Seeks Release as Betrayer of Cavell

Spy Denies Guilt in Case of British Nurse.

Paris, France.—Judges in the Nurse Cavell case, Georges Gaston Quien, French spy condemned as the betrayer of the martyred English woman...

Quien, whose death penalty from a French court-martial was changed to 20 years imprisonment, has been in Clairvaux since 1919.

Brand Whitlock, former American ambassador in Belgium, was among the many who doubted that Quien was the actual betrayer of the nurse.

Still Has Hopes. From officials of the Clairvaux prison, it was learned that Quien had not given up hope of a new trial...

Until new information comes forward, the evidence brought out in the two weeks' trial in September, 1919, stands. Quien, aged forty at that time, was serving a term in jail at Saint Quentin when the Germans marched into that city in 1914.

OLD DISPUTE AS TO PRODUCTION OF SMART CHILD

Heredity or education? A very old problem. It has been debated ever since the days of ancient Greece.

Modern biologists are trying to solve it by experiment. So far, heredity seems to be ahead.

In other words, if you are smart, it is because you were born so, of smart ancestors, rather than because of your education.

A recent experiment, concerning eight generations of rats, was conducted by two American biologists, Professors Tolman and Tryon.

Years ago, the English expert, Sir Francis Galton, believed that he had settled the problem by collecting the family history of a large number of men of genius.

More than ten years ago Professor Tolman began the experiment. Professor Tryon has continued and extended it.

Infantile Paralysis

It may now be taken as definitely proved that one way of contracting infantile paralysis, perhaps the most usual way, is through the nose.

The experiment never was carried out. Scientists still hope, however, that something like it can be done to settle the question.

Entered as second class matter on May 9, 1913, at the postoffice at Harrington, Delaware, under the Act of March 3, 1879.

"GOOD" MAY NOT MEAN "PUBLIC-SPIRITED."

In last week's issue we stated that a Dover lawyer had asked if the representative people of Harrington were in favor of building a sewer system. We cited the vote of eleven to one in favor of the proposition and added that NOT TWO progressive, public-spirited citizens had voted against it.

The last statement seems to have aroused the ire of some of our people. We are sorry if we have offended anyone—and probably we should not have said that not two progressive, public-spirited citizens voted against the proposition. Everybody makes mistakes—and we made this one. Our apologies.

We did not, as some seem to think, say that not two good citizens voted against it. There is a vast difference in the definitions of "good" and "public-spirited." What is a progressive, public-spirited citizen? A man may be amodel of propriety; industrious, honest, intelligent, clean, peace-loving, and by all respected. He is, by the usual standards, a good citizen. Yet, if he neglects his duties to society, a better description would be "a good man" or "a harmless citizen."

A man may be progressive, and yet not public-spirited. He may be progressive as far as his own interests are concerned, but indifferent to the welfare of the public.

One who discharges his duties to the public, who contributes to the best of his ability to charity, who works for the betterment of the community and its institutions; who favors every move for the improvement of morals, enlightenment, health and business—that man is a progressive, public-spirited citizen.

As we said at the beginning—we are sorry if we have offended anyone. We should not have said that not two progressive, public-spirited citizens voted against the sewer proposition. Perhaps we should have said: not one progressive, public-spirited citizen voted against the proposition. A number of GOOD people voted against it—but they are NOT public-spirited.

Vulgarity over the radio is on the increase, and it is difficult to get more than a few programs without a blurb of obscenity. We hear a lot of complaint about this, but as Mark Twain said about the weather, no one seems to do anything about it. But something can be done about this—quit using the products advertised by these vulgararians. We believe if one-tenth of the people who object to this sort of thing would quit using a certain brand of coffee until its vulgar comedian is removed from the radio—he would omit his suggestive patter—or lose his job. Why not advise this coffee company to that effect? Clubs and civic organizations, here is your most effective means of curbing this kind of nuisance. It beats the censors, who are, for the most part, nothing but politicians and fixers.

THE WRONG DIRECTION
(J. H. B.)

A New York writer, weeks ago—
A poet, at his best—
Released a gem of purest ray
Called "Wall Street, Looking West."
And then another bard appeared,
With talent not the least,
And sang in epic strain about
"From Wall Street, Looking East."

