National Topics Interpreted by William Bruckart

Washington.—While all of us are wondering whether the new year upon which we are about to embark will see an end to the misery and suffering wrought by the depression...

Some months ago, I wrote in these columns observations gathered in Washington that Japan was on a fence, undecided which way to jump...

But that is not all. Clouds of storm-portending intensity are gathering in Europe. They center about another Franco-German conflict.

Military and naval students here, and there are some of the greatest of the military and naval scientists in the world located in Washington...

A picture of conditions among the powers at this writing, as given me by men acquainted with the details, shows relationships to be something like this:

Russia and France regard Hitlerized Germany as a constant menace and they have understandings that take in Poland and several other lesser states that always have been aligned with France as military allies.

Wilfred Fleisher, Tokyo correspondent of the New York Herald Tribune, reported to his newspaper the other day that Gen. Sadao Araki, Japanese war minister, had called the attention of his people in a speech to the fact that this is "dog year."

As the political maneuvers continue, a good many economic factors and developments have been going on unnoticed while we here in the United States worried about the mortgage that was due, or about a job, or about some other purely domestic matter.

Also, Japan has been buying scrap iron for a year or more. That has been almost the only market for scrap iron which the United States has had, but it has been a good market.

And last, but of great importance, is the news report that vast deposits of nickel have been discovered in Mongolia. Nickel, as every one knows, is a highly important metal in war plans.

So it seems to me that when President Roosevelt spoke, in a dinner speech commemorating the late President Wilson's birthday, that there was danger of war, he told the country then of a danger that is much more grave than he desires to admit at this time.

President Roosevelt is following out a policy in respect of his dealings with congress. Fear to Oppose when he began President when he was forced to call it into extraordinary session last March.

Now, the President is doing to same thing. He saw the advantages of the system that he was forced to use once, and is capitalizing again on the personal popularity which he has throughout the country.

Politicians, even in the President's own party, are mystified by his wide popularity. And when a politician is mystified, he doesn't know what to do about it!

And while the subject under discussion is the personal popularity of the President, Washington observers attached great importance to his personal visit to the halls of congress for delivery of his message on the state of the Union.

Present indications are that there will be little meddling with the tax laws this session.

Avoid New Tax Levies. The program of the administration, as thus far unfolded, is read by many as avoiding new tax levies until congress returns in January, 1933.

But more taxes will have to be levied in another year. The President has proposed to congress the greatest peacetime budget in history, a budget that proposes the appropriation of $10,000,000,000.

For instance, when the public debt reached its hitherto high point, about $26,500,000,000, the interest on it amounted to $900,000,000 annually, or about $80,000,000 a month, more than $2,500,000 a day.

The recent White House reception to the members of the judiciary brought forth a humorous story about a naval aide to the President and a southern girl whose identity remains undisclosed.

"Lady, if you want to fix a stock-in," Commander Powell is quoted as replying. "I might help you by finding a dark corner. But if you are going to use it with that handsome young man, there are no dark corners around here."

"I'LL BE GETTIN' ALONG"

By ANNE CAMPBELL

HE WAS shabby and grizzled and old. And he stood at the side of the road. In his arms were his clothes, no great load.

He had tried all in vain for a ride. As he stood in the afternoon sun. And his old, homeward bound, my work done.

At last, as he hummed a blithe song, He turned down the street toward the light. Of the sun sliding down from its height.

"I'll be gettin' along!" and his tone Had a ringing and resolute sound, And his old feet struck hard on the ground.

And I, when I heard him, grew strong! In spite of the difficult years Because of the pain and the tears, I, too, "will be gettin' along!"

AVOID FORCING STRAIGHT LEFT ARM

SO MUCH has been written about the straight left arm that the average golfer forces himself to adopt it. There is little doubt that it has numerous advantages for one who can adapt himself to its specifications...

perhaps be a better idea to allow a slight bend and thus gain a measure of that relaxation that is so essential to a successful golf stroke.

Harry Varren enjoyed considerable success without using a straight left, and there are many among the present-day golfers, including Harry Cooper (above), who have found it more advantageous to discard the straight left, which did not suit their game, in favor of a freer swing.

