Slots open

By Carol Ann Porter

HARRINGTON - Hundreds of anxious Midway Slots patrons lined the walkway in front of the new Harrington facility on Tuesday morning waiting for the doors to open. When the ribbon-cutting ceremonies were finished and the doors opened a little after 9 a.m., a roar of excitement rang out from the crowd.

Tom Atkins of Millsboro was close to the end of the line as he waited for the doors to open. "I've worried these people to death," he said. "I've called every day to see when they were going to open." He said he felt lucky and he had come to make some money.

People waited to enter the slots facility for many different reasons. . . one of them being curiosity. Shirley Hicks of Milford said, "I'm a little curious, but maybe I'll get lucky and win."

Bea Butler of Dover said she hopes they pay off a little better in Harrington than they do at Dover.

Midway Slots, now the third slots facility in the state, hosted an early-morning continental breakfast for Delaware State Fair officials, raceway officials and several dignitaries and politicians before it officially opened its doors to the public.

Guests listened to speakers such as Mike Vautrin, vice president and general manager of the new facility; Al Riendeau, a representative of G-TECH Corp.; Bob Kelly, president of Full House; Bill Chambers, past president of the Delaware State Fair; Bill DiMondi, president of the Delaware State Fair; Jack Walls, president of the Harrington Raceway and Wayne Lemons, director of the Delaware State Lottery.

A very emotional Bill Chambers said he was very proud to be associated with the people who were in charge of this project. "It's a very dedicated management team, and they are all top-notch people," he said. Then he extended his hand to William DiMondi and said, "You are holding the reins now."

President DiMondi spoke to the guests telling them how the new slots facility has already helped local businesses and will also enhance the horseman. "But the lion's

New museum annex planned

By Carol Ann Porter

The new Pauline E. Satterfield Annex is closer to becoming a reality today than it ever has. The old Harrington Historical Society office and gift shop building has been demolished by Mr. John Clark and his son of Greenwood, and there is only a smooth area where it once stood. So goes the passing of the old and the advent of the new.

Contractors suggested that the Historical Society remove the old building instead of adding onto it. When they began the demolition, it was decided that the contractors were right. The vinyl siding had hidden many of the building's defects.

The office staff consists of manager Grace Welch and museum Clerk Robert J. Shultie. They have worked very hard to raise funds for the expansion of the program. They have done mailings, grant research, worked on the Wall of Remembrance and many other things to help bring in the money needed to finance this work.

Since it takes many hands to do a job of this magnitude, many volunteers have helped with the various phases of this work.

The new building will be 50'x60' with a large office and gift shop. It will house many new displays, some of which are brand new.

Mr. Bobby Callaway has the contents of the Burton Smith Sport Shop, and the organization is planning to set it up on loan.

It will have the original bar back with the donkey heads intact. Some of the booths will also be on display, and the counter has also been saved.

An open house dedication will be held, and the organization plans to rent a juke box for the two-day event and offer nickel Cokes for sale.

While they haven't been officially asked yet, members of the Historical Society plan to invite Mrs. Alma Smith and Shirley Corrin to man the soda fountain.

The Katie Boyer hearse will be on display and is a permanent gift from the Donald and Carroll McKnatt family. During the dedication, Mr. and Mrs. McKnatt have been asked to don apparel in keeping with the era of the hearse and answer questions about the history of the vehicle and the business of undertaking.

There will also be exhibits of interest in other areas such as a new horse racing exhibit featuring a sulky donated by Mrs. Dorothea Coverdale. This sulky was once used by her husband, Lindale.

Our first lady, Mrs. Doris Linton, has agreed to bring a small

Summer Fun Days plans Street Jamboree

By Carol Ann Porter

"At Summer Fun Days, everyone has fun!" That's what area youngsters have been talking about all summer. And it's not over yet!

When school ended in June, Summer Fun Days began in the Lake Forest School District. Fun, games and interesting activities abounded this summer each and every Thursday at the W.T. Chipman Middle School complex.

As Summer Fun Days winds down, there are two fun activities left. On Thursday, Aug. 22, youngsters will be leaving the W.T. Chipman School at 9:30 a.m. and travel by bus to Killen's Pond. They will enjoy a picnic provided for them and other fun activities throughout the day. They will return to the school by 3 p.m.

