The umpire, Jack Holloway, Sr., called the game after a little more than an hour of playing, in what inning no one knows, on account of rain. Lion was detected buying a barrel of proximate quantities: salt. The reason there is an argument as to the exact score is due to the fact that a stranger slugged the scorekeeper and ran away with his

Holloway's umpiring was faultless. Not once was any decision questioned. His judgment on balls and strikes was perfection.

"Whirlwind Walter" Paskey, because his many admirers demanded it, pitched the first inning for the Rotarians. He retired the three batters on nine pitched balls, all three striking out. When asked to what he attributed his effectiveness, Walter answered in this manner: "I used to pitch in Canada when I was a boy. After pitching and winning three double-headers by shutouts on three successive days, my arm tired and I decided to give it a rest before pitching again. I rested that arm sixtyone years, so I decided I was in shape to pitch again. Now I'll rest my arm another sixty-one years, after which I will be in shape to tame those Li

Terrifying Tom Jones succeeded Walter on the mound, the latter feeling that he was needed on the coaching line to thwart the hocus-pocusmumbo-jumbo tactics of the whilom king of beasts. Tom 's work was excellent, but he was handicapped by the fact that most of his fielders were not with Raw-Meat Russell Emory and Arsenic Archie Feagan in Florida and North Carolina respectively.

POLITICS: G.O.P. 'Oomph'

From the opening session of the Republican national convention in Philadelphia, there was little doubt as to what presidential nominee aspirant was the "gallery's choice."

For each time the name of Wendell Willkie was mentioned on the convention floor a sally of cheers swept down from the onlookers.

The New York lawyer and utilities executive in a decidedly brief (two months) period of time had risen from the political unknown to the pinnacle of popular G. O. P.

Entering the convention balloting with a mere handful of pledged delegates, Willkie's dynamic super-salesmanship started its telling effect in the form of a definite trend toward him as the second roll call of states was called. On the first ballot he had 105 delegate votes cast in his favor and ranked third | tion of France's entire Atlantic sea while Thomas E. Dewey held first | coast and German bombers continplace with 360 votes and Robert A. | ued scattered raids over an uneasy Taft of Ohio was second with 189.

On successive ballots Willkie then gained 65, 86, 47, 123, and finally on the sixth roll call he went over the top with a net gain of 204 votes, giving him a total of 633-501 being necessary for the nomination. Willkie having won, all state delegations then made the nomination unani-

Next day, on the first balloting for the vice presidential nominee, Senator Charles L. McNary of Oregon was elected as the party's overwhelming choice for Mr. Willkie's running mate.

Tagged as a "peace, preparedness and prosperity" platform, the G. O. P. 1940 statement of party policy straddled most important national issues but packed plenty of anti-New Deal and anti-Third term punch.

Unanimously approved, the platform contained a keep-out-of-war declaration; a plan of Republicaninspired national defense; a slap at President Roosevelt's "provocative" speeches; and a demand to limit presidential service to two terms.

Willkie's political rise stands out as one of the most dramatic in American history. Coupled with the will add four huge capital ships to fact that he started his campaign a the U. S. fleet, got under way with short two months ago, is the fact the laying down of the keel of the that up until the last few years he has been a Democrat. #### AVIATION: Spreading Wings

Three new air routes mark current developments in America's ever-expanding aviation industry. Hailed by Alaska's governor, Ernest Gruening, as a stride toward national defense, the 20-ton Alaska

Clipper began regular pay-passenger service between Seattle and the territory. On the first flight the Clipper made a trip that usually takes four days by boat in slightly over five hours. Twenty passengers were aboard.

This initial flight called attention to Alaska's air defenses which are in the process of being strengthened by the U.S. navy. Two new flying bases at Sitka and Kodiak are under construction at the present time and the naval expansion program calls for further bolstering of Uncle Sam's air arm in the area.

Pan American Airways is starting transoceanic service over 8,000 miles of the South Pacific to New Zealand and a new flight schedule with daily plane service to Argentina is slated to get under way July 12. On the New Zealand route, four and a half day service will be provided between Los Angeles and Auckland, New Zealand.

INDUSTRY:

Current reports of Federal Reserve banks plus other commercial indices reveal that a downward trend of industrial activity which has marked U.S. business since last December has now been reversed. Expanding production is noted in many key industries.

With much of such increasing activity centered directly or indirectly in war and defense materials, nonmilitary industries are also registering important gains.

Steel production is now booming along at capacity speeds and new orders from foreign and domestic buyers which are currently pouring in should keep blast furnaces roaring for many months to come.

Automobile tire shipments have shown large increases and leading rubber companies say these more than offset a seasonal decline in sales to car manufacturers. Southern Pacific railroad is negotiating for the purchase of some 2,500 new freight cars.

LEAGUE OF NATIONS: Business Report

Eighty-nine employees of the league of nations—the last 89 to be exact—were given notice to resign patches indicated that a portion of for business appeared to be at a standstill. Secretary General Joseph Avenol started closing up shop about May 16 when Germany launched its blitzkrieg against the low countries. It was then he gave 205 league officials and employees In the Brooklyn navy yard, the a chance to resign or have their new construction program which contracts suspended upon any notice.

Two decades ago the league was created to aid in the settlement of international disputes, but business was dull until two years ago, when aggressors started to work in earnest and things began to hum in the great marble building that housed the delegations.

But this activity began to slow down as one by one, Austria, Poland, Cxecho-Slovakia, Albania, Finland, Denmark, Norway, The Netherlands, Belgium and then France wilted under the pressure of more powerful nations.

Starting out as a noble bid for peace and world understanding, an idealistic institution is closing its books in a world where force holds the balance in the ledger.