THE HAZARD OF NAGGING

A CAMDEN Judge refused a man a divorce on the ground of a nagging wife. For, said the Judge, nagging is not cruelty, but one of the hazards of marriage. And "a man must take his chances when he marries!"

For with so many states exacting nagging to a major vice by calling it "cruelty" and therefore good reason for divorce, men have given insufficient thought to that hazard in marriage.

BEDTIME STORY FOR CHILDREN

BLACKY THE CROW DROPS A HINT

REDDY FOX sat on his doorstep in the Old Pasture feeling very fine indeed. In the first place he had had a splendid sleep. All the long, sunny morning Reddy had slept, for he had been out all the night before.

Aside from this impatience, Reddy was perfectly happy. He had tried all sorts of ways to get Jerry Muskrat up on land where he could be caught, perhaps be a better idea to allow a slight bend and thus gain a measure of that relaxation that is so essential to a successful golf stroke.

And I, replied Blacky, "can tell you little more except that I saw Jerry Muskrat a long way from the Smiling Pool."

Reddy jumped as if a sharp thorn had suddenly pricked him. "What's that you said?" he exclaimed. "I said that I saw Jerry Muskrat a long way from the Smiling Pool," replied Blacky. "He was 'way over toward Farmer Brown's cornfield."

English, French, and German influences may be observed in the Dutch civilization. The outdoor sidewalk cafes are French, as are the hotels and their terminology.

HARRINGTON CHAMBER OF COMMERCE MET LAST NIGHT

A brief but interesting session of the Harrington Chamber of Commerce was held last night in the Community Room of the First National Bank.

The speaker of the evening was Mr. Leathers, who, with associates, recently purchased a 300 acre tract of land near Canterbury for development purposes.

This tract will be subdivided, the tracts ranging from five to twenty acres, and upon each tract a modern bungalow will be built, with electricity, hot and cold water, and all modern improvements. Already more requests have been made for these properties than the company will be able to supply, and Mr. Leathers contemplates buying and developing other property. It is the purpose to attract buyers from the congested areas, people of middle age and older, who have saved some money, but find it impossible to find gainful occupation.

"We do not tell these people that they can make fortunes," said Mr. Leathers; "nor do we tell them that they can make money. We tell them that they can make a living—and that's what they want."

Especially heartening to the members was Mr. Leathers' statement that but for the Harrington Chamber of Commerce he would not have come to Delaware.

Mr. McDaniel, associated with Mr. Leathers, also made a brief talk.

Clarence S. Morris asked the body to consider a petition to the next Legislature, asking that a change be made in Harrington's charter to permit the appointment of a city manager. This was carried over until a later meeting.

W. J. Paskey told of coming to Delaware from New York at middle age, and of his experience on a twenty-acre farm.

O. C. Passmore told of President Roosevelt's request for "Prosperity Week" and suggested that this event be postponed until the beginning of work on our much-delayed sewer system.

THE PRESIDENT'S BIRTHDAY

It is a humane as well as a happy thought which lies behind the plan to raise an endowment for the Warm Springs Foundation for Infantile Paralysis, and offer it to President Roosevelt as a gift on his birthday, Jan. 30. A series of balls in his honor is projected for communities in all parts of the country, the proceeds of which will be turned over to this beneficent institution. Nothing could be nearer the President's heart. It is he who has made Warm Springs and what it symbolizes, near to the heart of the American people. They recall his own uncomplaining and gallant and successful fight against the affliction which overtook him; and which threatened to end completely his public life. They also remember how his sympathies and hopes turned to the help and relief of others crippled as he temporarily had been. Now at Warm Springs an establishment with skilled and experienced treatment is able to work almost miracles of recovery, and needs only larger resources in order to extend its benefits more widely. All must hope that this plan to delight and cheer the President by such a birthday present, insuring as it would the larger success of Warm Springs, will be carried out enthusiastically and triumphantly.—New York Times.

DAIRYMEN ORDERED TO MARK BOTTLES

The State health laws concerning the labeling of milk bottle caps or other containers of milk will be rigidly enforced, it was decided Wednesday after a special meeting of the Wilmington Board of Health with R. C. Beckett, State sanitary engineer. After March 1 violations of the law will result in prompt prosecution. The penalty is not less than $10 nor more than $25 fine for each day the offence is continued.

