KENT AND SUSSEX FAIR HAMPERED BY EXTREME HEAT

Audiences Large Despite Temperatures in The Nineties Each Day

AUTOMOBILE RACES TOMORROW

The Kent & Sussex Fair opened Tuesday in a blaze of glory, and has continued to blaze ever since, with the thermometer registering from 90 to 96 daily. This is the most torrid spell of weather the fair has known since it was organized 21 years ago.

Lucky Teter and his Hell Drivers drew an enormous crowd to the lot in a pre-fair exhibition Monday night, but the next morning the sun started to get in his work, and although the crowds have been large, there is no doubt that the heat has cut down the attendance.

The high light of the week, of course, was Governor's Day, Thursday, when Governor McMullen and other state officials were guests of the fair. Some 25,000 souls—and quite a sprinkling of politicians gathered in the grounds on that occasion.

The spice for this event was supplied by U. S. Senator John Townsend—and who would have suspected that the jovial Townsend was so quick at repartee? U. S. Senator James Hughes was addressing the audience at the time: "I like the harness races best of all; I care but very little for the running races"—and Senator Townsend cut in: "That's because you're not running this year—if you were, you'd like the runners best."

Fine tributes were paid to Charles Murphy, the founder of the Kent & Sussex Fair, and other directors, all now deceased.

The fair ends tomorrow, with automobile races as the feature.

FREDERICA

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Harrington and daughter, Betty Ann, and Mr. and Mrs. George E. Bowen spent Sunday in Philadelphia, as guests of Mr. and Mrs. George Fowler.

Mrs. Edgar Holger has returned home after spending two weeks with her mother, Mrs. Minnie Camper, at her summer cottage at Beach Arlington.

Mrs. Sarah Spencer had as her guests this week Mr. and Mrs. Norbert Dietsch of Philadelphia.

Mrs. Ira Garbutt is spending several weeks at Dewey Beach with her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. James Humes, of Milford.

Mrs. Annie B. Harrington is visiting her son, Harry Harrington, in New York City.

Miss Betty Jane Moore of Newark, is visiting her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Betts.

Mrs. Emma K. Slaughter spent last Tuesday in Philadelphia.

Mrs. Abbie ouselman spent part of last week with her mother, Mrs. Buckaloo, of Lewes.

Mrs. John McBride, Mrs. Sarah Gordon and son, Richard; Mrs. E. F. Burton, Mr. and Mrs. Herman Vinyard spent Friday in the Leach cottage at Rehoboth.

Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Wilson of Frederica entertained Mr. and Mrs. S. H. Stayton, Mrs. Elizabeth Walker and Allen Hodgson of Brookline, Pa., at their cottage at Rehoboth Beach for several days last week.

Miss Margaret Hart is spending two weeks in Philadelphia and Crum Lynne, Pa.

Master Robert John Jensen of Kenton spent the week-end with his brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin VanSant.

Mr. and Mrs. David Clough have as guest Mrs. Clough's sister, Miss Catherine Kirby Smith, of Sewanee, Tenn.

Mrs. Leslie Rentz has returned home from a visit of several weeks with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Coverdale, of Middletown.

Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Wilson and granddaughter, Carolyn Butler, spent Sunday with Miss Lena Carey and Miss Mary Durkin of Marcus Hook, Pa.

Miss Ruth Kelling, daughter of Mrs. Maude Kelling, who recently moved from town to Willow Grove, and Benjamin Betts, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lower Betts, of Frederica, were married Saturday, July 20, at Rehoboth. They will reside in Frederica.

Miss Mildred Kent of Canterbury was Sunday guest of Miss Elva Dill.

FIELD SUPERVISORS TO MEET

Kent county field supervision in the Agricultural Conservation program will meet in the basement of the post-office building in Dover on Monday, July 29, for the purpose of receiving instructions preparatory to checking the acreage and crop compliance this summer, according to an announcement issued recently by County Agent Russell E. Wilson, secretary of the Kent County Agricultural Conservation Association.

This meeting will be attended also by R. Harry Wilson, H. Clifford Clark and Laurence E. Cain, members of the county committee, who have jurisdiction over this farm program within the county with the assistance of the state Agricultural Conservation Committee of which C. Arthur Taylor is chairman. Assisted by R. O. Stelzer, state executive officer for Delaware and Maryland, for the Agricultural Administration, instruction at this field supervision training school will be given by Kenneth T. Meredith, state field supervisor.

Following this training school, these field supervisors will be given an examination which they must successfully pass before they can be approved for this acreage compliance work. As the 1940 Conservation program closes on August 31, it will be necessary that all farms which are in this program be inspected before that date. The acreage of wheat which was seeded last fall for harvest this year was checked several months ago, and wheat parity payments are now being made to those farmers who complied with this phase of the program.

Members of the Kent county Agricultural Conservation committee are now preparing the 1941 wheat acreage allotments for mailing to the wheat growers indicating the acreage of this crop that may be planted this fall in accordance with the allotted wheat acreage for this county. The allotment for each wheat farm is being based on the average acreage over a period of years, and any farmer who desires to make an appeal for an increased acreage must do so within fifteen days for the date of mailing the notices. These requests will be given due consideration by the county committee whose final decision will be determined by the total wheat acreage allotment designated by the federal government.

Benefit payments in connection with the 1940 Agricultural Conservation Program will be made sometime this fall or early winter to those farmers who have complied either in full or in part with this program, at which time the balance of the wheat parity payments will be approved.

Mr. and Mrs. William Hermann are visiting relatives in Philadelphia.

4 SERIOUSLY HURT IN AUTO ACCIDENT EAST OF TOWN

Milford People in Hospital as Result of Three-Car Mix-up on State Highway

TWO HELD FOR TRIAL AUGUST 8

Four people, all from Milford, are in the Milford Memorial Hospital as the result of an automobile accident just east of Harrington last night.

The injured are: Mrs. Vaulles Grier, aged about 40, head injuries, fractured jaw and lacerations of the throat; her 65-year-old aunt, who suffered possible internal injuries; Don Holzmueller, insurance agent, lacerations of face and head, and his wife, Mrs. Ruth Holzmueller, lacerations of head.

According to testimony before Magistrate Joshua Smith, Holzmueller was driving the three ladies to the Kent and Sussex Fair when William T. Lindale, also of Milford, attempted to pass him, near the Carl Goslin farm. Just as Lindale was passing the Holzmueller car, another car, driven by Albert W. Donovan, of Lincoln City, attempted to pass the other two cars. The Donovan car forced the Lindale car against the one driven by Holzmueller, and the latter car crashed into an abutment.

Lindale stopped his car, hailed a Pennsylvania car and asked its occupants to overtake the Donovan car, which had left the scene. The car was overtaken near the intersection of the Milford-Harrington Highway and Route 13. Both Lindale and Donovan were held under $500 bond for hearing on August 8th.

STATE OF DELAWARE OFFICE OF SECRETARY OF STATE CERTIFICATE OF DISSOLUTION

To All Whom These Presents May Come, Greeting:

WHEREAS, It appears to my satisfaction by duly authenticated record of the proceedings of the voluntary dissolution thereof, by the consent of all the stockholders deposited in my office, the

KING HERON CORPORATION a corporation of this State whose principal office is situated at No. 19-21 Dover Green, in the city of Dover, County of Kent, State of Delaware, United States Corporation Company being agent therein, and in charge thereof, upon whom process may be served, has complied with the requirements of the Corporation Laws of the State of Delaware, as contained in 2033: Section 1, to 2246. Section 214, Chapter 65, of the Revised Code of 1935, as amended, preliminary to the issuing of this

CERTIFICATE OF DISSOLUTION

Now, therefore, I, Josiah Marvel, Jr., Secretary of State of the State of Delaware, do hereby certify that the said corporation did on the twenty-third day of July A. D. 1940, file in the office a duly executed and attested consent, in writing, to the dissolution of said Corporation executed by all the stockholders thereof, which said consent and the records of the proceedings aforesaid, are now on file in my office as provided by law.

