities in quite satisfactory quantities. Why is it that we tend to shed one or both of them when we go driving?

STATE FIREMEN ASK INCREASE OF STATE

The Delaware Volunteer Firemen's Association will present a bill at the next session of the Legislature asking that the State increase its appropriation to each of 46 volunteer companies from $500 to $1,000, according to a resolution passed at the convention at Newark on Wednesday of this week, in Wolf Hall. It would include any new company organized and motorized before January 1, 1939, and would provide customary differentials for companies operating ambulances.

In presenting the resolution, William Kirk of the Five Points Fire Company estimated the value of service and cost of operation of the volunteer fire companies of the State at $819,700.

Of this sum, he said, $40,000 represented interest on investment in real estate and equipment, $32,000 annual reserve for replacement of apparatus, $13,000 for hose replacements, $11,500 for heat, light, gas, telephones for fire quarters, $13,800 for tires, gasoline and oil, $9,200 for average ordinary repairs, $9,200 for building repairs and $9,200 for extinguisher supplies.

"It is scandalous and shameful," he said, "that every two years we must go begging, and pleading and lobbying before the Legislature to retain meagre pittance handed out to us in return for one of the most valuable and necessary of the State's protection to its people."

Chief Lewis W. Walker of Clayton was elected president of the association. Other new officers are: Vice-President, Leroy B. Truitt, Bridgeville; secretary, Warren W. Pettyjohn, of Dover; treasurer, Caleb W. Johnson, of Magnolia.

E. Paul Burkholder, superintendent of Kent county schools, lauded the volunteers for their unselfish service throughout the year and declared that if the people fully appreciated this service there would be no need for the companies.

He also stressed the need of a more efficient program of fire prevention in the public schools, declaring that fire prevention was as important as any course now taught.

Delegates turned down retiring President Howard F. Sheldon's recommendation that they empower their new president to "complete" the memorial monument in Dover to the satisfaction of our membership.

Mr. Sheldon had recommended that the State memorial monument committee be discharged and its powers transferred to the president.

Instead it was voted to leave the entire issue up to the present committee, which comprises E. S. Jones, Middletown; J. E. Hallaway, Wyoming; and Reuben A. Steward, Seaford.

The monument, which was dedicated last September as a memorial to deceased volunteer firemen, has been the basis of much agitation. Mr. Sheldon stressed that many members of the association as well as citizens had criticized the memorial as "being out of proportion."

He said he had received communications from the Kent County Firemen's Association, and from the mayor and council of Dover requesting removal of the monument from Dover. Among other recommendations of Mr. Sheldon were:

That the legislative committee make a survey of existing laws in nearby states, and prepare suitable legislation to make compulsory the installation of fire plugs on all new water mains in the State on public highways outside of incorporated towns.

The committee to present to the next session of the Legislature a bill to prohibit manufacture, sale, or use of fireworks in Delaware.

The educational committee to continue its fire-prevention essay contest and post or contest in schools.

That the new president be authorized to appoint a committee to prepare standardized report forms for all volunteer companies.

Mr. Sheldon said the association's companies now have 101 pieces of apparatus, 39,900 gallons pumping capacity, 3,847 members, and real estate property valued at $626,000.

The Past Presidents Association held a dinner meeting at Powell's Restaurant at 6 P. M. The meeting of the Delaware State Fire Chiefs Association scheduled for 8 P. M., was cancelled.

OLIVE BRANCH OFFERED BY TUNNELL GROUP

The olive branch will be extended by the Sussex County Democratic Committee, headed by Norman Collison, chairman, and Democratic National Committeeman James M. Tunnell, Sr., to the rival county committee, led by Ralph S. Baker, chairman and Rep. William F. Allen.

The Tunnell-Collison committee Wednesday night appointed a policy committee which will attempt to bring peace to the warring Sussex County Democratic factions. It was intimated the policy committee will confer with Democratic officials in Dover in an effort to enlist their support in working out a plan by which the Tunnell-Collison committee and the Baker-Allen committee will be united.

The committee named Wednesday night comprises: Stephen Toadvine, Milford; Isaac Leroy Smith, Greenwood; Charles Wheatley, Seaford; Henry Koster, Laurel; William Ayers, Millsboro; former State Senator James McCabe, Selbyville; John Phillips, Angola; John Casper Jones, of Georgetown and William Peal, Lewes. Mr. Collison and Mr. Tunnell will be ex-officio members.

The Dover meeting is expected to precede the session of the committee to be held in the Brick Hotel at Georgetown next Wednesday evening.

The group also will report to the county committee on Wednesday evening on a plan for filing candidates and on the results of their harmony efforts. The primary will be held on Saturday, October 1.

TO EXAMINE SCHOOL ATHLETES AT ONCE

In order not to delay inter-school sports, the State Board of Health at its monthly meeting early in the week decided to schedule physical examinations of athletes as the first item on the school health program for the 1938-39 season. To expedite this program, they plan to limit these examinations in games played between schools.