It was stated Wednesday that some large dealers have been selling milk in Wilmington which is not up to the grade marked on the bottle caps. The law is also being violated by several dairies which market milk in Wilmington as to the color of the printing on the bottle caps for the different grades. All grade A milk bottle caps must be printed in green, according to the State law, and grade B in red ink.

The name of the contents as "milk, buttermilk or cream" must be indicated on the bottle cap, as must also the grade of the contents. Furthermore, the law provides, the word "pasteurized" must be printed on the bottle cap if the contents are pasteurized, or the word "raw" if the contents are raw milk. The name of the producer or distributor also must appear on the cap, the label of which shall be of a size and kind approved by the city milk inspector.

The law further provides that the bottle caps shall contain no marks or words not approved by the milk inspector.

A general check-up on other points of the health laws governing the production and distribution of milk and milk products probably will be made shortly, in addition to the constant inspections of its quality made by the milk inspectors.

Circulate Your Money

THE BEST WAY TO DO THAT IS TO DEPOSIT WHAT YOU DO NOT UTILIZE (IT THEN HAS NO UTILITY) WITH YOUR BANK. IT GOES OUT OF THE BANK TO RESPONSIBLE PEOPLE WHO CAN UTILIZE IT. . . . M. P. CHURCH NOTES

A three-act comedy-drama, "The Red-Headed Stepchild", is soon to be given under the auspices of the Loyal Workers Class. It will be directed by Mrs. R. W. Sapp. Tickets will be on sale soon.

The contest this year seems to be gathering momentum slowly. Perhaps much of this is due to so much sickness in our community. The first points in this new contest were won by the ladies. Ten points are given each week in the contest for the class making the best average, and last Sunday the ladies won those ten points by the narrowest margin. The men and women each had thirty-five present, but the enrollment for the contest thus far is: women, 41; men, 42.

This Sunday the contest starts in earnest. Under the rules this year, a person must attend three sessions of the Sunday School before any credits are given, and next Sunday is the third week. Present indications point to this margin being close. Five credits extra are given to each person if they attend ten Sundays during the contest. To get these extra credits one must start by Sunday week. You are invited to come and join us.

The pastor will preach Sunday morning and evening. The subject for the morning sermon will be "Too Good." Text: "Be not righteous overmuch."—Ecclesiastes 7:16.

M. E. CHURCH NOTES

The services of the Sabbath interesting and helpful to everyone in attendance.

The program of services for Sunday as follows:

9:30 A. M.—An old-fashioned class meeting, led by A. D. McCabe. Visitors always welcome.

9:45 A. M.—The church school in all departments. Classes for all ages and efficient teachers for each class; H. J. Ramsdell, superintendent, in charge.

The attendance contest between the ladies and the girls and the men and the boys got off on Sunday to a good start, with the ladies and the girls leading with 20 more present than the men and boys. That can easily be overcome, men and boys. Just have 21 more than the ladies and girls next Sunday. The side that loses has to arrange the program and furnish the refreshments for a reception to the new preacher and family about the third or fourth week in April.

The "Mark-Up" on new building amounted to $43.47. The "Rear Guards" was the banner class.

The offering next Sunday will be for current expenses of the school.

11:00 A. M.—The pastor will deliver the morning sermon, having for his subject "The Golden Age." Text: "Say not, thou what is the cause that the former days are better than these? For thou dost not enquire wisely concerning this."—Eccl. 7:10.

Only 11 more Sundays of the Conference year. Let all the members do their best to be present each Sunday.

6:45 P. M.—The Epworth League devotional service, led by Miss Sarah McCabe. Subject: "The New Patriotism." Scripture: Matt. 16:24-26. All young people invited.

7:30 P. M.—The Peoples Popular Praise and Gospel Service, Mrs. May Sheldrake directing the singing and Mrs. C. Fred Wilson at the pipe organ. The pastor's evening subject: "The Tragedy of the Blighted Memory." Texts: "Remember now thy Creator in the days of thy youth." Story of Silver

Mexican Bank Runner Carrying 2,000 Pesos in Silver.

Prepared by National Geographic Society, Washington, D. C.—VNU Service. SILVER has been in the spotlight with gold, during recent months in which money standards, commodity prices, and international debts have been the leading topics of discussion among the world's financial experts.

