

Entered as second class matter on May 1, 1924, at the postoffice at Harrington, Delaware, under the Act of March 3, 1879.

Correspondents are requested to write on only one side of the paper, and be sure and WRITE PLAINLY, ESPECIALLY NAMES.

Articles for publication must be accompanied by the name of the WRITER to insure their insertion, but not necessarily for public view.

In future publication in the current week, all communications should be in this office as soon as possible, certainly not later than Tuesday.

MEMORIALS and OBITUARIES will be charged at 10 cents per line.

With George Bernard Shaw visiting there, and Greta Garbo on her way back, California has enough misfortunes without the earthquake.

Jaques Stern, Paris banker, says he can see France paying the United States. Maybe the visibility is better over there than here.

Judge Morschauer, aged 70, of the New York Supreme Court, finds people better than they used to be. Maybe the Judge is too old to get around much.

A piece of gold, of unique design was found on a battlefield and recently brought to America. The peculiar part of the affair is the fact that the coin was brought from a French battlefield.

Senator Simonton, President Pro Tem of the Senate, would require oath of Senate visitors. This is unnecessary. Most visitors, after inspecting the Senate a few minutes, give their oaths freely.

Considerable amusement was occasioned by the report in the morning papers that when the ballots were counted on a proposition at the M. E. Conference at Rehoboth, more votes were cast than there were delegates present. We hasten to defend the Harrington delegates at the Conference. They are not politicians, and, therefore, could not have had anything to do with the miscount. It must have been delegates from some other church.

WE DEMAND OUR PLACE IN THE SUN

We are in receipt of an attractive booklet issued by the Bureau of Markets of the State Board of Agriculture. It has excellent subject matter and is profusely illustrated, altogether a splendid booklet.

But glancing through the booklet, we are impressed by one fact—a startling sin of omission: Harrington is not mentioned. The booklet contains photographs of some sand near Rehoboth, various edifices of historical significance in various parts of the State, Cooch's Bridge, muskrats on a marsh, the duPont building in Wilmington, some wild geese, several ancient churches, famous in tradition, a quail's nest containing seventeen eggs, school-houses at Felton, Greenwood, Ellendale and other places, pure-bred cows, the University of Delaware, peppers at Bridgeville, strawberries at Selbyville, butter beans at Millford—and many other things. But the State Board of Agriculture neglected to give an illustration of the greatest stimulator of agriculture in the State—the Kent & Sussex County Fair, at Harrington—the biggest and most successful small town fair in the United States. In addition to the Fair, Harrington has a magnificent school building—and school; the best theatre down-State, two handsome bank buildings, the liveliest Chamber of Commerce on the Eastern Shore, the best home-town baseball team in this section of the country—and even quail nests and butter bean vines—and foxes which much be classed as an agricultural product, since the State gives them precedence over poultry and growing crops—but these things escaped attention in the booklet.

We herewith serve notice on the Bureau of Markets of the State Board of Agriculture that we are rearing on our hind legs and voicing our clamor for recognition.

MR. BRISBANE TELLS 'EM

Arthur Brisbane commends Mussolini for the latter's efforts to increase Italy's population by seven million within the next few years by an increased birth rate. Mr. Brisbane also deprecates the fact that the United States has such rigid immigration laws, and cites the fact that these immigrants might be cultivating our millions of now idle acres. He asks: "How can you meet the problem of OVER-PRODUCTION EXCEPT WITH OVER-CONSUMPTION?" In reply to this, we might ask Mr. Brisbane: "When we have no jobs for millions of our people, how could we provide jobs for seventeen million more?" Mr. Brisbane further states: "We have room here and could immediately feed and provide with everything they need. TWO HUNDRED AND FIFTY MILLION MORE PEOPLE." We are not feeding and providing with everything they need the 123,000,000 now here—and so far as taking care of two hundred and fifty million more, making a total of 373,000,000, the government survey says that the number of people a country will sustain is not determined by the land area, but by the annual rainfall; and gives in round figures the amount of rainfall required for the growing of grain and fruits and for domestic and all other purposes. This survey states that it would be impossible for the United States to support more than 300,000,000 people, which is exactly 73,000,000 more than Mr. Brisbane says we should have. Mr. Brisbane receives more than $1,000,000 per year for writing these articles—and we get nothing for writing this. Both of us are overpaid.

