Souls in Heaven - Names in Stone

By Debbie McClements
Freelance Writer

In 1983 Raymond Walter Dill had a desire that, unbeknownst to him, would lead him to a far greater task than he had expected. To commemorate the anniversary of the signing of the Constitution he wanted to place flags on the graves of the 10 people from Kent County who had signed under Caesar Rodney.

His quest began with a visit to the State Archives to see if he could obtain the names of the deceased and where they were buried. To his amazement, he was told that there were no records of cemeteries or names of the deceased to be found, a matter of fact, no accurate records of cemeteries were kept until after World War II. Deciding to right this wrong, he then prepared to tackle the job of finding each cemetery in Kent County, record the location and names of the deceased in every one of them.

His search led him to find eight of 10 men who originally signed the Constitution in Kent County and one in New Castle County. One of the 10 has never been found. After accomplishing this feat, Mr. Dill continued on with help from his brother, William Martin Dill, and sister-in-law, Elizabeth Ann Bostick Dill.

To help with their search the Dills used a drainage map to locate most of the cemeteries. A variety of techniques were used to uncover the writing on the headstones. One of the best, Martin says, was Aunt Jemima pancake mix. By rubbing the flour on the headstone, it became ingrained in the letters, therefore making them easier to read. Another method they used was aluminum reflected by the sun onto the headstone. Off all the headstones read, only two were impossible to decipher.

After five long years of research all of their hard work led to a two volume, 1475 page book. That was published in 1989. Although Raymond Dill passed away before the book was finished, his memory lives on in its pages. A stone in the shape of the State of Delaware adorns his grave, symbolizing the great respect he held for his home state. Martin and Elizabeth Dill dedicated the book to Raymond, brother Charles, and sister, Velda. One thousand volumes were published, and over 800 have been sold in 39 states. The book is a great tool for genealogist to use in their research. Souls in Heaven - Names in Stone is one of a kind in this state as no other county has one. It is now being used as a reference book in the State Archives.

Martin Dill reflects back on their search and some of the events that took place. Many times he climbed 10 to 20 foot trees to get a better glimpse of the plots. Betty (Elizabeth) Dill recalls how farmers would offer them a ride on their tractors to the area of their research. If the cemetery was overgrown, the farmers would invite the Dills back after they were cleaned up. One woman was so overwhelmed by the sad state of her family plot that she cried. She said she hadn't visited the site for over 25 years. She refused to let Martin and Betty investigate until the land was neatly manicured, it was two weeks before they could return. Another incident that comes to mind, Martin was asked to speak at a luncheon for an upstate historical society concerning the contents of the book. Upon his arrival he was surprised to find that the guest were chauffeured in limousines, and were wearing gowns and dress suits. He was wearing his down home casual attire, driving his pick up truck. As one would do in such a situation, he carried on with true Feltonian dignity and charm. After the speech ladies of the society expressed an interest in cemetery research. Martin explained that the art of cemetery searching is not without its downfalls. For instance, snakes tend to make their home near the headstones. Hearing this made the ladies interest dissipate very quickly.

Souls in Heaven - Names in Stone was a labor of love and loyalty. From the efforts of Raymond, Martin and Elizabeth Dill, the job of climbing the family tree is made a little easier. This book will grace library shelves for many years to come.

Paradise Peaches - A family affair

By Debbie McClements
Freelance Writer

It all started with 333 and the desire to carry on a Felton tradition of growing peaches, back in 1990. Situated on eight acres on Paradise Alley Road, Nancy and Levin Vansant, owners of Paradise

Peaches, have one of the best, although smaller in comparison, peach orchards in the state. The Vansant's do most of the work themselves, except for summer migrant workers that help thin the trees.

Summer mornings are spent with Levin and Nancy picking the fruits of their labor together and preparing the bounty for market. Rewards for their efforts are the "Strays" that don't make it to the basket, and quality time spent together. One of the local produce and fruit stands, Winkler Farms, sells peaches from the Vansant orchard. Nancy and Levin extend their gratitude to Winkler Farms, Fifer Farms and Bruce Walton, for their knowledge and advice in helping to establish the orchard, and making it the success it is today.

Paradise Peaches come in different varieties. Choosing which one is the best is a learning experience that Nancy and Levin keep in practice today. The sweetest peaches, they have found, are the ones that are picked "tree ripe." They will go back to the same tree several times to determine which peaches are most ripe rather than scan different trees each day. This ensures the fruit is ripe and ready to go. Although they do not consider themselves perfect, the Vansant's do take pride in what they do and have become very proficient in their work. It's obvious in the quality of their product, they paid attention to what their mentors taught them.

