

WHO'S NEWS THIS WEEK

By LEMUEL F. PARTON

NEW YORK—To administer the wages and hours law, which recently went into effect, Elmer F. Andrews left a job which gave him shorter hours and more wages.

He is a professional engineer, born in New York, earnest and diligent. He is finishing with his wife and three children until his removal to Washington.

After his graduation from Rensselaer Polytechnic institute, he was pilot in the U. S. army air service in the World War.

Never belligerent, Mr. Andrews has been more of an arbiter than a fighter, although he did take on certain employment agencies for a while when he was industrial commissioner.

THE late Newton D. Baker liked to discourse on the importance of "keeping intellectually liquid," and free from embarrassing alliances and commitments.

As an assistant United States attorney, he has been netting racketeers steadily since the Sherman act in 1934.

He is a grave, aloof aristocrat, with an academic background of Phillips-Exeter, Princeton and Harvard.

Jas. Marshall Alarmed Over Jobless Youth

Mr. Marshall is a lawyer by profession, the son of the late Louis Marshall, one of the most eminent lawyers in New York's history.

The name Roswell of Teutonic origin, is a form of Roswald and means "mighty steed," or "power of a horse."

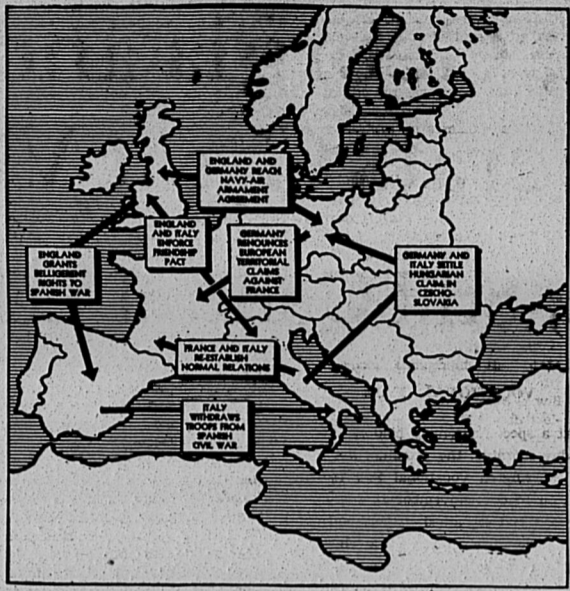

The Ordeal by Fire

When we speak of going through fire for someone or putting the hand into the fire for something, we little suspect the pagan origin of the expression; the ordeal by fire.

Germany, Italy Dictate Terms Of Proposed Four-Power Pact

By Joseph W. La Bine

EUROPE LAYS THE GROUNDWORK FOR PEACE (See FOREIGN)

Foreign

The European domination won at Munich by Germany and Italy is but a prelude to Hitler-Mussolini plans for relegating France and Great Britain to second-rate status.

ENGLAND sees growing resentment toward Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain, who claims: "Our sole concern is to see that this country and her colonial communications are safe."

FRANCE, now torn by financial distress resulting from feverish rearmament, has welcomed Reichsfuhrer Hitler's offer of a 10 or 25-year truce.

Italy and Germany are now so sure of their positions that they find it unnecessary to ask British-French advice on handling Czechoslovakia's minority problem.

against amendment proposals on the ground that changes would make the act impractical.

International

America's demand that Japan maintain China's "open door" trade policy is based on the nine-power pact signed by China, Japan, the U. S., Great Britain, France, Italy, Belgium, the Netherlands and Portugal.

When the commission reported recently, it failed to mention St. Lawrence waterway plans.

Transportation

In the opinion of three experts, American railroads have no right to cut 15 per cent from pay checks of 930,000 employees because: (1) it would be a stop-gap measure at best, only reducing the standard of living at a time when business in general is coming back; (2) the railroads' financial problem is that of short-term aspect, having been critical less than a year; (3) although railway wages have not fluctuated so badly as wages in other industries, they have not been advancing proportionately so fast as in other industries; (4) a flat 15 per cent wage cut would not be equitable, since smaller roads—which are in worse shape—would derive less benefit than the larger, more prosperous lines.