YEW YORK.—Dr. Frank Kingdon resigned as president of the University of Newark to serve the cause of American unity against various open 'Freedom' Still and hidden Embodies Our disruptive Hope and Faith forces. Certain industrialists have become dollar-a-year men for military rearmament. Dr. Kingdon is perhaps the first man to give up his job to work for intellectual rearmament. With others, he built the Citizenship Educational Service to advance tolerance, cooperation and all-around American solidarity. Theodore Roosevelt is its chairman and Dr. Kingdon is educational director.

"American Unity" was the subject of Dr. Kingdon's address before the Institute of Public Affairs at Charlottesville, Va., recently. A few days ago, this writer happened to be present when Dr. Kingdon was conversing with a New York citizen of distinction and influence who maintained that democracy was both decadent and impotent. In his Charlottesville address, Dr. Kingdon

"The other day, I was arguing with a self-confessed Fascist. I happened to use the word freedom. He immediately scoffed, saying, 'Freedom for what? Freedom to be unemployed? Freedom to starve?' He knew that the word was one of the signal words of human history. He could not meet it squarely. So he tried to tie it up with all kinds of other words having unpleasant definitions in order to destroy its own appeal by transferring to it their dismay. His was a deliberate effort to empty of meaning a word that is packed with hope and faith. His performance was typical of the planned and concerted attempt to destroy the foundations of our thought so that we shall crumble before a vigorous onslaught from the cause with which he has allied himself."

In the above address Dr. Kingdon assays such words as Christianity, freedom, religion, propagan-da, isolation, in the interest of tolerance and unity. Such is one of the unique endeavors of the Citizenship Educational Service.

Dr. Kingdon, tall, urbane schoolman and cleric, was born in London and came to this country in 1912, at the age of 17. He was educated at University College school, London, and Boston university.

President Vargas has seemed much more able and plausible than most dictators. He isn't given to casual shooting or hanging and he says very little and this in a low voice, never in a sports palast or on a balcony. He built his 1930 campaign on a bare-knuckle fight against the "plutocratic coffee barons" of the Sao Paulo. He was badly defeated. He didn't yell, "I've been robbed," but instead gathered a few of his old gaucho friends and quietly took over the country.

For four years, he ruled by decree and then set up a liberal constitution, written by the national assembly. He proclaimed his allegiance to liberal government and the democratic ideal. He governed effectively and is credited with having cut down debt and upped pro-

At about two o'clock on the morning of November 10, 1937, President Vargas telephoned all the members of his cabinet and the leaders of his legislature to come to the palace immediately. They seized weapons as they dashed for their cars. The president received them urbanely, broke out cigars and wine, chatted a few moments and then handed them a document in which he had scrapped and fired congress, nullified existing laws and substituted his own code. There was no dissent.

Wyoming Looks Back Upon Its Fifty Years As a State; It Has the Distinction of Being First to Give the Women a Vote

By ELMO SCOTT WATSON

(Released by Western Newspaper Union.) N JULY 10 a new United States commemorative postage stamp is being placed on sale for the first time. Now, there's nothing especially remarkable about this, for the Post Office department has sent forth a veritable flood of "commemoratives" during the last eight years. But the fact that this stamp is being issued in connection with the 50th anniversary of the admission of Wyoming to the sisterhood of states gives it more than merely local or regional interest.

To Americans the name "Wyoming" means a variety of things. To a majority of us it symbolizes, perhaps more than the name of any other state, the "Wild West," and rightly so. For it is doubtful if any other state west of the Mississippi has been the scene of more acts in the drama of the "Winning of the West" than have been staged within Wyoming's 97,914 square

Although the route of Lewis and Clark's epic journey took them north of Wyoming, the names of two members of their party are written on the pages of her history. In 1809 John Colter, who left Lewis and Clark during their return journey to St. Louis, became the first white man to gaze upon the marvels of that wonderland which was first called "John Colter's Hell" and which we now know as Yellowstone National park. Three quarters of a century later an old Indian woman died on the Wind River reservation of her people, the Shoshones, and today a simple monument marks what Wyoming believes (despite counter claims by North and South Dakota) to be the last resting place of Saca-jawea, or the "Bird Woman," the heroic Indian girl who guided Lewis and Clark across the Shining mountains.

Long before Lewis and Clark, Wyoming had been visited by explorers of another nation - the Frenchman, Sieur de la Verendrye, and his sons who were searching for good sites to establish posts for trading with the Indians. That was in 1743 and England in the struggle to dominate North America. So it fell to the lot of a new breed of men to exploit Wyoming's riches in furs—the American trapper and fur trader. The late 1820s and the 1830s saw the full flowering of the fur trade and wrote on Wyoming's pages the names of such men as Gen. William H. Ashley, Jedediah Smith, Jim Beckwourth, Manuel Lisa, Jim Bridger, Thomas Fitzpatrick, the Sublettes, Bantiste Brown, Kit Carson and a host of other giants in buckskin. Then, almost before the day of the trapper and trader had dawned, the sun went down on this dramatic chapter in American his-

The Oregon Trail.

For the wagon trains of Oregon-bound homeseekers or California gold hunters began streaming westward and one of America's most historic highways, the Oregon Trail, wound across Wvoming from its eastern border to its western. Across it also wound the Salt Lake Trail, over which hurried the Mormons on their way to the Promised Land in Utah, and the Overland Trail, which echoed to the rumblings of the Concord stagecoaches and the hurrying hoofs of the Pony

The building of such sentinel posts as historic Fort Laramie and Fort Bridger to guard the traffic over these trails held in check for a little while the hostile red men. But when the Union Pacific began to push westward and forts were built along the Bozeman Trail to guard the goldseekers, hurrying to the new diggings in Montana, the Sioux and Cheyennes girded their naked red loins for a last stand against the invaders. The result was "Red Cloud's War." Although the Treaty of 1868, signed at Fort Laramie, was a victory for Red Cloud, in that the government agreed to abandon the posts along the Bozeman Trail, it was far from being complete.