These two have sipped the nectar
"neath
Olympus' fabled skies;
And though I am a skeptic, I
Shall only criticize
Their poor sense of direction; for
In speaking of that town—
And of that Street—of shattered dreams—
Write: "Wall Street, Looking Down."

THE STATE SAFETY COUNCIL

According to the Delaware Safety Council, safety in night driving demands good headlights. This means they must be strong enough but not glaring, and they must be properly focussed. The One-Eyed Cyclops of Homeric mythology was no more vicious than the one-eyed auto on the highway. The vibration of your car easily changes the tilt and focal adjustment of your lights and may loosen the lamps. Test your lights frequently. Turn them on at night and then walk down the road 50 or 75 feet. Turn around and look at your lights, then ask yourself, frankly, how you would like to meet them on the highway. If they glare, if one is stronger than the other, or if they are too dim to adequately light the roadway, something is wrong. Always carry a "spare" bulb.

In case of accident, keep calm. Get the facts down on paper at once. These should include names of participants and witnesses, license numbers, extent of injuries, and so forth. Make a pencil sketch showing as much detail as possible. All this information may be of great value to you or to your insurance company. Do not hesitate to give your name and address to anyone who may ask. Never leave the scene until you are justified in doing so. Running away after a serious accident is against the law. As soon as possible, get the injured person, if any, to the nearest doctor's office or hospital. Then report at once to a policeman or at the police station.

Hitch-hiking seem to have become one of America's favorite modes of travel during recent years, but the wise motorist will do everything he possibly can to discourage it. Many drivers have been robbed by those they picked up; others have been sued for heavy damages by their "guests", after an accident and have paid. The practice of hitch-hiking also creates a dangerous situation on the street because youngsters stand out in the road when they should be safely on sidewalks. If you are naturally sociable and kind-hearted, you will find it difficult to turn down hitch-hikers when you have plenty of room in your car, but to be on the safe side you must refuse them. Taking riders does not pay.

LIQUOR COMMISSION REMITS $75,000 TAX

The Delaware State Liquor Commission has forwarded to the State Treasurer a remittance of $75,000 representing collections of liquor taxes and fees. This is the first time that the State has received from the operation of the liquor control system.

KENT COUNTY MEETING

The spirit of good fellowship reigned supreme, when about one hundred volunteer firemen from Kent and Sussex counties assembled in the Harrington Elre House Wednesday evening for the 55th regular meeting of the Kent County Association. Previous to the business session the local Ladies Auxiliary served a delicious turkey dinner, a local orchestra was in attendance and during the dinner the firemen loosened up their vocal chords on some of the popular airs. State President Samuel Pierce arrived during the dinner and was given quite an ovation. He spoke briefly at the close of the dinner, calling attention to the Del-Mar-Va meeting at Lewes in May and the big event, the two day State Convention at Harrington in September. Later in the evening Mr. Pierce spoke on the proposed plan of a firemen's home for aged firemen. As a starter for this fund, which may be years in the formation, the delegates were urged to forward the State Secretary a check for $2.00.

The banquet started promptly at 7.30 o'clock, L. W. Walker, of Clayton offered the invocation. Besides the active members of the local company and the visiting delegates many of the local officials and business men including Mayor N. C. Adams, Councilmen Smith, Harrington and Hopkins; Magistrate W. H. Cahall, Prof. J. C. Messner, Officer Fred Marvel, Pat Keyes, G. E. Ballard and Senator W. E. Jacobs. A delegation of seven from Sussex county were present. Mayor Adams, Deputy States Attorney, W. J. Storey, Senator Jacobs, Prof. J. C. Messner, Pat Keyes and Claude N. Cahall. President Wallace of the Ellendale Fire Company were among the speakers. The Ladies Auxiliary chanced off a surprise package Thomas Baker, of Dover won the package, a bed spread; Tom says it will be placed in his hope chest. The President called for a rising vote of thanks to the auxiliary and the orchestra. President Powell called the business session; to order at 8.50 o'clock, oil call disclosed that all companies were represented; one officer and two directors were absent. Several committees made reports of progress; including the Zoning Committee; Ladies Night Committee; Certified Committee. The program for Ladies Night, Wednesday, March 21, at the Harrington High School is being assembled. Companies are urged to send names of their actors to H. C. Tee promptly.