Immunizations against diphtheria will also be moved-up, and are scheduled to follow immediately after the examinations of athletes. This change is being made in order to gain protection for the children as soon as possible. If they are immunized by October, they can be considered as protected in December, which is the next month in which much increase in incidence of diphtheria can be expected.

After the completion of the immunization program, the regular school wide examinations will be conducted. The programs of previous years have scheduled these examinations in advance of the immunizations.

The examinations have as their purpose the discovery, insofar as possible of the discovery of any ailments of which the parents should be warned, and the barring from strenuous physical activities of any children whose conditions make them incapable of such exercise.

Diphtheria immunization work in Delaware has decreased its toll from 204 cases and 30 deaths in 1925 to 30 cases and 1 death in 1937. During the same years all the diphtheria deaths, and almost all the reported cases have been among the unimmunized portion of the population.

REHOBOTH CROWD

PUT AT 18,177

According to traffic checks by the State Highway Department, 18,177 people visited Rehoboth Beach over the Labor Day holidays, representing a 10 per cent increase over last year.

The survey was started at 7 o'clock Friday evening and continued through the period both night and day until Tuesday morning at 7 o'clock.

A total of 36,355 cars going both directions were counted during that period. Dividing this amount because both arrivals and departures were counted, and estimating an average of three persons to a car, the estimate of 18,177 persons was reached.

Silver Lake Bridge at the south of Rehoboth Beach is closed to traffic at the present time while the E. Hammond Co. is tearing it down and replacing it with a new concrete type span. All automobiles to Bethany Beach and Selbyville are being routed over the old Rehoboth Bay road to Dewey Beach and to ocean highway.

DISEASE KILLING HORSES IN MILFORD VICINITY

The disease that played havoc with livestock in this section a few years ago and which is reported to have killed several horses and mules in various Eastern Shore counties of nearby Maryland again is taking a heavy toll of animals in the Milford section.

Many valuable horses and mules have succumbed to it during the past few weeks and owners of livestock are now using all known preventatives to check its spread.

Horses and mules are mostly affected, and once the disease gets a hold on an animal, there is little chance for recovery.

The disease has been diagnosed as encephalitis, and is also called "blind staggers."

WISE CONTRASTS SURPLUS WITH G. O. P. DEFICITS

The Democratic state administration's over-all balanced budget of approximately $35,000 for the past two years was contrasted with an over-all Republican deficit of almost $11,750,000 for the preceding five years by State Auditor James W. Wise in a talk before the Democratic City Committee, Wilmington Wednesday evening.

cent statement by City Solicitor J. R. Morford, candidate for the Republican nomination for attorney general, attacking the financial statement in the Democratic platform.

In referring to the Democratic surplus, Mr. Wise quoted his 1937 report which showed $331,991.06 in income in excess of expenditures.

For the fiscal year just ended, he said the deficit was $297,727.68, due chiefly to the payment of $350,000 in short term loans and the non-recurring expenditures for the purchase of The Rocks and other tercentenary celebration expenses. While this figure has not been published yet, he said it can be arrived at by a comparison of cash in the balance sheet of the state that already has been published.

These figures for the last two years, he said, show a net excess of income over expenditures of $35,263.38 as compared to an annual average by the last five years of Republican administration.

In answering Mr. Morford's statement that the bonded indebtedness of the state was reduced from $12,000,000 to $3,000,000 under Republican rule, Mr. Wise said:

"In the balance sheet for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1931 at the start of the five-year period of Republican deficits, Mr. Baker reported a net funded debt as $3,201,367.40. For the fiscal year ending June 30, 1936, at the end of the five-year period, Mr. Hazel reported the net funded debt as $3,291,416.68."

Deputy State Auditor Jesse Cooper urged the committee members to keep well informed on all campaign issues and to work together for the election of the complete ticket in November. County Comptroller Louis A. Haywood and Wright C. Dizer commended the record of Mr. Wise and Mr. Cooper.

Garrett E. Lyons, chairman of the Democratic City Committee, who presided, announced that the first issue of the Delaware Beacon, a Democratic weekly newspaper edited by Joseph Clark, Wilmington, and intended for Democratic Negroes of the City of Wilmington, will make its appearance soon.

LIQUOR TAX REVENUE DECREASED IN AUGUST

Cash collections of the Delaware Liquor Commission for the month ended August 31, were $35,214.28, compared with $47,645.29 in August of last year, according to the monthly report of the commission made public this week.

Agree on Truck Operation

Reciprocal agreements reached between Pennsylvania and Delaware regarding operation of Delaware trucks in Pennsylvania are expected to save truck operators thousands of dollars. Secretary of State Charles L. Terry, Jr., returned Tuesday from a series of conferences in Philadelphia with State Motor vehicle officials of Pennsylvania, New Jersey and Maryland. Agreements were reached between Pennsylvania and Delaware, Mr. Terry said, for operation of buses operating in Delaware and also loads carried by Delaware trucks which make trips into Pennsylvania.