This was the gist of a 40,000-word opinion handed down by President Roosevelt's emergency fact-finding commission after three weeks of deliberation.

Likelihood of enforcing the 15 per cent wage cut despite the commission's findings is considered small.

Utilities

New Deal dams and power plants have offered public utilities serious competition, forcing down their prices and creating an unfriendly breach between electricity executives and the administration.

General Housecleaning in Federal Communications Board Is Needed

History of Control of Radio Is Story of Troubled Days; Public Is Concerned Because Free Speech Is Involved; Split on Board Adds to General Confusion.

By WILLIAM BRUCKART

WNU Service, National Press Bldg., Washington, D. C.

WASHINGTON.—It seems among the inevitable and unavoidable things that there must be growing pains when the government starts execution of any new policy.

With that preface, we can examine into the situation that exists in the federal communications commission. As laymen whose only contact with radio is on the listening end, or whose only contact with telephones is to use them for business and social intercourse, or whose only contact with the telegraph is to send or receive messages, well, obviously we laymen do not know much about the F. C. C. But that does not excuse any of us for lack of interest.

There has been a measure of control over radio for years, and they have been troublesome years, both for the agency administering the law and the industry forced to abide by the law.

Federal Control of Radio

Again, even this condition could be corrected and something of a workable nature developed if the bulk of the subordinates around the commission were sound thinkers.

sound and judicial execution of a technical law under such circumstances, and the matter becomes of moment to everyone because this monster, radio, is still in swaddling clothes.

The battle within the commission crops up every once in awhile, just as it did when the commission recently fired Hampson Gary, its general attorney.

Too Much Interested in Fighting Among Themselves

This column is not the place to attempt a list of the many rulings of the commission that have done the industry no good.

$1.00 Per Year in State; $1.50 Per Year Out of State.

Entered as second class matter on July 8, 1913, at the postoffice at Harrington, Delaware, under the Act of October 3, 1879.

Articles for publication must be accompanied by the name of the writer to insure publication, but not necessarily for publication.

To insure publication in the current week, all communications should be in this office not later than 2 o'clock Wednesday afternoon.

Will those pin-feather politicians at Frederica please explain why they had no Democratic candidate for Representative? There can be no doubt that the pin-feathers have plenty of brains. They, themselves, admit it!

Many Democrats, and all Republicans, say that the State of Delaware will never go Democratic again—and that's a long time. We are not so sure of it. They said that the Rutgers football team would never defeat Princeton—but it did that very thing last Saturday—after 69 years!

"Aleutian Mounds Yield Lost Race," says a headline in the New York Times. It seems that they have discovered a lot of human bones of ancient man in that territory, but when we saw that reference to "lost race" we thought they were kidding the democrats about the results of Tuesday's election.

The Delaware State Education Association favors a $330,000 retirement fund for the teachers—and we feel more like giving it to them since they turned thumbs down on Tommy Dorsey and Larry Clinton, the exponents of the so-called swing music, who appeared before the association. One of the swingsters said that many Americans know nothing of music; that 75 per cent of the people in the backwoods never hear music of any kind. It's our opinion that people from the backwoods have more appreciation of real music than have the people from the backwash—meaning New York. It is the natural thing that people in the cleaner atmosphere of the country should have a better idea of values than people whose lives are spent in an atmosphere of self-proclaiming garlic, ancient fish and Townsend-plan vegetables.

YOUR WAY HAS FAILED; WHY NOT TRY ANOTHER WAY?

Eighteen months ago, it was the general opinion that the Democrats would lose Delaware at the next election and would have their majority in Kent whittled down. Every well informed person knew this. Only the boys who were grunting as they had their ears submerged in the trough could not hear.

The editor of this paper is a Democrat because he believes in the Democratic principles—but not in some of the principals. Not once, during his residence of more than twenty years in Delaware, has he been invited to one of these little meetings, where they meet to trade off their friends. He doesn't believe in trading off his friends—and so he is called radical.

Twenty-one years ago, when we came to Delaware and purchased this paper, we believed Delaware to be a Republican state from one end to the other. We were not sure Delaware had any Democrats—but in our very first issue we announced: "Our family has always been affiliated with the M. E. Church South, we are fond of huckleberry pie—and VOTE THE DEMOCRATIC TICKET." We didn't put an ear to the ground to find out which side was popular, which side was in the majority in Delaware, which side would yield us more business. We told you where we stood.