For more information or to volunteer for these events, call 398-3898 or 398-3530. A parent or guardian permission form must be turned in before a child can attend.

On Thursday, Aug. 29, there will be a Summer Fun Days Jamboree at the JCPenney National Bank Parking lot from 6:30 - 9:30 p.m. This is a street fair complete with music and games.

According to Linda Chick, chairperson of the Harrington Parks & Recreation Committee, parents and grandparents remember good, wholesome activities from their childhoods, and this is what Summer Fun Days is all about. "But with an emphasis on crafts and group games, all led by experienced counselors and other volunteers," she said.

This year, youngsters have enjoyed bike hikes, storytellers, drama, dance and music coaches and a variety of visitors to fill each Thursday.

Summer Fun Days is sponsored by Harrington Parks & Recreation in conjunction with Kent County Parks & Recreation.

The Harrington Historical Society has plans for a new museum annex which will include an office and gift shop. It will also house items such as the Katie Boyer hearse and the bar back from the old Burton's Sport Shop. As shown in the photo above, the old building has been demolished. Looking forward to looking back

Harrington Historical Society's new museum annex to house memorabilia from old Sport Shop

By Carol Ann Porter

Just imagine stepping back in time to the days of the old Sport Shop on Commerce St. where Jennifer's now operates a very successful restaurant business.

When the new Pauline E. Satterfield Annex is built to replace the old museum and gift shop recently demolished, many exciting displays will be included. One such display will be the original "bar back" from Burton and Alma Smith's Sport Shop.

Almost everyone in Harrington and the surrounding communities will recall walking into the little soda shop on a hot afternoon when the lines of tar in the pavement out front became so soft, they stuck to the soles of their shoes or feet.

It was a gathering place for the town's school kids, and just entering the Sport Shop back then held a special gift of magic.

When you stepped inside, the first thing you noticed was the soda fountain. You could get a nickel Coke in that famous little glass, and Mrs. Smith would crack bits of ice into the glasses with a five-pronged pick.

She'd pump three squirts of Coke syrup and carefully add the carbonated water down the side of the tipped glass so as not to create too much foam, stirring constantly.

If you ordered a cherry Coke or a vanilla Coke, she'd add a half squirt of the flavoring syrup. Along the back bar of the fountain was a long mirror. While lingering over the Cokes, youngsters and teens would self-consciously study each other's reflection between perusals of their comic books such as Wonder Woman, Flash Gordon or Mandrake the Magician.

Meanwhile, the nearly constant drone of the compressor was a pleasant accompaniment through the warm afternoon -- sweet music from the "Golden Era" . . . the good old days of the soda fountain at the Sport Shop.

The juke box in the back would be playing everyone's favorite tunes, and occasionally couples would jitterbug on the old hardwood floors.

The Smiths bought their little business on Commerce St. in 1942, and although Burton Smith passed away in 1976, his wife, Alma, continued the family tradition of mixing the Cokes by hand.

Mrs. Smith retired in 1980 and turned the business over to her son, Randall, who has since passed away. For a year after that, she helped take care of her terminally ill sister but later came out of retirement and was once again behind the counter of the Sport Shop. "Retirement is for the birds," she once commented.

Mrs. Smith, who turned 81 in March, recalls when downtown Harrington was a busy little place. She recalls Finch's 5 & Dime Store, Shop, Raughley & Harrington's grocery store and Reese Theatre.

"Folks used to come into town on a Saturday afternoon and park their cars along the streets and then walk home," she said. "Then they would come back later that night and sit in their cars and people watch," she smiled.

Sometimes the little store would stay open until 2 a.m. on Saturday, and during the week, businesses stayed open until midnight.

There were booths in the little shop, and teen-agers would carve their initials in the wood. Mrs. Smith knew that youngsters did this, but she never got upset with them. "Now, if they went to the extreme and carved the wood really deep, I would get upset," she laughed.

Mrs. Smith was famous for her submarine sandwiches, and people around Harrington still talk about them. "The other day, Danny Skinner came to my back door and asked me how I used to make them," she said. "I told him, and he said it made his mouth water just thinking about it," she laughed.