Weather can be your friend or enemy in the orchard business. Dry weather usually yields a bountiful crop, and rainy weather leaves slim pickings. This year was very good for the peach crop. Seven entries of Paradise Peaches at the State Fair brought seven blue ribbons. A peachy season indeed.

The knowledge and care needed to tend to an orchard requires discipline, a willingness to learn, and straw hat, to guard against the hot summer sun. Nancy and Levin add to their knowledge of peach growing by attending a Peach Grower's Convention each year in Hershey P.A. With their growing expertise, more blue ribbons may adorn their walls next year.

With the peach season coming to an end, Nancy and Levin are looking forward to a bit of rest. The last of the crop is usually picked up off the ground by the local residents trying to get a last taste of the finest peaches in Felton.

BPW Trains Leaders

BPW/DE, the state Business and Professional Women's organization, will host a series of leadership training workshops beginning October 3. The first offering of the year will be an all day Leadership Conference on that date.

The BPW/Delaware Institute for Leadership Development was established last year as a certificate program. Its purpose is to provide excellent and timely information on topics related to career development. Program fees are 1/3 to 1/2 the usual fees for similar workshops so that expense is no barrier.

While the cost is low the quality is not. Workshop facilitators are among the best in the area and topics are chosen based on need.

The conference on Saturday, Oct. 3, offers two workshops, each a half day in length. "Principles of Leadership" will be presented by Floyd Larmore, area director for Dale Carnegie Training. Improving communication skills, learning techniques to reduce stress, sharpening memory through association, and achieving balance in "the wheel of life" are subtopics to be explored. Students of Mr. Larmore can also expect to be treated to a day designed to build self-esteem and foster a positive attitude, as all Dale Carnegie courses do.

Then have a relaxed lunch, with time for networking and a mini massage, compliments of the Wellness Connection of Dover.

The afternoon workshop will feature Kevin Smith of Kevin Smith Resource and Organization Development. Mr. Smith will cover the "Basics of Grantwriting" including where to find grants, effective proposal writing techniques and resource development. As a consultant, Mr. Smith assists organizations in strategic planning and the development of boards, volunteers and material resources.

The Leadership Conference will be held at the Ulysses S. Washington Cooperative Extension Building on the Delaware State University Campus in Dover. Participation is limited to 125 and the deadline for registration is Sept. 25. The cost for the day is $25 (you both save 10% if you register with a friend). BPW members pay $20. Workshop fee includes a continental breakfast, box lunch, mini massage and both workshops. For registration information, call Linda Chick at 398-3898 or fax your request to 398-5196. The BPW/DE Institute for Leadership Development will award 7 credits for those who complete the day.

School Bells Ring

Students, teachers and parents are counting the days until school begins. This is the last week of freedom for Lake Forest pupils who begin classes Tuesday, Sept. 1. Teachers returned last week for in-service training and to prepare their classrooms.

The district welcomed some new faces over the summer, including Dr. Richard Seyler, Superintendent of Schools. Mr. Seyler returns to Lake Forest after a stint in Smyrna schools.

Lake Forest High School students will be greeted by their new principal, Michael Carr. He has some large shoes to fill, but Fred Duffy is just a stone's throw away in his new position as Curriculum Director for Special Education.

W.T. Chipman Principal, William Garey, returns to his post as do principals of North and South, Dr. Judy Craig and Earl Griffin, respectively. Principal of East is Edward Dean returning to that post after a year of filling in as acting superintendent.

Middle and high school student schedules are beginning to appear in mailboxes and bus drivers traditionally touch base with parents before school begins; class assignments for elementary students are posted at each school. For further information, call the Central Business Office at 284-3020.

United Way Drive Begins

The United Way Committee for the Lake Forest area has been meeting diligently to prepare for the 1998 campaign. Barry Breeding, Branch Manager for Wilmington Trust, fills the post of chair. Vice-chair is John Starke, General Manager of New Look Homes.

A first United Way event, and pre-official kickoff was a brief rally at the Lake Forest High School auditorium. Teachers and administrators were encouraged to beat their record contributions made during last year's campaign.

The United Way drive officially begins September 17 and ends on Thanksgiving Day.

Career Closet Offers Fall Attire

BPW/DE reminds you that the Career Closet is a great way to save money while shopping for fall. Located in the Blue Hen Mall and Corporate Center, the Career Closet is a non-profit resale shop offering affordably priced good used clothing appropriate for the workplace. The store is open the first and third Thursday and Friday of each month from 10 a.m.-6 p.m.

Right and Wrong: There's a Difference; Flag Protection Amendment is Right

By John Schneider

My grandfather was a veteran of World War I. he was the one who first taught me about the flag and what it meant to him - not so much with his words but by his actions. it was my grandfather who taught me how to fold a flag and how to raise one. he taught me that the United States flag was never to touch the ground and why.