In Testimony Whereof, I have hereunto set my (OFFICIAL) hand and official seal, at Dover this twenty-third day of July in the thousand nine hundred and forty.

JOSIAH MARVEL, JR., Secretary of State.

SERVE A SUCCULENT STEW (Recipes Below)

There's something so homey and tasty about a good stew, that most folks feel cheated unless a stew of one sort or another appears on the family table fairly regularly.

There are stews and stews, of course—lamb stews with feathery light dumplings and an assortment of vegetables to add flavor (and vitamins!); hearty Mulligan stews; and stews of chicken that masquerade under all sorts of fancy names.

There are even "Cinderella Stews," which start out as leftovers and end up as a well-seasoned one-dish meal. Remember that "serving a stew" is an economical measure, and a time-saving one, as well. Stews and meat pies usually make use of the less expensive cuts of meat. Their preparation is simple, and they make a satisfying "One-dish meal," indeed.

Lamb Stew with Mint Dumplings.
1/4 cup butter
2 1/2 pounds lamb (cut in pieces)
4 cups boiling water
1 tablespoon salt
1/4 teaspoon pepper
3/4 cup carrots (sliced)
3 cups potatoes (cut in cubes)
3 onions (sliced)
1 1/2 cups tomatoes (canned)
1/4 cup flour
1/4 cup cold water

Heat butter in large saucepan. Add meat and brown. Add boiling water, and seasonings; cover. When boiling, reduce heat and simmer 1 1/2 hours. Add vegetables and continue cooking slowly for 1 hour. Mix flour and water to a paste and add slowly. Cook, stirring constantly until thickened. Increase heat and when boiling vigorously add dumplings. Mint dumplings:

2 cups bread flour
2 teaspoons baking powder
1 teaspoon salt
1/4 cup lard
2 tablespoons fresh mint or parsley (chopped)
3/4 cup milk (approximately)

Sift together dry ingredients, cut in fat and add chopped mint. Add milk and mix gently with a fork. Drop by spoonfuls into boiling stew. Cover and continue to steam for 15 minutes without lifting the cover.

Mulligan Stew. (Serves 6)
1 medium size corned beef—minced

1 onion—minced fine
1 No. 2 can peas with liquid
1 medium size bottle tomato catsup
1 cup water
Salt and pepper to taste

Put all ingredients in saucepan and simmer gently over low flame for about one hour. The flavor improves with the length of cooking time.

One-Dish Sunday Dinner.
For a practical, one-dish meal that can be left simmering while one is in church on Sunday, chicken rice pilaff is unsurpassed. Cut a 3-pound chicken in pieces and fry in butter to a golden brown. Add salt and pepper to taste. When nearly brown drain off all but 1/4 cup fat, add an onion, finely sliced, a little chopped parsley and 1/2 of a bay leaf and fry 10 minutes longer. Wash 2 cups rice and spread over the chicken; add 4 cups boiling water, one small sliced tomato (or 2 tablespoons canned tomatoes) and 1 teaspoon salt. Stir gently; cover, bring to a boil and then simmer for one hour. A small family might have the best parts of the chicken fried one day, and the rest cooked this way the next day, using only 1 cup of rice and 2 cups of water.

Brunswick Stew.
Put one gallon of water in a large iron pot, bring to a boil, and add one tablespoon of salt. Add one onion minced fine, one pint of shelled butter beans, six potatoes peeled and sliced, six ears of corn cut from the cob, one-half pound of fat salt pork or bacon cut into shreds, one-half teaspoon each of black and cayenne pepper. Two squirrels or one large fat hen, disjointed and soaked in cold water to draw the blood out, are next thrown into the pot. Cover closely and stew very slowly for two hours, stirring occasionally from the bottom. Stew one hour longer, add two teaspoons of white sugar and one quart of tomatoes peeled and sliced. Ten minutes before serving add one-fourth pound of butter cut into bits and rolled in flour. Bring to a boil again and serve on soup plates with dry rice. This is a dish men like and one they can excel in preparing.

Creole Chicken Gumbo File.
1 4-pound chicken
Flour, salt, pepper
1/2 pound lean ham
2 tablespoons lard or butter
1 onion (chopped)
1 sprig thyme
1 bay leaf
1 tablespoon parsley (minced)
Garlic, amount you like, rub bowl
1/4 red pepper pod, without seeds
Boiling water
1 dozen shrimp or more
Creole Gumbo File

Clean and cut up chicken as for fricassee. Dredge with flour, salt and pepper. Cut ham into small dices. Place lard or butter in soup kettle or deep stewing pot and when hot put in the chicken and ham. Cover closely and brown for 5 to 10 minutes. Then add onion, parsley, garlic and thyme, stirring occasionally to prevent burning. When nicely browned, add boiling water just to cover chicken. Add bay leaf broken very fine—and red pepper pod. Lower flame and allow Gumbo to simmer gently until chicken is tender—2 to 4 hours. Remove carcass and bones. Just before serving, add 2 dozen shrimp, diced. Heat through thoroughly. Remove from flame and add 1/2 tablespoon to 2 tablespoons of Gumbo File.

Day for Eliminating Non-Essentials

By ELIZABETH MACRAE BOYKIN
In times like these, a woman might well pause to wonder whether her little everyday work in the world is important. For it is a day of stock-taking, a day of eliminating the non-essentials. Where does interior decorating come in that picture?

Perhaps, we had better glance over the picture of our world before deciding that. Men today, in different parts of the world, are having to make the decision as to what is worth fighting to defend. And invariably it isn't power or a leader or a theory that men rise to defend but rather it is their way of life. What is their way of life? It is a philosophy, of course, that reflects itself in a form of government under which the design of individual lives can interpret itself into tangible things. Into houses and rugs and chairs, into lamps and curtains, into cars and gardens and vacations.

Interior decorating is no end in itself. It is but a means to the end. The end itself is a pleasant life, and interior decorating contributes to that, becomes a symbol of the things for which men fight. So in its proper place it becomes one of the necessary things to hold on to in a crisis, like courage and cleanliness and good cheer. For the men everywhere will be called upon to fight, on and off the battle field, for this way of life of which the women are custodians. The men must not turn from their struggles and triumphs to find that this way of life, in actuality, is but a sorry thing.

Women, even in this era of votes and jobs and so-called freedom, continue to have little directly to do with the creation of the system under which they live. But they have everything to do with the way it is translated into the reality of day-to-day life. There is then the rather terrifying responsibility of making this way of life, for which men will fight, and be worthy of the sacrifice.

Compulsory Military Training To Be Live Topic in Campaign

Nothing More Vital as a National Policy Has Come Over The Horizon in Long Time; Might Destroy Morale of Army.

By WILLIAM BRUCKART
WNU Service, National Press Bldg.,
Washington, D. C.

WASHINGTON.—Since it is apparent that the question of compulsory military training is certain to become a much discussed subject during the coming presidential campaigns, I think it may be well to delve into the subject again with the idea of reporting and analyzing recent developments. There was a first flush of heat churned up when President Roosevelt proposed the idea to congress, but that was small potatoes compared with what is coming. And I hope that the topic does become one of the really great issues of a political campaign because nothing more vital as a national policy has come over the horizon in a long, long time.