Through its long, glittering career silver has swayed the destiny of men and nations. In the romance and adventure of mining, man's bold quest for silver led to war, to daring exploration, and to conquest of savage lands.

The Drama of Silver. Trace the strange, checkered drama of silver through the centuries, and you see how vividly it parallels man's own dramatic conquest of nature and his rise to higher standards of life.

Tradition says the world's first silver mine lay somewhere around the Mediterranean. The ancients linked silver with Luna; its symbol was a crescent moon. "Lunar caustic," or silver nitrate, is so derived. Man's search for it, according to Greek myths, was a moon-madness.

As early as 600 B. C. taxes from silver mines figured in the Athenian budget. Both Xenophon and Aristotle told of their wealth, and Strabo, writing about 30 B. C., tells of their being exhausted, as all mines eventually are.

For more than two centuries Mexico has been the world's greatest source of silver, mining in that time more than five billion dollars' worth. In 1592 she mined nearly half of all the world's output of new silver.

Uses Passion Play to Show Tolerance

Hitler to Make Propaganda of Great Spectacle.

London.—The Nazi government not only will permit the famous Passion play to be held in 1934 at Oberammergau without attempt to "Aryanize" it, but will use the greatest of all religious spectacles as an instrument to show the world that Germany is not a nation of intolerance and persecution, says the Chicago Herald-Examiner.

promotion department for the Passion play. From these floods of literature have been released to newspapers, magazines, and all other avenues of public information. Attention is drawn to special inducements in the matter of reduced fare round-trips from anywhere and the very low inclusive cost of the stay in Oberammergau.

As a result of balloting for parts in the play, held on receipt of the news from Berlin, under the supervision of Herr Preisinger, who operates the town's most popular restaurant and beer garden, Alois Lang has again been chosen as the Christus. This gifted actor, who like the majority of his neighbors, is a woodcarver by profession, played the same part in 1930.

Herr Preisinger, although judge of election, was doomed to a bitter disappointment in the voting for the girl best suited to play Mary Magdalene. In 1930 the role went to his daughter, Hanzl, a buxom lass who is the chief barmaid in her father's beer garden. Hanzl in a close contest lost out to Clara Mayr, whose father, Hans Mayr, has for two decades enacted the role of Judas Iscariot. Herr Mayr, this coming year, has been cast as King Herod.

Stenographer as Mary. Ann Rutz will play Mary, mother of the Christus. She is a stenographer and is 27 years old; Judas Iscariot is to be interpreted by Hans Zwick, new to the role, but whose father portrayed it in three former performances. Melchior Breitmatzer will be Pontius Pilate; Peter Mendt, Simon Peter; Annas, Anton Lechner. The immense choir, comprising the entire population of the village not engaged in principal parts, will be led by the veteran Guido Diemer and the production will be under the direction of Johann Georg Lang, burgomaster of Oberammergau, and direct descendant of the man who wrote the original play and staged it in 1933.

In the 1930 production of the Passion play more than 50,000 Americans journeyed to Oberammergau to see it. The performances begin at eight in the morning and last till six at night with a two-hour intermission for luncheon. The entire play thus takes a day to present.

EDUCATION

By LEONARD A. BARRETT

Education is dynamite. It is the most dangerous element in civilization.

Education is dynamite. It is the most dangerous element in civilization. Its destructive power is evidenced in many tragic periods of history. If a man culture was at its height when the empire fell, the confidence of the Romans in their economic and financial strength led them to boast "so long as Rome lived the world lived." Education as expressed in various types of culture could not save the disintegration of Roman civilization. All we have left is her poetry and the ruins of her architecture.

In our modern age, Germany furnishes an example of the futility of trusting an educated culture to furnish all the power necessary for successful leadership. Before the war, an advanced degree from a German university was greatly coveted in our academic centers. Today, Germany's most illustrious scientist, driven ruthlessly from her own borders, finds refuge in a lecture hall in an American university.