We visited the court house at Dover more than twenty years ago, and made some friends there. Year after year we have called on these friends at the court house. After a decade or so, we noticed that they were getting older, and we began to fear for their health. Spending their lives in the shade of the plum tree, they were missing the health-giving rays of the sun. About two years ago we visited the court house—and were saddened! Our old friends were not there. Without making any inquiries, we went away. We knew they were dead—because nothing short of death could have shaken them off the payroll. Brooding, as we are prone to do when old friends pass from this life, we went our way.

Some weeks later, we had occasion to visit the State House. Suddenly a medley of familiar voices accosted us. We do not believe in the supernatural, but we were frightened at the sound of those familiar voices. Whirling around, we were startled to see our old friends of the court house days. They declared that they had not died, would never die as long as the plum trees were bearing fruit; they had merely been transplanted to a bigger and better plum orchard. They were glad to see me. Since most of them came from Republican districts, where a Democrat is an oddity, they're glad to see anybody from Harrington. You see, they know that Harrington keeps THEIR plum tree fertilized and watered, keeps it from withering. Without Harrington, there would be no fruit—for other sections of the county.

Before the election two years ago, our Democratic candidates went on record as saying: "We believe in an equal distribution of patronage; we assure you of a JUST distribution of jobs; we assure you that no TWO people from ONE family will be on the State's payroll!" They kept that promise by placing THREE and FOUR from one family on the State's payroll.

Our most suicidal action is that we do not care whether our candidates have ability or dependability—just so they have money to spend!

Once upon a time, there was a big politician by the name of Goliath. He bought all the votes he could and when some fellow wouldn't sell his vote, old Goliath would beat him into insensibility. By thus buying and intimidating the voters, Goliath ran the country and they had a rotten administration. There was a little fellow by the name of David, who wanted to run against Goliath. David didn't believe in buying votes, and if he had believed in it, he hadn't enough money to compete with Goliath. This Davy was a sawed-off runt and he knew it would mean death if he tried to tangle with the big bruiser in a physical combat. So Davy used his brains. He didn't attempt to fight Goliath with the latter's weapon—physical strength. "I'll use the weapon with which I am proficient," he said. He used to be a pretty fair pitcher in the Three Eye League, with unusual control. So he went to a five-and-ten store, bought a slingshot, and looking around, found a smooth, round stone. With that stone, he hit Goliath just once—and they called the coroner. Davy didn't use his opponent's weapons—he used his own weapons.

ARMISTICE DAY

This week the world celebrates the signing of the Armistice. Twenty years ago, the nation went hysterical with joy at the news that peace at last had closed a bitter and bloody world conflict.

War's tragic waste of life makes us all shudder. But here is something that may surprise you: More Americans died in traffic the past year and a half than were killed in the World War! The psychological, the economic, and the social effects of war are tremendous and far-reaching, often affecting the lives of generations. Yet the life-losses of Americans in war are dwarfed by comparison with the annual death toll of carelessness and poor judgment.

Our World War loss in lives was only half the 1937 accidental death toll. The war is long since over, but until each American enlists in the attack against accident hazards, the toll of accidents will be an annual calamity.

Yes, a traffic accident can be just as cruel as war when it comes to separating families, leaving children destitute or converting healthy human beings into helpless invalids.

This carnage can be stopped. And you can help stop it.

The Delaware Safety Council urges you to help in the campaign for safety on the Delaware highways by resolving to drive at safe speeds and with consideration for others, to walk safely in the proper places, and with the signals.

Let us declare an armistice on traffic accidents.

J. R. Wilson was program chairman at Tuesday evening's meeting of the Harrington Rotary Club. His speaker was J. C. Messner, superintendent of the Harrington Schools, who is also a member of the Delaware Safety Council. Mr. Messner spoke of the work of the safety council, stressing the teaching of safety methods to new drivers. Last year many pupils of the schools throughout the state were given instruction in driving by the safety council, and the work will be continued this year. The club welcomed a new member, John H. Holloway, Jr.

Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Walls were Sunday guests of relatives at Milford.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles R. Welch visited on Monday the former's brother, Rev. Fred Welch, who is quite ill at his home near Goldsboro.

J. T. Moore and Benjamin Hurd spent Sunday in Wilmington, the former visiting Mr. and Mrs. Ralph S. Hughes and the latter his brother, Harry K. Hurd, and family.

Chas. Peck, Elmer Brown, Elwood Jester, Mr. and Mrs. B. Frank Jester and Mr. and Mrs. W. K. Paakey attended the convention of the Southern States Cooperative, held in Lard Baltimore Hotel, Baltimore, Md., last Thursday.

A number of our citizens attended the corn husking bee given at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Mulholland at Brownsville last Friday evening. Mr. Mulholland is unable to work owing to a recent major operation at the Milford Memorial Hospital. About sixty-five neighbors and friends participated in the husking bee.

A dinner was given at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Fletcher Price in honor of the latter's birthday anniversary last Sunday. The following were present: Mrs. Emma Brown, Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Raughley and daughter, Grace Marline; Mr. and Mrs. Roy Porter and Mr. and Mrs. Reginald McKnatt and son, Donald; of Harrington; Mrs. Elizabeth Ann Haskell, of White's; Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Wright and family, of Bethel; Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Hopkins and family, of Vernon; Mr. and Mrs. Frank Jester, of this place.

Announcement has been made of the marriage of Miss Thelma Edwards, of Edwinstown to Linwood Breeding, of Cordova, Md., which took place from Denton, Md., by Rev. L. W. Jump, Saturday, Nov. 5th. The bride and groom were attended by Miss Christine Dill, of Felton, and Harold Edwards, of Greensboro, brother of the bride. Both the contracting parties have many friends here who join in wishing them much happiness and success. They will reside at Cordova, Md., where the groom is employed.

Mr. and Mrs. H. K. Moyer and two daughters, Ruth and Genevieve, of Seaford, visited their old homestead here on Sunday and extended a greeting with former acquaintances and friends.

Miss Frances Marincel has returned from an extended visit with relatives in Binghamton, N. Y.

Mrs. Agatha Voebel and daughter, Georgann, of Wyoming, spent Sunday with Mrs. Voebel's parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Hughes, and family.

Mr. and Mrs. Ollie Bohannon entertained as Sunday guests Mrs. Clarence Jarrell and two children, Bertha Belle and Donald; Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Bohannon and Mrs. Walter Paskey, of near Felton.

Harry Harrington and mother, Mrs. Mina Harrington, of Harrington, were Sunday visitors of Mrs. Lydia Fowler.

NURSES MUST BE HUMAN

"Nurses must be human" is the starting title of the leading article of the fall issue of the "Delaware Nursing Manor" quarterly magazine of the State Association of Graduate Nurses, published yesterday. The article is an abstract of a speech made by Dr. Camilla M. Anderson, Philadelphia, prominent authority on mental hygiene, before the annual dinner meeting of the association, Thursday evening in the Hotel duPont.

Nurses must regard themselves, and their patients as "Primarily Human Beings" and only secondarily as attendants and attendees, said Dr. Anderson. She cautioned the nurses not to regard the patients as merely an impersonal group of broken bones or cardiac conditions or measles, but as individuals—aspirations human beings. Human beings have within them, she stated, the battle ground of a struggle instinctive drives, conscience, capacities and reality. The correction of all these forces, those of instinct, those of conscience, and those of limitation, give us a human being.

Students of hospital training schools throughout Delaware were entertained at the banquet as the guests of their respective alumni associations. Friday the 13th has been chosen for the January meeting of the nurses association, according to an announcement in the "Manor". It is to be an all-day session, with a speaker in the morning from the National Organization for Public Health Nursing—probably Miss Dorothy Deming, General Director of that organization, and Secretary to the Board of Directors. A Midday luncheon for Red Cross nurses is planned. In the afternoon there will be an institute on mental hygiene, and in the evening a meeting with the President of the American Nurses' Association, Miss Julia Stimson, as speaker.

The extension courses for graduate nurses, instituted this fall in Wilmington through the efforts of the extension course committee, under Miss Mary Ferry, have gained an considerable response; approximately 80 students are enrolled in the two classes now in progress.