William Bruckart

I sat in the gallery of the senate the other day and listened to half a dozen speeches about the Burke bill which seems to carry out approximately what President Roosevelt has in mind about having all boys and girls trained for military service under government compulsion. Four of those speeches were favorable to the program, but I could not help noting how each one of the senators supporting the idea skated all around the vital points. There was an entire lack of foundation in their argument. They appeared to believe such a course as universal training was necessary only because the President had said so. In other words, two-thirds of the argument thus far advanced for universal training has been predicated upon the saying of somebody else, an argument that permitted the senator or the representative or the member of the President's official family to make a speech and use the words "for our national defense."

National Policy Requires Vast Amount of Thought

It strikes me as quite silly to speak and vote for a national policy as far-reaching, as vital, as revolutionary, as this one only because of a wave of hysterical emotion. That, however, is just my opinion. I shall continue to feel, nevertheless, that enactment of legislation that permits a government to take a year or two years out of the lives of any people in peace time requires a vast amount of thought—an amount of thought far greater than the current program has received. And to emphasize my conviction further, I have to urge that what is most needed of all is a clear cut statement from the head of the nation!

In an effort to find out what the army officers would do with the program I have talked with a great many of them, individually and unofficially. Since I am not trained in the field of military training or strategy, it was necessary that I have fundamentals explained to me.

Perhaps it is a slight exaggeration to say that enactment of a universal compulsory military training program would overwhelm the army. It is not an exaggeration to say, however, that wholesale induction of young men into the military service would present this country with its finest mess in governmental management yet to be observed. In short, the army is not prepared to handle those extra tens of thousands of recruits and, therefore, any move in that direction without preparation from the standpoint of officers and housing and guns for training is simply laying the groundwork for greater waste even than we witnessed in the ill fated PWA, the Passamaquoddy dam and the Florida ship canal rolled into one. It would be comparable to having 10 cowboys handling a 100,000 range cattle.

The army knows this fact. The army is trying to expand as rapidly as it can, but the army will be asked to do the impossible if it has thousands upon thousands of men tossed into its lap, with no arrangements for training them.

Would Destroy Morale of Our Fighting Force

This may be said to be an unimportant argument. I say that it is vital. The reason is that once the army is discredited, as it surely would be, by failure to do its assigned job—because the politicians

MILITARY TRAINING

Formation of a national policy requires a vast amount of thought. Compulsory training might affect the morale of the army. History shows that dictatorship usually follows forced training of civilians. Naming of Knox and Stimson might be a political trick. One must go back a few months to understand these appointments, when the war gave Roosevelt an excuse to get excited.

Two Mints Forced on 24-Hour Schedule by Coin Demand

WASHINGTON.—The United States mints at Philadelphia and Denver have gone on a 24-hour day operating schedule and the San Francisco mint will adopt a 16-hour day to meet an unprecedented boom in the coin market, Nellie Tayloe Ross, director of the mint, announced.

She said that mints had a record production of coins during the 1940 fiscal year because of soaring business would accept the responsibility—then the morale of your fighting force is gone. Any one knows that maintenance of high spirit among a fighting force is the first essential. Moreover, if the army was discredited, smeared, blackened by political attack, who among those willing to enlist will want to be associated with it thereafter. The number would be surprisingly few.

I have omitted reference thus far to the fact that I have concerning use of such a national policy upon the nation's general attitude. Once before, in these columns, I wrote that the fall of every nation, disintegration or its subservience to dictatorship, was preceded by forced training of all civilians. They became the tools of a few leaders and those few leaders eventually were knocked off, even as Hitler and Stalin and Mussolini have done. Yes, I am convinced that universal military training constitutes another and an important step towards dictatorship. It may be called un-American in principle.

Since the war in Europe gave Mr. Roosevelt an excuse to get excited and to spread hysteria throughout the nation, to seek and gain appropriations of $10,000,000,000 more from congress, this compulsory military training idea has been spawning. It was due to follow the proposals for the sensational expansion of the army and the navy. It was the next and the logical step. With plenty of money to spend and no plans for spending it, comes now the program for universal training. Things like that happen when the wedding takes place after a courtship of two days.

Naming Knox and Stimson Might Be Political Trick

Nor can I figure out why Mr. Roosevelt resorted to the appointment of two Republicans—Col. Frank Knox and Henry L. Stimson—to be heads of the navy and war departments, respectively, unless it was a political trick. While these two men may be, and probably are, good men, it strikes me that there surely were two good Democrats available somewhere among the 135,000,000 Americans.

One has to go back several months to understand these appointments. I have recorded in these columns before the hapless type of Harry Woodring, who was forced out of the job of secretary of war. I have told likewise how the late Claude Swanson was unable to do his job as secretary of the navy because of illness. I have told of the strife within the war department and it was common knowledge that Charles Edison was named secretary to succeed Mr. Swanson only to boost his political stock, now shaped up in a campaign for governor of New Jersey. All of these things obtained through months past, when—as we are told these days—the Chief Executive knew the war in Europe was coming headon. The fact also remained that there was no great movement on the part of Mr. Roosevelt or any of his advisors to place "big men" in the jobs which direct military preparedness.

I wonder, in view of all of these things, whether any one can be blamed for smelling politics? I wonder, also, whether any one can feel that the appointment of Colonel Knox and Mr. Stimson represented anything more than the cheapest type of politics, stirred into the bowl just a few days before the Republicans met in their national convention to nominate Mr. Willkie.

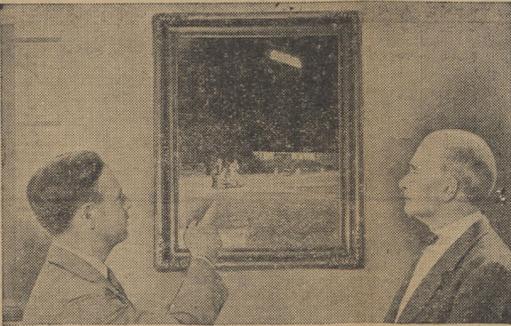

It is to be hoped that the two new secretaries will be able to do a good job. The secretary of war, of course, will be the man to have charge of the universal training, if congress ever enacts it into law. But Secretary Stimson, a Republican all of his life, becomes the mouthpiece of the President of the United States who appointed him. He cannot, he dare not, be anything else, and it is not a situation that convinces me of a real desire for national unity.

So, instead of all of this hulla-balloo, why not have some honesty and common sense? Why not let the army go ahead with its program of expanding slowly and as it is capable of taking care of the job? That would bring us nine great divisions, ready to move on 24 hours notice in case Mr. Hitler's airplanes started landing in Kansas City, as Mr. Roosevelt once said was possible.

Moreover, we might go ahead and build a real national defense that will stand the test, because there surely is money enough available under the recent appropriations. It can be done. All army officers say that, and every one else says it can be done. It will fail miserably, as it ought to, however, if the governmental plan is to build the house first and construct a foundation for it later. You may recall how one of the federal housing projects in West Virginia flopped because the houses were built of one dimension and the foundations of another.

Night Sports, in Tenth Year, Going Stronger Than Ever

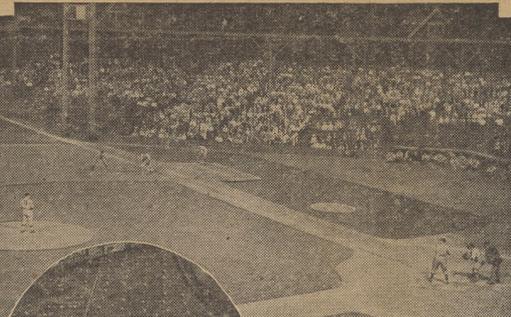

The national pastime is still baseball, due, say some sports authorities, to the success of NIGHT baseball. Ten years ago this summer the first night game in organized baseball was played at Des Moines, Iowa. Minor league ball, backbone of the whole baseball industry, flood-lighted its way through the depression. Fans like the nocturnal sport. It enables them to see games without neglecting their work, or without calling upon their grandmothers to be guests of honor at too many funerals.