What about our modern civilization? Much of our Twentieth century culture is attributable to our progress in science. Is education by itself sufficient to guarantee the security of our western civilization? The testimony of history argues, if the end of our education is to develop culture without character, we are headed for the same fate which befell Rome, which would mean the gradual disintegration of western civilization. Plus character, education becomes an asset rather than a liability. The fusion of the moral element in all our processes of education is the most serious task confronting us in our changing social order.

No nation can make permanent a civilization higher than its character inspires. Roger Babson reminds us in one of his books that those who settled in South America sought gold, while those who established the early life in North America, came in search of God.

Kangaroo Population in Australia Is Decreasing

Salt Lake City.—The kangaroo business in Australia is not what it used to be, F. White, New South Wales, here on a visit said. Ordinary people seldom see the animals. The only aliens detained at the island are those who arrive ill, whose papers are suspected of being irregular, or whose relatives or responsible friends fail to appear at the pier or communicate with the immigration department.

Those who are sent to the island seldom are detained more than a week. While there they are shown every courtesy. No longer are the newcomers shoved around like animals in a stockyard, as in former days. Now they are considered as guests.

The Household

By Lydia Le Baron Walker

THE life of an article frequently depends upon the kind of care it is given, a fact which lends an almost human quality to our inanimate possessions, and makes them seem dearer to us.

Whether we have this personal feeling for them or not, it is a matter of economy to observe simple rules for the preservation of our belongings. Wicker furniture in steam-heated rooms will last longer if wiped with a damp cloth or one containing furniture polish to oil the surface, which is in danger of becoming too dry and cracking. Prized pieces of furniture with veneered portions will hold the veneer longer if oil is applied at intervals. And solid wood furniture is made more enduring by being rubbed with a good furniture oil.

Leather goods such as suitcases, shoes, and handbags, benefit from contact with lubricating "dressings" which prevent them from caking, as they will when overdry. In the absence of the commercial products which shoe shops or leather goods stores sell for the purpose, even such available simple lubricants as linseed oil in modest quantity can be applied, not directly but with a few drops on a soft cloth. In olden times lard was used for such rubbing down of shoes.

Caution
In an attempt to preserve polished or varnished wooden surfaces, through moisture, be sure not to use water but an application containing oil. Water will tend to dull the finish. Painted furniture can be wiped with a moist cloth without harm, and to good purpose.

Rinsing out silk stockings after each wearing doubles their term of service. The colors on Turkish rugs are brightened by wiping with a well-dampened soft cloth. Basketry and articles of raffia are better for the occasional application of a damp cloth. These suggestions are offered at a season when indoors heat makes houses unduly dry.

Reflecting Mirrors

The quaint candlesticks of our forefathers' time, the kind with the upright shield partly encircling the candle so that it would not blow out when carried about, is the origin of an electric fixture. Not only were the old candle holders made to carry around, but they were also fitted at one time with fastenings at the back so that the candlestick became a candle sconce when it was hung against the wall. The shield of shining tin acted as a reflector and nearly doubled the light of the flame. Today the electric fixtures on this same plan are sometimes fitted with mirrors instead of the tin, and so reflect better, and stress the vogue of mirrors in present-day decoration.

It is not alone in lighting fixtures that the gay reflections from mirrors are found. Mirrors are again being used to place under flower holders to give back the loveliness of the blossom. Curtain tie-backs of crystal are in high favor. Some of these tie-backs have the backs silvered to become little glistening-looking glasses. Even cornice boards are showing bits of mirrored surfaces and these surely indicate that mirrors have assumed a place of importance in present-day decoration.

Last, but by no means least in the novel use of mirrors today, is as substitutes for textile delfts. Round mirrors are used beneath plates at individual places. They certainly lend glamor to the dining table, especially when delicate stemware of glistening glass is used for serving desserts. This use of mirrors is an outgrowth of their vogue some twenty or more years ago when they became standards for vases of flowers, a use which is renewed now as previously mentioned.

Snake Venom

The poison which venomous snakes possess is produced in the glands which correspond to the ones in front of the human ear. It goes through small channels to the fangs and when the snake bites a small portion is forced into the victim's body. These same glands in non-venomous snakes look the same but produce no poison.

NO "GLAD HAND" HELD OUT HERE

Westerners Not Wanted in Land of Nepal.