She knew every boy and girl that walked through that front door by their first name. And she still stays in touch with hundreds of them today.

There was something for everyone at the 7th Annual Wyoming Peach Festival on Saturday, Aug. 3. In spite of the early morning raindrops, the kids enjoyed riding the train along Railroad Avenue, while their parents visited the many craft booths lining both sides of the street. Entertainment was held throughout the day in front of the Train Station.

The Pippin Funeral Home offered a "glimpse into the past" with their Civil War Exhibit, including guns, memorabilia, and a full size reproduction of President Lincoln's casket. The replica was crafted by Batesville Casket Company in Batesville, Indiana. It is six feet, six inches long -- probably a tight fit for the six-foot, four-inch President Lincoln.

quilting frame to quilt while people watch. Be sure to look in the new gift shop for many items she has quilted or handmade, especially the lovely pink quilt on display.

There will be other crafters during the two-day festivities such as broom-making and basket weaving from the Hrupsas. Clarabel Peck Walls will be on hand to make some of her famous home-made, hand-cranked vanilla ice cream.

There are many more plans in the making, but the Historical Society plans to surprise visitors to the new building.

If anyone has any suggestions, displays or donations, call 398-3698 between the hours of 9 a.m. and 5 p.m. The Harrington Historical Society is a community organization and takes pride in pleasing area people. They invite everyone to visit the museum.

share of profits are to the benefit of the Delaware State Fair," he said. "That's what sets us apart from the other gaming facilities in the state."

Jack Walls, president of Harrington Raceway said, "Today is a great day." He recalled lobbying for Legislation back in 1993 and said that today it is a reality. "There's a lot of potential here," he said. "This facility will benefit banks, civic organizations and so much more."

The first 500 visitors to the casino received free T-shirts and a chance for a bonus entry on the $11,000 cash give-away for Labor Day.

Patrons lined up to sign up for slot player tracking cards where players earn points which entitles them to free buffet dinners, merchandise from the gift shop and chances for drawings.

Midway personnel worked diligently to complete preparations for the Tuesday opening, which was finally announced last Friday by Wayne Lemons.

The 35,000-square-foot state-of-the-art gaming facility which is decorated to look like a fairgrounds midway is on U.S. 13 at the Delaware State Fairgrounds in Harrington.

According to officials at the facility, it's like peeking over the fence at the State Fair. The slot cups are decorated to look like popcorn boxes with a real Las Vegas

DEC annual meeting attracts 4,100

Delaware Electric Cooperative 60th annual meeting at Milford High on August 13, produced a turnout that ranks second in all-time attendance.

Approximately 4,100 were treated to a fried chicken dinner, including 992 registered members, ranking it second to DEC's 1994 annual meeting at Lake Forest High when the Co-op served over 4,200 dinners and registered 1,006 members. On hand at the meeting were 28,000 capital credits checks, totaling over $1.5 million for consumers who were on DEC lines in 1982 and '83.

In his report to the Co-op membership, DEC board of directors president William J. Wells said, "Delaware Electric Cooperative was organized in 1936 when other electric providers would not, or could not, extend their lines into the rural countryside to meet the growing needs of rural residents."

While members, guests, employees and special friends of DEC celebrated the 60-year milestone, Co-op general manager E. Paul Bienvenue talked about new consumer programs and the outlook of the electric utility industry. Bienvenue announced new, more appealing rates for consumers with residential electric space heating, irrigation and generators.

He stated that the Co-op will offer other services in the coming months including a home surge protection program, the acceptance of Visa or MasterCard for bill payments and a bill extender plan for consumers who receive a monthly retirement pension or Social Security.

Bienvenue said, "For the future, we are committed to progressively working with you--our members--to provide competitive, dependable energy services as we embrace the changes of the coming years."

There were four seats up for election on the DEC board of directors. In District 2, incumbent Charles R. Sears, Hartly, defeated challenger H. Clifton Palmer, Wyoming, 312-292. In the at-large race, challenger Howard A. Clendaniel, Georgetown, outdistanced incumbent Barbara L. Seuffert, Bridgeville, 290-229. Bruce A. Henry, Greenwood, from District 5, and Richard G. Frazer, Long Neck, from District 8, retained their seats with no opposition.