For the Union Pacific continued to push westward and when, in May, 1869, the "Golden Spike" was driven at Promontory Point in Utah, the hammers which drove it home sounded the death knell of Indian domination in Wyoming. True, the Sioux and Cheyennes would fight another war in 1876-77, but the final result was a foregone conclusion—the conquest of the red man and the seizure of his lands by the whites.

The Day of the Cattleman. After the Indian wars were over came one of the most glamorous periods in Wyoming's history-the day of the cattleman. Brief though it was, it lasted long enough to make the name of Wyoming synonymous with the word that picturesque American figure whose jingling spurs still echo in the American consciousness even though the era of the "open range" is long since past. For the day of the cattleman came to a climax and an end in 1892—with the famous "Johnson County War," or the "Rustler War," a fight between the cattle barons and the small ranchmen. It not only ended the reign of the barons but it also foreshadowed the coming of sheepmen, who began to crowd upon and spoil the cattle ranges, the "nester" or small farmer, and finally the "dude rancher" of today.

Such, in brief outline, is the thrilling history of the state of Wyoming. But there is another fact in her history which makes her unique among the sisterhood of states. It is suggested by the central figure of a woman in the new stamp with the legend "Equal Rights" above her head. When congress, in 1868, created the Territory of Wyoming from parts of Dakota, Utah and Idaho, one of the first acts of the territorial legislature was to pass a bill granting women the right to vote.

Two years later the new territory did an even more unheardof thing. In March, 1870, when the grand jury for the regular term of the court of the First Judicial district at Laramie was drawn, there appeared on the panel the names of the first women to be summoned to act as common law jurors anywhere in the world. Miss Eliza Stewart, a school teacher, had the distinction of heading the list of eight women whose names were drawn and who served on the jury. They were Nelly Hagen, Mary Wilcox, Retta Burnham, Mary Flynn, Mrs. I. M. Hartsough, Lizzie A. Spooner, and Jenny Ivinson. Appointed as a bailiff was another woman, Martha Boies.

News of this startling innovation in the conduct of public affairs spread all over the world and King William of Prussia, who seems to have been something of feminist, cabled President U. S. Grant his enthusiastic congratulations. Reporters and cartoonists swarmed to Laramie and pictured the women jurors as masculine creatures with bawling babies in their arms. Some unknown poet celebrated the event in a deathless couplet: "Baby, baby, don't get in a fury;

Your mama's gone to sit on the

But for all the ridicule, the women jurors proved to be a success. They not only served on a jury, but they indicted a murderer and convicted him!

If the majority of Americans think of Wyoming in terms of cowboys, bucking broncos, ridin' and ropin' and roundups, credit for that fact is due more to one man, perhaps, than to any other single factor. And, paradoxically, he wasn't a Westerner at all. He was an Easterner, a "tenderfoot."

A Tenderfoot Goes West. Owen Wister was his name and he was born in Philadelphia just 80 years ago—on July 14, 1860. A friend of Theodore Roosevelt while a student at Harvard, he planned a career in music and was well on the way to success in it abroad when the insistence of his father resulted in his returning to Harvard to study law. His health broke before he was well started and, as Roosevelt had done, he went West to recuperate. That was in the middle eighties, and he lived in Arizona and Wyoming and learned to love the West. He returned to it each spring and in 1891, upon his return from a summer in Wyoming, wrote two stories about the country and its people, "Hank's Woman" and "How Lin McLean Went West," both of which appeared in Harper's Magazine. He continued writing Western stories and in 1896 the first group of his tales were gathered in a volume called "Red Men and White." A second volume, "Lin McLean," came out two years later. Thus far Wister's work had been accepted by critics as authentic portrayals of life in the West but it had not enjoyed any particular popular success. Then in 1902 his novel "The Virginian" appeared.

The book became a best seller in a day when historical novels were especially popular and it continues to sell even today. At the time of Wister's death in 1938 it was announced that the total sales of "The Virginian" had passed the 1,500,000 mark, a distinction which few American novels have ever attained.

Soon after "The Virginian" was with Dustin Farnum playing the role of the hero, Frank Campeau as Trampas and Guy Bates Post as Steve, it was a "best seller" for six months. Afterwards it ran "on the road" for 10 years, is still played by stock companies. has been made into a movie no less than three times and has been translated into foreign languages.

Since Wyoming was the scene of the story of "The Virginian" and its cowpuncher-hero was a glamorous, romantic figure, it is easy to understand why America thinks of that commonwealth which is celebrating its fiftieth vear as a state this year, in terms of the cowboy. Another reason is indicated in the preface to one of Wister's later books-'Members of the Family," published in 1911. In it he says:

lished in 1911. In it he says:

Wyoming burst upon the tenderfoot resplendent, like all the story-books, like Cooper and Irving and Parkman come true again; here, actually going on, was that something which the boy runs away from school to find, that land safe and far from Monday morning, nine o'clock, and the spelling-book; here was Saturday eternal, where you slept out-of-doors, hunted big animals, rode a horse, roped steers, and wore deadly weapons. Make no mistake: fire-arms were at times practical and imperative, but this was not the whole reason for sporting them on your hip; you had escaped from civilization's schoolroom, an air never breathed before filled your lungs, and you were become one large shout of joy. College-boy, farm-boy, street-boy, this West melted you all down to the same first principles. Were you seeking fortune. Perhaps, incidentally, but money was not the point; you had escaped from school. This holiday was leavened by hard bodily work, manly deeds and the bright brave ripple moved the ground-swell of tragedy. Something of a promise, also, was in the air, promise of a democracy which the East had missed.