Thomas C. Baker spoke on the assembling of monthly reports of alarms by the companies of the County. The secretary announced that Camden-Wyoming Company had paid their dues and delegates from Dover stated their dues had been sent to the Treasurer.

The election of officers took place and resulted as follows: President, C. W. Johnson, Magnolia; Vice-President, Ralph Hayes, Dover; second Vice-President, Howard Schweitzer, Hartly; Secretary, Willard D. Boyce, Dover; Treasurer, C. W. Machamer, Clayton; Directors for three years, J. L. Lindale, Milford and Joseph Swain, Cheswold. There being no contests the secretary was instructed to cast the election ballot.

In closing his term of office, President Powell made a speech that brought home facts to the volunteers. He said that it was the only organization in the wide world that paid dues to risk their lives for the fellow men. Calling upon the newly elected officers to stand, they were installed by the retiring President.

The companies thought some recognition should be given the retiring presidents and President Johnson named F. C. O'Neal, Thomas C. Baker and George Voshell, a committee of three to consider the purchase of badges. The next meeting will be held at Dover in April.

Attempted Jail Break Failed

Two prisoners at the New Castle Workhouse were discovered recently in an attempt to saw through the bars of their cells with a piece of a meat saw blade stolen from the workhouse kitchen, it was revealed this week. Workhouse officials are mystified as to the object of the prisoners for after they had sawed through the bars they could get no further than the corridor and would have had four other locked and barred doors to get through before making good their escape. Charles E. Struthers, whose term expires in 1951 and who participated in the jail break of 1931, is believed to have been the ring leader of this attempt as the blade was found in his possession.

THE MILK CONTROVERSY

There has been much contradictory opinion expressed by dairy farmers of late on this subject that in order to have information that would enable us to give sound counsel to our readers, that we have sought information from sources sufficiently distant as not to be blinded by the glare of the battle or seared by the heat of the strife. From a man long connected with both the agricultural and secular press, and one whose opinion carries weight throughout the New England and Middle Atlantic States we learn:

"The basic surplus or classification price plan, as it exists—with some modification in all the larger milk distributing centers was devised and is maintained for the purpose of giving the distributor or buyer an advantage over the producer or seller. It could be devised and maintained for no other purpose. It is in effect a device by which the distributor receives his milk as on consignment, and makes his own prices to the producers after he has sold it to his trade at a price also of his own making.

This plan could not have been maintained for the last 15 years without the support of the producers organizations, which while maintained by the funds of the producers, have allied themselves with the distributors, Veritable Judas's State Milk Control Boards, municipal Health Departments and now the Federal government through the Code promulgated by the Agricultural Adjustment Act, lend an attentive ear to what they deem, the Voice of Big Business. The few organizations not smirched by the touch of the distributors are greatly hampered in their work by dairy farmers who have joined some problem for them, when the truth is that such organizations have systematically sold them out, and are still doing so.

The authorities at Washington must be conscious of the situation, or else must be very badly advised. Unless they change their present attitude, I can see little that is bright in the future for dairy farmers. The only thing they can do is to change the policy of the old producers associations—a well-nigh hopeless task—or join one of the newer associations preferably one that has already ac-

Completed Sighting

While we have no interest in the matter, except as it affects the welfare of local dairy farmers, the conditions outlined above so nearly describe the conditions of the Philadelphia Milk Shed, of which this locality is a part, that we think our dairymen would do wisely if they followed the suggestion given above after mature deliberation.

The Allied Dairy Farmers' Association grew out of the Milk Code Protest Committee, and is to carry on their work. Without this protest the Code would have become law. Since it expresses almost every desire of the Philadelphia Milk Trust, the latter naturally oppose it with every means in their power and resort to unethical tactics to prevent producers generally becoming members of this new association.

Is Your Name Smith

If it is, you can be proud of it!

Of course, it's a very common name. But the fact is that there have been more distinguished Smiths in American history than any other family name.

One of them ran for President a few years ago. But he wasn't the first Smith who aspired to that high office. There were three others long before Al Smith of New York made the race. Do you know who they were?

You can find out by reading the feature article "The Name Is Smith," by Elmo Scott Watson, which will appear in this newspaper next week. It's one of the most unusual and most interesting historical articles which has appeared in any publication for a long time. It will tell you about a host of interesting historical characters who have borne your name.

Watch for it (and tell the other Smiths in this community about it, too) in next week's issue of