The Epworth Quartet provided musical entertainment while the Mayor and Buford comedy duo amused the crowd with southern humor. Dignitaries in attendance were U.S. Sen. Joseph R. Biden, Gov. Thomas R. Carper, Lt. Gov. Ruth Ann Minner, State Insurance Commissioner Donna Lee Williams and State Auditor R. Thomas Wagner.

Other highlights of the event included a health fair, sponsored by Milford Memorial Hospital, a Delaware Department of Agriculture information booth, various door prizes and the use of new computerized voting machines from the Delaware Department of Elections.

About 28,000 capital credits checks, totaling $1,508,561.52, were available at the annual meeting for 1982 and '83 consumers. These capital credits represent the difference between a cooperative and a privately-owned utility. Each person served by Delaware Electric is a member and actually part-owner of the Co-op. Checks not claimed at the meeting will be sent through the mail in the near future.

Electric cooperatives are operated on a non-profit basis to provide a service. Any funds, or margins remaining at the end of the year are assigned to the members as capital credits. The margins are divided among the consumers in proportion to their share of the total.

AARP urges stronger protections against telemarketing fraud

Older people are often the targets of telemarketing scams that cost consumers more than $40 billion a year, according to the American Association of Retired Persons (AARP).

New research from AARP indicates that victims tend to be well-educated, socially active, and have higher than average incomes. Older people are especially vulnerable to phone fraud because they find it difficult to recognize and are reluctant to see it as a serious crime.

"Older victims of telemarketing fraud are often very different from the stereotype of being confused and socially isolated," said Agnes Johnson, an AARP volunteer from Maine. "Stronger regulations, aggressive law enforcement, and expanded consumer education are all needed to stop telemarketing fraud."

AARP participated in a hearing on March 6 on telemarketing fraud conducted by the Senate Aging Committee. In addition, AARP helped to recruit volunteers for Operation Senior Sentinel, an operation of the U.S. Department of Justice and the Federal Bureau of Investigation, that resulted in more than 400 arrests of suspected telemarketing con artists last December.

Potential victims of telemarket-ing fraud are often plagued by several calls a day pitching fraudulent contests, sweepstakes, products and charities. Another scam involves so-called recovery rooms that contact victims and offer to help return lost money for a fee.

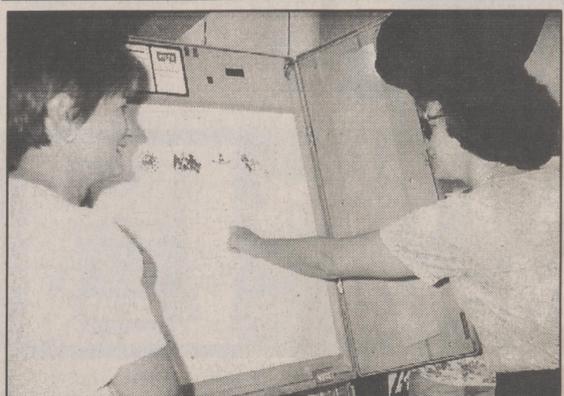

"Older people need to learn how to protect themselves against fraudulent telemarketers," said Johnson. "Never give information about your credit card or bank account or send money to anyone you don't know."

Another key finding of AARP's research is that older people need to get off the phone as soon as they suspect a scam. "Staying on the phone to hear a telemarketer's pitch is similar to walking down a dark alley or leaving the front door unlocked," said Johnson. "These crooks have many strategies, ranging from praise to verbal abuse, designed to close the deal."

AARP is the nation's leading organization for people 50 and over. It serves their needs and interests through legislative advocacy, research, informative programs and community services provided by a network of local chapters and experienced volunteers throughout the country. The organization also offers members a wide range of special membership benefits, including Modern Maturity and the monthly Bulletin.

Second Annual Kindred Spirits Block Party set for Aug. 21

Kindred Spirits, Dover's natural food store and holistic health care center, will be hosting their second annual Block Party on N. New Street tonight, Aug 21st, from 7-10 p.m.

Dennis Minus, co-ordinator of the Block Party, encourages everyone to come and participate in this fun-filled night. There will be refreshments, a dance contest, and a Double Dutch jump rope contest. A live D.J. will provide the music and entertainment.