I have never forgotten those days on my grandfather's knee or out in front of the house, raising the flag in the morning and lowering it at night.

Like most Americans, I was shocked at the Supreme Court decision back in 1989 that ruled flag desecration a form of protected free speech. That shock tore a hole in my heart.

It has been over nine years since that decision, and it is still tearing at my heart. There are those who have tried to convince me that prohibiting desecration of our flag will somehow harm the First Amendment. That is absolute, unadulterated, hog wash.

One of the rewards of my profession is the ability to travel this great nation, and meet my fellow citizens. I have been to literally thousands of cities, towns and villages across our land. I have been to Valley Forge and pondered along with my children the suffering and sacrifice that occurred there that one cold Winter.

In all my travels, what continues to amaze me most about our country is our people. We have an unbelievable mixture of cultures, ideas and opinions. Yet, despite our many differences, the people of this "noble experiment" called the United States of America have learned not just to get along, but to unify as "One Nation Under God" into the strongest nation in the history of the world.

This hasn't happened because "We the people" have some dangerous disregard for our Constitution or because we search for ways to keep unpopular opinions from being heard. Nothing could be further from the truth.

My family is like the majority of American families. My children know disrespect is wrong. My children know violent acts are wrong. My children know that it is wrong to desecrate our flag. They understand that our flag is a symbol of honor and respect for those who died for our freedom. They know it is a symbol of opportunity and national unity.

So, how do I explain to them that some would have us believe that it is OK to desecrate the U.S. Flag? Do I tell them that our freedoms will somehow be strongest if we show moderation in our basic principles, if we compromise our values? Do I tell them that their daddy and his daddy and her daddy were wrong? That there is no such things as a line that cannot be crossed without suffering the consequences? That there is no absolute truth...or a difference between right and wrong? Must I tell them that? I will not! I cannot!

Protecting the U.S. flag is an issue of basic American values. Right versus wrong. Lines not just drawn in the sand, but indelibly carved into the foundation of this country and into the hearts of our patriots, washed with the blood of those who believed that "Old Glory" stood for something.

Burning the flag communicates fast they should not have had.

Say "Hi" to your neighbor and watch out for our kids. And remember, if you need help or have a question call me at 398-4477.

Religion

Prospect U.M. Church News

"Brethren, I count not myself to have apprehended, but this one thing I do, forgetting those things which are behind, and reaching forth unto those things which are before."

Philippians 3:13
Rev. James Carmean Jr. is the minister at Prospect Church which is located five miles west of Harrington on route 14 in Vernon. We invite you to worship with us. We have Sunday School for all ages at 8:45 a.m. and the Worship Service is at 9:45 a.m.

Vivian Newnam is the organist. Mary Lou Wright and Alison Haldeman are the pianists.

On Sunday Shirley Calvert was the greeter and John Calvert was the acolyte. The Introit by the choir was "We Have Come Into His House." They sang "Heaven Came Down and Glory Filled My Soul" for the anthem. Kerry Woodward prayed the Offertory Prayer. Cameron Freeman and Jonny Woodward were ushers.

Rev. Carmean read scripture from Philippians 3:13 & 14. The title of his message was "Words For A Higher Calling." Our God is on the throne seven days a week, 24 hours a day. He is our greatest friend. Paul tried to tell the Philippians how important it was to not give up and to run the race for God.

The thing we should be looking for is ahead of us and not behind us. God has a way of planning a purpose for his people.

We should let go of the old things we used to do and look forward to a higher calling. Satan has planted a lot of traps in this world for us to fall into. He does everything he can to try to destroy the life of a Christian. Paul was saying to the Philippians "Let go and let God" and we should still do that today.

Paul told them three things, you must forget the ground you covered.

You must reach forth for that which is before us in the race and you must press forward toward the mark.

Thought for the Week
This world is not our home, we are just passing through.

Sunday afternoon we held our church picnic at Camp Pecometh. We had an abundance of good food and much good fellowship. We had a very impressive worship service down by the Chester River.

We had beautiful singing. Vivian Dill read a reading about "Humpty Dumpty and The King."

Phoebe Anthony, Herman Zeitler and Rev. Carmean each talked about baptism. Russell Legates prayed the closing prayer. After the service Rev. Carmean baptized four people in the Chester River.

Aug. 29 - Hearts of Fire will be in concert at Prospect Church beginning at 7 p.m.

Pilgrim Chapel Church News

"The Son of God became the Son of Man to change sons of men into Sons of God."