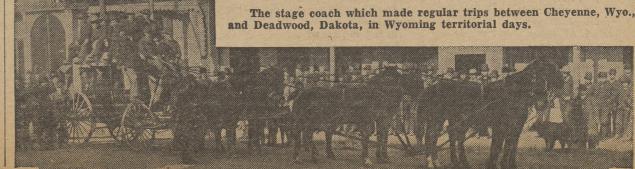

The truth of that quotation—

The truth of that quotationwith certain reservations as to "wearing deadly weapons," perhaps—is immediately apparent to anyone who has ever spent a vacation on a modern Wyoming dude ranch. And for the thousands of Americans who have driven across Wyoming the truth of this quotation from the preface of "The Virginian" is also apparent:

apparent:

The mountains are there, far and shining, and the sunlight, and the infinite earth, and the air that seems forever the true fountain of youth—but where is the buffalo, and the wild antelope, and where the horseman with his pasturing thousands? So like its old self does the sage-brush seem when revisited, that you wait for the horseman to appear.

But he will never come again. He rides in his historic yesterday. You will no more see him gallop out of the unchanging silence than you will see Columbus on the unchanging sea come sailing from Palos with his caravels. ing from Palos with his caravels.

THE STORY THUS FAR

Charming, wealthy Gabriella (Gay for short) Graham, engaged to Todd Janeway, returns to a cabin in the Maine woods accompanied by a friend, Kate Oliver. The idea of a stay in the cabin occurred to her when she received a key to it following the death of her godfather, Uncle John Lawrence. The two girls notice that someone is living in the cabin. Kate suspects that Gay knows the identity of the mysterious occupant. The mystery man returns. He is John Houghton, a young doctor whom Gay had known in previous years. Immediately aggressive, Gay asks him by what right he is in the cabin. His right, she finds, is greater than her own. He, too, possesses a key, but more than that, is helr to it from his Uncle John, Gay's godfather. Gay is high handed with him, and he states courteously that he will leave. Looking at him in the doorway, her old feelings return. She knows that he is more necessary to her than iz Todd Janeway, the man she is to marry. Gay asks John to reconsider his decision to leave. The next morning brings a different feeling, and John decides to remain for his vacation—one more week. The night before Gay and Kate are to return home to New York John gets an urgent request to call at a nearby farm. Gay accompanies him while he cares for the patient. Returning to the cabin at a late hour, John stops the car. He tells Gay that he loves her, and she admits that he is necessary to her happiness. Meanwhile, worried by their absence, Kate has called Todd Janeway in New York. She knows that Gay and John feel a strong attachment for each other, and wants Todd to come to Maine where he can talk to Gay. Todd arrives while Kate is alone. She breaks the news to him. Todd, warm hearted and generous, is heartsick but refuses to become melodramatic. Gay and John, who have been canoeing, return to the cabin, there to find Todd.

Gay roused at a touch on her shoulder. She opened her eyes and blinked up into the pleasant placid face of Mathilde, her mother's middle-aged maid. For an instant she lay drowsily smiling, not fully awake, then her eyes widened, she His smile wavered. "And it doesn't sat erect.

smiled at Gay's excitement. "Will you have a breakfast tray?"

"Orange juice and coffee." Gay disappeared into the bathroom. "I won't have time for anything else. On the walls of the bathroom wild orchids grew lush among tropical trees. The alcove in which the tub was set was paneled with mirrors. Gay, splashing vigorously, made none of her customary mental observations upon the results achieved by the young interior decorator who was her mother's latest protegee. All of her attention was centered upon the fact, incredible but excitingly true, that John was arriving in New York on this the morning of Christmas Eve, for a holiday visit.

"Noel, Noel," she sang, rubbing herself with a soft warmed towel. or an instant the song recalled the Christmas Eve she'd spent at school in Switzerland. She'd like to go into a Catholic church this evening, at twilight, a French Catholic church, where candle-light would shine on brightly painted figures in the manger scene and a choir-boy with the voice of an angel would sing the carol, running now, through her mind. That symbolized Christmas for her, had as far back as she could remember, before the school in Switzerland, since Mademoiselle Dupin, the governess of whom she'd been fondest, had taken her, as a child, to her church on

Be Spick-and-Span This Summer In Chic Wrinkle-Resist Linen

Ly CHERIE NICHOLAS

W ANT to keep cool and look fresher and crispier than ever during the hot summer days? Then put some linen costume on your wardrobe list and on yourself. For a fresh viewpoint on warm weather apparel and an immaculate appearance, pure Irish linen is undoubtedly the perfect answer to the annual summer problem.

That's what they do in the tropics, they wear linen because the construction of the flax fiber makes it naturally cool. And that's what smart women and girls are doing this summer, wearing linen during the warm months, because it is cool and imparts the well-groomed look.

There are a number of details that distinguish the better linens this year. There's embroidery, for instance, it takes the lead in the newer linen trends, especially outlining scalloped hems and along closings worked with contrasting threads. Linens with a scattered allover embroidered motif are also good looking. Sawtooth edgings make for is the costume centered in the piceffectiveness in styling the new linens, as well as scallops. Contrasting braided effects are also emular this season. ployed. Jacket dresses, princess frocks and shirtwaist types are all basic styles that are making linen a "must" in every summer ward-

The smartest selection you can make is a suit of black or navy front on linen scalloped dresses linen. Very chic is the new dark available in a long list of colors. linen that is enhanced with white | (Released by Western Newspaper Union.)

et. Navy jacketed in dusky pink is effective or dark green linen with a red jacket.

Going to town you will be ever so smartly costumed if you wear a peacock blue wrinkle-resistant linen suit such as the model to the right in the group selects. The white blouse is safely attached to the skirt so it can't ride up. Red stitching accents the blouse and the color is repeated in the buttons that trim the wide shoulders of the jaunty bolero jacket. Other colors available in this voguish model are pickle green, brown or all black or white.