The Block Party was organized for the residents of N. New Street, especially the children. The owner of Kindred Spirits, Linda Chick, and managers April Benz, Kathleen Crouse and Dennis Minus, felt that it would be a great "end of the summer" event before sending the kids back to school. Kindred Spirits is also the sponsor of the annual New St. Fair which is held in June.

The party will be held on N. New Street between the cross streets of Fulton and Cecil from 7 to 10 p.m.

tion to how much electricity they paid for during the year. Margins are initially kept on hand by the Co-op for current operating funds, reserve funds and loan repayment. When the board of directors can pay back these margins, the members reap the benefits in the form of capital credits.

Incorporated in 1936, Delaware Electric Cooperative energized its first lines in 1938, serving just 223 members on 94 miles of line, with one substation. Today, Delaware Electric Cooperative furnishes power to over 52,000 Kent and Sussex County consumers on 4,400 miles with 22 substations.

Nationwide, electric cooperatives were established in 1935 when President Franklin Delano Roosevelt created the Rural Electrification Administration (REA). At that time, only 10 percent of the rural homes, farms and businesses in this country had electric service. Most rural areas had been bypassed by electric companies which were either unable or unwilling to build lines into territory that was economically poor, thinly populated or where the terrain was difficult.

Farmers and other rural residents provided the initiative and leadership in organizing, constructing, and operating their own rural electric systems to provide service for themselves, their neighbors and future consumers in their rural areas.

Arthroscopy is perhaps the greatest innovation in orthopedic surgery of this century.

The arthroscope is an instrument with an end as thin as a pencil. It contains a series of magnifying lenses and glass fibers that illuminate the joint and reflect images back to a camera. This allows the surgeon to visualize the inside of joints and to treat many intra-articular problems.

The same procedures which once required large incisions, hospitalization and lengthy recovery periods, can now be performed through tiny quarter inch incisions that don't even require stitches and produce a barely noticeable scar. They are performed on an outpatient basis and the recovery time is often as short as a few days. The pain is much less than the open procedure and is easily relieved with mild analgesic medication. In most cases, a patient can carry on normal activities within a few weeks.

Virtually every major joint can be approached through arthroscopy. As the technology becomes more refined, a greater number of joint problems can be treated in this manner. Damage to the cartilage, ligaments, bone and tendons can be thoroughly assessed and can be partially or completely treated through the arthroscope.

When arthroscopy is performed on the shoulder, elbow, or wrist, a sling may be required for a short period. Arthroscopic procedures involving the knee or ankle may require crutches initially but are usually discarded in a few days.

The accuracy of arthroscopy diagnostically surpasses all other available tests in determining joint pathology, including MRI. In total costs, the arthroscopic procedures are far less expensive than traditional open procedures. The arthroscope is indeed a powerful tool in the surgeon's armamentarium to treat disease and when combined with laser technology, gives the surgeon even greater capabilities to treat the joint problems which affect us.

LOVING FAMILIES SOUGHT

American Intercultural Student Exchange is seeking host families for exchange students arriving in August

Each year, thousands of families across the nation host AISE exchange students for a school year. It's an exciting way to meet people from different countries, while opening a young person's eyes to typical American life. Students arrive in August, spend a semester or school year with American families, and return to their home countries with a deeper understanding of the American people. AISE students speak English, have their own spending money and medical insurance, and are eager to become part of an American family. Introduce foreign culture into your community. In search of shade and a place to run

There's a road called Drapers Corner and I use it all the time. Every time I go down this road — and this is the God's honest truth — there's always a horse attached to a lawnmower and it has no room to run. I've never seen it with any water, and it's out in the middle of the day. It has no place to go for shade, especially when the summer gets really hot. I see this every day, and I don't know who the horse belongs to because there are a couple of farms around it. But it's so inhumane and sad. I mean, my God, horses can't do anything on their own — they depend on people to take care of them. The last couple of weeks have been hot. Should I call the SPCA?

EDITOR'S NOTE: According to Murrey E. Goldthwaite, director of the Kent County SPCA, "Any cruelty observed by an individual, involving domestic or wild animals should be reported to the SPCA or Humane Society. For Kent County, that phone number is 734-7029."