After ten years' wandering in untravelled regions of the Orient, I came at last to Nepal, that country of which Percival Landon wrote: "Of all the closed lands of this world—closed by the deliberate will and policy of those who live in them; closed whether from piety, superstition, jealousy, or perhaps above all from mistrust of the European—Nepal is the one survivor."

Only 100 or so Englishmen and perhaps ten other Europeans have known the secret valley of Katmandu and Nepal's capital, "the sacred city of Katmandu." Nepal's inaccessibility is proverbial. Rarely has an exception been made to the rule against the admission of foreigners. The self-importance and self-sufficiency of Katmandu have not been altered by time or the proximity of conquering Europeans. The Nepalese, far from feeling inferior to Europeans, rather look down on them, as I had occasion to learn, Constance Handley writes, in Asia Magazine.

One morning when we were riding in Katmandu we were literally swept into the gutter to permit a Nepalese aristocrat to pass. He was escorted by one of the most fantastic entourages I have ever seen. First came a man galloping on a small un-groomed, wild-manned pony and blowing with might and main upon a conch. He was followed by a cavalcade, in the center of which was a closed Rolls Royce, surrounded by a dozen or more huge men well over six feet, in quaint uniforms, on tiny hill ponies. They looked ridiculous with their feet brushing the ground.

Only the urgently whispered injunctions of my companion kept me from laughing as they swept by. I was warned of the possible dire results of a misplaced smile in a country that has always abhorred even the sight of a white face.

Certainly western women seem an intrusion in this valley of lovely women. The women of Nepal are pale alabaster in color, with chiseled features and perfectly shaped mouths, small teeth like pearls, large brown eyes and lashes that would make our brightest film stars envious. Their costume consists of a bodice and full swinging skirts or trousers. Handsome carved anklets and rings adorn their little feet. From their waving hair hang long bright veils, fastened with ornaments.

British History Books Mum on Events of '76

Only a few very eccentric Englishmen know anything about the War of Independence, the Revolution, the Rebellion, or whatever you wish it to be called, says a writer in Vanity Fair, London.

We are aware, of course, that Lord North muddled the business and that Burke devoted to that muddle many fine passages of English oratory. We are aware that after many protracted transactions the Colonies declared their independence and that the British government, with a fine gesture of fair-mindedness and liberalism, granted them that independence.

We have heard it whispered, even, that in the interval which elapsed between this act of spontaneous generosity and the original difficulty at Boston, some minor military operations occurred. There was a slight incident, we have been told, at a place called Bunker's Hill, and another regrettable occurrence at a place called Yorktown.

But the whole story figures but slightly in our history books, which proceed almost at once to pass on to the more epic and satisfactory episodes of the Napoleonic wars.

Why Liquid Laxatives are Back in Favor

The public is fast returning to the use of liquid laxatives. People have learned that the properly prepared liquid laxative will bring a perfect movement without any discomfort at the time, or after.

The dose of a liquid laxative can be varied to suit the needs of the individual. The action can thus be regulated. A child is easily given the right dose. And mild liquid laxatives do not irritate the kidneys.

Doctors are generally agreed that senna is the best laxative for everybody. Senna is a natural laxative. It does not drain the system like the cathartics that leave you so thirsty. Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is a liquid laxative which relies on senna for its laxative action. It has the average person's bowels as regular as clockwork in a few weeks' time.

You can always get Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin at all druggists, ready for use. Member N. R. A.

SENATE UPHOLDS MEMBERS RIGHTS TO THEIR SEATS

The Republicans had agreed to adopt would completely block the court action in the mandamus suit brought by Mr. Biggs. This, however, according to the explanation of legislative attorneys, is not the case. They contend the adoption of the resolutions will in no way affect the suit.

It is the general belief that the Biggs suit cannot be settled in time for the next session of the Legislature on March 6, due to appeals, arguments and other delays that cannot be avoided in final settlement of an action of such importance. What further action, if any may be taken relative to the three Senators when the Assembly again convenes is a matter of speculation.

Judge Rodney who was confirmed as an associate judge of the State Supreme Court for a term of 12 years by a unanimous vote in executive session of the Senate. The other four appointments made by the Governor were confirmed without opposition, as follows:

Warren C. Newton, to be a member of the board of trustees of the University of Delaware for a term of six years from December 15, 1933.