A lettuce leaf couldn't look any crisper than the perky narrow waisted topper-and-skirt costume of pure Irish linen shown to the left in the picture. The points in the sawtooth trimming emphasize simple clean-cut lines. Like the other linen costumes here illustrated this is one of those grand wrinkle-resistant linens that does not have to be pressed every day. What a dashing little streamliner which is so popular this season. The inspiring thing about this line is, it is as becoming to the not-soslender as it is to the sylphlike figure. The designer interprets the scallop theme with decided artistry. Thirty-two buttons march down the

Lace Redingote

To say "lace redingote" does not really let you into the real secret of this handsome costume. The big news is that this elegant appearing redingote, suitable to wear to any pretentious daytime affair and just as timely for practical town wear, is actually made of a cotton washable lace. Matching crepe outlines the front opening all the way down Modish is this dress of "medici" cotton lace for travel, sightseeing and about-town wear and it's de-lightfully cool because of the open mesh flower patterning. Add to this the great advantage that lace does not wrinkle, consequently it will look fresh and well-groomed all the day | the cotton mesh fabrics cut in shirt-

Sheer Black for Both Hat and Gown

Black magic still holds sway in fashion's realm. It is not only that a big play is being made on black sheers for afternoon gowns, but the latest news is that with the stunning suits of black rayon mesh and the dresses of coal-black chiffon, marquisette and so on, milliners are turning out stunning hats made of all-over shirred or finely pleated black tulle, lace or chiffon. These black transparencies frame the face most flatteringly and they are of both off-face and sunshade brim type.

You can get these ensembles up as elegantly as you please with intriguing touches of sheer black chantilly lace and cunning color accents of pink or blue or bright red or you can hold to the all-black idea, for filmy black can be made to look very young in the hands of an artist designer.

Dresses That Tub Is Style Message

No matter how formal or highbrow the occasion the new cottons and other washables are living up to the event in high style this season. The smart thing to do whether you dine, dance, go to garden parties is to wear a frock that tubs. You will find that the designers are making up cottons and linens, seersuckers, piques, organdies, handkerchief linens, fine batistes sharkskin weaves and on through the vast list, with as much finesse and swank as one usually associates with rich silks and satins and such.

STAGE SCREEN RADIO By VIRGINIA VALE (Released by Western Newspaper Union.)

HE first actor in Hollywood I history ever to be elected a delegate to a national political convention, Melvyn Douglas wonders if he will be able to enjoy the honor. "Of course I can always be represented by proxy," he said the other day. "But a chance like this comes only every four years, and I'd hate to miss it." Douglas made preparations to be in Chicago July 15 for the big conclave. But he temporarily forgot that he is also an actor, involved in the new Columbia comedy, "He Stayed for Breakfast," along with Loretta Young, Eugene Pallette, Una O'Connor and Alan Marshall. Alexander Hall, the director, is making every effort to hurry things along, and is making all the scenes with Douglas first.

If you think you'd like to be a motion picture producer, pause and consider what happened at the Para-mount studio recently when Joel Mc-Crea withdrew from the cast of "Arise My Love" because of ill health. (1) Because of McCrea's withdrawal, Ray Milland was plucked from the cast of "Virginia" to take the McCrea assignment, opposite Claudette Colbert. (2) That meant that "Virginia" wouldn't start on time. (3) That meant that Franchot Tone, who was to have costarred in "Virginia," had to withdraw from the cast, because he had another commitment, and could appear in "Virginia" only if it started on schedule. (4) That meant that Fred McMurray stepped into the role for which Milland had been scheduled, playing opposite Made-leine Carroll, but (5) She flew to England recently; at the moment of writing there's no telling when she'll be back.

Dorothy Lamour traded a $10,000,-000 (according to her studio) head of hair for 30 cents' worth of calico and it wasn't just a stunt in a movie scenario either. Seems she's been wanting to bob those 40-inch tresses, which played quite a part in establishing her as a draw at the boxoffice. The studio wanted her to make some more pictures in which she wore a sarong, and she was determined not to. So both sides gave in; she had her hair bobbed by Wally Westmore, head of the makeup department (and cried a little, as most girls do when they hear that first snip of the shears) and consented to do three South Seas pictures - "Moon Over Burma," "Aloma of the South Seas," with Jon Hall, and "South of Samoa," with Bing Crosby.

A custom has been initiated during the rehearsals of the Rudy Vallee show to mark the scripts with asterisks to denote the laugh allowed. The reason for this is to clock for timing when the show is actually broadcast. Four asterisks are tops in laugh pauses. The other night someone in the cast asked scriptwriter Sid Fields what it meant to see five asterisks instead of the customary four. Replied Fields, "Then you know that you have the Fred Allen script by mistake."

When you see the Bing Crosby picture, "Rhythm on the River," you may be surprised to find that Ken Carpenter. Bing's announcer and chime ringer on the air, plays a radio announcer named "Ken Carpenter." It's the result of an accident. Scenarists had given Carpenter another name in the picture, but John Scott Trotter, who's Bing's broadcast band leader and plays a band leader in the picture, made a long film take in which he called Carpenter by his real name. It was simpler to change the name than to do the scene over again.

Arthur Lake's desire for realism on the "Blondie" radio show nearly disrupted the program recently. In one scene he had to fall down, with the proper accompanying sound effects; usually that just means that the sound man makes the noises. But Arthur insisted on doing his own fall. The show was on for the eastern broadcast. Arthur fell wrong, the script flew in all directions, and Penny Singleton had to rush over with her script and let Arthur read his part from it until his script had been reassembled.

Cool, Airy Outfit For Outdoor Play

ET'S play out in the summer sunshine, in an air-conditioned pinafore, with panties for propriety and a bonnet to keep the sun out of our eyes! All three, in 8721, have frills in just the right places. All three are completely comfortable, and cute as dimpled elbow The pinafore has pockets for trimming and for trophies.