A Republican at one point

I'm calling in reference to the Republican Party. President Nixon once said, "The American people are just like children. You have to tell them lies and feed them candy." Then came Reagan. He gave us the highest deficit in U.S. history by giving us a tax cut and not raising taxes. Then came Bush — "Read my lips, no new taxes". What did we get? New taxes. I was a Republican at one point; but Nixon, Reagan, Bush sold us out to the enemy.

If men could have babies...

I'm tired of all this back-and-forth on the abortion issue. I'm a woman, and all I have to say is that if men could have babies, there would be an abortion clinic on every corner.

Church

Independent Bible Fellowship

On Sunday, Aug. 18, Pastor Simpson began a new series of messages focusing on the New Testament Book of James. In this epistle, James, the half brother of Christ, is writing to the 12 tribes of Jacob which had been "scattered abroad" as a result of persecution. These Jews who had accepted Jesus Christ as Savior could find no real acceptance among their Jewish families and former Jewish friends nor among the Gentiles. Therefore, James addresses them in chapter 1 by saying, "My brethren, count it all joy when ye fall into divers temptations; knowing this, that the trying of your faith worketh patience. But let patience have her perfect work, that ye may be perfect and entire, wanting nothing" (James 1:2-4). These Jewish Christians of yesteryear faced many trials and tribulations, but were told to accept them with joy. We, too, need to step back in the midst of our troubles and rejoice in the realization that the Lord must strengthen and mold us (yea, sometimes even melt and break us) to bring us to spiritual maturity. Pastor Simpson reminded us that a person's true Christian character is brought out during crisis situations. Handling trials well is probably the hardest thing we're called to do—but God wants us to be a testimony especially during such times. To help us joyfully and willingly accept the struggles, we should keep not the immediate pain, but the permanent benefit in mind. We can know that the Lord wants the best for us and is going to temper us to become stronger and stronger to prepare us for a job in the future. Pastor Simpson used the analogy of pressure treated wood, drop forged tools, and case hardened nails—all materials which are very strong due to applied pressure. Are we as Christians willing to allow Christ's "ministry of trials" to work in our lives so that we may be "perfect and entire, wanting nothing"? Do we want to attain the "crown of life" that is promised in James 1:12—"Blessed is the man that endureth temptation: for when he is tried, he shall receive the crown of life, which the Lord hath promised to them that love Him"? We all need to place our faith in Christ, believe that He died on the cross for our sins, and know we are saved from eternal torment in hell. Once saved, we need to continue to trust Christ to allow struggles in our lives which will make us become more and more like the Master. Independent Bible Fellowship Church is located east of Harrington on Rt. 14. We welcome you to visit us. Services are: Sunday School - 10 a.m. Sunday Worship Services - 11 a.m. and 7 p.m. Wednesday Evening Bible Study and Youth Programs - 7 p.m.

Calvary Wesleyan Church

Bible School started on Sunday evening and will run through Friday. The theme this year is "Camp Courageous" and a cabin has been constructed in the Chapel to give the children more of a feel for going to camp. The VBS will end this Friday with a picnic in Killen's Park. The closing exercises will be held at the Park along with a puppet show and lots to eat. A reception will be held in the fellowship hall on Sunday, Aug. 25. It will be to welcome our new assistant pastor, Paul Backhaus, his wife, Michelle, and daughter, Moriah. Everyone is welcome and asked to bring a covered dish. The meat, rolls, dessert and drinks will be supplied by the church. A work day is being planned for Saturday, Sept. 7. It will be a day to clean up and fix up our church buildings and grounds.