Picture Parade

Ten manufacturers are now busy turning out the aluminum reflectors which, with the special "alzac" finish developed in Aluminum Research Laboratories at New Kensington, Pa., resist all weather conditions, it is claimed. They are now used in virtually all ball parks.

Night baseball has been instrumental in making Bob Feller, with his fast ball, a great pitcher.

Laundering Space
Space must be provided for laundering and household tasks in the new small home. If there is a basement, laundering and most of the chores can be done there. Wherever possible, it is better for laundering to be done on the first floor. Laundry work is difficult at best, but when carried on in unpleasant dark surroundings it becomes needlessly burdensome. Sometimes chores and laundering can be done in the kitchen, utility room, and to some extent in the garage.

Learns to Fly in Day
Twenty-six-year-old Saxon Cole of Ottawa learned to fly between dawn and dusk. After a trip with a friend he joined the Ottawa Flying club and reported to the instructor, William Nixon, at seven o'clock in the morning. In 15 minutes they were in the air in a dual-controlled monoplane and, after 5 1/2 hours' instruction, with time off for lunch and tea, Cole flew solo. It was then 9 p. m. He flew around for 15 minutes and made a creditable landing.

WHO'S NEWS THIS WEEK

By LEMUEL F. PARTON
(Consolidated Features—WNU Service.)

NEW YORK.—Future historians, dredging up the story of the wreck of European civilization, will find that some of these tragic events were precisely described before they happened. Some of these prophecies may be more illuminating than later "spot news" accounts.

There's Henri de Kerillis, French Nationalist deputy, recently arrived in Ottawa in behalf of General De Gaulle's die-hard committee. On December 22, 1939, M. De Kerillis published in his newspaper "Epoque" a minutely detailed account of a conspiracy to oust Premier Daladier and install Marshal Pétain in that office. He wrote:

"The object of this conspiracy is to convince the greatest and most famous of military chiefs—Marshal Pétain—that he must resign himself to accepting the premiership in a government of national union in which the most notorious defeatists are to be included. According to the conspirators, the old marshal unconsciously will have to play a role analogous to that of Hindenburg, opening the road to Hitler in a moment of discouragement. And by his presence alone, he will neutralize our military chiefs."

In Ottawa, M. De Kerillis says, "Marshal Pétain is not a traitor. He did not know when he capitulated that he would go to war with England, tomorrow with the United States, and the next day with Russia. He did not know that when one is in the hands of the Germans one cannot stop."

As a journalist and nationalist deputy, M. De Kerillis has been a spokesman for French Nationalist opinion for many years. He was a lone voice supporting General De Gaulle in 1934, when the latter was pleading for a mechanized army to meet the German onslaught. He has vehemently denounced both Communist and Nazi subversive influences. In a review of his activities, one utterance of Adolf Hitler, as reported by Dr. Raushching, has been pertinently quoted:

"Our strategy will destroy the enemy from within and oblige him to conquer himself. Everywhere in the country of the enemy we will have friends who will aid us."

MRS. CLARA ADAMS rides airplanes because she "loves to watch clouds." Her flight on the first stratosphere from New York to Los Angeles rounds out her first 25 years as a "first-fighter." She has flown in planes, gliders, Zeppelins and free balloons, on notable first flights whenever possible, but has never touched the control stick. She says she has no interest in mechanics or mechanical problems.

She is the widow of George L. Adams, a millionaire tanner of Pennsylvania who died in 1929, leaving her an ample fortune with which to indulge her favorite pastime. Mrs. Adams was born in Cincinnati, the daughter of Walter Grabau, a music teacher. In 1914, at the age of 15, she had her first plane ride at Lake Eustis, Fla., with Walter E. Johnson at the controls. Since then, her mother has complained that there's no keeping her down to earth. She was a passenger on the first transatlantic trip of the Graf Zeppelin in 1928, and in 1932 on the giant plane Dornier Do-X on its flight from Rio de Janeiro to New York.

In 1936 she crossed the Pacific on the first China Clipper; and, also in that year, she was on the ill-fated Zeppelin Hindenburg when it crossed this country. She saw it burn a year later. In 1937 she made a round-trip non-stop flight from New York to Bermuda, and July 15 of last year landed back in Newark after a flight around the world in 16 days, 19 hours and 4 minutes—a record for globe girdling.

She is 5 feet, 11 inches tall and has what she describes as a "string-bean figure suitable for flying." She has gray eyes and reddish-brown hair, dresses simply and attractively.

IT IS perhaps just as well that Carl Brisson, Danish film star, has landed safely in America. He once popped the Crown Prince Wilhelm on the nose, and there's no telling but that Herr Hitler has that somewhere in his bring-up file. Born Carl Pedersen, the big, handsome Carl Brisson was welterweight champion of Denmark at 15 and later middleweight champion of Europe. After fighting 72 professional ring battles, he became a star of vaudeville and musical comedy. He discovered Greta Garbo.

The kaiser hired him to teach Willy to box. The young Dane's arm slipped and the prince got a bump on the nose that jarred the whole Hohenzollern family. In England he was a stage favorite in "The Three Musketeers," "Katja" and "Cleopatra." His American film debut was in 1934 in "Murder at the Vanities." He shows much less wear and tear than American lads with a cauliflower past, and arrives with a grand baritone voice and an impressive continental reputation—even if his country was shot out from under him.

AROUND the HOUSE Items of Interest to the Housewife

A layer or two of blotting paper put over grease spots on the wall, and a warm iron laid on top of them, will often take away the marks.

It is poor economy to save ice by wrapping it in heavy paper or cloth. Such covering insulates the ice from the rest of the refrigerator.

Quick bread batters should not be beaten. The flour should be stirred with the liquid only enough to dampen the flour so no dry flour is visible around the edges of the bowl. It is not necessary to beat a batter until every lump disappears. Thicker batters require a little more stirring than thinner ones, but no beating.

A little milk added to the blue water used for lace curtains will launder them beautifully.

Shades of pink can be set by soaking in salt water.

When freshly washed windows are dry wipe them with tissue paper to make them sparkle.

To prevent cauliflower from turning dark while cooking, put a slice of lemon in the water in which it is cooked.

If you have over-salted the soup, peel a potato and put several slices into the soup. Boil it for a few minutes and the potato will absorb the salt.

Broiled tomato slices not only decorate but also improve the flavor of steak or chops.

THE DEADLY PARALLEL—VERY MUCH IN REVERSE

It may be the quality of the newspaper—but here's a deadly parallel in reverse.

Last Tuesday a citizen of Mauch Chunk, Pa., who had been touring Canada, had lost some of his papers and was held up at the border by Canadian officials. Despite his declarations that he was an American citizen, they refused to believe him, possibly because they didn't believe there could be a town with a name like Mauch Chunk. Finally, he exhibited a copy of the Mauch Chunk weekly newspaper—and they let him pass.

His paper must be a lot better than ours. Several years ago we had planned to tour Canada—but were stopped at the border. After failing to convince them of our identity, we had a happy thought—or was it a happy thought? We reached into the car and brought out a copy of the Harrington Journal, with this exultant explanation: "We publish this paper." They took the paper, read part of it—and then refused to let us enter Canada under any condition.

FARM SECURITY ADM.
ALLOTS $61,006 TO DELAWARE

The Farm Security Administration has allocated the sum of $61,006 to Delaware this year for the Tenant Purchase Program, according to Chester J. Tyson, Farm Security Administration Supervisor in Dover. This amount, which is expected to permit the making of loans to 14 families for the purchase of farms, is the state's share of the fourth annual Congressional appropriation to carry out the provisions of the Bankhead-Jones Farm Tenant Act.