Morning Worship began with all the church notices and prayer requests. The next big event being discussed is the Church Yard Sale. Paul Baker has the details and welcomes your contacting him if you have questions. The big need is for us to check our attics, cellars or closets looking for good items that we no longer want which can be a treasure to someone else.

Congregational hymns were "Come, Thou Fount," and "Take

Time To Be Holy" and "Have Thine Own Way, Lord." We certainly do miss our Pilgrim Chapel Choir during their vacation this month, and look forward to their return. They add so much to our Worship Service.

Rev. Scott preached a timely sermon entitled "Truth Is Fallen in the Street" from Isaiah 59:9-15. We are to look at our family homes, our national leaders, and our nation and make our voice heard over all the turmoil. It is not for us to be judgemental because God is our Judge, but to ask for God's guidance. To have the freedoms that our country sought in the beginning g- we have to take responsibility toward maintaining those freedoms.

What we do publically carries weight in many eyes. What we do in private is the true measure of our worth, and be assured God knows all. We pray to God to lead us in the paths that He would have us take.

Thought for the Week

If you walk with gid, you won't run with the world.

SOUND OFF

Sound Off provides a forum for readers who wish to express opinions about public issues but not give their names. To Sound Off to The Harrington Journal, call 629-2050 (Sussex County) or 678-8255 (Kent County) any time, day or night. Keep your message brief. The Harrington Journal will edit calls for clarity, accuracy, brevity and libel. Not all Sound Off calls are printed. Comments are selected for publication based on their timeliness and relevance to local issues.

He committed a hate crime

I'm calling in reference to the man who was arrested for burning the crosses in the Williamsville area. He should have been arrested for a hate crime. This was a black man who tried to blame this cross burning on others because he was ripped off by white men during a drug deal.

Put yourself in their shoes

In reference to the spraying of the farmers and the bees as stated by a caller, why don't these people walk one mile in a farmer's shoes and find out what they are talking about first about the spraying? If Delaware doesn't suit them, why don't they move out? Who is going to miss them? After all the farmers feed their mouths so they must be pretty healthy or they wouldn't be sitting back griping.

Let's promote our own

Lake Forest, we have nine building administrators, and only four live in the district. The last three have been hired: one from Christina; one from Newark; and one from Caesar Rodney. Could we start trying to promote our own so my money stays closer to home?

Some kids have nothing to do

I have a gripe about the water park down in Killens Pond. Unless you are over four feet tall, it is advisable that you do not even try to go into the pool. It's no fun if you can't go down the water slide or do any of the other fun things that are there. If a child is too big for the baby pool and too small for the big slide, what fun is?

Others don't get special treatment

I've been watching with interest the Monica Lewinsky and Bill Clinton fiasco. I guess I have one question. Why is the Commander in Chief of our Armed Forces permitted to commit adultery while no other officer within the military may stay in the military if he does that with anyone who is a non-commissioned person within the ranks? Monica Lewinsky certainly has no ranking in Washington. Therefore, I think our president should be court-martialed.

Environmentalists shifting blame

Poultry and manure have always been considered a valuable resource as a substitute for commercial fertilizer. The number of incidents of water quality related issues that directly ties to poultry and manure are very few. Many environmentalist have been quick to blame agriculture for all of it. You rarely hear environmentalists talk about run off from golf courses, shopping malls, developments, and last but not least failed septic systems. All farmers want is fairness and good science, not a rush to judgment. Let's be fair environmentalists.

Deal with the problem

It is very difficult to make any kind of educated suggestion concerning chicken waste. There has only been speculations about chicken waste being the cause of environmental problems. The truth is that maybe farmers are partly to blame, but so are residents or businesses who let their septic systems go without maintenance, everyone who uses fertilizers to have a greener lawn, which makes up a great percentage of the population, and those who dump waste into our water on a daily basis. Farmers are simply the target at this moment because environmentalists can't find the sole cause that is affecting the quality of our waters. There is no one cause or group to blame, get that through your heads. We are all contribute in a small way, which then adds up to a huge problem. So stop wasting your time blame shifting and start dealing with the problem at hand before it is too late.

Social promotion doesn't work

National Educators believe that social promotion is good for the child because it helps his self-esteem. Isn't that wonderful? I wish my employer would give me pay raises to help my self-esteem. It just doesn't happen people! Something is wrong with this Education Association. They are admitting to their inability to teach people and children. It's unreal.

The least you can do is ask

The issue of people putting up campaign signs who are running for office really disturbs me. To think that they are grown people who think that they have the ability to be a leader in the community or in the state. Representing our people, yet they have the gall and the nerve to put up signs on your property and not even call and ask permission. They could at least call and ask if it's OK to put signs on the property that owners are paying taxes on.