Prospect United Methodist Church News

"O, death where is thy sting? O, grave where is thy victory?" (1 Corinthians 15:55) Rev. James Carmean Jr. is the minister at Prospect Church, which is located five miles west of Harrington on Route 14 in Vernon. We invite you to worship with us. We have Sunday School for all ages at 8:45 a.m. and Worship service is at 9:45 a.m. Mary Lou Wright is our pianist. On Sunday, August 18, Julia Camper was the greeter and Ashlee Stewart was candle lighter. The choir opened the service by singing "Come Bless the Lord". They sang "Circuit-Ridin Preacher" for the anthem. Anna Webb prayed the offertory prayer and Vivian and Francis Dill were ushers. Jeanne Camper talked to the youth. She had them play a game, Mother May I. She told them different things to do and they had to say "Mother May I?" before doing them. It was a little hard to keep up some time. Some people are hard to love but Jesus said we are to love each other. Jesus will give us the power to love each other if we ask Him. Rev. Carmean read scripture from I Corinthians 15:51-58. The title of his sermon was "A Changing World". Paul saw the world was changing. There are three things to do, be steadfast, unmovable and always abounding in the work of the Lord. The world is putting so much before the church, sometimes we do not know which way to go. But thanks be to God we can be changed and be saved. We can be unmovable because of our faith in Jesus. We can be changed in the twinkling of the eye. Our labor will not be in vain. God is greater than the things of the world. At the end of our journey, there will be a reward for us, living in Heaven with God. Aug. 21 - 6 p.m. Family Night outdoors picnic. Aug. 25 - Picnic at Camp Pecometh. Leave Prospect at 12:30. Aug. 26 - 7:30 p.m. Administrative Board.

Mr. Manny Robinson and Samuel Powell Sr. were ushers. The senior choir sang "Living for Jesus", accompanied by Mrs. Betty Wix. Rev. Carmean selected 1 Corinthians 15:51-58 as scripture for his sermon, "A Changing World". As Christians, we should be steadfast, unmovable and abounding in His word. Are you dead in your sin? On Heritage Day, Sept. 21 - after the parade until 3 p.m., we will have an open house with a theme Noah's Ark and Jonah and the Whale.

HOME GAMES IN CAPITAL LETTERS

Harrington youth speeds to Seaford track record

Jon Callaway, 12, of Harrington accomplished a nifty feat at the Seaford Speedway July 28.

As the youngest go-kart driver to compete at Seaford, he set the track record with a 12-second lap. That translates to a speed of about 60-65 miles per hour.

Through July, he had also won four of six features.

"I'm very happy and excited," said Callaway of his record.

He said he became interested in go-karts last year because "friends of his fathers" were involved with them. He made his first race at the 1995 Delaware State Fair.

His biggest supporters are his grandfather, Paul S.; father, Paul R.; and his mother Rachelle Hitchens. All three attended his record-breaking race.

Callaway said he wants to "stay with go-karts for another year or two, then try micros or dwarf cars."

District Dialog

Back to School Ideas

By Dr. James H. VanSciver
District Superintendent

Included in the August 1996 edition of the State of Delaware Life Lines, provided by the Delaware State Group Life Insurance Program for their employees and families, under the heading, "Family Matters", was a very thoughtful list of ideas family members could use to prepare their children for the start of school. Interestingly enough, it was preceded by the note, "stress free". Wouldn't it be great if we all could get our children off to school each day with a minimum amount of stress for them and us? Regardless, here are the four ideas which were listed for our benefit:

- The week before school starts, get your whole family into the school-time routine, i.e., go to bed and get up the same time you will when school starts. NOTE: If anyone needs an alarm clock to wake up in the morning, an earlier bedtime should be set.

- Make and agree upon homework rules (e.g., are TV, phone calls, and/or social activities allowed on weeknights? If so, how much and when?). Write the rules down and post them.
- Make sure your child has his or her own bedroom clock, wrist-watch, and wall/school notebook calendar. Show your child how to use these to get organized.
- Decide what's needed to make mornings calm and enjoyable. Ideas include: going to bed on time so you can get up on time; allowing yourself 15 minutes of "extra" time every morning; setting out clothes, backpacks, money, and lunches the night before; and setting the breakfast table after dinner dishes are cleared.

These are indeed plausible ideas for each of us as we prepare our families for the start of another exciting school year.