During the first three years of the program, 18 farm families in the state have purchased their own farms with Tenant Purchase loans totalling $87,536, according to the FSA Supervisor. Bearing three percent interest, these loans run for a term of 40 years, but may be paid in full any time after the first five years. No down payment is required.

Tenant farmers and farm laborers who would like to acquire farms under this program should file their applications now with Mr. Tyson.

Millionth 1940 Chevrolet to be Contest Award

Some conception of the demand for the 1940 Chevrolet may be gained from the fact that the one-millionth model of this year's production left the assembly line at Flint, Mich., on July 12. In celebration of the public appreciation reflected by this tremendous production record, M. E. Coyle, general manager of Chevrolet, shown (left) above with W. E. Holler, general sales manager, announced that the one-millionth 1940 car, together with a trip to the New York World's Fair, would be awarded in a contest which is open now and will close Aug. 31. Details are obtainable at any of the company's dealers.

WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS BY ROGER SHAW

Campaign of 'Peace Rumors' Precedes Britain 'Blitzkrieg'; F. D. and Willkie Set for Battle

(EDITOR'S NOTE—When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of the news analyst and not necessarily of this newspaper.)

Seeking John Bull's Eye.

THE CAMPAIGN: Chicagoings-on

This was the Democratic convention's lead-off message: "I (Senator Barkley) and other close friends of the President, have long known that he has no wish to be a candidate again. We know, too, that in no way whatsoever has he exerted any influence in the selection of the delegates, or upon the opinions of delegates in this convention."

"Tonight, at the specific request and authorization of the President, I am making this simple fact clear to this convention. The President has never had, and has not today, any desire or purpose to continue in the office of President, to be a candidate for that office, or to be nominated by the convention for that office."

Some 22,500 men and women, packed into the Chicago stadium, heard the presidential message. It was a turning point, probably, in American history. For the convention the next day nominated President Roosevelt for a third term. No man had ever before received this honor. A day later, Henry Wallace, secretary of agriculture, was nominated vice president virtually at the request of the President.

NAMES

... in the news

King Zog of Albania, his tiny crown prince Skander, and his half-American Queen Geraldine, plus Zog's sisters three, were planning to come to the United States, that new "St Helena."

Allyn Jennings, general superintendent of New York city's parks since 1936, became the new general director of New York's famous Bronx zoo.

Pope Pius instructed his official nuncio to France, Valerio Valeri, to give every aid and support to Marshal Henri Petain's new fascist government. Generals Petain and Weygand, two of the triumvirate, are devoutly clerical. Dark-faced, white-tied Laval, the third member, is not.

Oswald Lewis, Tory member of parliament, suggested that England sell America at least one of the West Indian islands for use as an air and naval base. This, said Mr. Lewis, would cancel that "eternal" war debt question.

Under Prime Minister James Fraser New Zealand installed a five-man war dictatorship on the five-man "Churchill" English model.

Dr. Evan Thomas, brother of Norman Thomas, Socialist candidate for President, became chairman of New York's metropolitan board for conscientious objectors, whose object was to offer consultation and advice to pacifists. "America seems to be caught in a wave of militarism, which cannot now be halted," said Dr. Thomas. He added that he thought war and totalitarianism were just about the same thing.

Willkie, Republican candidate for President, was a registered Democrat until two years ago. Henry A. Wallace, Democratic candidate for vice president, was a registered Republican until four years ago.

That Willkie would prefer to make the campaign on domestic issues and that President Roosevelt would keep it on the foreign issue if possible seemed indicated in the early days of the campaign.

But wise William Allen White, who in the capacity of journalist attended both conventions, declared that neither Willkie nor Roosevelt would determine the results of the final election in November. It would be Hitler, he stated. He meant, no doubt, that the repercussions of a complete Hitler victory, or vice versa, would weigh more with the American voters than the oratory of both Willkie and Roosevelt.

One thing seems conclusive. The Old Guard in both the Republican and the Democratic parties were not at first satisfied with the final choices. Much may depend on how they ultimately accept the decision of their conventions.

II GERMAN WAR: Rumorings

There were twin rumors going the usual rounds in the usual riatos. One of these rumors predicted a huge mass offensive by the Germans against England. The other rumor was of peace. Hitler's "blitzkrieg" against Britain had been "set" by various "authorities" on several days. These were wrong guesses time and again as were the "peace" guesses.

'NO BASIS': Byoir No Nazi

Not everyone who is called a "communist" is one, and not everyone who is called a "Nazi" agent is one. Carl Byoir, New York publicist, is no "Nazi" representative, says the Federal Bureau of Investigation. The FBI investigated on Byoir's request because Rep. Wright Patman one day got up in the house and sounded off against Byoir. The enmity between the two is really over another matter. Patman's "chain-store tax" bill is the source of their feud. Byoir has been directing publicity against the Patman bill. So among other things, Patman called Byoir a Nazi tool. There was "no basis" to the charge, reported the FBI.

CUBA LIBRE: Elections

Col. Fulgencio Batista, Cuban dictator for seven long years, beat Dr. Grau San Martin in the Cuban presidential election. Also, six provincial governorships, most of the mayoralships, and 24 senatorial seats were scheduled for Batista candidates.

Meanwhile, Generals Camacho (government candidate) and Almazan (opposition candidate) continued to fuss and argue about the net results of the Mexican presidential election. Both appealed the fair and tolerant President Cardenas, the "honest broker." Just the same, Camacho had it in the bag.

Rome Wants Return

The University of Rome demanded that France give back, pronto, all the art treasures that Napoleon carted out of Italy, and set up in Paris.

II Jap War

By threats at Hongkong, British "capital" of China, the Japanese military men forced England to close the Burma road, by means of which China's Chiang Kai-shek gets most of his war supplies. It was a heavy blow for Generalissimo Chiang, but then Secretary Hull came out and strongly opposed the Anglo-Japanese deal, on the pretext that the road was a commercial necessity. England had been trying to fix up a Chino-Jap peace of some sort.

HOLY LAND: Bombed!

Italian airplanes raided British-manned Palestine, and dropped 50 bombs in 20 minutes. They peppered the Mediterranean port of Haifa, where an oil pipeline for the British navy feeds John Bull's water monsters. It brings in petroleum from the rich fields of Iraq, and is considered a key spot in the empire. In the Italic aerial stab, one American oil-refiner was injured. His name was Flannigan. Italian planes also were raiding off the Grecian coast, while Italian and British warships were skirmishing up and down the blue waters of Mare Nostrum. But the loudest bombs exploded on the pages of the Italian newspapers. The above was ancient Palestine's first experience with streamlined, modern, bellicose methodology.

II Spanish War??

The hideous Spanish civil war, 1936-39, killed more people by murder and execution than it did in actual fighting between the armies. It resulted in the clerical dictatorship of Generalissimo Franco, a kindly, pudgy creature on the whole. Meanwhile, a number of the exiled Spanish reeds fled to Latin American spots like Mexico and Chile. In Mexico they made a certain amount of trouble, but in Chile they agitated actively against the fascists of Spain. Chile had a so-called Popular Front government, and loyalist Spain had had the same thing. The Spanish radicals fled quite at home in Santiago and Valparaiso.

But Franco didn't like all this. He was touchy about his relations with Latin America, and distrusted Popular Fronts of all sorts. Chile had been pro-loyalist in the Spanish civil war. So Franco broke off Spanish-Chilean diplomatic relations—a bitter family quarrel between mother and child. It was too bad, for Chile (a long strip of rocky coastline, with only 4,000,000 people) could hardly damage Senor Franco, the friend of Herr Hitler. Meanwhile, Chile's President Pedro Aguirre banned strikes, lockouts, and other labor disturbances, and kept a cold hawk eye on the local Nazis. This was one of the things that Franco-Hitler did not like.