Take a look, mothers, at the pinafore spread out in the little sketch, and you'll see how absurd-ly easy it is to make, and that's a good thing because this play trio is so attractive and practical that you'll want your little girl to have three or four made just like this. Gingham, percale, gabardine and chambray are sturdy, sunfast cottons for this. Step-by-step sew chart included in pattern.

Pattern No. 8721 is designed for sizes 2, 3, 4, 5 and 6 years. Size 3 requires 31/8 yards of 35-inch material for the ensemble; 41/2 yards ruffling. Send order to:

Henry-But it won't be easy sailing. We have to be careful turning out planes for war. We can't make any little mistakes. A loose nut may be okay in a flivver but it's bad stuff in an airplane. A driver who gets up a mile in the air and discovers something was left off his plane is in a tough spot.

Edsel-What colors are we going to make these war planes? Henry-Now don't bring up that matter. One color is all I'll stand for. It's going to be hard enough satisfying everybody on this job without getting into any arguments over colors.

Edsel-Are you sure Washington won't insist on reds, pinks and greens?

Henry-Nobody can be sure of Washington on anything, but I've got a promise, and if some bureaucrat comes rushing in and demands that the air force works better in a light blue plane than a gray one I'm going to raise the devil.

Edsel—Have you ever thought what may be the outcome of this job, Dad? Maybe after we get into production the public will want planes instead of autos. Henry-I'm afraid of that.

Edsel-Maybe the general public will always prefer to stay on the ground Henry-If you watched the aver-

'MOTHER'S DAY OUT (See Recipes Below)

Was there ever a homemaker who didn't wish now and then that she could "play hookey" for one afternoon without the dire consequences of leaving her family to shift for it-self at meal time? It can be done and it's a wise homemaker who arranges her schedule during the pleasant summer weather, to allow for a few hours of leisure, here and

Plan a meal, for "Mother's Day Out," that will cook without watch-

Or perhaps a menu that permits beforehand preparations will suit you better. Select, for it, foods that can be made ready (except for a few last-minute touches), hours ahead of time. Make use of canned and packaged foods, too, that will permit you to serve a tempting evening meal with a minimum amount of time and effort. Here's a menu that's quickly and easily prepared, yet so delicious that it's bound to please even a critical family.

Menu for a Quick Meal. Scrambled Eggs With Creole Sauce Mixed Green Salad Hot Rolls Strawberry Jam

Fresh Fruit Cookies Beverage The scrambled eggs with creole sauce are easily prepared and they're a delicious basis for a very quick meal. To save precious time at the very last moment, collect and measure ingredients beforehand, and, if you like, prepare the sauce ahead of time, to be kept in the reserving. Salad greens can be washed, picked over and carefully dried, hours ahead of time, then stored in the vegetable crisper in the refrigerator until you are ready to use frigerator and reheated just before

Rolls, from yesterday's baking, or fresh from the bakery, can be buttered, and placed in a shallow pan ready to be popped into the oven for quick heating. (Be sure they're kept covered during the afternoon, to prevent drying out).

For dessert why not serve fresh pineapple, which is better by far when it's peeled and cut early, generously sprinkled with confectioners' sugar, and allowed to mellow and chill before serving.

Creole Sauce. 1 No. 2 can tomatoes ½ cup celery (diced) 2 tablespoons green pepper

(minced) 1 tablespoon onion (minced) 1 teaspoon salt

Few grains cayenne pepper 2 tablespoons cornstarch 4 tablespoons water

Combine vegetables and seasoning and cook for about 15 minutes, or until the vegetables are done. Mix cornstarch with water, and add to the sauce. Cook for about 10 minutes, or until sauce has thickened. Graham Refrigerator Rolls. (Makes about 4 dozen) 2 cups milk (scalded) 1/4 cup strained honey 1/4 cup shortening

While all the luscious, tempting berries and fruits are available, make use of them in as many ways as you can. In this column next week Eleanor Howe will give you some of her own practical, tested recipes for using summer fruits and berries. Be sure to read this column next week.

2 teaspoons salt 2 cakes yeast softened in ¼ cup lukewarm water

2 eggs (well beaten) 5 cups flour 2 cups whole wheat or graham flour

Pour scalded milk over honey, shortening and salt, in large mixing bowl. Cool to lukewarm. Then add softened yeast and wellbeaten eggs. Add about half the flour, beat well. Add remaining flour and mix until the dough is smooth. Place batter in greased bowl, grease dough generously and cover. Store in refrigerator until needed, then let dough warm to room temperature, shape into rolls, and let rise until light. Bake in a moderately hot oven (400 degrees) for about 20 minutes. Six Layer Dinner That Cooks While You're Away.

(Serves 6) 1 cup potatoes (sliced raw)

1 cup uncooked rice 1 cup onion (raw and chopped) 2 cups round steak (ground)

2½ cups tomatoes (cooked) pepper (chopped)

3 strips bacon Butter a baking casserole and place all above ingredients in order given, in layers, in the casserole. Season layers with salt and pepper while putting together. Cover casserole and bake in a slow oven (300 degrees) for about 2 hours. Remove cover during last 20 minutes of baking time, cover with bacon strips, and complete baking. Old Fashioned Ginger Creams.