Robert K. Jones, to be a member of the Industrial Accident Board for a term of six years from December 31, 1933.

Harvey Swain, to be oyster warden to patrol the Mispillion River and to serve during the pleasure of the Governor.

William F. Lang, to be a justice of the peace in Sussex county for a term of four years from January 11, 1934.

While the special session had been called to meet at noon it was 1:25 o'clock before the Senate was called to order by Lieutenant Governor R. F. Corley. The delay was due to caucuses held by the Republican and Democratic members at which each of the political parties decided upon what action to take relative to the seating of three Republican members whose right to membership has been questioned by proceedings now pending before the Superior Court of Kent county.

After preliminaries had been disposed of the Senate adopted Senator Griffenberg's motion that the presiding officer appoint a committee of two to wait upon the Governor and advise him the Senate was in session and waiting for any message he may have for them. Lieutenant Governor Corley appointed Senator Griffenberg and Senator Latchum. When they returned to the chamber Senator Latchum announced the Governor would send them a message within a few minutes and shortly thereafter Secretary of State Grantland appeared and submitted the message together with the list of appointments which the Governor asked be confirmed.

The executive message was brief, pointing out the extraordinary session had been called to consider the Governor's appointment of an associate judge and to act upon such appointments as had been made by the Governor since the adjournment of the General Assembly on May 16, 1933, and which had not yet been confirmed.

"I am satisfied" the Governor said in his message, "you will give these matters your careful consideration, complete your deliberations and adjourn at your earliest opportunity."

WARRANT ISSUED FOR DOVER'S POLICE CHIEF

Despite the fact that the Coroner's jury returned a verdict that Delbert G. Banning, a garage owner, came to his death from previous alcoholic conditions, and not from blows alleged to have been administered by Chief of Police James A. Selvey, when Banning was placed under arrest on Wednesday of last week, a warrant has been issued from the office of the Attorney General charging Selvey with assault and battery.

Following the death of Banning and the investigations, which were started to determine the cause of his death, Selvey and Policeman E. I. Lane were relieved from duty by Mayor J. Wallace Woodford, to await the outcome of the inquest and the investigations by the police and State authorities.

Lane was returned to duty Tuesday night and it is expected the Mayor will restore Selvey to duty on his return from a visit to Maryland or Virginia.

While rumors of threats of violence against Chief Selvey have been reported, the city authorities are not taking them seriously.

FELTON AVON CLUB

The Felton Avon Club held its regular meeting on Wednesday, with Mrs. D. A. Petry in the chair. "Battle Hymn of the Republic" was sung, followed by the salute to the flag and the collect. After the reading of the minutes by the secretary, New Year's Greetings from Mrs. A. B. Connor, but who still holds her membership in the Avon Club, was read, as well as other communications.

A committee consisting of Mrs. John Hargadine, Mrs. T. B. Case and Mrs. H. O. Bostick was appointed by the president to confer with club members as to the advisability of sponsoring the Girl Scout movement, brought before the club on the previous week.

Mrs. A. C. Dill, chairman of "The American Home," then gave the following program: Song, "The Home Road," by the club, accompanied by Mrs. B. T. East, on the piano. Mrs. Dill then read a paper, "American Home," "The House by the Side of the Road" was read by Mrs. Margaret Glanville. Mrs. C. M. Simpler read a very instructive paper entitled "The Art of Home Making." Mrs. John Hargadine recited "At the End of the Road," this being followed by a piano solo, "Love's Dreams," by Brown, played by Mrs. Blanche Burton.

Mrs. Helen McKinley, State Chairman of American Home, was then introduced and gave a very interesting talk on "Pictures in the Home," demonstrating where and how to hang them.

Ready for Nation's Biggest Birthday Party

THE PRESIDENT AND HIS MOTHER, MRS. JAMES ROOSEVELT

When the President becomes 52 years old on Jan. 30 every community in the nation will give a ball in his honor to help raise an endowment for extension of the work of Warm Springs Foundation for Infantile Paralysis. The President's mother bought the first box sold for the great society ball to be held in the Waldorf-Astoria in New York, saying: "After all, it is my son's birthday and I am extremely interested in the splendid work of Warm Springs Foundation."