NEXT DOOR: Canadians

Every Canadian had to register, if he or she was over the age of 14. Failure to register means a fine of $200, and three months imprisonment. Also, there was provided a $10 daily fine for lateness in registration. False information means another $200, and refusal to answer questions costs $100. Other "crimes" cost $50 apiece. If you lose your registration card—and it may be demanded at any time—it's an additional $20. Observers declared that totalitarian England, on the point of invasion, still appeared more liberal than the No. 1 dominion, safe by 3,000 miles.

Meanwhile, Canada was not invited to the Pan-American conference at Havana, which tended to simplify things considerably, for Canada has no exact legal standing under international law.

MANILA: Quezon, M.

The little boss, Manuel Quezon, of the Philippine islands, began to talk about a semi-dictatorship way out there toward Asia. Already Senor Quezon has compulsory military service. Now he wants social restraints, social justice, and the yield-up of property rights. He does not want the Japanese, incidentally, at any price. By 1945, the Filipinos were supposed to get their complete independence, but with Nippon on the loose, things did not look so promising, and Senor Quezon was doing a bit of back-watering.

Meanwhile, at Tokyo, the Japanese army forced out of office the comparatively liberal Yonai cabinet. Prince Konoze (father of the captain of the Princeton golf team) was scheduled to come in, and bring with him a new semi-fascist setup. No wonder that Senor Quezon felt jumpy, only that Mikadonian rising sun. The Filipinos began to realize that there was worse than your kindly old Uncle Samuel.

FLYING: Atlantic II

The civil aeronautics board, at Washington, gave permission for Export Airlines Inc. to start a transatlantic service, in competition with Pan-American Airways. The new service was to be operated between New York and Lisbon, and was set to start at a near date. The Export outfit announced that its planes and ships would be co-ordinated. Nothing succeeds like competition, said the aviation critics, and they pointed out (as proof) that Roosevelt had liberalized the Republican party.

BALTIC: Bust-Ups

The three little Baltic states of Lithuania, Latvia and Estonia went red, and then went Russian. They were to become federal states of the great Soviet Union, which already had approximately a dozen of these entities (they vary somewhat, and some are elaborately subdivided). In Estonia, the red vote totalled 93 per cent. Lithuania, a thoroughly Catholic country, voted 90 per cent red, just the same.

Troops were stationed in all three little countries, and they helped influence the voters and the voting. It meant about 7,000,000 more Soviet citizens, and was a kick in the teeth to the Germans and British alike. Three more independent states disappeared from the map of Europe. At this point, the only independent countries left on the continent, exclusive of Germany, Italy, and Russia, were: Switzerland, Sweden, Spain, Portugal, Rumania, Yugoslavia, Greece, Bulgaria—going, going, gone!

150 Years Ago Uncle Sam Was Saying: 'I Want You for My Army,' but He Had Much Less to Offer Than He Has Today

By ELMO SCOTT WATSON (Released by Western Newspaper Union.)

YOU see it everywhere now—on sidewalk billboards that stand in front of post offices or in the corridors of other public buildings. It's a poster in which an arresting figure catches the eye and holds it long enough to deliver this laconic message to the young men of America:

It's a part of Uncle Sam's campaign to increase one of his arms of defense to a new peacetime strength of 480,000 men. For, if the flames of war leap across the Atlantic and the forces of totalitarianism threaten his land, Uncle Sam intends to be prepared in time to resist them successfully.

One hundred and fifty years ago he was engaged in a similar campaign, yet how different! There was no such emergency then as now, although Uncle Sam, then but a stripling, had already heard the rumblings of an imminent war across the ocean. More than that, two disasters to his puny army on the western frontier had made him uncomfortably aware of how inadequate he was to defend the new nation if trouble came to his shores.

From its beginnings, the United States has been a peace-loving nation and has figuratively leaned over backwards to avoid any semblance of militarism. The founding fathers, seeing in Europe the results of despotic power supported by a strong military establishment, resolved that there should be no such thing here to hinder their efforts to establish a government whose power would be derived "from the consent of the governed."

When Washington became our first President two of the principal objectives of his administration were the establishment of a strong financial system and a sound military organization. Alexander Hamilton, his secretary of the treasury, provided the former, but Gen. Henry Knox, his secretary of war, had more difficulty in securing the latter. Knox prepared a plan for compulsory military training and service, which Washington recommended to congress on January 1, 1790. It was not favorably received, mainly because Knox, in his letter of transmittal, said that his proposed continental militia would protect the country from internal as well as external enemies and he also stressed his opinion that "the government should possess a strong corrective arm."

The secretary's choice of words was unfortunate, especially at this particular time when congress was trying to safeguard the liberties of the people by enacting a Bill of Rights as the first amendments to the Constitution. Naturally a proposal for "a strong corrective arm" rang harshly on the congressional ear and Knox's plan was rejected.

First National Defense Bill.

On July 1, 1790, Elias Boudinot of New Jersey introduced a national defense bill which proposed that the organization and training of our peacetime army consist of grouping all the younger men in special "light infantry companies" in each regiment of the general militia. If war came, these companies could be assembled into battalions and regiments and thus form a new Continental army. Similarly, companies were to be formed in the other branches of the service and all of them were to have a "sound system of discipline" and be trained under federal supervision.

The first congress failed to act on the Boudinot bill and in the first session of the second congress a similar measure was introduced by Jeremiah Wadsworth of Connecticut. But before it was finally passed it was so amended and emasculated that Wadsworth himself voted "no" on it.

Washington, though greatly displeased in this new militia law, nevertheless signed it with the

Recruiting INSTRUCTIONS

For Captain John Pratt of the First Regiment of Infantry in the Service of the United States.

SIR, You are immediately to commence the recruiting service in the State of Connecticut. The principal rendezvous will be at Middletown. You will recruit one hundred men for the First Regt. Your recruits will be furnished by Chauncy Whittelsey Esq. at Middletown with rations, barracks, barrack utensils, straw and fuel; and also with such necessary medicinal assistance as they may require.

The recruiting service is sometimes abused, respects the individuals his recruiting officers back in 1792.

hope that it might be amended later. How worthless was this law was proved two decades later when the nation tried to assemble an army to repel the invasion of the British in the War of 1812. It failed miserably with the result that the enemy easily defeated the defenders of Washington, captured that city and burned the Capitol and the White House.

Meanwhile events on the frontier already had proved that our regular army was inadequate to perform the tasks expected of it. In 1790 it suffered a severe reverse under the leadership of Gen. Josiah Harmar who was sent to subdue the hostile tribes in the Old Northwest. The next year occurred the defeat and rout of the army led by Gen. Arthur St. Clair, the worst military disaster in America since the days of Braddock. These two fiascos not only resulted in the Indians renewing their attacks on the western settlements with even greater fury but they indicated to an alarmed country how impotent was the new federal government.

More than that, France and England were on the verge of renewing their ancient feud and there was danger of the United States being drawn into it. All of these factors pointed to the urgent necessity of our strengthening our forces for national defense. So Secretary Knox launched his recruiting campaign to obtain a regular army that would be equal to the task of defeating the confederation of tribes which had been formed by Chief Little Turtle of the Miamis.

In the light of the present drive to increase our army, the instructions to recruiting officers sent out by Secretary Knox in 1792 make interesting reading today. Indicative of the difficulties which the federal government was having in those days is the secretary's statement that "The recruiting service is sometimes abused, both as it respects the individuals recruited and the public at large—that is, recruits are unwarily and unworthily entangled, contrary to their intentions; such men generally desert the service, at some critical moment, or serve grudgingly, and set bad examples to others; or, unsuitable persons are engaged, who are constitutionally defective and unfit for the hardships incident to a military life. . . . In order therefore to avoid the errors of this business, the following instructions are to serve as the general rules and principles of your conduct."