CLOSING THE BANKS

The swift and decisive action of President Roosevelt in declaring a banking holiday for the nation was undoubtedly essential and came none too soon. There had been a gradual lessening of confidence for some time, and this finally created a condition of panic. This lack of confidence was accelerated by the publication of the loans made by the Reconstruction Finance Corporation to banks of the country. Following this, the closing of the banks in Michigan brought about a spread of the panic until it had engulfed the whole nation. The bank holiday was necessary to give the people a chance to recover normal mental processes, to protect the banks—even though most of them were sound and liquid—and to prevent a raid on our gold stocks.

There was speculation against the dollar abroad and the withdrawal of foreign gold holdings from America. This in itself would have caused no real damage. But the panicky conditions had so frightened numbers of Americans that they were beginning to withdraw gold for hoarding and sooner or later our immense stock of gold would have been depleted had the panic continued.

Aside, however, from the necessity for swift action to save the banking situation, the holiday will be of benefit in another way. It has already changed the psychology of the American people. We have come to realize that we are all "in the same boat," that part of America cannot be safe and secure unless it is all secure. The smugness of the citizen who thought he was a little wiser than his neighbor is gone. It is much easier for the average citizen to bear his financial troubles if he sees the same conditions existent all around him. Maybe this is selfishness, but it is human nature nevertheless. And so now that we have all come up against the blank wall together, there is a greater spirit of determination in America to see the thing through and win the battle against depression, than there has been at any time since the stock market crash of 1929.

Indeed, there is something akin to the war spirit arising in the nation. People are beginning to buckle on their swords, figuratively speaking, and getting ready to go out and battle against depression. All they need now is to be told what to do. There is grim determination on every hand just as there was in the fateful days of 1917 and 1918. But best of all, in addition to grim determination, there is a grim sense of humor. People in general are joking about their plight as they go about seeking a way to remedy it. This is the real American spirit. It has won many times in the past and it will win again, if our people are led along a straight path that runs toward stable finance.—National Republic.

A Bank Of Approved Soundness

It establishes beyond question that this is a strong, well-managed bank, able to serve and protect the interests of every depositor.

We are glad to be able to offer the service, cooperation, and protection of this bank to our old friends and new friends in this community. We have kept faith with you throughout the whole of a dark and difficult period. We shall continue to keep faith with you in the brighter days ahead, serving and protecting your interests, as always.

Fire of unknown origin badly damaged the residence on the farm of H. A. Kent, and occupied by his son, Ebe Kent, near Paradise Alley, late Wednesday evening. The Harrington Fire Company, as well as several companies from nearby towns, fought the blaze and held it in check, but it was a stubborn foe, as it was between the walls. The interior of the building was badly damaged and the furniture was practically a total loss, partly covered by insurance.

Parties with a penchant for over-size shoes and large clothes broke into the clothing store of Smith & Raughley last night and made away with several pairs of shoes and three or four suits of clothing. Entrance was gained from the alley at the rear of the store.

THE AMERICAN LEGION SUPPORTS PRESIDENT

Special dispatch to E. Sylvester, Commander Harrington Post No. 7, American Legion:

Louis Johnson, national commander of the American Legion, has issued the following message to the 10,709 posts of the Legion, calling upon them to support the President of the United States:

"On the day following the new President's inaugural oath I pledged the million men of the American Legion to give their utmost loyalty and help in the complex and difficult problems now facing the chief executive. I stated, then, in a nation-wide broadcast in which the President participated, that the American Legion wants nothing more than to be of service to America in this situation as our members were in 1917-18.