(Makes 5 dozen) 34 cup shortening 1 cup sugar

1 egg 1/4 cup molasses 21/4 cups all purpose flour 1 teaspoon soda

1/2 teaspoon salt 1 tablespoon ginger 1 teaspoon cinnamon

Granulated sugar Cream the shortening thoroughly, add the sugar gradually and blend well. Beat in the egg and molasses. Sift the ingredients together and add to the creamed mixture. Chill the dough over night in your refrigerator. Shape it into small balls and roll each ball in granulated sugar. Place 21/2 inches apart on a greased erately hot oven (375 degrees) for approximately 12 minutes. Let This Booklet Help You. Eleanor Howe's booklet, "House-hold Hints," is a handy practical guide to easier homemaking. Real System—One woman has a cheap towel rack screwed to the right-hand end of her sewing machine, on which she hangs the different parts of her stitching as she finishes them. Nothing is ever mislaid or mussed during her sew-

Carving knives, when not in use, always should be protected either in a box or carefully wrapped so that the edge does not come in contact with other cutlery. Never put woodenware directly over the heat to dry. That causes the wood to warp, and perhaps to crack. Thoroughly dry it, however, before putting it in a cupboard, since it may mildew if you store it too soon. Let it stand in a room of moderate temperature, or near the stove.

Indeed, the reaction thus far to his proposals for universal military training for all youths in the United States and his plan to create a gigantic government owned monopoly to buy all surplus products in North and South America bid fair to develop as much, or more, heat than did Mr. Roosevelt's program for packing the Supreme court of the United States two years ago. Tremendous opposition has sprung up to each of these plans, but the opposition comes from different quarters and for different reasons. As far as my survey has gone, of course, there are many duplications among opponents, but it must be to each comes from a different base. Reasons for the two proposals, as stated by those who are working with Mr. Roosevelt on the plans, are to be found wholly in the fear that Hitler's legions—armies and "fifth column" workers—will invade the Western hemisphere, sooner or later. Whether this fear is wholly genuine or partly political, I cannot say; yet that fear is being used to the utmost to force acceptance by congress and the general public of a two-part program to meet the expected invasion that is thus far just a mirage. The program, of course, comes from the wave of hysteria which has been allowed to develop, or has been openly promoted for political purposes.

There is thus far no clear cut program on universal service. Generally speaking, it provides for the training of youth of 18 for one year. It is not entirely a training on the drill field or in camp. It includes training in work "behind the front." That is to say, men must be trained in airplane factories, in handling planes on the air fields, in gun factories, powder factories, bridge building, transportation and general automotive work and a thousand other lines of service, each of which must contribute active and complete collaboration when the boys with the guns and bombs are out in front of the enemy.

Both Girls and Boys Might Be Included

That is the general thought. There are those in the administration, however, who would go much further. They would make universal military training embrace both boys and girls. They would train the girls of 18 or 19 years to fit into a great war auxiliary—equipped to make uniforms and medical supplies and produce and pack the proper foods and that sort of thing. And this group within the President's official family would have all of those boys and girls do this work and do it almost no compensation, except their own food and clothes. In other words, if the extremes are attained in this direction, it would mean adoption practically of the methods employed by Hitler, Mussolini and Stalin in the training for military service.

Of course, the congress will never agree to such a thing as that.

There would be a public revolt against any such program, but I relate these details because they actually are being discussed by men in key positions in the President's

POT SHOTS

President Roosevelt's proposals for universal military training for all U.S. youths and the administration's plan to create a government-owned monopoly to buy all surplus products in the Western hemisphere, are due for a real political storm, in the opinion of William Bruckart, Washington correspondent. He thinks they will develop as much "heat" as the Supreme court "packing" issue.

From a political standpoint, the President has taken a long chance. That is more apparent as each day

United States Is Not Looking For Any 'Military' Trouble

It is to be remembered, first, that the United States and its peoples are not a military nation, not a nation looking for trouble. In another phase, it is to be remembered that there are some 2,000,000 fellows who got their feet stuck in French mud and who fought off French cooties as well as German attacks. They are scattered throughout the United States. I know of few of those fellows who ever want to see any more of war. They are saying so with great freedom. They have convinced their friends and neighbors and the families. So, from a general philosophy of peace and the word-of-mouth expressions of experience, it strikes me that universal military service will not get very far now-unless the entire New Deal political machine can be used to run over the opposition as Hitler's armies overran France said that the fundamental objection

In another way, I think Mr. Roosevelt made a big political mistake by sponsoring universal military service for use when the nation is not at war. It builds up a Republican opposition and supplies that opposition with an added type of criticism to be used in the forthcoming presidential campaign. And from what I hear, the Republicans are going to use it!

Now, concerning the great monopoly for handling all surplus products of the Western hemisphere:

The idea behind this gigantic cartel-government-owned and directed -the dream that is proposed to be made into a reality—is that there is as much danger of German infiltration through business as through armed forces. Moreover, it is held that with Hitler and his gang dominating Europe, they will dictate trade. That is to say, Hitler's Nazis not only will determine who will sell to those peoples under his steel boot, but they will decide the terms at which the products will be sold. The school of thought behind the monopoly plan contends that such a control of international markets will mean wrecking North and South American trade

Contention Holds That Hitler Will Influence All Trade

Further, it is contended that small, or even great, corporations in North and South America will beaten by the Hitler tactics that they will yield to whatever methods the Nazis desire to employ. All of which, they say, will mean that Nazi agents will be all over the place, speaking their pieces and promoting their propaganda.

So, comes then the plan for a giant corporation that would absorb all of the products of the Western world. This corporation, in the minds of the dreamers, would be so powerful that it could tell Hitler and his gang where to get off. The company on this side of the Atlantic could say to Hitler's representatives, in effect, we will trade with you, but you will not take advantage of us; we are too big. If you don't trade with us, you get nothing over

All of which sounds swell. It sounds like hard boiled stuff. But it will not work, and no really sane person believes it will work. In addition, it has all of the elements of danger that can be crowded into the meaning of the word "regimentation.

The first reason it will not work is because there is not the chance of a I doubt also that congress can be snowball in the nether regions that have jumped the traces so many times that there is little faith to be placed in their agreements.

Another reason is that if such a corporation attempts to take all of production, complete and final conporation will find itself shortly ownyears' output, and more coming in many years.