Knox's Recruiting Instructions.

He then goes on to list the regulations governing recruiting. Some of them were as follows: The recruits are to be enlisted for three years, unless sooner discharged. Each recruit is to receive a bounty of eight Dollars; but no part of this sum is to be advanced until the recruit shall have been fairly enlisted and sworn before a Magistrate according to the form herein prescribed, and then only the said sum is to be advanced in such proportions as the judgment of the recruiting officer shall dictate, until experience shall in some degree have ascertained the fidelity of the recruit. Every recruiting officer shall be allowed the sum of Two Dollars, for the trouble and expense of enlisting each recruit—provided however, that such allowance will not be made for any recruit who shall desert before he shall march from the rendezvous of the troops in the State where he shall have been recruited.

The utmost fairness is to be used by the recruiting officers, in engaging their recruits; no individual therefore is to be enlisted in a state of intoxication, or to be sworn until after he shall have been enlisted for the space of twenty-four hours.

Each recruit (musicians excepted) must be five feet and five inches in height, without shoes; he must also be healthy, robust, and sound in his limbs and body, in all respects; and to ascertain which he must be thoroughly examined, previously to enlistment, by a Physician or Surgeon—but if, notwithstanding this direction, a recruit should have any secret disease at the time of his enlistment, the expense of his cure, if retained in service, shall be deducted from his pay.

Each recruit, before he is sworn, is to have distinctly read to him the rules and articles of war against mutiny and desertion, and relative to the administration of justice; and also the Act of Congress of the 30th of April 1790, establishing the rations, clothing, and compensation payable to the United States of America, after which he is to take the following Oath, before a Magistrate, to wit: "I, A. B. do solemnly swear (or affirm, as the case may be) to bear true allegiance to the United States of America, and to serve them honestly and faithfully against all their enemies or opposers whomsoever, and to observe and obey the orders of the President of the United States of America, and the orders of the officers appointed over me according to the articles of war."

Each recruit (musicians excepted) must be above eighteen and under forty five years of age. No negro, mulatto, or Indian, to be recruited. All the recruits, if possible, to be natives of fair conduct, or foreigners of good character for sobriety and fidelity, and who have been some years in the country. Any recruiting officer enlisting a vagrant, or transient person, who shall desert before marching from the place of rendezvous, shall reimburse out of his pay the loss sustained by such desertion. It is therefore important that the officers be attentive on this point, as a compliance with this order will be rigidly exacted. The public interests will be better served by a small army of brave, robust, and faithful soldiers, than by a multitude of vagabonds.

As soon as the recruits shall be assembled at the rendezvous, they are to be taught, by gentle methods, regularity of conduct, as it shall respect cleanliness of their persons, diet and rooms, and also due subordination, and they are to be exercised at least four hours in every day, in the attitudes and other first principles of a soldier. Qualifications Today. Compare with those specifications laid down by Henry Knox, the qualifications for enlistment in the regular army today: Applicants must be between the ages of 18 and 35 for original enlistment, unmarried, without other dependents, and those under 21 must have the written consent of parents or guardians; they must be at least five feet four inches in height, and weigh not less than 115 pounds; they must be of good moral character as evidenced by written testimonials from reputable citizens of their respective communities; they must be in good health and free from incapacitating or disfiguring deformities; they must be citizens of the United States by birth or naturalization at the time of enlistment; and they must be able to pass certain intelligence and literacy tests prescribed for the regular army. Monthly rates of pay for the several grades as prescribed by law at present are as follows: Master sergeant, $126 to $157.50; technical sergeant, $94 to $105; staff sergeant, $72 to $80; sergeant, $54 to $67.50; corporal, $42 to $52.50; private, first class, $30 to $37.50; private, $21 to $26.25. The first figure given in each instance is the pay of the grade during the first four years of service. This amount is increased by 5 per cent every four years, until a total of 25 per cent has been added. In addition to the foregoing, numerous specialists ratings are provided for privates and privates, first class, whereby their pay is materially increased.

In addition to these monthly wages, Uncle Sam furnishes clothing, food, housing and free medical and dental treatment. In view of all these facts it is easy to understand why he is having a greater and readier response to his "I want YOU for the United States Army" than he would likely have had if it had been uttered back in 1792!

This Smart Frock Slenderizes Figure

IF YOU have weight to consider, you couldn't choose a more attractive and becoming fashion than this gracious, softly detailed dress (8679) with high-cut front panel that diminishes the waistline and flattens the diaphragm. It fits beautifully over the bust, thanks to gathers at the waistline and beneath the cleverly shaped yoke. The bow at the deep neckline adds a soft, dressy touch, without fussiness.

The skirt is classically plain and slim-hipped, with moderate fullness at the hem. Make this for bridge parties, luncheons and club affairs, choosing chiffon, georgette or voile, with frills of lace or ruffling. And for all its expensive, distinguished appearance, this dress is easy to make.

Pattern No. 8679 is designed for sizes 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46, 48, 50 and 52. Size 38 requires, with short sleeves, 5 1/2 yards of 39-inch material without nap; 1 1/2 yards ruffling. Send order to:

painful and embarrassing, but the thing to do now is to help you all we can. There's no doubt, of course, that we can do a great deal to establish Dr. Houghton in New York. If people know that your father's family is—"

Aunt Flora looked at her in silence.

Gay laid down her crumpled square of heavy damask as Burton, at a signal from Aunt Flora, stepped behind her aunt's chair. The gentlemen rose as the ladies left the table. Gay glanced at John, standing very stiffly beside his chair at Aunt Flora's right. She smiled and his face brightened. She felt him watching her a little forlornly as she, with her aunts and cousins, followed Aunt Flora's measured steps out of the dining-room, as studied as when, wearing the traditional train and three feathers, she had walked along a strip of carpet which led to a throne.

said. "You've been that since the day you were born, but I do expect you to show us a little consideration. After all we've gone through." She paused. "I know, Aunt Flora." Gay's eyes lifted. "Am I truly sorry, as I have told you before, not that it happened, but that you should have had to suffer for something which wasn't your fault."

dal. But John and I aren't having any, thank you." "You have no sense of responsibility toward your family. It's only to be expected, I suppose. Your mother—"

John stood beside the chair in which he had been seated while Gay's Uncle James, his two sons, James and Andrew, handsome Dirk Von Steedham and Reginald Lancaster, fled out of the study. The door closed. David Graham seated himself in his chair beside the hearth.

"Sit down, John," he said. "John sat in the chair at the opposite side of the hearth. He had felt fairly confident while the others were there, but now that he was alone with David Graham, constraint locked his jaws and made a vacuum of his mind."

"You are, all of you. I'm sorry, Aunt Flora," she added, seeing her aunt's face assume an offended expression. "You're talking about John exactly as you would speak of a servant you were considering engaging. You're right. He has excellent references, but he isn't looking for a job."

FIRST-AID to the AILING HOUSE by Roger B. Whitman

Soiled Wallpaper. QUESTION: Wallpaper and ceiling near one of our hot water radiators are darkened by a soot-like deposit. Sometimes there is an odor in the room that resembles that of sediment of a hot water tank. Can these annoyances be remedied?

Answer: The soiling of the wallpaper is due to dust carried up by the current of hot air rising from the radiator. The odor is very likely to be due to the repeated heating of dust and other material in the lower part of the radiator. Both of these troubles can be eliminated by keeping all parts of the radiator thoroughly clean.