"The time to render that service has arrived. Congress has given to the President the authority to put into effect the economies the President believes necessary to restore the financial stability of our country. This new legislation is fraught with gravest consequences to the disabled veteran. The President, under the authority given him, has powers of life and death over thousands of men who once gladly offered their lives in a period of national emergency.

"The Legion has every faith in the discretion, fairness and the justice with which the President will deal with this problem—involving as it does in many instances the need for compassion and mercy.

"The President needs the support of every loyal American and today I am calling upon the 10,709 Legion Posts and our one million members throughout our great organization to uphold the pledge that I have made as the National Commander of the American Legion. I am asking that special meetings be held by every Legion Post where it will officially express, by a resolution, such loyalty and utmost help. Many of our Posts already have taken the initiative and set dates for such meetings.

"In addition I am tending to the President of the United States the benefit of exhaustive studies the Legion has made throughout the years and the entire facilities of the Legion's National Rehabilitation Committee, that he may have direct contact with and the expert advice and experience of these American Legion officials who have devoted their lives to the rehabilitation of the disabled veterans of the World War.

"There is no question of Legion Loyalty. The patriotism of every member has been proved in his war service and in his peace time devotion to the welfare of our country, as evidenced by his membership in the Legion. In this hour of emergency we are but eager to serve the Stars and Stripes again under whatever orders our new commander in chief may give. Many may disagree with the new law, but now in this crisis we must take his orders. We have never asked anything for ourselves but what we felt was just and what was first proposed by the American people through their representatives in Congress. We have fought long and hard for the proper care of our disabled comrades, and they will always remain our first and greatest obligation save only God and Country.

"Our President is confronted with problems as great as ever faced the chief executive of the United States at the beginning of his administration. He has not faltered in action needed as he sees it. Like a brave soldier in battle he is giving unstintingly of himself. Yet, with all his leadership and fine courage, he cannot win the war on the depression, and he cannot lead us back to the mountain tops, unless all citizens accord him their utmost help. The need for patriotism is as urgent today as it was in 1917-18. Our nation needs a reawakened spirit of unity and confidence. Our citizens need a re-inspired willingness to follow the leadership of our duly elected chief executive. The American Legionaire is that kind of a citizen, and it is the purpose of our organization to set an example for all citizens to follow in giving to our President and Government our utmost faith and assistance, whenever it is needed and whatever the necessary cost in sacrifice may be, including life itself.

"I again pledge the Legion to fulfill its preamble declaration of service to God and Country, and to 'keep on keeping on.'

"Louis Johnson,
National Commander,
The American Legion"

MILK DEALERS IN CONFERENCE

A committee representing the several production areas of the Inter-State Milk Producers' Association, is holding a conference with Dr. James E. Russell, president of the New Jersey State Board of Health, concerning the controversy existing between the milk producers and the milk dealers in the State of Delaware, Eastern Shore of Maryland, eastern Pennsylvania and southern New Jersey, which the Inter-State Milk Producers' Association comprises.

This conference is being held in regard to a proposed moratorium until January 1, on the requirements recently made demanding that the producers keep the milk below 60 degrees until received by the stations.

PASS AMENDMENT TO LEGALIZE RACE BETS

By a vote of 25 to 8 the House yesterday afternoon concurred in the Senate amendment to Representative

Price's bill to amend the constitution to legalize betting at horse races and to make the use of pari-mutuel machines legal at such races. The bill as amended was then passed by a vote of 25 to 8.

PERSONAL SERVICE

Ours is not a large organization, but a small personal one, designed to render friendly, helpful, personal service. We supervise every service rendered—act as a friend and advisor in time of sorrow. Our aim at all times is to be helpful in every possible way.

ON THE AIR

President Roosevelt when speaking about banking conditions said, "it means as much to you as to me to cooperate,."

Last week we had requests for information about Harrington from Iowa, Indiana, Oregon and New York. It means as much to YOU as any one else to help advertise Harrington.