Children are going back to school

By Richard W. Riley
U.S. Secretary of Education

Now that kids are going back to school, it's a good time to ask: Where do you have to live to find good schools? Do you have to live in a wealthy suburb? Do you have to head for the big cities? Should you go to a university town? The answer is: Good schools can be found anywhere in America. You can find them in the inner-city, in the suburbs, and in rural towns. That's what Money magazine discovered when it went looking for America's 100 best school districts. The results of the search can be found in the January 1996 issue of the magazine, and it's an article that every parent, educator, and citizen who cares about education should read. "Money isn't everything," declared Money. The districts that made the list enjoyed widespread community support and a high degree of parental involvement, and many were in areas where the average home costs less than the U.S. median. The fact that good schools can be found anywhere--so long as parents and communities are willing to work for them--is good news for every citizen. We all have a stake in quality education, even those of us who don't have children in school. Strong schools build strong communities, and we all want that. Because parental and community involvement are so important to education, the U.S. Department of Education and the national Partnership for Family Involvement in Education are launching an important initiative to coincide with back-to-school time. It's called "America Goes Back to School: Get Involved!" This is the second year for this initiative, and I would like to invite you and every citizen to participate. "America Goes Back to School: Get Involved!" asks parents, grandparents, neighbors, educators, students and all community members to work together to achieve these goals: Making schools safer, more disciplined, and drug-free; putting computers into classrooms; improving reading; making sure academic standards are high; preparing young people for careers; and making college more accessible. A free kit is available that offers lots of good ideas for achieving these goals in your community. Many of these ideas have succeeded in helping communities like yours to improve their schools.

Just call the U.S. Department of Education at 1-800-USA-LEARN and ask for the "America Goes Back to School" activities kit. Unit it arrives in your mailbox, here are a few tips to get you started:

- Parents: You can make the biggest difference in your children's education. Research shows that when parents are involved in helping their children learn, good things happen. Children get better grades, behave better in class, and are more likely to go to college. So here's what parents can do: Volunteer for school activities and stay in regular touch with teachers. Read to your very young children, and share books with your older children. Limit TV to no more than two hours on a school night. And talk with your youngsters about the values you want them to have and about the dangers of drugs, alcohol and tobacco.
- Employers: Remember that quality education is critical to producing a quality workforce. Many businesses offer leave and/or flex-time to their employees to allow them to volunteer in schools and to give parents the time to participate in their children's school activities. These "family-friendly" businesses have been rewarded with higher worker productivity. Business people can also provide work-study opportunities and internships and apprenticeships for students, and help define the skills, knowledge, and work habits needed for success in today's challenging workplace.

- Community Members: If you're in a community, cultural, religious, law enforcement, or other neighborhood group or organization, you can make a big difference, too. Work with the schools to offer after-school and summer enrichment programs and homework centers. Become tutors or mentors. Help with adult literacy efforts. Establish computer labs in neighborhood centers. Create safe corridors for children going to school. And encourage your local paper to report positive stories about young people.
- Schools: Schools can't do the job alone these days, and teachers and principals should reach out and make parents and community members their partners. Educators can use the phone, newsletters, home visits and E-mail to keep parents informed and part of the education team. They can take advantage of community learning resources. They can meet with parents at the beginning of the school year to agree on goals and responsibilities. Most important, they can make parents feel welcome in the school and include them in decision-making. Southern Illinois University President Ted Sanders has summed it all up best: "If schools are operating at maximum efficiency, they are responsible for about 40 to 50 percent of what a child learns. The other 50 to 60 percent of learning comes from the family and the community." President Sanders is one of the four co-chairs of "America Goes Back to School: Get Involved!"

The others are Tipper Gore, the wife of Vice President Al Gore; Joan Dykstra, the president of the National PTA; and Bo Jackson, the actor, businessman, and 1985 Heisman Trophy winner for his great accomplishments in college football. We're proud to have them. We're also proud to have the many thousands of citizens who have already joined us. And we'll be proud to have you, too, and everyone in your community. Join us and help build a better future for our students, our families, and for all of America.

W.T. Chipman Middle School Open House scheduled for Aug. 27

Parents of students entering the sixth grade at Lake Forest School District's W.T. Chipman Middle School are invited to an orientation program on Tuesday, Aug. 27, from 7:30 p.m. to 9 p.m. in the school's cafeteria. Middle school is a time of change. The workload and social adjustments are greater at the middle level than at the elementary level. Students are expected to attend school regularly, complete all assignments, and behave appro-riately. However, their years at the middle school are to be exciting, fun, and filled with many new opportunities and experiences. Parents are encouraged to bring their children to the meeting. In addition, any families new to Lake Forest School District and having children who will attend W.T. Chipman are encouraged to attend. For more information, call 398-8197.