Stuck Stopper. QUESTION: The glass stopper of a large cut-glass bottle is stuck fast. How can I loosen it? Answer: One thing to try is to put a drop or two of glycerine at the joint; in a day or two the glycerine may work down enough to loosen the stopper. Another idea is to expand the neck of the bottle by heating without expanding the stopper.

Oily Wallpaper. QUESTION: A small lamp was placed so close to a wall that oil from the lamp shade ran into the wallpaper. How can I remove it? Answer: Cover the oil spots with a paste made of a non-burning spot removing liquid and fuller's earth, powdered chalk, or some similar powder. Allow to remain until dry and then remove by brushing. If the wallpaper is soiled, this will leave a noticeable clean spot, in which case you should go over all of the wallpaper with a wallpaper cleaner to be had at a hardware store.

Noisy Water Pipes. QUESTION: Whenever a faucet is opened or closed, there are unpleasant noises from the air in the pipes. How can this be overcome? Answer: If the noise is a rattle that occurs when a faucet is opened, the cause is a worn or loose washer. Replacing the washer will stop the noise. If the noise occurs when the faucet is being closed and is worse when the faucet is closed abruptly than when the closing is slow, the trouble is from lack of air cushion to take up the momentum of the water. This is something that can be corrected by any plumber.

Sound-Proofing Ceilings. QUESTION: In my apartment the ceiling plaster was replaced by insulating board. What can I do to make it more sound-proof? Answer: Sound-proofing an apartment ceiling is a difficult thing to do, because much of the sound travels through the framework of the building. It will help to put on an extra ceiling of the same kind of board that is now used, supported on furring strips one inch thick. Heavy felt should be laid on both sides of the furring strips to give additional sound-proofing.

Poplar Stumps. QUESTION: How can I get rid of poplar stumps? Answer: Saw the stumps off close to the ground, bore as many and as deep holes into them as possible, fill and refill with kerosene until the wood is well soaked; then build a fire on each stump to ignite the oil-soaked wood. Do not do this if there is anything nearby that might be harmed, for the heat will be intense. For an alternative, dig out a stump for as far below the ground as convenient, and cover with earth; poplar is a soft wood that rots quickly.

Beach Cottage Walls. QUESTION: What would you recommend for the inside walls of a beach cottage? Outside walls are pine boards, shingled. Answer: You should use a kind of stiff insulating board that is moisture proof and that will not shrink and swell in the damp air near the shore. Some makes of these boards can be had with a protective treatment of asphalt. Follow the manufacturer's directions in filling the joints. For a finish, put on a first coat of aluminum paint, which can be followed by painting or papering.

Cats. QUESTION: How can I keep cats from digging up and destroying my yard? Answer: Spray the yard with a solution of nicotine sulphate, which can be had at any seed or hardware store. This is an insecticide, and will not harm vegetation; but cats and dogs hate the odor. (© Roger B. Whitman—WNU Service.)

Star Dust STAGE SCREEN RADIO

By VIRGINIA VALE (Released by Western Newspaper Union.)

WHEN you see Paramount's "Arise My Love" with Claudette Colbert and Ray Milland, you'll miss the most thrilling thing that has happened so far in the filming of the picture. It occurred in the scene where Milland, Miss Colbert and Garland Lincoln, a veteran Hollywood stunt pilot, are scuffling beside a plane; Miss Colbert, who plays an American newspaper woman in Paris, has a portable typewriter, and Milland is battling with Lincoln.

They're de-beautifying Louise Platt for "Captain Caution," because Bill Mares, head makeup artist at the Hal Roach Studios, thinks that the average young screen actress, after being made up, looks just like all the other young actresses in the cast.

LOUISE PLATT

The artificial fog that hung like blown flour over the "Captain Caution" set at Hal Roach Studios during the shooting of several sequences bothered members of the cast and crew; they complained that the oil mixture left a bad taste in their mouths. So the special effects men, always obliging, introduced vanilla into the fog.

The result was worse than even—roast beef and ham sandwiches tasted like vanilla. The next day plain fog was used again, and cast and crew did no more complaining.

By this time motion picture stars ought to know what to expect if they go to South America. (Remember Robert Taylor's visit?) The enthusiastic fans practically mob them, but the stars seem to love it. Errol Flynn is the latest of the visitors to find out how popular he is. In Port au Spain, Trinidad, at least 3,000 people stormed the airport to see the star of "The Sea Hawk"; later, while Flynn was dining, part of the crowd broke through police lines in the hotel lobby and streamed into the restaurant, overturning tables and chairs.

Recently Frances Langford was just about to go on in the Star Theater program when she was notified that her husband, Jon Hall, had been injured in a powder explosion. Without being able to learn just how seriously he had been hurt Miss Langford sang her song and read her comedy lines, and then rushed to the hospital.

Have you been listening to that new Drew Pearson-Robert Allen program, "Washington Merry-Go-Round," giving intimate glimpses of the nation's capital and what goes on there? . . . Melvyn Douglas, playing a Paris policeman in "He Stayed for Breakfast," had to learn to slay, but the man who taught him was left-handed, and Douglas got it in reverse.

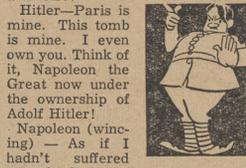

Bob Nolan, who wrote "Tumbling Tumbleweeds," has written seven new tunes for "The Thundering Frontier," which stars Iris Meredith and Charles Starrett. Jean Arthur adopted a baby burro on the "Arizona" location, and then found that building restrictions where she lives don't permit a horse or stable on the premises; she's hoping to get away with having a large dog kennel, since the burro isn't really a horse.

HITLER AND NAPOLEON ("Hitler Visits Tomb of Napoleon."—headline)

Napoleon—Stop staring at me! Hitler—I'm not staring at you; I'm looking at what I thought was a reflection. Napoleon—Go away. I'm tired of tourists. Hitler—I'm no tourist. Napoleon—Who are you? Hitler—I'm the new landlord. Napoleon—You are joking. Hitler—That's what a lot of people thought. Listen, Nappie, it's time you and I met. We have everything in common. We are two of a type.

Napoleon—Do you realize you are talking to the most famous conqueror in history? Hitler—That's the very question I was going to ask you. You were good for your time, but you're out-classed. Napoleon—By whom, may I ask? Hitler—Even if you didn't ask, I'd still tell you. By me! Napoleon—Who are you? Hitler—I am Adolf Hitler. Napoleon—Hitler? Hitler? I once knew a sausage maker named Hitler. . . . Hitler—I am the conqueror of most of Europe. In two years I have taken nine nations. Napoleon (bored)—I wish I knew what you smoked. Hitler—In two months I took Denmark, Norway, Belgium, Holland and France. Napoleon—Nobody ever takes France. It's purely an illusion. Hitler—Believe it or not, I have captured France. Napoleon (derisively)—You and who else? Hitler—Paris is mine. This tomb is mine. I even own you. Think of it, Napoleon, the Great now under the ownership of Adolf Hitler! Napoleon (wincing)—As if I hadn't suffered enough during those years at St. Helena! Bah, the world must be softening up. You don't look like a conqueror.

Hitler—You don't look any too hot yourself. Napoleon—Go on with your story. You say you have conquered nine nations? Hitler—I have the world at my feet. Napoleon—That's what I was crazy enough to think once! Remember it's only a short trip from your feet to your throat. Hitler—And do you know what I am going to do next? I am going to capture England! Napoleon—Take a tip from me and forget it. I once had that idea. Hitler—I shall capture the British isles and destroy the British empire. Napoleon—Would you mind repeating that? Hitler—I shall capture the British isles and destroy the British empire. I shall be boss of Europe and of the world, the greatest conqueror of all time! Napoleon (beckoning)—Come on in! I'll move over!