I might ask also for all persons to stand who think that production control could be enforced in Mexico or Brazil or the Argentine or most any other nation in the vast reaches of South or Central America. I might suggest further that if the Hitler market, as envisioned by the dream boys, is going to be the only market, he might be just smart enough to say: "Okey, boys, hold your stuff. I will get along without it!" And what a lovely situation that would

These two items will furnish much lively congressional debate.

Role of Women and Children Behind the Lines of Battle

Women all over the world step out of character to meet the demands of war. For not all phases of the Great War are fought in the front battle lines. The vast organization that feeds, clothes and supplies the fighting armies with the sinews of war plays a vital part in the general scheme of things. To meet this need the nations involved in the great struggle overseas have mobilized the women and boys to do their bit behind the lines, as well as the men who are unable to serve at the front.

Germany's women are now mobilized to work in the factories and fields while the fighting is going on far from home. After work the girls form in classes and study German history, all of which is tempered by the Nazi conception and interpretation of these subjects. German women are also playing an important part in keeping Germany ahead in the vital race for air supremacy.

The okapi's coloration is truly remarkable. The forehead is red, the cheeks are yellowish white, while the neck, shoulders and body range from jet-black to purplish and wine red. The hind quarters and the hind and fore legs are either snowy white or light cream color, touched with orange and transversely barred with purplish black stripes and blotches. These colors serve as an effective unknown to the scientific world.

The bugle calls used today are from many foreign armies. France gave us "Reveille"; Germany, the 'First Sergeant's Call''; Tattoo, or Taps-to," to notify the camp that it was time to turn the tap "to" and cease the night's beer-drinking, dates from the Thirty Years war; "Retreat," many authorities believe, can be traced back to the Crusades. The words to "Taps," camouflage and partly explain why written during the Civil war, seem so large an animal remained so long to spring from a sentimental need within the soldier.

FIRST-AID to the AILING HOUSE

Summer House.

OUESTION: We recently looked at a two-story summer house, 23 years old. I would say the walls are plasterboard. Upstairs bedrooms have very narrow boards for a ceiling. Personally, I don't think the house, although small, can be heated in its present condition. Do you think the house could be insulated, and would a pipeless furnace be Answer: Make certain there is a wood sheathing and sheathing paper underneath the outside wall covering. Many summer houses have been built without it. Sheathing helps keep the weather out. Insulation will help make any type house more comfortable. At a slightly higher cost, a hot air furnace with ducts connected to each room would be preferable to the pipeless type.

Creaking Floor Boards. Question: Occasionally at regular ntervals there is a tapping noise, which we discovered is a creaking of the floor boards. The same thing has happened in another room. How can this noise be stopped?

Answer: The tapping noise may be caused by the expansion and contraction of floor boards due to the absorption of moisture and to drying out. Nothing much can be done to stop this, except to maintain a uniform amount of humidity in the air. Creaking of floor boards caused by loosening from the beams may be stopped by driving finishing nails through both thicknesses of the flooring into the beam. Nails should be driven in pairs at opposite angles. The heads of nails are driven below the surface of the floor boards with a nailset. Plug the nail holes with plastic wood. Talcum powder worked in between the floor boards may also correct this condition.

Inherited House. Question: The house, which we re-cently inherited, has five rooms upstairs and four rooms downstairs. We plan to alter it. Can the roof be taken off and a bungalow type made of the building, with all rooms on one floor? We haven't much money, and wonder if the FHA would give us a loan for remodeling. Can plans be had on modernizing a

Answer: The roof can be taken off and the upper story removed. I strongly recommend that you employ the services of an architect. He will be able to plan all of the necessary structural changes to be made, as well as rearranging the rooms, and specifying the proper materials to be used in making these alterations. Loans on this type of work are made through local banks, after the local FHA office has approved the arrangements.

Tourist Cabins. Question: Where can I secure plans for tourist cabins? Answer: All of the larger manufacturers of insulating boards issue pamphlets on this subject; so do several of the lumber associations.

Ping-Pong Table. A correspondent has sent in the following suggestion for finishing a pin-pong table: "Apply two coats of linseed oil, allowing ample time for the first coat to dry thoroughly, and coating both surfaces and the edges. Finish with two coats of heavy dark green house paint, which should last for several years."

Wall Coverings. Question: Is it advisable to use oilcloth on the ceilings and wall-paper on the side walls?

Answer: You may find it more practical to use wall-cloth or washable wall-paper for the walls and ordinary wallpaper on the ceilings. Soiling is more apt to occur on the walls than the ceilings.

Stuck Doors. Question: In two garages that I know the hinge-type doors have stuck at the bottom on the concrete drive in cold weather, although entirely free in warm weather. Can you explain? Answer: That is not due to expansion, as you suggest, but to the heaving of the concrete apron by the freezing of water underneath. The condition is quite common. To get away from it, drainage should be provided under the apron. In many cases a deep bed of cinders is suf-

Fumigation. Question: Please advise me on the fumigation of a house that we have just bought.

Answer: Within city limits fumigation is generally only done by a concern licensed to do such a job. Even where there are no regulations, it is most advisable to have the job done by an expert, both for sureness of results and for safety. Wooden Steps.

Question: The wooden steps of my old house are in need of rebuilding. The side boards are buried in earth, the dampness rots the boards very quickly. My carpenter claims the quality of the wood is poor, nowadays, and advises brick. Brick or stone would not look well with the house. Could you suggest something? Answer: Lumber nowadays, if it is of good quality, is just as good as it ever was. You can now get treated lumber which will retard the rotting. One of the woods suitable for your purpose is a good grade of cy-

Here is the answer and it cost exactly six dollars. An inexpensive green and yellow flowered chintz was used for draperies from ceiling to floor. The trick of making the windows higher is explained in the diagram. The old window shades were painted a soft, clear green. The backs and seats of the chairs were slip-cov-
